There is an interesting mystery associated with 35 St. Mary's street, once the home of Sir Isaac Newton, which is now in the property market. On the roof there used to be a curious structure made almost entirely of glass, and for many years this was confidently believed to have been Sir Isaac Newton's observatory. Fanny Burney, whose father, the noted musician, Dr. Charles Burney, was at one time an occupier of the house, occasionally used the erection as a study, and in her memoirs of her father she refers to it as Newton's observatory. In 1855 doubt was cast upon the story by John Timbs in his "Curiosities of London." He asserts that the observatory was built by a subsequent tenant, a Frenchman. It has been further declared that this Frenchman not only built the room, but also equipped it with various instruments and then, claiming that it was the observatory of Newton, charged a fee for admission to view.—Westminster Gazette.

If He Were Knighted.

The lecturer was known as Professor Key, and a very genial, nice old fellow he was. In fact, he was a remarkable contrast to most of these dry as dust old gentlemen and would often introduce into his lecture interesting facts concerning the manners and customs of the countries he had visited.

On this particular morning his subject was Spanish history, and he felt it was necessary to illuminate his discourse.

"As no doubt you know, gentlemen," he said, "when a man attains to eminence in Spain he is knighted, but then he is known not as 'sir,' but as 'don.'"

"Then I suppose, sir," gravely said the young man who always insisted on being funny, "if they knighted you, you would become a Don-Key!"—London Tit-Bits.

Profitable Beauty.

That "beauty of beauties," Mme. Recamier, would sometimes become a beggar for the poor, and it was good for the poor. At the Easter fetes of 1801, celebrated in the Church of St. Roch, the priest asked Mme. Recamier to act as collector. She accepted.

A returned emigrant, M. de Thiard, was her cavalier. The task was no sinecure. To walk around the church through the enormous crowd occupied more than an hour. Another hour was occupied in counting the receipts, which amounted to 20,000 francs. From each lip came a cry of admiration at the marvelous beauty of the young collector. As she advanced step by step through the church these cries were translated into pieces of gold for the poor and many pieces of verse to offer to the fair collector.—"A Great Coquette."

Same, but More of It.

Sitting in a Broadway restaurant the other evening were two young women who had not met for four years. One of them had grown stout, and the other had admitted that she wouldn't have recognized her old friend under ordinary circumstances. They sat silently looking at each other for a moment, when the heavyweight inquired of her friend:

"What are you thinking about?"

"I was just trying to see whether your expression is the same as it used to be," said her friend.

Seven Wonders of the World.

We have no indication of the existence of a cycle of seven wonders until about the end of the second century B. C. Then appears in an epigram of Antipater of Sidon an enumeration of seven great works, which prove to be the very ones later appearing as the seven wonders. They are (1) the walls of Babylon, (2) the statue of Zeus at Olympia, (3) the hanging gardens of Semiramis at Babylon, (4) the Colossus of Rhodes, (5) the pyramids of Memphis, (6) the mausoleum of Halicarnassus, (7) the temple of Diana (Artemis) at Ephesus. Within the next century Varro, by his leisurely allusion to the septem opera, betrays that the saying had already assumed current proverbial form. Diodorus, in the second half of the same century (first B. C.), speaks, too, of "the so called seven works," and Strabo, a little later, uses the very phrase, "the seven wonders." From this time on, at least, the septem miracula have an assured place in all the common lore of Rome.

Writers of Historic Songs.

Most of the songs that have made history were written by men who had no other claim to immortality. The "Marseillaise" is the only production of Rouget de Lisle which has survived, and "The Wearing of the Green" was the work of an anonymous purveyor of ballads for the street hawkers of Dublin. Max Schneckenburger, an obscure Swabian merchant, who never published anything else, composed in 1840 some verses of which the burden was thus translated:

Dear fatherland, no danger thine,
Firm stand thy sons to watch the Rhine.

Little was heard of these until thirty years later, when the Franco-German war gave them an enormous vogue. They were then adopted as the national anthem of United Germany, and a yearly pension of 3,000 marks was conferred on the composer of the tune to which they were set.—London Chronicle.

Magnetism of the Horse.

"There is a side to the value of the pony which I believe is not fully understood," writes George H. Dacy in Suburban Life. "There is about the horse a magnetism, a strong physical presence, that is imparted to one coming intimately in contact with him, as in riding. As is well known, the horse is immune to many diseases to which mankind is susceptible. I believe that the horse, being immune to such diseases as diphtheria, intestinal disorders such as typhoid, cholera and dysentery, as well as scarlet fever, smallpox and measles, and being full to the bubbling over point of vital force, animal spirit or magnetism, imparts more or less of this to his rider or companion and more particularly to little ones who are not in robust health. Repeatedly delicate children have been known to obtain rugged health and to develop rapidly when given a pony."

Chinese Inns Ideal In Theory.

At the better class Chinese inns the proprietor receives his guests at the outer gate, ushers them into the courtyard and shows them to their apartments. Then he retires and leaves them to their own devices. The traveler is attended by his own servants; his cook buys and prepares his food, of the same quality and cookery as he would enjoy at his own home table; the boy unpacks his master's bed, the iron frame, mattresses and all, even to the mosquito netting. The master's own linen is spread, having been washed by his own servants. Folding chairs, table—in fact, everything which one may wish—is arranged and all without a word. At a tenth the cost of European inns one lives like a lord and sleeps like a child and is a thousand miles from the tipping zone.—Roman Herald.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Don't Forget World's Series Stars of Past.

Photos by American Press Association.

BEDIENT AND HERZOG.

Baseball fans are often forgetful of the heroes of the past, and sometimes it is well to jog their memories a bit. During all the world's series baseball talk we have heard of late very little has been said about the great players who were the bright particular stars of the important contests.

A year ago, for instance, Pitcher Bedient of the Boston Red Sox was the lion of the hour, as it was his twirling that enabled Jake Stahl's bean eaters to defeat the New York Giants, and in the same series Charley Herzog electrified the country by his fielding, base running and batting. The year before "Home Run" Baker broke into immortal fame by pounding Marquard and Mathewson for home runs.

And the great performances of "Babe" Adams, Billy Dineen, Bender, Mathewson, Big Ed Walsh, etc., in other years? They should never be forgotten.

In passing it may be observed that it is getting to be a familiar sight to see Mathewson and Bender "hooked up" against one another in world's series contests, this year being the third that the fates marked them as leading actors in the championship drama.

Americans Win Trophy.

The United States team won the Palma match in the international rifle tournament at Camp Perry, O. The score was 1,714. The team from the Argentine Republic was second, with a score of 1,684, nine points ahead of Canada. Sweden made 1,484 and Peru 1,465.

The shooting was on the 800, 900 and 1,000 yard ranges. The scores are considered good, as a strong north wind blew in the faces of the shooters. The winning score was six points below that made by the United States team last year when it captured the prize in Canada.

Cantwell's Bad Luck.

Pitcher Cantwell, the Chicago high school player, who set the Wisconsin-Illinois league afire by his brilliant work early in the season on the Oshkosh team, was recently paid off and probably will never pitch again. Cantwell sustained an injury to his pitching arm on July 4. Blood poisoning set in, and a long rest failed to bring back his former ability. Before his injury he had performed in twenty-one games, winning fifteen. Cantwell will return next season and try for an outfield position. He was the mainstay of the pitching staff.

Another Felton.

Con Felton, fresh from a summer of football training under the tutelage of his brother, Sam, the Harvard star, who utilized the fadeaway for punting last season, has failed to find a place among the thirty-six players selected by Coach Haughton for his varsity squad.

Felton had a slight chance of boring his way into that select coterie, however, as Coach Leary is somewhat peeved because he has only seven ends under his wing and has asked that he be allowed another.

Travers Going Abroad.

Jerome D. Travers, the national amateur golf champion, has announced his intention of visiting England next year in another try for the coveted amateur title of the British Isles.

Two or three years ago the Upper Montclair wizard made an attempt to win foreign honors and, like nearly all the other Americans, failed.

Ryan May "Come Back."

Tommy Ryan, the ex-welterweight boxing champion, is going to open a boxing club in Syracuse and is also thinking of again entering the ring. He has trained down to 155 pounds and figures that by November or December he will be in shape to fight some of the so called champions.

He will be in absolute control of the league's affairs although he has stipulated that he will not draw a salary for the year 1914, inasmuch as he will remain governor of Pennsylvania until Jan. 1, 1915.

The report that Governor Tener will merely be an honorary president is not true.

Convicts to Build Highway.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 24.—A. R. Pardington, vice president of the Lincoln Highway association, who has been on a western trip, has reported by letter to the national offices of the association that convicts will be employed in Illinois to build the highway across that state next spring. KITCHENER LIKELY VICEROY

London Thinks War Chief May Succeed Hardinge.

London, Nov. 24.—A report from Bombay referring to the possibility of Lord Kitchener being appointed Viceroy of India to succeed Lord Hardinge is received here with some credence.

Lord Hardinge still has two years to serve, but as he has been in feeble health since the attempt to kill him with a bomb at Delhi during the Dunbar, it is possible he may resign.

BELIEVES VICTIMS HAVE BEEN FIXED

New York Prosecutor Suspects Police Department.

New York, Nov. 24.—The chief difficulty attending the investigation of District Attorney Whitman into the matter of police protection for the wireless wire tappers has been that victims of the wire tappers who have information which would be of great use to Mr. Whitman have refused to testify. There is a strong suspicion in the minds of Mr. Whitman and his assistant, Frederick Groehl, that these witnesses have been tampered with.

The members of the wire tapping gang have all confessed to Mr. Whitman, and are anxious to turn state's evidence against the policemen who accepted protection money, so Mr. Whitman does not believe that any of the wire tappers have tampered with these potential witnesses. He believes that the fixing has been done by members, or former members, of the police department who are interested in blocking the prosecution.

Members of the district attorney's office announced that a "cast iron case" has been built against a former member of the department, and that this man will be indicted shortly.

BOX CAR MYSTERY CLEARED

Elsie Day Admits She and Brother "Beat" Way from Spokane.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 24.—Elsie Day, who was believed for a time to have been murdered between Spokane, Wash., and Aurora, Ill., but was found alive in Des Moines, admits she and her brother, Alfred Love, had beaten their way from Spokane to Des Moines. Their story explains the finding of blood soiled clothing, books, and revolver in a freight car in Aurora.

"On the road somewhere I struck my nose against the end of a projecting joist in the car," Love said. "I used my sister's waist to wipe off the blood."

COULDN'T HAVE SHOT FIELD

Woman Confessing Took Out Mrarlage License at Cleveland Same Day.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 24.—Mrs. Vera Scott did not shoot and kill Marshall Field, Jr., eight years ago as she claims from her cell in the Los Angeles jail, Cleveland friends declare. They recall that Nov. 23, 1905, a license was issued in Cleveland for her marriage the following day to Homer T. Prosser, whom she subsequently divorced in Los Angeles and shot and killed on a train at Libby, Mont., in 1910. She was tried for murder and acquitted.

Nov. 23, 1905 is the date of the Marshall Field shooting.

TOBACCO DEFENSE USELESS

Corunna Jury Holds Robert Packingham Was Electrocuted.

Corunna, Mich., Nov. 24.—A circuit court returned a verdict of $2,500 for the plaintiff in the $10,000 damage suit of Mrs. Dora Packingham against the Consumers Power company and the Eastern Power company. The case will be appealed.

Mrs. Packingham alleged her husband, Robert Packingham, was killed by a shock received when he grasped a green scantling that had fallen against a high tension wire. The defendant maintained that Packingham choked on a chew of tobacco.

WHITE HOUSE GAY

President's Daughter United to Francis B. Sayre.

COLLEGEATE AIR PREVAILS

Ceremony Performed by Rev. Sylvester W. Beach of Princeton, N. J., an Old Friend of the Wilson Family—Thirteenth White House Bride, but There May Soon Be Others.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Miss Jessie Wilson, daughter of the president of the United States, and Francis B. Sayre, of New York, a lawyer were married, in the east room of the White House. Preparations for the wedding had been going on for some weeks, and were most elaborate.

The platform upon which the bridal party stood was erected just under the great east window of the east room, which is known as the bridal window. It was under this window that Nellie Grant was married to Algernon Sartoris and that Alice Roosevelt became Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, both within the memory of many of the residents of Washington.

Rev. Sylvester Beach Officiates.

The Rev. Sylvester W. Beach of Princeton, N. J., an old friend of the Wilson family, performed the marriage ceremony. The best man was Dr. Wilfred Grenfell, with whom Mr. Sayre worked in Labrador.

The bride was attended by her elder sister, Margaret, as maid of honor and her younger sister, Eleanor; Miss Mary G. White of Baltimore, Miss A. Goucher, a college friend of the bride; Miss Adeline Mitchell Scott of Princeton, and Miss Majorie Brown, daughter of Mrs. Wilson's cousin, Colonel E. T. Brown of Atlanta, Ga., as bridesmaids.

The ushers were Charles E. Hughes Jr., son of the supreme coure justice; Benjamin B. Burton of New York; Dr. Scoville Clark of Salem, Mass., and Dr. Glibert Horax of Montclair, N. J.

Collegiate Atmosphere Prevails.

Although a large number of officials had been invited to the wedding, not more than a score of Washingtonians outside of the official circle were invited. The guests, for the most part, were old friends of the Sayre and Wilson families. There was a large number of guests from Princeton, N. J., where Miss Wilson spent the greater part of her life.

Mr. Sayre's friends at Williams college and the Harvard law school also came in large numbers. The company presented outside its official tinge a collegiate atmosphere that made it unique among White House weddings.

Thirteenth White House Bride.

While Miss Wilson has the distinction of being the thirteenth young woman to become a bride in the White House, it is by no means certain that hers will be the only wedding ceremony to be held there diring her father's administration.

The president has two other daughters, who vie with their sister in attractiveness, and it is by no means impossible that the names of one or both of these may yet be added to the distinguished list of White House brides.

FIND GIRL DROWNED

Police of Three Cities Try to Solve Michigan Mystery.

PONTIAC, MICH. — The dead body of Nina Covert of Fenton, Mich., was found floating in Square lake, eight miles north of Fenton. Relatives in Fenton and Detroit do not know of any cause for her to commit suicide and the police of three cities are trying to clear up the mystery. She was twenty-one years old.

Miss Covert left her home late Tuesday to visit her brother, Walter, living in Detroit. Her sweetheart, Hammond Oakley of Fenton, accompanied her on a suburban car as far as Royal Oak, ten miles from Detroit. Miss Covert wrote a letter to Oakley last Thursday, when she left the home of her brother, ostensibly to return home. She was in the best of health and spirits.

En route home Miss Covert apparently stopped off in Pontiac to visit a brother living here. She bade him good-by and that was the last seen of her alive. Her body was identified by means of a silver mesh purse, which she clasped in her hand. "I am sure that Nina did not commit suicide," said Arthur Covert, the Detroit brother. "She was a good, sensible girl and had no reason for taking her life. It was either an accident or murder."

FERRIS OUSTS PROSECUTOR

Fred C. Nichols Succeeds Milo O. Bennett in Kalamazoo Probe.

KALAMAZOO, MICH. — When the special grand jury begins its investigations of conditions in Calhoun county next month its direction will be entirely out of the hands of Prosecutor Milo O. Bennett. Governor Ferris directed Attorney-General Fellows to appoint Attorney Fred C. Nichols, of Lansing, as assistant attorney general to appear for the state.

Mr. Nichols had previously been appointed special prosecutor, to act with Prosecutor Bennett, but the governor's action takes the investigation entirely out of the hands of the local authorities.

FIND A CAR TICKET FACTORY

Police Charge Conductor with Attempt to Manufacture Own Pasteboards.

SAGINAW, MICH.—Raymond Williams, a street railway conductor, was taken into custody and locked up without a charge being made against him.

The arrest followed a visit to William's rooms by the police, where, it is said, they found a complete outfit of negative plates and camera for counterfeiting street car tickets. It has not yet been disclosed whether Williams had manufactured and sold any tickets.

New York Prosecutor Suspects Police Department.

NEW YORK — The chief difficulty attending the investigation of District Attorney Whitman into the matter of police protection for the wireless wire tappers has been that victims of the wire tappers who have information which would be of great use to Mr. Whitman have refused to testify. There is a strong suspicion in the minds of Mr. Whitman and his assistant, Frederick Groehl, that these witnesses have been tampered with.

The members of the wire tapping gang have all confessed to Mr. Whitman, and are anxious to turn state's evidence against the policemen who accepted protection money, so Mr. Whitman does not believe that any of the wire tappers have tampered with these potential witnesses. He believes that the fixing has been done by members, or former members, of the police department who are interested in blocking the prosecution.

1913 EXPORTS BEAT ALL PAST RECORDS

Manufactures Sent Abroad Increase $100,000,000.

WASHINGTON — The American manufacturers are entitled to wear smug and satisfied countenances, according to the experts of the department of commerce, which announced that exports for the year ending with next month will break all records.

While exact figures are available for only nine months of the year, the statisticians stake their reputations on the declaration that the increase in the value of manufacturers sent abroad over the amount of last year will be fully $100,000,000.

"Why shouldn't the manufacturers and mill workers smile?" demanded the experts, in announcing that exports ready for consumption already have increased $37,000,000 over the corresponding nine month of last year; manufactures for further use in mnaufacturing $26,000,000, and foodstuffs, partly or wholly manufacturered, $17,000,000.

Automobiles and railway coaches are among the articles showing a great advance in popularity abroad. The growth of the trade is especially evident, the experts add, in Canada, South America and certain of the European countries.

SLAIN BY A DOCTOR

Chicago Man Is Shot in His Room in Kansas City Hotel.

KANSAS CITY, MO. — Putnam Cramer, an advertising agent of Chicago, was shot and killed by Dr. W. T. Elam, a wealthy physician of St. Joseph, Mo., former city physician and a member of the faculty of Ensworth Medical college.

The tragedy occurred in Cramer's room in the Hotel Baltimore and was the outcome of accusations made by Dr. Elam that Cramer had been too friendly with the physician's wife. A detective employed by Elam had established to his own satisfaction that the acquaintance of Cramer and Mrs. Elam was a mild bit of flirtation and so reported to Dr. Elam. The latter, however, refused to be satisfied and the tragedy followed.

TITANIC CLAIMS $17,000,000

Charges Made That Liner Was Not Properly Constructed.

NEW YORK — The charges that the Titanic was unseaworthy were presented to the federal district court in proceedings to determine the liability of the owners to the heirs of those who lost their lives in the disaster.

These claims aggregate $17,000,000, and if the courts should decide that the liner was not constructed and equipped properly, it was said there would be practically no limit to the damages that might be demanded.

RAN FROM REBELS

Villa Says Federals Feared to Attack His Army.

JUAREZ RELIEF IS A FIASCO

Rebel Leader Declares He Will Await Enemy's Approach and Then Will Go Out to Find Him—Safety of El Paso, He Says, Is Assured—Federals Said to be Deserting.

EL PASO, TEXAS — With a battle line extending for twelve miles from Bauche on the west of Lamesa on the east, less than fifteen miles south of and below Juarez, Villa's rebel army has overawed and driven back the federal army which late Saturday was menacing Juarez. This is the substance of the report brought to Juarez by Villa himself, who with a bodyguard of forty men, returned from the front to arrange for sending additional supplies to his men.

Federals Are Driven Back.

A federal troop train arrived at Tierra Blanca but the federals were driven back before a general engagement took place and Villa says the entire federal force is in full retreat. Tierra Blanca is only eighteen miles from Juarez.

Panic stricken by the sight of the vanguard of the rebel army Villa declared the federal army advancing to attack Juarez retreated in haste Saturday shortly before dark.

Villa encamped his army and is waiting for the federals to approach again. If they do not come, he says he will go after them in a few days. He does not mean to bring his army back to Juarez unless driven in by the federals, he declared. Villa says he thinks the federal army numbers about 4,000 men although federal agents here claim that it numbers 9,500.

Says Federals Are Deserting.

"The federal commanders are having a hard time keeping their men from deserting," Villa said. "We captured a federal deserter from the federal ranks at Villa Ahumada. He said also that the soldiers were locked in their cars at night to keep them from deserting. The men have not been paid since the battle at Chihuahua nearly three weeks ago and they are poorly fed.

Assurances that the people of Juarez and El Paso need have no fear of a battle taking place within range of the two cities was given by General Villa. Nearly 1,500 soldiers remain in the city and its outskirts.

A prize fight between Vic Hanson, of Salt Lake, and Jack Herrick, of Kewanee, Ill., took place in the Juarez bull ring and drew a large crowd of Americans. It was declared a draw.

FINE MUSIC AT WEDDING

The floral decorations will be as fine as any ever seen at a White House function. The marriage ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Sylvester Beach, a Presbyterian minister of Princeton, N. J., and a warm friend of the Wilsons.

Deserter Gives Self Up.

KALAMAZOO, MICH. — A minute after the military parade preceding the dedication of the armory had ended Joseph Holland, a deserter from the regular army at Houston, Tex., walked into the jail and gave himself up. He had stood spellbound in the street during the parade.

$100 REWARD, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Rotundity of Earth.

We are assured by competent authority that Thales of Miletus taught that the earth was of globular form so early as 640 B. C. Pythagoras demonstrated from the varying altitudes of the stars that the earth must be round. Aristarchus of Samos maintained that the earth turned on its own axis and revolved about the sun, which doctrine was held by his contemporaries as so absurd and revolting that the philosopher nearly lost his life B. C. 280. The wisdom of the ancients was, of course, lost sight of in the darkness of the "middle ages," and it took Galilei and Copernicus to restore the old knowledge to the world.—New York American.

A Tree and a Millstone.

"Sometimes nature turns to an unexpected use the handiwork of man," says Dr. Charles G. Percival in his book, "The Trail of the Bulldog." At Sheldon's mill, near South Dovoro, N. Y., there is a very comfortable seat of stone around a huge tree which puzzles visitors, as the stone is natural without a single break to show how it got around the tree trunk. The story is that a discarded millstone lay on the ground for many years and a seed blown by the wind dropped into the core of the stone and grew there, finally growing into a tree, filling the hole in the center of the stone, and as the tree grew in size the stone was gradually lifted, making the unique seat.

A Contradiction.

MR. CITIZEN & TAXPAYER

HAVE YOU EXPRESSED YOURSELF?

In the WORLD'S WORK, in an article on "THE STEADY DECREASE IN COST OF ELECTRICITY," the General Elecric Company (a recognized authority) says, "Thus in Chicago One Dollar now buys almost Eigh Times as much electricty as it did in 1886. more than Twice as much as in 1909, just four years ago." But what about the prices of Tecumseh's Light Brigade? Some Charge They Made

Of course we cannot expect to receive reduction in our prices along the ratio of Chicago's reductions, but if $1.00 will buy more than twice as much electricity in Chicago as it would four years ago, are we not at least a big enough speck on the map to receive some consideration? Isn't our little old dollar worth just as much as that of the man from the Windy City? When we had but thirty-four arc lamps on our streets we were paying $5.00 a month per light, and now with nearly double this number we are still paying the same $5.00 a light per month. And it has been SOME YEARS since we have had any reduction in the rates to residences and business houses. And yet it is an electrical axiom that the more current sold the cheaper it can be sold. Why are we not keeping Abreast of the Times and getting the Reductions that we are entitled to?

Now I want to know whether or not you have signed the Petition which I left at the Alva Spayde Shoe Store? Remember that you are not going to receive unless ye ask, and the Petition is one of your means of asking. Get Busy, and see that your name is on the Petition without further delay. Its up to you, Citizens and Taxpayers, to express yourselves. I can't sign your name for you. Owing to the fact that, at the time of the last edition, I had not thought of Mr Spayde's Store being closed for Thanksgiving Day, I have decided to leave the Petition at the Spayde Shoe Store another day,——until Saturday night. But just because you are given this day of grace, do not put off your signing of the Petition until Tomorrow. DO IT NOW,

To be certain that your signatures to this Petition are given the consideration that they are entitled to, I ask that every Citizen and Taxpayer attend the next regular Council Meeting to be held at the Council Building next Monday night, December, 1st. It is our privelege to attend these meetings. From now until next Monday night let your last word be, "I'LL MEET YOU AT THE COUNCIL MEETING."

IDEAL IS POSSIBLE

Model Schoolroom for Rural Communities Shown to State Teachers

One of the most unique edulational exhibits ever made in the state was shown by the Department of Public Instruction at the annual meeting of the Michigan State Teachers' Association held recently in Ann Arbor. It was a model schoolroom illustrating the fact that a country schoolroom may be made as comfortable, healthful, attractive and efficient as one in the city. While the exhibit was of primary interest to the rural teacher, school officers and county commissioners, much of the equipment shown is as necessary in the city schools, so that it is expected that the thousands of teachers found many suggestions to work out in their own rooms.

A room in the Ann Arbor High School Building was converted into a typical rural schoolhouse, partitions being used to indicate cloak rooms, toilet rooms, entrance hall and workroom. A heating and ventilating plant, sanitary bubbling drinking fountain, indoor chemical closets, madel pump and sink arrangement, paper towels, liquid soap, adjustable and movable seats and desks, hygienic black boards, window shades of the right kind and property installed, all emppasized the health phase of the up-to-date school.

The most modern equipment in the way of maps, charts, agricultural material, scales, measures practical arrangements for manual training, domestic science and typewriting in the rural school, were shown while the cultural side was taken care of by means of well-framed pictures, an excellent phonograph. That vocational work is possible in a one room school was demonstrated by a remarkable display of basketry, sewing, art material and woodwork, all from a school conducted by one teacher and with sixty one students on the roll.

HOUSEKEEPERS
Must be Watchful

For great efforts are being made in this vicinity to sell baking powders of inferior class, made from alum acids and lime phosphates, both undesirable to those who require high-grade cream of tartar baking powder to make clean and healthful food,

The official Government tests have shown Royal Baking Powder to be a pure, healthful, grape cream of tartar baking powder, of highest strength, and care should be taken to prevent the substitution of any other brand in its place.

Royal Baking Powder costs only a fair price per pound, and is cheaper and better at its price than any other baking powder in the world.

SCHOOL NOTES

The foot ball game Thanksgiving was a great success. Clinton High School was downed by the tune of 58 to 0 The reason the score was because Floyd Heesen promised the boys a turkey dinner if they would get sixty points.

L. Schneider was easily the star of the game securing eight touchdowns, although R. McNeil and F. Hendershott did heroic work. Capt. Seymour Orr was by no means idle and did some fine passing and end runs. On the line H. Kay was the busiest.

Clinton never had a chance to score, they punted nearly every time on their first down.

Mr. Cork, teacher of Physics and who was coach the most of the year, treated the football fellows to a fine turkey dinner Tuesday evening and the Barrett Bros. repeated the feast last evening. If Floyd Heesen comes across with his feed the boys will certainly be sick.

The Seniors invited the rest of the the High school girls, and boys to a little program Wednesday afternoon. The selections were well rendered.

Harrow When You Plow

We have contracted for 100 Long Harrow Attachments (which may be all we can get owing to the heavy sale of them in the south and west) and have already in 2½ days taken orders for nearly 50 of them.

This attachment consists of 15 spike teeth attaching to sulky or gang plow and harrows all the ground twice while you plow. When your field is plowed it is ready for seeding and will be in better condition than 4 times harrowing if you wait 2 or 3 days after plowing.

The attachment weighs only 46 lbs. and does not add materially to the draft on the horses. It sells for $10 00 and $12 00 and is put out on one day's trial. We want to show you the attachment explain it in detail and take your order for spring delivery.

NEWS OF THE STATE

Spiritualists Are Assailed.

BATTLE CREEK, MICH. — The split which has been growing between the Rev. Belle Yost, formerly connected with the First Spiritualist church of Battle Creek, and that organization, has come to a head with her withdrawal from the state organization.

She declares that the Michigan State Spiritualist association "needs fumigation," and considers the air outside the organization purer than inside. She says that her trouble with the Battle Creek member of the board is the member's jealousy of her popularity.

St. Clair Will a Forgery?

PORT HURON, MICH. — Two handwriting experts from Detroit dealt a severe blow to the plaintiff in the suit of Anna Gott against the estate of the late Mary Johnson in the circuit court here when they testified that the signature purporting to be that of Mrs. Johnson by which she agreed to leave her $30,000 estate to Miss Gott, was forged. Miss Gott says that she cared for Mrs. Johnson during her lifetime, and in return was to be given the estate.

An adjournment was taken until the first week in December.

Tango Hits Social Center.

GRAND RAPIDS. The famous tango tango bids fair to put a quietus on social center work in Grand Rapids.

At a meeting of the board of education a committee composed of five ministers and fifteen mothers, bearing a petition signed by 100 taxpayers, appeared and demanded that the dancing feature of the social center work be discontinued. Rev. Dr. Scott declared that the dances had an immoral effect that would end corrupt and demoralize the youth of the city. The board will investigate.

Prosecutor Is Sustained.

LANSING, MICH. — Attorney General Fellows filed with Governor Ferris a report covering the investigation made by Assistant Attorney General Green of the charges that the liquor laws were being violated in St. Claire county.

Fellows says that there is no reason to remove Prosecuting Attorney Bowles, as requested by a committee of citizens from [illegible] who appeared at the executive office a few days ago.

Curiosities of Korean Justice.

The Korean judge dispenses justice in the open, and by etiquette only the judge can sit. Every one else must stand, excepting the prisoner and his friends, who are forced to remain in a humble kneeling position with bowed heads. Until quite recently these trials were always very one sided and shockingly unjust. When a man was brought to a judge it was taken for granted he was guilty, and if he did not confess he was tortured and made to do so. Witnesses, too, were openly bribed. In fact, giving evidence for or against an accused person meant a living to a portion of the community, and these witnesses naturally favored those who paid best. Punishments varied. If the prisons were too full and the condemned could not pay a fine they were often given a chance to escape or disappeared by some means. Though these are things of the past, Korean judges, like those of China, possess a poor idea of the sense of justice.—Wide World Magazine.

Perilous Mining.

Quicksilver miners follow the most unhealthful trade in the world. Speeds of the Stars.

Years of arduous research have revealed that the stars nearly all move with specific speeds of from ten to thirty miles per second, our star, the sun, moving about thirteen miles per second. But the rapid stars, those having large proper motions, say, of eight or nine seconds of arc per year, are flying at such terrific velocities that they form a class by themselves. Their speeds are between 100 and 500 miles per second, the latter being that of the huge sun Arcturus. The attraction of the quantity of miles in all suns—that is, bodies that are visible to the eye or to photographic plates—is totally unable to cause these immense velocities. This shows that the quantity of invisible matter is far greater than that in the 100,000,000 visible bodies. The quantity of matter able to impart a speed of 100 to 500 miles per second is far beyond all imagination.—Edgar Lucien Larkin in New York American.

Squared Accounts.

A dispute once arose between an English landlord and his tenant. The latter had given notice to quit, but would not put a bill in his window to say this house was "To Be Let."

To make matters worse, they went to law about it. The judge, having heard the case, made an order for the defendant to put a bill up within fourteen days.

The landlord was so overjoyed at his victory that on the fourteenth day he took a friend with him around to the house to chaff his tenant. The bill was up in the window plain enough, but under it was another bill, which ran as follows:

"Cause of leaving—bad drains."

Musical Plagiarist.

Victor Herbert, the composer, once said of a musician whose work he disliked:

"The prophecy that was made about this chap in his boyhood has come true. In his boyhood his mother said of him:

"'Oh, he's such a remarkable child—a perfect prodigy, in fact. He remembers every tune he hears.'

"'Well, well!' said a pianist who was present.

"'Isn't that a very rare and valuable faculty?' his mother asked.

"'It isn't rare,' said the pianist, 'but it's certainly valuable. It will probably enable him to become in after years a successful composer.'"

Woman Sues Port Huron for $10,000.

PORT HURON, MICH. — A $10,000 damage suit has been filed against the City of Port Huron by Barbara Streit as the result of injuries which the plaintiff alleges she received by falling down a flight of steps leading to a temporary pontoon bridge.

FOR WOMEN ONLY.

That is the nature of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—the one remedy for women which contains no alcohol and no habit-forming drugs. Made from native medicinal forest roots. Dr. Pierce tells its every ingredient on the bottle-wrapper. Prominent physicians and some of the best medical authorities endorse these ingredients as being the very best known remedies for ailments and weaknesses peculiar to women.

MRS. COFFEY.

This is what MRS. GENETTI E. COFFEY, of Longstreet, Ky., says: "I feel it my duty to write and tell you what your medicines have done for me. I was a great sufferer for six years from a trouble peculiar to women, but I am thankful to say, after taking four bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' I am not bothered with that dreadful disease any more. I feel like a new woman. When I first wrote you for advice I only weighed 115 pounds—now I weigh 135.

"I thank you very much for your kindness. You have been as a father to me in advising me what to do, so may God bless you in every effort you put forth for good.

"I hope this testimonial will be the means of some poor suffering woman seeking health."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date edition, answers hosts of delicate questions about which every woman, single or married ought to know.

Cured His Drinking.

Jones, a Boston manufacturer, employed Hobbs as a salesman. Hobbs was a hustler who brought business when he worked, but who had a habit of sacrificing two or three days a month getting drunk and sobering up directly after getting his pay. He was always in debt. One day Jones called Hobbs in and said that he would keep him in his employ only on one condition.

"What's that?" asked Hobbs.

"It's this," said Jones. "Every week I shall take $5 of your pay and put it aside. Every month I shall deposit the money in a co-operative bank. You are not to touch that money as long as you remain unmarried and work for me."

"But my debts. How can I spare"—

"Pay 'em somehow, and let me see that bankbook every month."

That was all—no lecture on the evils of drinking, no aphorisms. The other day Hobbs brought the bank book to Jones and showed $800 on deposit. And his only comment was, "And I don't even get thirsty when I look at it."—Exchange.

Heating a Brook.

How to keep a brook running freely and water power working smoothly in a temperature of 50 degrees below zero has now been demonstrated on the Yukon, in Alaska, by some ingenious American engineers. A mining company that used water power to develop electric power, obtaining the water through a ditch many miles long, decided to try to operate through the winter. At the beginning of the winter the engineers let the water in the ditch freeze an ice coat a few inches thick. Then the water in the ditch was dropped a foot, so that the cover of ice made a protection for the stream, with an air space between the ice and the water. This kept out much of the cold, but was useless without some heating of the water. Accordingly wires were strung along the ditch, and at regular intervals electric heating coils were placed in the bottom of the ditch. By this means the water was heated by electricity manufactured by the water at the water wheels.—Saturday Evening Post.

A Question of Degree.

On a writ of error to the supreme court of one of the states counsel for plaintiff in error sharply criticized the rulings of the trial judge. When the counsel for the defendant began his reply the following took place:

"May it please your honors, before I finish my argument, I think I can show you that the trial judge was not as crazy as counsel on the other side would make him out to be."

By a member of the court: "Let me understand you—you admit the fact of insanity of the trial judge, but deny its degree?"—Case and Comment.

Dead Authors.

Accepted handbooks and histories of American literature pay too much attention to doubly dead worthies, whose books are not interesting and miss or but timidly acknowledge contemporary excellence. There is a way of accounting for it. Every generation, except the more independent spirits in it, looks with too Chinese reverence upon its ancestors.—John Albert Macy in Spirit of American Literature.

GENERAL NEWS.

NEW YORK — Sidney Moultrop, handcuffed to a deputy United trop, handcuffed to a deputy United States marshal, left for Washington at two o'clock in the afternoon to stand trial on an indictment charging him with forging the name of Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, for whom he worked as secretary, to a check for $240, drawn on the National Metropolitan Bank of Washington. He is also under indictment for stealing and pawning a ring belonging to the senator's wife. According to federal authorities here the federal grand jury at Washington is also planning to indict him on a charge of fabricating the letter in which the writer, who represented himself as Senator Lewis, offered Henry Pindell, the Peoria, Ill., editor a year's junketing trip in Russia under the guise of ambassadorship.

WASHINGTON—Having now completed the currency bill and submitted it to the president and to the Hitchcock wing of the banking and currency committee, Chairman Owen and his five Democratic colleagues will probably try to amend it to avoid a contraction of the currency in localities due to the transfer of money from the present reserve centers to the regional reserve banks. Senators from the west and middle west have been hearing many complaints as to the disastrous results that may follow the transfer of funds from reserve cities where they are now held to the regional reserve centers under the new law.

HOUSTON, TEX. — The big strike of operating employes of the Southern Pacific lines in Texas and Louisiana was ended by the railroad and its employes accepting the proposal of the federal board of mediation and conciliation that the railroad meet the committee of the four unions. This proposal was sent from Washington by the board and stipulated that in event of refusal by either party the question should go before the federal board for settlement.

NEW YORK — With one victim of bichloride of mercury poisoning apparently well on the road to recovering and another slightly improved, New York physicians are in hopes that the surgeon's knife has found a way out of what has been considered an almost fatal condition. Mrs. Helen Janin, wife of J. A. Janin of 50 Felton avenue, West Brigton, S. I., operated on a week ago by Dr. Alfred Thomas of New Brighton, is said to be practically well.

LONDON, ENG.—Lord Cowdray is extremely worried over newspaper articles and threats of revolutionists that unless he makes contributions to their cause his oil tanks and plants will be destroyed. While his oil interests are enormous he is equally anxious regarding his men, English and Americans, who threaten to resist with their lives any attack on the property.

WASHINGTON — Senator J. H. Lewis of Illinois took to the White House a Chicago delegation who urged President Wilson to appoint Henry W. Huttman, a judge of the federal court of appeals of the Seventh circuit. Senator Lewis is backing W. A. Doyle, but took the delegation to see Attorney General McReynolds also, that they might urge their candidate.

KANSAS CITY, MO.—One indictment charging eight men with misuse of the mails in a conspiracy to defraud in connection with the operations of the Florida Fruit Lands company, was returned by the federal grand jury. The indictment among others is against Richard J. Bolles, a millionaire of Jacksonville, Fla.

WASHINGTON—The U. S. senate's wedding gift to Miss Jessie Wilson is a silver service of fifteen pieces, with its chief feature a tea set of five pieces. It also contains a hot-water kettle, large service tray, chocolate pot, ice cream dish, two compote dishes and four candlesticks.

JOHN H. MARBLE DEAD

Interstate Commerce Commissioner Passes Away Suddenly.

WASHINGTON — John Hobart Marble, interstate commerce commissioner, died suddenly at his home here of uraemic poisoning. Mr. Marble was stricken during the anthracite coal investigation in Philadelphia. He is survived by a wife and nineteen-year-old daughter.

Mr. Marble was special attorney for the senate committee in the second investigation into the election of William Lorimer to the United States senate. He was born in Ashland, Neb., Feb. 26, 1869.

MOUNTED POLICE FOR COPPER STRIKE ZONE

Houghton County Supervisors Favor Organization.

PAINESDALE, MICH.—The members of the board of supervisors for Houghton county are seriously organizing a permanent and a strong body of mounted police, a semi-military organiation, similar to the rangers of the southwestern states, along the lines suggested by General P. L. Abbey, of Kalamazoo, who commanded the state troops in the strike campaign of four months in the Keweenaw peninsula copper region.

It is certain that the Western Federation of Miners intends to prolong the strike as long as money continues to come in for the support of the strikers and themselves.

This, it is believed, will mean constant repetition of the scenes of violence which have characterized the strike since its inception. Heretofore during the strike the mounted and foot troops, 2,700 of whom were stationed in the district for two months and close to 1,000 for two months longer, maintained peace, but now that all but 100 mounted artillerymen have been withdrawn the conditions are becoming quite serious.

Eaton Rapids Doctor Jailed.

CHARLOTTE, MICH. — Dr. E. C. Vandecar, the Eaton Rapids physician convicted of writing a prescription for one pint of whisky to be used as a beverage, was sentenced by Judge Smith to twenty days in the county jail, and fined $50.

Robs Father—Jailed.

MARSHALL, MICH. — Howard J. Hamp, sixteen-years-old, burglarized his father's home in Burlington township and while the officers were looking for the burglar, Hamp went to Batle Creek and spent so much money that the police arrested him on suspicion. He has confessed.

Pastor's Wife Will Act.

MARSHALL, MICH. — When "The Coyboy and the Thief" is presented here the leading part will be takn by Mrs. J. Wedell Davis, wife of the rctor of Trinity church, who played the part while with a theatrical company, where she first met her husband.

The play was written by Rev. Davis while he was following the career of playwright and actor.

Accused in Bank Case.

PONTIAC, MICH. — Some further developments in the Clarkston bank wrecking case are portended by the arrest here of Clyde R. Morrison, Detroit auto salesman and former employe of the bank, following the sentencing of the defaulting cashier, Ralph E. Jossman, to from seven to twenty years in Jackson prison by Circuit Judge George W. Smith.

Joseph La Rue Captured.

DETROIT, MICH. — Joseph La Rue, who escaped from jail at the Canadian Soo last August, while awaiting trial on the charge of wife murder, was arrested in Detroit—another "camera eye" victim. Detectives arrested him, they claim, by pictures of him sent by Ontario authorities.

MEXICAN FAKES BEAT OUR OWN

Papers Publish Startling Story to Check Exodus.

TELL OF BIG U. S. UPRISING

Serious Revolt in Texas, Says Mexican Papers in Effort to Keep Their People at Home—Declare President Ordered Decree Prohibiting Mexicans from Leaving United States.

Laredo, Tex., Dec. 1.—In an attempt to stop the exodus of wealthy Mexicans from Mexico, a startling story of negro uprisings in Texas, and of the flight of thousands of Americans and Mexicans from Texas into Mexico for safety has been published in El Noticiero, the leading newspaper of Monterey and by papers in other cities, supposedly at the dictation of the Mexican government. Copies of El Noticiero have been received here, containing the sensational articles which says the negroes of Texas, enraged by the burning alive of members of their race, had risen in revolt following "the arrest of some negroes of the educated class who were suspected of complicity in plots," a reign of terror is depicted, a specific example being the "revolt of Battalion C of the negroes stationed at Floresville, Tex., who were joined by over 3,000 Texas negroes who proceeded to destroy the railway between San Antonio and Corpus Christi, afterwards looting several houses."

Wilson Checked Mexicans.

Conditions became so alarming, the article states, that President Wilson ordered Governor Colquitt to issue a decree prohibiting Mexicans from leaving for Mexico which they were doing in large numbers together with thousands of Texans. The American flight was so great, in fact, that the federal garrison at Neuva Laredo had to be increased to hold back the thousands who were fleeing to Mexico for safety.

Villa's Rise Portentious.

El Paso, Dec. 1.—General Villa declares that the movement southward against Chihuahua is the real beginning of the march to Mexico City.

"We have sufficient soldiers to drive every Huertista before us or capture them," he said "and it will be no trouble to take the city of Chihuahua. We already hold Torreon and the march south of Chihuahua will be easy. The constitutionalists now hold every border port on the United States line except Eagle Pass and Laredo."

Villa has at least 5,000 rebels with him at Juarez or moving south while Generals Chao and Contreras, other rebel commanders, have at least 1,500 near Chihuahua.

The federals have not more than 4,000 at Chihuahua.

The only doubt in the minds of Americans of the success of the constitutionalists' cause is the attitude of Villa. At present he is apparently fighting loyally for and with the Carranzans, but Villa is not a man who, by nature, is subverient to other men and Americans who have watched his wonderful rise do not believe that Villa will be found taking second place to Carranza for any length of time.

Five months ago, Villa entered Mexico from El Paso alone, on a borrowed horse, today he commands more rebel soldiers than any other so-called constitutionalist leader. He is in absolute possession of Juarez, has almost thirty pieces of field artillery, plenty of ammunition, at least 5,000 men, six railroad locomotives and more than 100 cars. His men show the best discipline of any rebel army ever seen on the border and they are the best dressed and best cared for.

Huerta Again Seeks Lind.

Vera Cruz, Dec. 1.—Querido Moheno, minister of foreign affairs in the Huerta cabinet, arrived here from the capital and is said to be awaiting the arrival of John Lind from Tampico. According to unconfirmed reports, Senor Moheno has been empowered to reopen negotiations with the special envoy of the United States government.

Huerta is said to have arrived at the conclusion that it is useless to maintain his defiant attitude any longer, as there is but little prospect of raising the funds necessary to run the government and maintain the large army necessary to deal with the formidable revolutionary movement which is gradually closing in on the capital.

UNDERWOOD TO REMAIN ON JOB

Democrats Rejoice Over Retaining His Leadership.

AT POST UNTIL MARCH, 1915

Republican National Committeemen Meet to Discuss Curtailment of Southern Representation — Wilson Democrats Have Formed "Democratic Progressive Council"

Washington, Dec. 1.—On the eve of the reassembling of congress, Democrats find cause for rejoicing in the fact that Representative Oscar Underwood of Alabama will remain on the job of house leader this session. It has just become known that Mr. Underwood plans to remain in the house until the expiration of his term in March, 1915.

Associated to some extent with the work of congress this sssion are plans for party reorganization that are now in progress there. On Dec. 16, the Republican national committee will meet in Washington for the purpose of determining whether a special national convention shall be held to minimize the influences of the south in party councils. To some extent the progressive plan of campaign in next year's election will be mapped out in Washington this winter.

Democratic Progressives.

Recently there has been formed in Washington what is known as the "Democratic progressive council." It is comprised almost exclusively of officials of the Wilson administration, among them Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the president. This council intends to establish branches in the various states. The object of the organization is to further "Democratic progressive principles."

The men identified with the council believe the Progressive party is in the process of disintegrating that many of its members may be induced to join the Democratic party if convinced that the party is really progressive.

PATIENTS MOURN FOR ZELLER

Asylum Superintendent Who Made Many Reforms Is Promoted.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—Grief reigned at the Peoria state hospital when the more rational of the inmates heard the news that their guardian, Dr. G. A. Zeller, is going to leave them. Word reached the institution that Governor Dunne has appointed Dr. Zeller as a member of the state board of administration. He is to be the allenist, succeeding Dr. Frank P. Norbury, resigned.

Dr. Zeller gained a nation-wide experience in his management of the Peoria, or Bartonville, state hospital. He established the non-restraint system in the hospital, and has been able to manage 1,000 to 1,300 wards without the use of a bar on the windows of that institution or any straps or other restraints used in the old system.

WOMEN PLAN TO STORM WILSON

Suffragists Demand He Recommend Votes for Women.

ASK IT IN TUESDAY'S MESSAGE

Six Hundred Delegates Threaten to March on White House If Demands Are Not Granted—Working Girls Are Speakers — Resolutions Are Unanimously Adopted.

Washington, Dec. 1.—Quoting from President Wilson's book, "The New Freedom," the suffrage cohorts gathered for their forty-fifth annual convention made a determined demand on him at a mass meeting that he include recommendations for woman suffrage in his annual message to congress Tuesday.

Without one dissenting vote the audience of suffragists in the Columbia theater adopted the resolution offered by Mrs. Helen Ring Robinson of Colorado calling upon President Wilson, in his message, to adopt the woman suffrage constitutional amendment as an administration measure and urge congress to take "immediate and favorable action on it." The resolution also called upon the United States senate to act favorably on the suffrage resolution now pending before it, and also that a house committee on suffrage be appointed.

Will Storm White House.

The 600 and more delegates to the convention declare they will storm the president in the White House if he fails to include the recommenmation and attempt to secure from him an expression which might be regarded as the Democratic party's policy on the woman suffrage question.

The most thrilling feature of the mass meeting was the impassioned plea for the ballot for the working women by two working girls, Mrs. Margaret Hinckley, a laundry worker, and Miss Rose Winslow, a weaver of New York city.

Alpena, Mich., Dec. 1.—Every effort of the tug Ralph and the Reid wrecking tugs Sarnia City and James Reid to release the steamer Gogebic, aground south of the mouth of the Thunder Bay river, failed and on account of the strong east wind the work has stopped.

The Gogebic went aground with a cargo of coal trying to make the river. With the Gogebic aground, four steamers are disabled within twenty miles of Alpena. The steamer I. W. Nicholas is stranded at North Point and her position is dangerous. The William A. Hazzard is aground at Rockport and the Acadian is in the bay waiting to be towed [illegible]. 3,000 Men Ordered to Quit Work at Midnight.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 1.—An order for a general strike of all drivers of commercial vehicles and auto trucks was declared at a meeting of the general membership of Local Union No. 240 of General Teamsters and Chauffeurs at the Labor Temple in West Washington street. The strike order went into effect at 12 o'clock last night.

Farrell also announced that there must be no interferences with mail or other government wagons or automobiles or with the wagons or automobiles or with the wagons or machines of the various express companies in the city.

Farrell said that arrangements would be made to deliver milk, meat and other necessary produce to the hospitals in the city, in order, he said, that there would be no suffering imposed on the sick and needy.

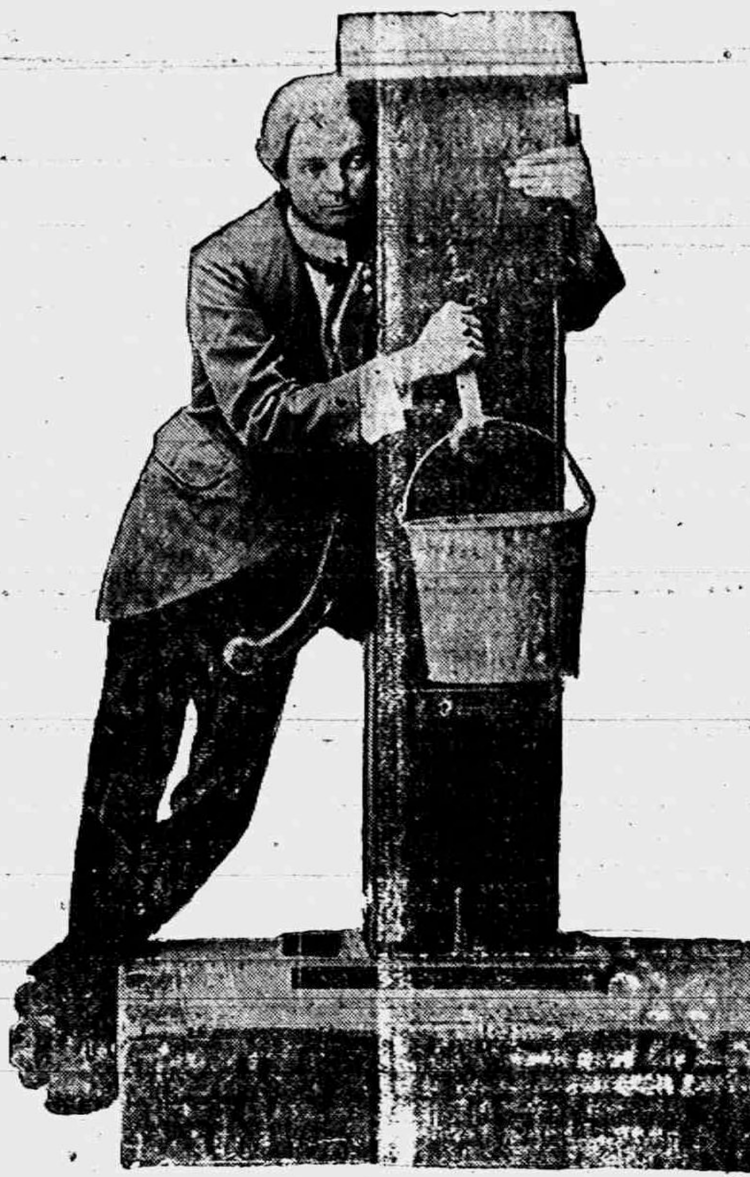
AMUSEMENTS

"MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH."

Written by a woman, and dramatized by a woman, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" which comes to the Bradley Opera House, next Monday, Dec 8 utterly disproves the popular fallacy that women have no sense of humor. The play is thouroughly satisfying, funny in every sense of the word, and the clever lines of the book are heightened to a great degree by the little inimitable touches that only the most clever actors can give and that must be seen to be appreciated. Never has a play been more obviously a character study with the plot woven about it than this of "Mrs. Wiggs", but it is surprising how smoothly it leads from one phase to another, and how interesting even the most commonplace incidents become with "Mrs. Alice Hegan Rice's" [illegible] appreciable understanding shedding its light upon them. The humor is of the best and highest as it is drawn solely from the little incidents of everyday life that can amuse as so infinitely if we do not let ourselves "get soured" as Mrs. Wiggs expresses it. The development of this commonplace side of things is missionary work, for it reminds every one how much real amusements can come out of even the most unfortunate circumstances and gives a code of living that if carried out would certainly make the world a much better place. "Mrs. Wiggs" with her pathetically funny philosophy, is at once a source of laughter and to the thoughtful a mild but well pointed sermon. There was scarcely words to describe Mis' Hazy and her "matrimonia venture". Mr Stubbins. In each costume Mis' Hazy is absolutely more rediculous than in the preceding one, and her appearance is all that is needed to send the audience into uncontrollable laughter. She reveals new comic possibilities in spinsterhood and matrimony. Lovey Mary, as appealing as she is in the book, is made more so in the play. All the characters of the Cabbage Patch to the number of twenty appear in the stage setting is a photographic reproduction of the world famous Louisville Cabbage Patch, where Mrs Bass, the original of Mrs Wiggs still lives. The play will be presented here under the management of the United Play Co.

"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" is another mammoth city production of the same caliber as "The Man from Home" and is in fact under the same management and another big Lieb'er production.



Scene in "MRS. WIGGS of the CABBAGE PATCH" at Bradley Opera House Monday December 8

"FINE FEATHERS"

"Fine Feathers" was presented at Bradley Opera House Friday evening Nov. 28th, to a small but appreciative audience. The story of "Fine Feathers" as told by this excellant troop of actors only goes to show how fine feathers and a desire for extravagant things will upset the peace and happiness of the home. In this case it ended with the husband taking his life. A good play and unusually well presented.

Whirlpool Suggested Silencer.

Mr. Maxim had been working on the development of automobile engine mufflers for some time before he thought of a silencer in connection with a gun. In addition to this was the inventor's desire to enjoy target practice without creating a disturbance. Experiment ensued, covering a couple of years and all kinds of valves, vents, bypasses, expansion chambers, etc., but without success. One morning after his bath the inventor noticed the small whirlpool over the drain hole, the action of which retards the egress of the water. It does not silence it (as this phenomenon is usually accompanied by a more or less pronounced sucking sound), but in a gun the noise of firing is caused by the sudden egress of the gases, and if these could in the same way be slowed down the noise would in proportion be decreased. Acting on this suggestion, a little tube was then made constructed so as to induce a whirlpool in the escaping gases from the gun. This, when tried, was a success.—American Machinist.

An Unworthy Peer.

In "The Memoirs of William Hickey, 1749 to 1775," we read that Lord Littleton was a professed gamester and "the meanest wretch in existence." "I was attending an appeal in the house of lords," says the author, "when Lord Littleton, passing through the lobby, said to the head doorkeeper, 'Can you lend me a [illegible] handkerchief? My rascal has neglected to put one in my pocket.' The man abruptly refused and added, in the strong language of the day, 'I'll be — if your lordship shall rob me of any more; you have had two already.' Another time Lord Littleton grossly abused his coachman for being ten minutes late with the carriage. 'You scoundrel,' said he, after a volley of oaths, 'did I not order you to be at the Savoir Vivre a quarter before 7?' 'Yes, my lord,' said the man 'and I was not ten minutes after the time.' 'Blank — blank — blank — blank, you rascal. In those ten minutes I lost 2,000 guineas!'"

THE NEW ERA GATE

Mr. I. L. Landis of Chicago is demonstrating the New Era Gate on the vacant property just east of Brown & Co. place of business.

Mr Landis claims he has the best Gate on the market and it certainly looks good. The Gate is attracting a good deal of attention and people who are interested should certainly look it over. Here are some of the things Mr. Landis claims for it.

When your post sags you never drag and destroy the gate, you raise it up at the front and swing it freely and save it.

It opens each way, can be adjusted high or low rigidly at the front end or the whole gate can be raised.

It holds open when you drive through can be adjusted up or down slope or hill, can raise the whole gate to pass over the straw or manure at the barnyard, can be raised to separate large stock from the small or be raised over snow more quickly than pick up a shovel and work an hour and have it drift back again and is cheap to make and easy to operate.

Mr Landis claims it will easily out last the common one.

You surely ought to look the gate over and hear from him just what it will do. Here is a testimonial

THE CHRISTMAS MONEY CLUB

Someone who is evidently a student of human nature has evolved a novel plan through which we may all be provided with an ample supply of Christmas money, not a miserly little handful of quarters and dimes, but a big double handful of tens and fives and ones and shining, jingling silver besides. The Lilley State Bank, is to be congratulated upon having secured the plan for this city.

The conscientious banker feels that he has not performed his entire duty to the public when alone takes care of the banking requirments of the business people and those in affluent circumstances. The modern bank has a savings department, designed to encourage the accumulation of small amounts by those who have fixed incomes from their employment, and also to provide a safe medium for the deposit of larger sums at a fair rate of interest. Now, best of all, comes the Christmas money Club, for this demonstrates how rapidly money will accumulate if deposited in the bank systematically. The boys and young men of today will be the big financiers of tomorrow. No one understands this better than does the Lilley State Bank who, through the Christmas Money Club, makes it possible for everyone to open a bank account, and to secure a knowledge of the principles of banking at first hand, by visiting the bank at regular periods. And the Money Club should be taken advantage of by the girls and the young women —God bless them every one—for how they would delight to let the "Christmas Spirit" have full sway without the necessity of counting the cost.

Fifty weeks makes up the full club year. One cent deposited the first week and increased by one cent each week brings $12.75 at Christmas. Two cents deposited the first week and increased by two cents each week will amount to $25.50, and a first deposit of five cents increased by five cents each week will bring in a return of $63.75. The Club is so planned that members may accumulate almost any amount desired. Members may pay the larger amount first and decrease the deposit each week, or they may deposit the same amonnt each week for fifty weeks. The plan is educational and unique. If we wish to have a given amount within a year for any purpose the money may be systematically saved in this way. The idea is so good that we suggest to our readers a call at the bank for further particulars.

ISAAC ADAMS

We clip the following from The Cablenews American published in Manila P. I.

Mr Adams is an old Tecumseh boy, son of Deacon Isaac Adams of pleasant memory. He graduated from our High School with the class of 1870 later graduated from the U. of M. and while abroad attended a German College. We think his host of friends in Tecumseh will be pleased to hear of his well doing. We are indebted to his cousin, Mrs. J. D. Shull for the privilege of printing this article.

The well known law firm of Southworth and Hargis, will in future be known as Southworth, Hargis, Adams and Jardain. Attorney Hargis is leaving today for the United States for an indefinite absence. Attorney Isaac Adams, who is joining the firm, is well known in Manila. He was formerly fiscal of the Mountain province, and for five years he was connected with the attorney general's office, where he was entrusted with many of the most important investigations made by that office, and prepared a considerable number of opinions.

We also handled several of the more important prosecution with notable success. On the resignation of Modesto Reyes, he was appointed city attorney of Manila, and made a splendid record in defending the city's interests. He resigned in November, 1912, since which time he has been employed as special counsel with the insular government. He is one of the oldest American residents of the Philippines, with an efficient career and a wide circle of friends.

JESSIE SMITH

We are in receipt of a very interesting letter from Miss Jessie Smith of Pasadena Cal. a former Tecumseh girl and a graduate in the class of 1906 and feeling sure that her friends here will be interested in her work we quote.

"I am still teaching in Pasadena, and I have very interesting work this year in a special school. We have children from all part of the town who are misfits in regular grades and we try to meet their needs after individual study. We make the manual training or shop, and the household arts the basis of our work and we feel that we are already succeeding. I am teaching mathematics and mechanical drawing to the older pupils and by correlating them very closely with the shop work I have been able to arouse unusual interest. Do you wonder that I am finding it a pleasant year?"

I see Miss Frances Comfort quite often, but I seldom have a chance to visit long as she also is very busy. However we chat about Tecumseh now and then.

BIBLE STUDY CLASS

A group of ladies in a west end neighborhood of town have a little club formed for the purpose of studying the bible as a history.

They meet at their different homes on Wednesday afternoons and beginning at the first chapter of Genesis read one chapter each around and follow this with a general discussion of the ground covered. Each member brings in any outside reading which bears upon the subjects discussed. Often these readings are from Josephus or one of Dr C. L. Arnold's sermons on the current Sunday school lesson which are now appearing weekly in a Detroit paper. Last meeting Mrs F. D. Rector at whose home the club was entertained read a chapter from "The Yoke" a story by Miller the scene of which is laid among the children of Israel while they are still in Egypt in captivity. This week the meeting will be with Mrs. Charles Kemp continuing the story of "The Yoke" after the bible reading.

For convenience the membership is limited to ten and is composed of the following leaders, Mrs. Chilson, Kemp, Howland Rector, Lewis, G. R. Gillespie, Camburn, Pentecost, and Missas Butric and Edith Ingorsoll.

An unwritten law of the club is to hold strictly to the topics under consideration and discuss them over a cup of tea.

A Golfer's Discovery.

An enthusiastic golfer, one of those fellows who can speak on nothing else but golf, was one day taken by a friend to our local observatory to have a look through the building. The golfer's friend, who was a keen astronomer, got him a look at the moon through the telescope and then asked him what he thought of the planet. To his amazement he answered back, "It's a' richt, but it's awfu' fu' o' bunkers."—World of Golf.

Salves Can't Cure Eczema

In regard to skin diseases, medical authorities are now agreed on this: Don't imprison the disease germs in your skin by the use of greasy salves, and thus encourage them to multiply. A true cure of all eczematous diseases can be brought about only by using the healing agents in the form of a liquid.

WASH THE GERMS OUT.

A simple wash: A compound of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, and other ingredients as combined in the D.D.D. Prescription. This penetrates to the disease germs and destroys them, then soothes and heals the skin as nothing else has ever done.

A 50 cent bottle will start the cure and give you instant relief.

We have made fast friends of more than one family by recommendating this D.D.D. Prescription to a skin sufferer here and there, and we want you to try it now on our positive pay guarantee. D.D.D. Soap keeps the pores clean; ask us.

HAPPY WOMEN

Plenty of Them in Tecumseh and Good Reason for it.

Wouldn't any woman be happy,
After years of back suffering,
Days of misery, nights of unrest
The distress of urinary troubles,
When she finds freedom.

Many readers will profit by the following.

Mrs. Sarah E. Austin, Pearl St. Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I suffered from kidney complaint for more than a year. When someone told me that Doan's Kidney Pills were good in such cases, I got a supply at Wright & Son's Drug Store. They helped me immediately and I continued using them until I was well. I have had no need of Doan's Kidney Pills or any other kidney medicine since."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Austin had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Have you noticed how quiet everything was in England while Mrs. Pankhurst was visiting over here?

Stomach Troubles Disappear.

Stomach, liver and kidney troubles, weak nerves, lame back and female ills disappear when Electric Bitters are used. Thousands of women would not be without a bottle in their home. Eliza Pool of Depew, Okla. writes: "Electric Bitters raised me from a bed of sickness and suffering and has done me a world of good. I wish every suffering woman could use this excellent remedy and find out, as I did just how good it is." As it has helped thousands of others, it surely will do the same for you. Every bottle guaranteed, 50c. and $1.00. Recommended by C. A. Wright & Son.

An excuse is all right, but the thing to do is to avoid the necessity for it.

Young Women:—

"Home, Sweet Home," Too Pathetic?

"Home, Sweet Home," the song of a homeless American, once moved Robert Louis Stevenson to an outburst of passionate protest. But it was the music rather than the words that roused his indignation. You will find the passage in "Across the Plains:" "I have no idea whether musically this air is to be considered good or bad, but it belongs to that class of art which may best be described as a brutal assault upon the feelings. Pathos must be relieved by dignity of treatment. If you wallow naked in the pathetic, like the author of 'Home, Sweet Home,' you make your hearers weep in an unmanly fashion, and even yet while they are moved they despise themselves and hate the occasion of their weakness."

Watched the Jockeys.

When the Derby was first founded the stewards used to ride along the course to watch the competitors. A separate steward was detailed for each horse, and his duty was to see there was no interference with that horse or his jockey by the other competitors or the public. In a picture of the Derby of 1791 by J. N. Sartorius one of the stewards can be seen riding along gayly some lengths in front of the winner.

Making It Clear.

The mother of five-year-old George had been ill for several days.

"How is your mamma this morning, Georgie?" asked a neighbor.

"Oh, she's better," replied the little fellow, "but she isn't quite so better as she was yesterday."—Chicago News.

An Enemy's Courtesy.

When the crusaders under King Richard of England defeated the Saracens the sultan, seeing his troops fly, asked what was the number of the Christians who were making all this slaughter. He was told that it was only King Richard and his men and that they were all on foot.

"Then," said the sultan, "God forbid that such a noble fellow as King Richard should march on foot!" and sent him a noble charger.

The messenger took it and said:

"Sire, the sultan sends you this charger that you may not be on foot."

The king was as cunning as his enemy and ordered one of his squires to mount the horse in order to try him. The squire obeyed, but the animal proved fiery, and, the squire being unable to hold him in, he set off at full speed to the sultan's pavilion. The sultan expected he had got King Richard and was not a little mortified to discover his mistake.

Why Hollow Trees Live.

In forests and private parks one may often witness the remarkable sight of a very old tree with a trunk consisting of nothing but a hollow shell and yet bearing branches that are covered with foliage. It would seem to be impossible that the dry bark, in some cases only held together by an iron band, could go on producing leaves year after year in the manner in which it does. The explanation, however, is quite a simple one. In very young trees the sap carrying portion is in the center. It is a series of bundles of minute cellular tubes scientifically known as "vascular bundles." As the tree gets older this series of bundles forms a ring which gets bigger and bigger as the circumference of the tree increases. In course of time the center withers and decays since it is no longer needed to supply the branches with nourishment.—London Graphic.

Beautiful Leicester.

Leicester has learned how to make herself beautiful from unpromising materials. She has no suitable building stone handy, and therefore out of red bricks, put together by cunning architects, she has constructed a city unlike any other in England. A local art school has fostered the spirit of beauty, and thus Leicester has triumphed over her limitations. She has been described as a rosy red town set in a mass of greenery. Even the lampposts have been designed by a sculptor who is not ashamed to let them bear his name.—London Chronicle.

Might Have Been Worse.

"Too bad," said the optimist to the man next to him on the bus, whose hat had been blown into the river, "but it might have been worse."

"I can't see how," replied the hatless one, with a stare.

"Why, it might have been my hat."—Yonkers Statesman.

Acquiring a Title.

"So you are going to leave us, Mrs. Rusher?"

"Yes. We are going to move to Kentucky for a few weeks until my husband gets to be called 'colonel,' and then we shall go to Washington to live."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Right on the Job.

During a flood which swept away several small railroad bridges and quite a stretch of track an operator in a country town along the line saw one of the company's box cars floating down the river. Instantly he sprang to his key and reported the matter to the main office.

"Mr. James," eagerly cried the operator in the main office to a railroad chief, "Y. G. reports that a box car is floating down the river at his place!"

"Is it ours?" asked the railroader, still looking over the pile of papers before him.

"He says it is," answered the main office operator after another spasm of telegraphy, "and wants to know what to do."

Without "Padding."

The teacher of the class in English, says the Detroit Free Press, demanded that the pupils all write for their daily exercise a brief account of a baseball game.

One boy sat through the period seemingly wrapped in thought, while the others worked hard and turned in their narratives. After school the teacher approached the desk of the laggard.

"I'll give you five minutes to write that description," he sternly said. "If it is not done by that time I shall punish you."

The boy promptly concentrated all his attention upon the theme as the teacher slowly counted the moments. At last, with joyful eagerness, he scratched a line on his tablet and handed it to his master. It read:

"Rain—no game."

SYMBOLS IN ARITHMETIC.

Origin of the Plus, Minus, Multiplication and Division Signs.

When you make the sign of + in a problem of addition, perhaps you do not know that you are really using the first letter of the word "plus" in a somewhat altered form. At first the capital letter P was used, but as it was made more and more quickly and carelessly the top part of the letter became merely a horizontal line drawn across the edge of the vertical.

The sign used in subtraction has even a stranger history. The word minus was first shortened into "mns," with a horizontal line above to indicate the contraction; after awhile only the letter m, with the line above it, was used, and finally the letter was dropped, and now we have only the hastily made horizontal line.

As multiplication is but a short form of addition, the plus sign was turned sidewise into a character resembling the letter X.

"Either" and "Neither."

There are two or three things about these two words that one should remember. In the first place, they should never be used in connection with more than two things—as: "It was either Tuesday or Wednesday," not "either Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday;" "it was neither Tuesday nor Wednesday," not "neither Tuesday, Wednesday nor Thursday." Then, either should not be used in the sense of each, as "they walked on, one on either side of the road." It should be one on "each" side of the road. The third caution is about the pronunciation. Some persons insist that they should be pronounced "i-ther" and "ni-ther," with the "i" long. But this is more an affectation perhaps than anything else. The best authorities agree that the right pronunciation is "e-ther" and "ne-ther."—New York World.

Sly Old Commodore.

"When Commodore Vanderbilt was alive," says a New York Central official, "the board of directors of the New York Central used to find their work all cut out for them when they met. All they had to do was to ratify his plans and adjourn. Yet they had their uses. Occasionally a man would come to him with some scheme which he did not care to refuse outright.

"'My directors are a difficult body of men to handle,' he would say. 'I'll submit it to 'em, but I warn you that they are hard to manage.'

"The matter would be submitted to the board when it assembled and promptly rejected.

"'There,' the commodore would say when his visitor came to learn the result. 'I did the best I could, but I told you in advance that my directors were an obstinate lot.'"

A Model.

A witty professional man was chatting with some women about a friend of theirs who was notoriously henpecked. His better half makes him walk a chalked line, and woe be unto him if he deviates from it.

"He is a model husband!" exclaimed one woman in the party.

"Nay, not model, but modeled," interrupted the professional man, "but whether in clay or putty deponent sayeth not."

A Means of Display.

"So your daughter is studying the violin."

"Yes," replied Mrs. Clyminwell.

"Has she unusual talent?"

"I haven't observed. But there's no question about her possessing a remarkably beautiful forearm."—Washington Star.

Boxed His Royal Ears.

The present kaiser in his youth was a frequent visitor at the country home of Sir Hugh and Lady Macdonell. "He was then," writes Lady Macdonell in "Reminiscences of a Diplomatic Life," "a fine young man with a strong sense of fun and fond of teasing.

"He liked our English teas and afterward used to claim me for a game of drafts. In the salon there was a big window with a deep seat that he especially favored. To this a small table was drawn up, and fine battles ensued over the board.

"I shall never forget one occasion when he accused me of cheating. He was so apparently serious that I became infuriated, and, unmindful of his high estate or my duty as hostess, I impulsively leaned across the table and boxed his ears. His sense of humor and the satisfaction of having been so successful in working upon my feelings saved the situation. I received full punishment later, for ever afterward when he met me he used to cry, 'I know a lady who cheats at drafts!'"

Ways of Darkest Africa.

In his book, "Thinking Black," Mr. Dan Crawford, who is held in England to be the successor to Livingstone, gives a curious picture of his missionary experiences in Africa. He helped to establish the mission station at Luanza, built on a cliff overhanging the Great White lake. Here, with unfailing success, he preached the gospel to the uttermost parts of Africa, drawing the natives to him from far distant places. On the woman question he is particularly interesting. He became aware of a secret society which flourishes in Central Africa. It is a sacred institution with hidden rites and ceremonies. Its purpose is to keep husbands in subjection. This is hardly the idea which the civilized world has of the place of woman in Africa, but, as Mr. Crawford says, nearly everything there is reversed, according to white notions.

MARYLAND'S "VENICE"

TALBOT COUNTY.

Talbot County Maryland, is located on the east shore of the Chesepeake Bay and is said to have more miles of water front than any other County in the world except perhaps a County in Ireland. It was the good fortune of the Editor and Mrs. Turner to visit this beautiful county recently and believing a discription would be interesting to our readers, we print the following written by Mary L. Harrington a native of Talbot County and a decendant of one of the old East Shore Maryland families,

On the eastern shore of the Chesepeake Bay lies a county of Maryland that has with truth been likened to Venice the "fairy city" of Italy.

The beautiful rivers of Miles and Wye borders it on one side. and the Tred Avon and Choptank on the others,

Talbot county is a land teeming with old stories and traditions from the days of the first settlers with their Land patents from Lord Baltimore on through the succeeding years. From the rivers that flow beside the shores of Talbot, stretch inland numerous bayous, creeks and inlets, and on their banks are built homes, many of them of bricks brought over from Enland in Colonial days,

The water has cut the county into long necks of land and many are the quaint names by which they are known. Pot Pie Neck, so called as tradition has it, from the culinary efforts of the housekeeper in that vicinity, exerted in behalf of the visiting pastors who were alleged to be especially fond of that dish.

Turkey Neck, Quaker Neck, Broad Creek Neck and a part of the county called Bay Hundred, reminder of the old English division of counties into hundreds are some of the names that linger yet in the land.

Under the wide spreading limbs of an ancient oak tree that is standing today in Miles River Neck, General Benson proprietor of the estate of "Wheatlands" nearby used to drill the Milita of the neighborhood during the war of 1812.

General Benson had been a captain under General Washington in the Revolutionary War.

Rich Neck occupying a peninsula at the mouth of Miles River was the home during the Revolution of Matthew Tilghman, He was President of of the Assembly and was sent as delegate to the Continental Congress of Philadelphia.

His daughter, Anne, married her cousin, Colonel Tench Tilghman, Aid-de Camp of General Washington's Staff who carried the news of Lord Cornwallis surrender at Yorktown to Philadelphia.

Sixty years ago the "coach and pair" drove slowly along through miles of Woodland in the old plantations where a hospitable welcome would await all comers, and where bountiful tables would be spread with the "treasurers of the deep," oysters, fish, crabs and terrapine taken from the waters beside their very doors.

In vivid contrast to that long ago time, one drives now in swift moving automobiles, through mile after mile of cultivated fields, with only an occasional dip into the green aisles of tall pines and oaks, then out again on the highway, the white pillared porticos of picturesque homes often in full sight and beyond them the blue waters of the rivers spanned by handsome bridges where once the old ferry boat moved slowly from shore to shore.

Around an old court House built in 1794 has grown up the county town of Easton of some thirty seven hundred inhabitants.

Twelve miles below it lies the old town of St. Michaels upon the Miles River. It has a beautiful harbor and a fine ship building industry.

In the war of 1812 British vessels approached the harbor fired upon the town, but meeting with an unexpected resistance from the assembled militia, lead by the same redoubtable. General Bensen mentioned above they soon retired from the scene.

St. Michaels is a home por excellence of the oysterman and fisherman whose boats in the oyster and fishing seasons, dot the rivers and the bay just below, Directly opposite St. Michaels is situated "Marengo" a farm now owned by J. W. Bigelow.

The Miles River flows beside its long shore line calm and blue and smiling onstormless days, restless and white capped when the winds blow wildly.

The green lawn runs down in front of the comfortable mansion to meet the river, and above teraced, ivy covered bank lies a rose garden where the roses linger late into the year sheltered by rows of ancient box-wood trees.

More than a hundred years ago its owner was one, Jacob Gibson and there is a curious old parchment map of the place, signed with his name and date 1807, that is now in the possession of Mr. Bigelow,

Jacob Gibson lies buried on the farm in a quiet nook by the side of the river, and there are many stories told of his eccentric personality

The fame of Talbot County as an ideal place for homes and home-making, has spread abroad and people are constantly coming from various parts of the country to settle there.

That is to say if we Americans as a whole can be defined as "settling" anywhere in the present day. Many of us having been rather aptly described as never homers, whose battle cry seems to be, "I don't like it where I are"— I want to be where I aint."

However this eastern shore county is a land to live and be glad in for,

"Ride where you will, there is beauty still, Breath and the body's might."

MONDAY CLUB

A regular meeting of the Monday Club was held at their rooms Monday afternoon at the usual hour. In the absence of Mrs. Hicks, President of the club, Mrs. Lewis presided. Mrs. O. B. Finch read a very interesting paper on, "Hildebrand and his reforms," this was followed by a discussion on "Romanism" by the members of the club. A very pleasant hour was spent, though there were but few of the members present.

AMUSEMENTS

"MRS WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH"

No play that has been presented in many seasons has made a more powerful appeal to the sympathies of the audience, and certainly none has proven more popular, than "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" which comes to the Bradley Opera House, Monday December 8. The laughter and applause with which this piece has been greeted in every city visited seems to be contagious. The dear old Kentucky comedy drama never went better than in this its tenth season, the unctious drollery of the players giving three hours of unceasing and persistent happiness. As an entertainer, Mrs. Wiggs has no peer in her class. Of all women, she is the dearest and funniest, the ideal philosopher and friend, at once a broad beam of sunshine mid lowly surroundings, and a benediction among all her associates. It is a play which makes a universal appeal, hits every taste and every locality.

The play will be presented here under the management of the United Play Company alone guarantees its worth. They have given Tecumseh theatre goers such excellent attractions as "The Lion and the Mouse", "The Third Degree", "The Man from Home" and now offer us this excellent comedy. The company will only play four days in Michigan and Tecumseh has the good fortune to be one of these dates. They play Kalamazoo December 3 4; Battle Creek the 5th (today) then go to Toledo and come here direct from Toledo Monday, which will be their last date in Michigan.

The advance sale for "Mrs. Wiggs" opens at Hay's bakery Saturday morning at 8.00 o'clock and from the demands and requests that have already been made it promises to be one of the banner sales of the season. Get your seats early. The company is making a specialty of best seats at $1.00 nothing higher, good seats can be had a 50 and 75c but they won't last long.

Porter Emerson Browne one of the foremost of successful playwrights, and the author of "The Spendthrift" has presented the subject under this title in a manner of style appealing at once to all classes of present day admirers of things beautiful, human and interesting in clean, wholesome and instructive themes.

Romantic to a point unusually attained in love tales, nevertheless the author has, with keen foresight remained within the limits beyond which, 'exaggerated' and 'maudlin' romanticism would render many stage love-stories subjects of adverse comment and ridicule.

"The Spendthrift" is intensely human. No man or woman living in the present century can listen to this modern story of a wife's thoughtless and blind extravagance and final reduction to a condition bordering on absolute poverty and want without having learned a lesson from Miss Marion Sherwood's portrayal of the well meaning wastrel in the title role. Far removed from the risque and tiresome 'problem' play—thanks to the gifted author—"The Spendthrift" unfolds its four strong acts with a candor and interesting simplicity that grips and holds the audience for over two, seemingly short hours of refreshing entertainment, unfolding a plot which touches the absorbing and important topic of the high cost of living.

The company presenting "The Spendthrift" is under the management of C S Primrose, who furnished us with such plays last season as: "The Thief" with Miss Sherwood in the title role, Henry Miller's New York success "The Great Divide" and other plays of equal high class merit. In point of managerial ability and judgement of worthy entertainment, Mr Primrose ranks among the foremost of American theatrical producers of popular priced plays, as the success of his last season's offerings will attest.

"The Spendthrift" will be the attraction at the Bradley Opera House, Thursday December 11. The Company carry a complete scenic production.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

Mrs. Alva Waring having reached another milestone on her journey through life on Tuesday Dec 2, her "Family" at the boarding house thought it very fitting to mark the occasion in some fitting manner. A large bunch of carnations was presented her and graced the dinner table. She was very pleased with the gift, and after thanking them went about her duties until some said, "Aunt Fannie you are wanted in the dining room," where she was quite overcome when S P. Hosmer in a neat little speech in behalf of the company, presented her with an elegant Bible. It was with a full heart that she found words to reply.

She also received several other pretty gifts from other friends.

The following was clipped from a Wisconsin paper of a late date: THANKSGIVING—Prof. J. A. Waldron of the agricultural department of the Carlton high school, was the lucky one to receive the big live turkey that was given away by the Carlton theater on Wednesday evening. The show management had the fowl staked out in the entrance way where it did its full share of helping to entertain the audience. Mr. Waldron, while a very handsome young gentleman has not yet assumed the responsibilities of a home of his own, so the next best thing he could do was to make somebody else's home happy, which he did by presenting the juicy bird Mr. and Mrs. Murry, who have a hungry family of tots and no very elaborate bank account. His kindness will meet with the hearty approbation of everybody.

THE CHRISTMAS MONEY CLUB

Someone who is evidently a student of human nature has evolved a novel plan through which we may all be provided with an ample supply of Christmas money, not a miserly little handful of quarters and dimes, but a big double handful of tens and fives and ones and shining, jingling silver besides. The Lilley State Bank, is to be congratulated upon having secured the plan for this city.

The conscientious banker feels that he has not performed his entire duty to the public when alone takes care of the banking requirments of the business people and those in affluent circumstances. The modern bank has a savings department, designed to encourage the accumulation of small amounts by those who have fixed incomes from their employment, and also to provide a safe medium for the deposit of larger sums at a fair rate of interest. Now, best of all, comes the Christmas money Club, for this demonstrates how rapidly money will accumulate if deposited in the bank systematically. The boys and young men of today will be the big financiers of tomorrow. No one understands this better than does the Lilley State Bank who, through the Christmas Money Club, makes it possible for everyone to open a bank account, and to secure a knowledge of the principles of banking at first hand, by visiting the bank at regular periods. And the Money Club should be taken advantage of by the girls and the young women—God bless them every one—for how they would delight to let the "Christmas Spirit" have full sway without the necessity of counting the cost.

Fifty weeks makes up the full club year. One cent deposited the first week and increased by one cent each week brings $12.75 at Christmas. Two cents deposited the first week and increased by two cents each week will amount to $25.50, and a first deposit of five cents increased by five cents each week will bring in a return of $63 75. The Club is so planned that members may accumulate almost any amount desired. Members may pay the larger amount first and decrease the deposit each week, or they may deposit the same amount each week for fifty weeks. The plan is educational and unique. If we wish to have a given amount within a year for any purpose the money may be systematically saved in this way. The idea is so good that we suggest to our readers a call at the bank for further particulars.

STRENGTH FOR OLD PEOPLE

Old people, to overcome the weakening, debilitating effects of increasing old age, often make a very sad mistake in using so-called "remedies" that contain alcohol and dangerous or habit-forming drugs. Often this stuff, because it livens and brightens them up a little just after taking a dose, leads them to imagine that it is doing them good, when it isn't. Remedies that rely for their sale on such deceit, do harm, because the false excitement of the nerves and heart leaves them worse than they were before.

Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion is a real medicine—a splendid body and strength builder, especially good for old people, because it furnishes to the system ingredients necessary to rebuild wasted tissues, strengthen the nerves, gives new energy and a younger and a livelier feeling to the body. It doesn't contain a drop of alcohol nor any dangerous drug. It may not make you feel better after the first dose, nor perhaps for several days. But if you don't feel much better and stronger before you have taken a quarter as much as you have of other medicines that didn't help you, we will gladly give you back your money. That's certainly a square deal.

The fourth Hypophosphites it contains are used by leading physicians everywhere in debility, weakness and liability to disease, to tone and strengthen the nerves. Purest Olive Oil, one of the most nutritious, most easily-digested food known, being taken with the hypophosphites, gives rich tissue nourishment to the entire system.

You who are weak and rundown, and you who are apparently well now, but are liable to suffer from various cold weather ailments, use Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion to get and keep well and strong. For the tired-out, run-down, nervous, emaciated or debilitated—the convalescing—growing children—aged people—it is a sensible pleasant-tasting aid to renew strength, better spirits, glowing health. If it does not help you, your money will be given back to you without argument. Sold in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store—one of more than 7,000 leading drug stores in the United States, Canada and Great Britain.—B J. Pulver. Chicago St., Tecumseh, Mich.

THE ALMONER CLUB

Some ladies who have worked together for two or three years in philanthropic work have decided that organized charity gives so much better results than any spasmodic efforts, have formed a club under the name of the Almoner Circle. As the name implies they hope to be the distributors of the gifts of others and will be very grateful for any donations of clothes, money, food or bedding and will assure the donors that these things will be nicely distributed Children's clothing, underwear and shoes are particularly desired. It is the object and wish of the organization to relieve any cases of want or destitution which may be brought to their notice. There is to be a weekly meetnig of the society during the winter months to which any one is welcome who bring information about such or suggestions for their relief. There is a small initiative fee and monthly dues and they hope the treasury may be further supplemented by gifts from generously disposed people who have the welfare of the poor at heart. The club is starting with a membership of ten and the following officers: President, Mrs. R. N. Lowe; Vice President, Mrs. Harry Moore; Secretary, Mrs. N. A. Howland; Treasurer, Mrs. Eugene Harris. Any donations may be sent to the Secretary or on a telephone call to to any of the members the things will be collected.

WIT AND WISDOM

Dr. and Mrs. L. G. North very pleasantly entertained the members of the Wit and Wisdom club at their home on Monday evening. In the absence of J. H. Smith, Dr. North presided as leader.

The subject for the evening was "Our Italy, Southern California" which was very finely presented in a paper by Mrs L. G. North, after which Mrs Fred Rosacrans gave a paper on the "Marine Observation boats of the Pacific Coast with its submarines windows," and Miss Nannie Kylethen presented the "Sponge Industry" in a very interesting paper. Roll call, called out many pertinent suggestions for the improvement of our village from a physical, moral and beautiful stand point.

The next meeting of the club will be the home of Mrs. Edyth Lamkin.

The Perfect Rose.

"Thou are like unto a flower," warbles the German poet to his love. A certain exasperated old German florist and nurseryman who flourished half a century ago in New York was accustomed to assert with equal positiveness that a flower is like a woman. He had many women customers whose trade he appreciated, but whose demands often drove him to rumple his upstanding Teutonic brush of hair until he looked like an angry parrot. He finally unbosomed himself to the husband of one of them, whose diary has preserved his words:

"I have so much trouble with the ladies when they cooms in to buy mine rose! They wants him hardy, they wants him double, they wants him mundtly, they wants him fragrand, they wants him nice golor, they wants him eberytings in von rose. I hopes I am not what you calls one uncallant man, but I have somedimes to say to that ladies, 'Madam, I never often sees that ladies that was peautiful, that was rich, that was goot tempered, that was yoong, that was indelligent, that was discreed, that was bervection in one ladies. I sees her mooch not!' "—Youth's Companion

Thorp's Corpse.

Testators' requests often lead to strange results. A scotchman, Thomas Thorp, left all his worldly goods to his two nephews on condition that they erected a monument to his memory with at least one verse inscribed thereon. These careful brothers searched long and ardently for a verse at once brief and apt, but they found that the poets were inclined to run to words. They asked the aid of the monument mason, who suggested that the following couplet would admirably meet the case:

Here lies the corp
Of Thomas Thorp.

The brothers thought this apt, but wordy. The mason cogitated long and deep, and, to the satisfaction of every one, the verse found upon the stone was:

Thorp's Corpse.

German Courtship.

The form in which a proposal of marriage is made has undergone great change in Germany during the past few years. At one time any young man who proposed marriage attired himself in his dress suit and carried a bouquet as an offering to his chosen one. We must not seek to pry into the intimacy of such proposals, but if the disconsolate lover left the house carrying his bouquet with him it was a sure sign that he was rejected. Nowadays proposals are less formal, but engagements are no less binding. In fact, a betrothal is regarded as almost as solemn and binding as the wedding itself. On every possible occasion German lovers appear arm in arm, and the custom is not confined to one class alone. Peasants walk thus, and princes and princesses follow the popular custom.—London Standard.

SMILES AND SUNSHINE.

Brightness and joy are never lost, never die out like an ill tended fire. Every joyous thought which you send out into the world is a gift to mankind, and every smile is your contribution to the sunshine of the world. And the human heart can never have too much sunshine. So do not stint your share of the supply.

HAPPY WOMEN

Plenty of Them in Tecumseh and Good Reason for it.

Wouldn't any woman be happy.
After years of bach suffering.
Days of misery, nights of unrest.
The distress of urinary troubles.
When she finds freedom.

Many readers will profit by the following.

Mrs. Sarah E. Austin, Pearl St. Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I suffered from kidney complaint for more than a year. When someone told me that Doan's Kidney Pills were good in such cases, I got a supply at Wright & Son's Drug Store. They helped me immediately and I continued using them until I was well. I have had no need of Doan's Kidney Pills or any other kidney medicine since."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Austin had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Have you noticed how quiet everything was in England while Mrs Pankhurst was visiting over here?

Stomach Troubles Disappear.

Stomach, liver and kidney troubles, weak nerves, lame back and female ills disappear when Electric Bitters are used. Thousands of women would not be without a bottle in their home. Eliza Pool of Depew, Okla. writes: "Electric Bitters raised me from a bed of sickness and suffering and has done me a world of good. I wish every suffering woman could use this excellent remedy and find out, as I did just how good it is." As it has helped thousands of others, it surely will do the same for you. Every bottle guaranteed, 50c. and $1.00. Recommended by C. A. Wright & Son.

An excuse is all right, but the thing to do is to avoid the necessity for it.

Young Women:—

Number Surprising

The number of young women who suffer with weak back, dizzy and nervous spells, dull headache and weariness is surprising. Kidney and bladder ills cause these troubles, but if Foley Kidney Pills are taken as directed relief follows promptly, and the ills disappear. Contain no habit forming drugs.

For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh. adv.

In these rapid days if a girl knows how to make a mayonnaise dressing she thinks she is a good cook.

The Man Who Neglects Himself.

When his condition points to kidney trouble takes an unwise risk. Backache, pain and soreness over the kidneys, nervous or dizzy spells, poor sleep, are all symptoms that will disappear with the regular use of Foley Kidney Pills. They put the kidneys and bladder in a clean, strong and healthy condition.

For sale by all druggists in Tecumseh.

Scientific Uses of the Radish.

An alcoholic solution of the skin of a red radish serves as an excellent indicator or test for acids and bases. In the presence of acids the colorless solution turns pink, while with bases—alkaline solutions—it turns yellow. It is well known that many plant extracts, such as litmus, and animal products, like cochineal, possess this property of developing marked colors with acids and bases, but no other indicator is so simply made.

Smoking Postmen of Korea.

A decidedly quaint character is the Korean postman, says a writer in the Wide World. You come across these gentry in the morning, delivering the letters. They appear to recognize the dignity of their office and fulfill their duties in a very quiet and grave manner. In wet weather he dons his "rain clothes" to protect him from the heavy showers. Over his white kaftan he wears a light mackintosh, provided by a thoughtful government, while his head is covered with a waterproof hat made of oil paper. He is further fortified against the wet by an umbrella. Like most Koreans, the postman could not possibly work without his pipe, and as he strolls from house to house he is invariably smoking. The letters are carried in a leather satchel strapped to his back. This individual may be taken as a typical example of the physical characteristics of these interesting people. They are tall—over a head higher than the Japanese—well built and fair complexioned.

When Critics Disagreed

Professor Lounsbury tells a good story which seems to show that in the matter of poetry critics hold diverse opinions and that one man's opinion is as good as another's. According to the professor, Aubrey De Vere, the Irish poet, collected on the same day the opinion of three of his brother poets on the poetical standing of Burns.

One of these poets, who was Tennyson, said Burns' songs were perfect, but that one had to forget his serious pieces to enjoy them. The second, who was Wordsworth, said that Burns' "serious efforts" showed great genius, but that his foolish little amatory poems were worthy only of oblivion. The third was Sir Henry Taylor, who said that he found Burns' songs and his serious poems alike—tedious and disagreeable.

MICHIGAN RAILROAD COMMISSION.

Lansing, Nov. 14, 1913
Mr. F. G. Heesen, Village Clerk,
Tecumseh, Michigan

Dear Sir:-

With further reference to your several favors wherein you state that the Common Council of your Village and the Tecumseh Electric Company seem to be unable to come to any terms as to the rates charged for electricity:

We wish to first call your attention to the fact that the Commision has no jurisdiction over any rates that are to be fixed or set up in a franchise made between the City and an electric company. The information that we are herewith giving you, at this time, is merely to be as a suggestion not an opinion of the Commission.

We have been in correspondance with several villages as what their charges are for arc lights and series lamps and from the information we find that the charges vary to a great extent. In some of the places they have no arc lights at all. Others have arc lights which they pay $80.00 per arc, per year, for the same. This charge is the same as yours. In most of the villages they are using a large number of series lamps varying from 40 watts up to 350 watts per lamp. In the village of Holly they pay $4.30 per month per 250 watt lamp, which averages about $1.71 per month, per hundred watts. In the villages of Hudson they pay $14.00 per year, per 32 c. p. lamp, which averages about $1.17 per month. In the village of Alma they have the series lamps which they pay 7c per kilowatt hour: this charge being different than any of the rest we have heard from. We note that you say that you are paying $1.65 per month for a 32 c. p. lamp, but from our records which we have with the Tecumseh Electric Company we find that the rate for ornamented post lights on village posts is 3½c per kilowatt hour. If the 3½c rate is the rate that is being charged, it appears to us that it is a very reasonable rate, after comparing the same with the different rates that other villages have. We assume that your lamps are maintained by the electric company, and in making up a rate of this kind, much consideration must be given to the cost and maintenance, that is if the company is to furnish renewals and keep the lamps in good order this expense must be taken into consideration when making the rate. There are many conditions which tend to make the rates vary in different cities. For instance, the price paid for coal the value of property, to up-keep and maintenance and what we call the ready to serve charge.

We note that you say that the rates for residences vary from 11c down to 2c per kilowatt hour, but will say that this is a mistake upon your part because the rates for lighting residences runs from 11c down to 5c per kilowatt hour. The 2c rate which you speak of applies to users of electric current for power. From our study of the residence lighting rates, we find that a great many of corporations are using what is called a demand rate or apercentage of a connected load which is termed the active load. A sliding scale is used with a minimum charge per month.

You call attention to the fact that the electric company's wires are not properly insulated and are not put in the correct manner in many instances and say that the Commission should look into this matter as soon as possible, but if you will turn to Act 106, Section 3 of the Public Acts of 1909, you will find that the law states that a city shall have reasonable control over their streets, alleys, etc., and we believe that such jurisdiction should be placed, in a plain and concise way, in the franchise and in that you would be able to force the electric company to meet with all conditions set forth therein. As to the method used by the electric company in wires going into buildings, we believe that this matter should be taken care of in the same manner. The Board of Underwriters surely must have some interest in conditions of this kind and it might be well for you to call their attention to the same

We trust that the information that we have been able to give you will be of some value to you in coming to some reasonable terms with the electric company.

Yours truly,
Michigan Railroad Commission
By C. L. GLASGOW,
Commissioner
F. G. HEESEN,
Village clerk.

Spoonerts...s.

Even history has its charms. As one follows the events of the day start echoes from the past, and sometimes laughter. Example:

Here is a quaint fellow in Tay Pay's Weekly revealing marvels about the signs and names of English inns. Creditable performance, doubtless, though drowsy withal. But we have conned the pages of history, so remember Spooner—the great, great Spooner—he who got run over while "boiling his icicle" at the side of the road, yet recovered and went home by "the town drain." To Spooner we owe a criticism—by deeds, not words—of the names they give inns. Surely you recall his agreeing to meet a friend at the Green Man, Dulwich, and, with his usual aptitude, hunting all afternoon for the Dull Man, Greenwich.—New York Tribune.

Nothing Like System.

"There's nothing like system," said a New York official. "System will accomplish the impossible.

"The director of a recent art show was a fine chap for system. One day he arrived at the show without his pass and the gateman, a stranger, held him up.

"'I have no pass nor ticket,' said the system exponent, 'but I am the director of the show.'

"'You'll have to produce your ticket, sir.'

"'But I tell you I'm the director—high mucky-muck—boss.'

"'I can't help it, sir; I'm forbidden to let'—

"'Yes, I know,' said the director impatiently, 'but, my good fellow, as the director, I give you permission to let me pass.'"—Washington Star.

BULLION TRAIN CROSSES BORDER

TREASURE WORTH $740,000

Refugees Convoyed to Border by Gen. Mercado's Defeated Army—Still Forty Miles Away—Men, Women and Children Footsore—People Along Route Flee Fearing Battle.

El Paso, Tex., Dec. 8.—A big bullion train which has been on the way from Parral, Mex., for the past two weeks, has arrived safely on the American side of the Rio Grande. There were sixteen wagons in the train, each drawn by sixteen mules with a military escort of 150 men. In the train were 617 bars of bullion weighing 125 pounds each, which at the present price of silver would make the value of the shipment $740,000 in gold.

This morning the train will start for Marfa, Tex., seventy miles away.

The members of the bullion party know nothing of the great caravan of refuges from Chihuahua being convoyed to the border by the remnant of General Mercado's defeated army, except what they learned from scouts and couriers during the past few days. They passed Chihuahua before the city was evacuated and were never overtaken.

Caravan Forty Miles from Border.

Scouts arriving from the caravan say that the party is making only fifteen miles a day and refugees are still forty miles from the border. The men said that the few horses in the caravan were weary and the men, women and children on foot were footsore from their long journey, but were making noble effort to reach the border.

Before leaving Chihuahua the soldiers and the civilians making up the refugee party loaded every available means of transportation, wagons, coaches, hacks and such pack animals as could be obtained, with food of all kinds, nearly stripping the town of canned goods, lard, sugar, coffee and flour. Much of this food was abandoned from time to time owning to the breaking down of wagons and other causes. Owing to the close approach of Mercado's army, which is variously estimated at from 2,500 to 4,000 men, all Mexican ranchers and their employes in the valleys of the Conchos river and the Rio Grande, south of Ojinaga, are flocking to Ojinaga and thence to the American side, fearing that a battle may take place and that they may be victims.

TWO DEAD, TWO HURT IN CALUMET STRIKE

Tolley Is Fired Through Non-Union Boarding House.

Calumet, Mich., Dec. 8.—Serious trouble is expected as a result of the murder at Painesdale of two copper miners and the fatal wounding of a third and of a young girl, as they slept.

The dead are: Arthur James, twenty-one years old, Toronto, Ont; Harry James, twenty-four years old, Toronto Ont. Both had just arrived here. Thomas Dailey forty-one years old, and Mary Nicholson, fourteen, are wounded.

This was the result of a gun attack at 4 o'clock on a nonunion boarding house, a score of rifle bullets being fired through this building and two others. Many such attacks have been made lately. Three thousand members of the Citizens' Alliance, which is pledged to rid the district of the Western Federation of Miners, met in the afternoon and called upon Sheriff Cruse to rid the district of strike agitators, threatening to "take other means" unless he does so. The sheriff attended the meeting. The impeachment of Judge O'Brien, Sheriff Cruse and Prosecutor Lucas for dilatory handling of strike union violations is threatened.

The strikers at union meetings were told by the agitators in the afternoon to use force, with arms, against officers who should attempt to arrest them in their homes.

TRAIN HITS AN OPEN SWITCH

Engineer Suffers Slight Injury When Engine Leaves Rails.

Paris, Ill., Dec. 8.—Vandalia passenger train No. 61 left the rails near Mays, a few miles west of here, shortly after 8 o'clock in the morning, when it ran into the open switch during a heavy rain. John Winn, engineer, of this city suffered a wrenched back when he jumped. No one else was hurt. Winn said he could not see the switch until close upon it.

Penalty of "Slave" Act.

Denver, Col., Dec. 8.—Roy Montgomery, mayor of Gillette, Wyo., was sentenced in the federal court to serve two years and six months in the penitentiary for violation of the Mann act.

BULLET ESTABLISHES GUILT

Proves Girl Fired Bullet, Not Finace, Who Is Accused.

Mayfield, Ky., Dec. 8.—A bullet removed from the body of Hugh Atchison in the cemetery at Bardwell proved to be of the same caliber as those used in the pistol with which Miss May Copeland declared she killed Atchison in his home last July. A jury, before which Miss Copeland and Lucien Turk, her fiance, had been on trial, charged with Atchison's murder, was discharged after it failed to agree.

It was the contention of the prosecution that Turk, not Miss Copeland, fired the shot that killed Atchison and the autopsy was aimed at clearing up any doubt on this point. Miss Copeland asserted she killed Atchison who was her brother-in-law, because he had wronged her.

ORIGINATOR OF MAIL ORDER DIES

A. Montgomery Ward Succumbs to Pneumonia.

"WATCH DOG OF LAKE FRONT"

He Rose from Apprentice at a Stave Factory to the Ownership of a $40,000,000 Mail Order House—All Encroachers on Lake Front Property Looked Alike to Him.

Chicago. Dec. 8.—A. Montgomery Ward, multi-millionaire merchant, originator of the mail order business, and known throughout the entire country as the "Watch Dog of Chicago's Lake Front," is dead. The man who rose from apprentice in a stave factory at a salary of 25 cents a day to the presidency of the $40,000,000 mail order house which bears his name, passed away at 9 o'clock in the morning in his home at Highland Park at the age of seventy years.

Pneumonia brought on about six weeks ago as the result of a fall which broke his thigh bone at the hip joint, was the cause of Mr. Ward's death. Ever since he fainted and fell on the floor of the bathroom, where he was found lying in a helpless condition, the rich merchant had been slowly sinking.

"Watch Dog of Lake Front."

Aaron Montgomery Ward will always be remembered as "The Watch Dog of Chicago's Lake Front." He is the man who kept Grant Park from structures which might cut off the view of Lake Michigan from the promenaders along Michigan avenue.

Mr. Ward began his fight against obstructing the lake front with buildings in 1887. He felt that he had paid $40,000 in excess of property valuations for his holdings on Madison street, just because there was an inhibition of trespass by any building. He was fighting for the fulfillment of the recorded Fort Dearborn addition to Chicago in 1837, which specified that the lake front from Park row to Randolph street, east of Michigan avenue, should be public ground and free from buildings forever.

Kept Up Fight Till His Death.

In 1890 he filed a bill against the city to compel the removal of all buildings then on the site, and the supreme court of the state ruled favorably. Two years later he fought the government against the erection of a temporary postoffice on the site, but the building was placed there notwithstanding. He could not keep off the Art Institute building, either, but he always kept up the fight, and till his death he was the great barrier of those who desired to establish the Crerar Library building and the Field Museum in Grant Park.

He made no distinctions, but fought the government officials with the same persistency as he battled with municipal [illegible] or the trustees of private estates.

SOLONS WANT LONG VACATION

Currency Bill Is to Be Rushed Through by December 17.

PRESIDENT TO SIGN IT 20TH

Republicans Agree to Day and Night Sessions of Senate—Short Speeches to Be Made—Efforts Being Made to Extend the Holiday Recess to January 17th.

Washington, Dec. 8. — President Wilson, the cabinet and members of congress are arranging for their usual holiday recess. It is practically settled that the administration currency bill will be signed by the president by Dec. 20.

When the Republicans agreed to the caucus resolution providing for day and night sessions of the senate until the currency measure was disposed of the last obstacle was put out of the way.

Among those who voted for the resolution were old Republicans who feared the Democrats would be able to "make good' on their charge that if business continued to be depressed they could only blame it on delay in currency legislation and prove that Republicans were the sole cause of the delay. Republicans want to prove that the tariff and not the currency is at the bottom of whatever trouble develops.

Debate to Be Short.

It is not the purpose of the Democrats to make many speeches. Chairman Owen of the currency committee consumed only two hours in explaining the bill. Not many Republicans are expected to participate.

The crossfire of discussion when the bill is considered paragraph by paragraph and amendments are presented is not expected to occupy more than a couple of days. Opposition for opposition's sake has disappeared and there is every likelihood that the final vote may come by Dec. 17.

The president will be urged to agree to a holiday recess extending until the middle of January. The usual recess would run only to January 5.

PADEREWSKI IS GUARDED

Famous Pianist Had Threat Made on His Life.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—From the moment he arrived in Chicago in the morning until he departed for Minneapolis at night, Ignace Paderewski, the pianist, was guarded by four special officers of the Northwestern Railway company and four detectives especially assigned from police headquarters. These guards were deemed necessary because of a bomb threat received by the famous Polish musician several days ago in St. Louis, in which it was declared that his special car, the Colonial, would be blown up in Chicago. No attempt was made to carry out the threat.

Paderewski is charged with having subsidized the leading anti-Semitic newspaper in Warsaw, Poland, with 20,000 rubles, equivalent to $10,000. His manager, L. G. Sharp, denied it, but Rabbi Tobias Schanfarber of this city declared that it is a fact.

Former Alderman Establishes Alibi.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 8. — Kim Haynes, former alderman of this city, arrested on suspicion of being connected with the robbery of Anton Brocki's saloon at 824 East Adams street, was released by the police when he established an alibi that could not be shaken by the authorities.

"PLOT TO DESTROY ME," SAYS M'GUIRE

Ex-Mayor of Syracuse Talks on His Indictment.

New York, Dec. 8.—James K. McGuire, ex-mayor of Syracuse and one time Democratic state chairman, who returned from the West Indies Saturday night, has issued a statement in which he attributed the evidence given against him which led to his indictment on a charge of soliciting a campaign contribution from a corporation to a quarrel between the asphalt and oil interests and characterized the charges against him as a "desperate attempt of oil men to destroy me—a 'frame-up' despicable in its object and cruel in its purpose."

"The oil people," he said, "sent men to me before I sailed south on my last business trip and said that they would destroy Condit's affidavit if I would desert my friends and join their side in the asphalt controversy at Albany."

Mr. McGuire arrived at the Pennsylvanian station at 7:50 o'clock Saturday night from Havana by way of Key West. He said that Thomas Hassett, the confidential agent of State Engineer Bensel, who is charged with accepting a bribe of $1,500 from a Poughkeepsie contractor but against whom no indictment has yet been filed came from Havana to Key West on the same boat. Mr. McGuire left Mr. Hassett in Key West and says that he does not know where Mr. Hassett is now.

32-CENT EGGS ARE MENACED

Change in Weather Threatens Undoing of Week's Crusade by Women.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—Cold weather, which always sends up the price of eggs, may have undone in the last twenty-four hours what the women crusaders against artificial prices have accomplished in the last week. Eggs were selling at 30 to 32 cents a dozen Saturday, but after the cold struck Chicago Mrs. John C. Bley, president of the Clean Food club, said she expected to find the prices higher.

"The speculators will use any pretext to put up the prices," she said. "We will stick to our boycott just the same, and the price will come down to not more than 32 cents a dozen, and stay there, before we will begin to use eggs."

COURT DECLARES MAN DEAD

Action Permits Sale of Property of Missing Hoosier.

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 8.—After having been missing for thirteen years, Garrett Hubbard was declared legally dead by Judge W. A. Funk, the decision being made to allow the sale of valuable property which has been tied up because of his long absence. Should Hubbard ever return to South Bend, however, the law would permit him to repudiate the sale of the property, which is worth about $25,000.

Campaign Debaters Win.

Bloomington, Ill., Dec. 8.—The debating team from the Champaign high school defeated the Bloomington high school team 2 to 1.

DUNNE IS NON-COMMITTAL

Governor Declares He Has Decided Neutral Attitude on Senatorship.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—Attempts to draw from Governor Dunne an expression as to the attitude of the administration in the coming Democratic senatorial contest resulted in the announcement that he and his political advisers had decided it would assume a neutral position.

Efforts have been made by downstate candidates to get indorsement from Mr. Dunne, but he has declined to encourage any of them.

Congress and Currency Reform.

The Democrats have undertaken to given the country a certain measure of currency reform without creating a central bank. The bankers had admitted that this could be done, but had claimed that they ought to appoint some of the members of the central board. Mr. Vanderlip has rendered service in pointing out the advantages of a central institution directly controlling its branches. But the bankers, taken as a whole, have strengthened rather than weakened Mr. Glass, and Senator Owen in their advocacy of the pending bill because the positions taken from time to time by the bankers have been so inconsistent and vacillating that Mr. Glass has been partially justified in saying that he cannot find out what it is that the bankers really want. The discussion upon the whole has been a very creditable and encouraging one. Members of both houses of Congress have shown sincerity and patriotism, and have grown enormously, during the past few months, in their knowledge of the principles of banking and monetary science. It is now generally believed that there have been advantages in the protracted study of this subject at Washington, and that we may hope to have a bill passed in January that will be fairly acceptable to the entire business community, while creditable to the determined efforts of President Wilson and the good faith and serious-mindedness of both branches of Congress.—From "The Progress of the World," in the American Review of Reviews for December

Chiropractic is a scientific method of removing the cause of disease (acute or chronic). The science of Chiropractic is based on a correct knowledge of the nervous system. Pressure on a nerve at the opening where it leaves the spine will cause disease in the organ or tissue at which the nerve ends

The Chiropractor removes the pressure, which enables nature to restore normal nerve supply, and health will follow. Come, let us give you a thorough explanation of this new method. O. A. Schwab, Chiropractor 27 East Maumee street, Adrian, Mich.

AMUSEMENTS

"THE SPENDTHRIFT" PLEASED

A clever play most excellently presented was the verdict of those who were fortunate enough to be present at the New Theatre last evening when the "Spendthrift" was presented by a most excellent cast. The "Spendthrift" has an novel plot. It deals with the life of a man and a woman who are everything to each other. The man is a hard working business man so devoted to his wife that he permits her extravagance to run him into bankruptcy. The wife is selfish and thinks of nothing but show and life and while making many good resolves to live more economically and help her husband; easily forgets, and runs in the same old rut. The expected under such circumstances happens of course. The third act takes place in the wife's boudoir and the social problem here comes to the front conspicuously but it is handled in such a charming manner that even the most skeptical could not take offense. The wife, procures money from a former lover, with which to assist her husband which makes him suspicious and the suspected man is lured to the apartments of the wife to be confronted by the husband. A separation follows, but the last act sees the couple happily reunited and everything running smoothly.

The cast is headed by that splendid emotional actress, Miss Marion Sherwood. Miss Sherwood was seen here last winter in "The Thief" but in "The Spendthrift" she has just as good oportunities and last evening added to her list of admirers. She was magnificent all through but in the third act was immense. She is ably supported by Lee Barclay, who takes the part of the husband. He is an excellent actor did his share to make the play a success. Miss Lola Davis plays Aunt Gretchen, supposed in a way to represent Mrs. Hettie Green, and she was grand. She gave an excellent piece of acting and assisted very much in the success of the performance. The remainder of the cast had little to do but they did it in fine shape. It is too bad that such an entertainment should have to appear before anything but a packed house.—Daily Argus, Sioux Falls, S. D.

"The Spendthrift" will be the attraction at the Bradley Opera House, next Thursday, December 11. Seats at Hay's Bakery Wednesday morning. This is the last attraction booked at The Bradley before the holidays.

JOLLY SIXTEEN

Mr. and Mrs. Guy E. Belding entertained the members of the Jolly Sixteen at their home Thursday evening. Mesdames George Ziehr and Oscar Lidke were the fortunate prize winners. At the close of the games dainty refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed by all.

IN THE HERALD
35 YEARS AGO.

Will T. Eccles who formerly worked in the Record office in this village, and for the past two years in the Leader office at Charlotte, Mich., has commenced work in the Herald establishment. He will have charge of the engine and presses in our new building

P. R. Adams has sold his interest in the Peoples' Bank to W. C. Fitzsimons who succeeds to the entire management thereof.

Beautiful weather, if a man don't care what he says.

It is muddy in spots, around our neighborhood.

A few heroic souls were playing croquet yesterday on the Council Building Grounds.

Rev. Wm, Grandy of Detroit has accepted a call from the Presbyterian Church of this village, and has commenced his pastoral duties last Sunday.

Ed. Merritt returned last Monday night from his successful trip after "Al Meddaugh." Sheriff Cairnes and himself overhauled the rascal about twenty miles northeast of Lapeer, near Long Branch.

Mrs. Lucy Simpson of Adrian, (a colored lady) will address the temperance meeting at Merchants' Hall next Sunday afternoon. Door fee 5c. Mrs. Simpson is said to be a fluent speaker and is highly recomended.

The proof-reader of the Herald was surely troubled last week with interruptions in regard to the progress of the work at the new building. He was reading a poem by copy with the commodore and came to these lines.

"The twilight glows in the western sky,
And now by the cottage door
He is dreaming of loves bright yesterday,
And summers gone"

"What are they doing over to the building now," said he?

"Tapping the floor to let the exhaust steam escape"

"Good Lord! go on"

A LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

Tecumseh, Mich.,
December 8, 1913.

To the Editor of the Herald:

I have read with much interest the letters appearing in the local papers from Mr. G. A. Rathbun, and have heard many praise him for the fight he is making. While I may not entirely agree with him, I think he expresses the almost general dissatisfaction which the public has for the old contract with the Tecumseh Electric Company, and most of the provisions of the new contract, especially the clauee giving them control over us for such a long term of years

Now, Mr Editor, I do not think our National, State and local officials are responsible for the terrible waste in all our different governments. They have been managed that way for years, and it is the fault of the people who have allowed it, In a great many of our western towns, they are turning to Commission government with great results. Commission Goverment may not be legal or practical in our Village at present, but it certainly would be practical to have a board of three business men, elected or appointed for a long term, similar to our Cemetary Board, which has done such splendid work. To this Board we would give the management of our water-works together with an electric plant for lighting our streets, and such commercial lighting as it could obtain. (This would be considerable) This Board, absolutely independent of politics, and made up of the class of men we have on our Cemetary Board, ought to make us several thousands of dollars each year, especially after the present electric franchise expires, when we could have all the commercial lighting.

We shall need new school buildings in the next few years. We shall have to have them. It will mean a heavy increase in taxes. Money going out and nothing coming in. We can have the money coming in if we have a lighting plant of our own with a management free from politics.

One of the Observers.

RESEARCH CIRCLE

The Research Circle met Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 at the home of Mrs, A. C. Bryan. There were 50 present, members and guests, and the following program was given:

"Life of Benj. Harrison."—Mrs. Smeltzer

"Conditions of the South at this time"—Mrs. Westcott

This was followed by a description of the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky by Mrs, Mary Crittendon, a former member of the club. Mrs Mary Crittenden and husband had recently spent two days visiting this famous cave and her description was delightful: She also had a number of views which were handed around to the members. The ladies gave Mrs Crittenden a rising vote of thanks for her entertainment. A social time followed, during which time the committee with Mrs. Fannie Bryan as chairman, served dainty refreshments

STATE INSPECTOR VISITS TECUMSEH SCHOOLS

Henry W. McCabe, State Inspector of factories, workshops, hotels, etc, paid the Herald office an official call Friday. He was emphatic in regard to his inspection of our Tecumseh schools and wished us to state through the colnmns of our papers that he would make a strong report to the State Department.

At the East Branch school he claims he found one room with forty children and but one window which would raise or lower for fresh air.

The High School building, he says, is not only a disgrace to the educational department of the State of Michigan but a disgrace to the citizens of Tecumseh. He condemns the building as a fire trap, unsanitary and unsafe. In case of a fire it would be almost impossible for the younger pupils who are required to occupy the rooms on the upper floor, to make their escape. The stairways are narrow and the treads to the stairs gave under his weight as he walked down them.

Mr McCabe reports that he finds the general conditions of buildings in Tecumseh good but the schools—well! you should have heard him to appreciate it.

The Inspector says this as an unbiaused statement that he came here unknown to the School Board and was influenced by no one.

GEM SHOP ROBBED TWICE

For Second Time in Two Weeks Thieves Raid Window.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—For the second time within sixty days a burglar broke a window of the jewelry store of Lebolt & Co., in the Palmer House building, at State and Monroe street, and practically cleared the windows of valuables. The loss is placed at $5,000, though Joseph Y. Lebolt says it may run higher.

He cannot tell until the safe, which was locked with a time lock, which opened.

INCREASED PARCELS WILL SWAMP MAILS

Railroads to Bear Heavy Loss by Parcels Post.

New York, Dec. 8.—The new schedule for the parcel post which goes into effect on Jan. 1, will mean a heavy burden to the railroads, more competition for the express companies and much more work for postoffice employes throughout the country. It is estimated that the railroads will have to carry about twice the bulk they are at present, without any additional compensation unless congress wants to give it. This means twice the bulk in the postoffices and a proportionable loss for the express concerns. President R. W. Peters of the Long Island railroad, who is chairman of the railway mail pay committee, said that unless congress took the action indicated in Postmaster General Burleson's statement of Saturday and increased the compensation for the roads carrying parcel post, these roads would suffer a severe loss.

After years of bach suffering.
Days of misery, nights of unrest
The distress of urinary troubles.
When she finds freedom.

Many readers will profit by the following.

Mrs. Sarah E. Austin, Pearl St. Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I suffered from kidney complaint for more than a year. When someone told me that Doan's Kidney Pills were good in such cases. I got a supply at Wright & Son's Drug Store. They helped me immediately and I continued using them until I was well. I have had no need of Doan's Kidney Pills or any other kidney medicine since."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Austin had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Have you noticed how quiet everything was in England while Mrs. Pankhurst was visiting over here?

Stomach Troubles Disappear.

Stomach, liver and kidney troubles, weak nerves, lame back and female ills disappear when Electric Bitters are used. Thousands of women would not be without a bottle in their home. Eliza Pool of Depew, Okla. writes: "Electric Bitters raised me from a bed of sickness and suffering and has done me a world of good. I wish every suffering woman could use this excellent remedy and find out, as I did just how good it is." As it has helped thousands of others, it surely will do the same for you. Every bottle guaranteed, 50c. and $1.00. Recommended by C. A. Wright & Son.

An excuse is all right, but the thing to do is to avoid the necessity for it.

Young Women—Number Surprising

The number of young women who suffer with weak back, dizzy and nervous spells, dull headache and weariness is surprising. Kidney and bladder ills cause these troubles, but if Foley Kidney Pills are taken as directed relief follows promptly, and the ills disappear. Contain no habit forming drugs.

The Man Who Neglects Himself.

When his condition points to kidney trouble takes an unwise risk. Backache, pain and soreness over the kidneys, nervous or dizzy spells, poor sleep, are all symptoms that will disappear with the regular use of Foley Kidney Pills. They put the kidneys and bladder in a clean, strong and healthy condition.

IN THE RAILROAD CARRIAGE

"THE British custom of locking passengers into compartments in railway carriages," says an American railway man, "is productive all manner of curious and amusing results.

"On one occasion I was a witness of this one. At one station a woman with a lorgnette entered. She gazed sternly upon the man opposite. Before seating herself, she opened the carriage window and sent it down with a bang. At the next station another woman entered. As she sat down, she gave a look at the open window and shivered pathetically. Then she shot an appealing glance in the direction of the male person. 'I shall be frozen to death!' she cried.

"'If that window is closed, I shall suffocate!' retorted the woman with the lorgnette.

"Just then the porter came around. At the request of the second woman, he began to raise the window. Then, at a furious glance from the lorgnette, he desisted. Clearly, he was in a predicament.

"'What, sir,' asked he of the man,—what would you say as 'ow I should do, sir?'

"'It's quite simple,' said the man as he rose to leave the train. 'Leave the window as it is until one lady is frozen to death; then close it and suffocate the other. I am getting off here.'"—December Lippincott's.

The Harm of Flirtation

Strikingly Shown in "A Butterfly on the Wheel."

THE harm that may come from an innocent flirtation is amply shown in "A Butterfly on the Wheel," the play which is based on the subject of divorce and which we are soon to have the opportunity of seeing in this city. While it is not a lesson in the ordinary sense of the word, it brings home a wonderful moral, but it is told in a most graphic and gripping manner. The piece held the attention of London for an entire season, and when produced in New York last year it met with equal success.

Peggy Admaston, wife of a member of parliament, has the idea that her husband is neglecting her for his work, while, as a matter of fact, the husband wishes to rise to greater heights in order to please his wife. She finds solace in the acquaintanceship of Roderick Collingwood, and then springs up an attachment which is purely innocent. Collingwood really falls in love with Peggy and on every possible occasion presses his suit. They plan a trip to Switzerland, being accompanied by Lady Atwill and Lord Ellerdine. At Boulogne Collingwood arranges to have Peggy's baggage placed on the wrong train. Consequently they are separated from their friends, and instead of going toward Switzerland they soon find themselves in Paris. There is nothing to do but put up for the night at a hotel. But Collingwood, it seems, has told Lady Atwill of his plan before leaving London. Lady Atwill has been rejected by Mr. Admaston, and in order to even the score she writes him an anonymous letter, acquainting him with the fact that his wife will spend the night in a Paris hotel with Collingwood. Admaston immediately hires a detective and sets out for Paris, meantime, however, calling up the hotel and finding that Collingwood is in the apartment of his wife. The audience, of course, has been a witness of what has transpired in Peggy's apartment, and they know that she is innocent, although not in the eyes of the law.

Early next morning Lady Atwell and Lord Ellerdine arrive, and the quartet busy themselves with contriving an excuse, but their attempts only result in one lie after the other, which are too ridiculous for any one to believe. Consequently when the husband arrives a short while later he refuses to credit any of the statements and casts his wife aside, telling her that she can now go to Collingwood forever. A divorce suit follows, in which occurs a scene of acute interest. The prosecution is conducted by an attorney who is of a station equal to that occupied by Peggy. He is a man of force, strong character, but unrelenting. All the delicate facial and vocal changes, the apt byplay, the studied urbanity suddenly replaced by ponderous indignation, the jocose suggestion, the seemingly casual question, the swift counterthrust following the incautious answer of the frail little "butterfly," the confidential aside to the judge, which is always meant to create the wrong opinion in the minds of the jurors, the beguiling courtesy to the victim—all the tricks of the adroit cross examiner are exhibited in this capital character of an English lawyer. The contrast is all the more pronounced on account of the frailty of the witness. Time and again she appeals to the court for protection, wailing out her innocence, but she is made to answer questions and instructed not to offer criticism. In a moment of despair she cries out:

"The truth! What is the truth to you? It is not the truth you want; it's me—my very soul—that's what you want; not to wring the truth out of me, but just so much of it as will serve your ends. I have been hunted and hounded into it. I am not surprised now that innocent women in hundreds let their cases go by default rather than face the humiliation and torture of this awful place."

"Now, Mrs. Admaston, and for the last time, I press you for an answer. Do you still insist that you and your lover"—

Peggy—How dare you suggest that he is my lover! If I loved him do you think I would be here now? For months and months he begged me to let my husband divorce me. If I had loved him do you think that I would have faced this horrible place? I have loved admiration—I have played with fire. I never knew that the law—man's law—made no difference between the opportunity to do wrong and the giving way to it. I know now. Some day men who know women will make other laws, but some of us must have our lives broken first. I swear before God I have done nothing wrong—nothing. But no one will believe me now—no one—

The strain of the trial and the gross insinuations prove too much, and upon the conclusion of the delivery of the foregoing speech the witness falls in a swoon, and the trial, for the day at least, abruptly ends.

The husband's eyes, the audience learns in the final act, are now open, and the inevitable reconciliation follows, but only after it has been strikingly shown just what anguish may be in store for many a woman who is really good, but is inclined to indulge in a so called harmless flirtation.

ENGLAND AND AMERICA AGREE

"THE BUTTERFLY ON THE WHEEL."

"A Butterfly on the Wheel," soon to be seen here, which prospered for a season in London, has duplicated its success in New York, where it is proclaimed "a drama as sensational as 'Madame X.'" Interest, apart from the admirable acting of the fine company, centers about the trial scene, which concerns the divorce of a young wife.

An admirer has trapped her into spending a night in a Paris hotel, the husband having been notified beforehand. Thus found in a compromising position the admirer argues that he will win the "butterfly" after she has been cast off by divorce.

The actual trial, set forth with great realism, shows the examination of the defendant, who is a frail woman of exquisite personal charms. The grilling is so severe and, to the audience, unjust that in the end the girl collapses. Nothing more dramatic has been seen on the stage this season.

The critics were unbounded in their praise, and their sayings are to be read on every billboard, while from windows, walls, barricades and what not one may read that "the famous divorce trial of Adamson versus Adamson takes place every night at 10 o'clock."

REPLY TO WOMEN

President Wilson Declines to Send Congress Message.

OPENS WAY FOR PRESSURE

Head of Nation Tells Suffrage Visitors That He Is Powerless to Start Things—Is Only an Instrument to Carry Out Party Principles—Sly Compliment to Callers.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson told the fifty-five delegates and members of the National American Woman Suffrage Association that he could not, under the policy he has outlined for himself, make any specific representation to congress in regard to an amendment to the federal constitution providing for equal suffrage.

The president told the delegation that he favored a standing woman's suffrage committee in the house of representatives.

President Wilson made it clear to the deputation that his private opinions, views or desires were not the basis for his public utterances as a representative either of the whole people or of his party and that he could not suggest to congress legislation dealing with changes in the fundamental law not previously presented for general consideration through the medium of party platform pronouncements.

The president did not give the suffragists even the satisfaction of knowing what his personal views on the subject are. The effect of his statement to them was to throw the burden of the equal suffrage question on the back of the Democratic party itself. Members of the delegation plainly were dissatisfied with the result of their visit and some of them were inclined to characterize the president's attitude as evasive.

Wilson Commits Self to Platform.

The statement by the president, however, has a broader significance than its mere relation to the suffrage question. It commits Mr. Wilson to the policy of recommending to congress in the next three years only such subjects as are included in the Baltimore platform. This is a new departure.

When the president, in concluding, informed the delegation that he was not at liberty to speak for somebody besides himself to urge legislation upon congress, Dr. Shaw spoke up and said:

"As we are members of no political party to whom then are we to look as a spokesman unless we speak for ourselves?"

"You do that most admirably," replied the president smiling blandly and with an inclination of the head and stepping back he indicated that the interview was at an end except that he remarked his regret that time and the numbers of the delegation prevented his shaking hands with all of them.

She Voted for Wilson.

Mrs. Lula A. Shephard of Salt Lake City, the Utah member of the gathering thought, however, that she should not be denied this privilege as she was a real voter and had voted the Wilson and Marshall ticket in 1912.

The president extended his hand instantly.

"I voted for you," said Mrs. Steppard, "and so did my dear old mother and my young daughter who cast her first vote in 1912 but Mr. Sheppard voted for the Bull Moose."

"I hope you will convert your husband before the next election," said the president, laughing again.

There was a disposition on the part of a majority of the deputation to criticise President Wilson's attitude and his utterances but Dr. Shaw's optimistic view of the executive attitude caused this sentiment quickly to subside. She said:

"The president is in favor of a committee on suffrage in the house and our chief purpose in coming to call was to find out where he stood."

CALLS FOR EGG BOOKS

Brokerage Firms Must Show Figures to Federal Grand Jury.

CHICAGO.—The federal grand jury resumed its activity in the investigation of the reasons behind the high price of eggs. Two subpoenas were issued ordering the books of the Western and the Union Cold Storage companies brought in for the inspection of the inquisitorial body.

Large quantities of eggs are said to be stored in these warehouses and the government wants to know the identity of the owners. The eggs, it is believed, are being held by brokers until the egg market becomes favorable for unloading at top notch prices.

WILL WAIT ON PRESIDENT

Suffragists Will Insist That Wilson Push Their Measure.

WASHINGTON.—A motion that the suffragists wait upon President Wilson and urge him to recommend that congress take action on the woman suffrage amendment before any other measure, which was offered by Mrs. Medill McCormick of Chicago at the afternoon session of the woman suffrage convention, was carried by a large majority and greeted with vigorous applause.

BLOOD TRANSFUSION IS FATAL TO GIVER

Grand Rapids Man Succumbs in Effort to Aid Another.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—For the chance to save a life and to rescue his own little family from financial straits Clare E. Skinner, a stenographer, gave up his life in a hospital.

The young man died as the result of an infection following an operation in which his blood was transfused in an effort to save the life of Jacob Meyer, a former student in the medical schools of the University of Chicago and the University of Michigan. Meyer died last Thursday.

After enough blood had been taken from him Skinner returned home. Two days later the cut in his arm made by the physician developed an infection. Prevention methods were used by the surgeons and he seemed to be on th road to rcovery when pleuro-pneumonia developed, which in his weakened condition he could not withstand.

Impose Needless Expense Before Board of Arbitration.

LANSING, MICH.—The reports to the state industrial board show that ninety-eight per cent of the arbitration cases arising in the upper peninsula and the industrial cities below the straits are cases in which foreigners are the applicants for compensation. This is due, it is said, to the fact that the alien takes the advice of shyster lawyers who advocate delays and appeals, promising to get more money, when in fact they are but bleeding the alien. The board has stated that attorneys are not necessary, since the board acts in that capacity without cost to anyone concerned in the case.

The proportion of applicants asking compensation, however, is much larger in the upper country.

WILL HAVE MONSTER TREE

Five Thousand Children to Participate in City Christmas Affair.

SAGINAW, MICH.—The municipal Christmas tree which the Saginaw Reading club will give will be on a bigger scale than first intended and will be located in the court house park. Five thousand children in the east and west side schools are practicing songs and carols to render during the week that the tree will be lighted.

W. M. Guider will get the biggest tree he can find in northern Michigan and local contractors have been awarded the job of stringing the tree with hundreds of vari-colored electric lights. The extreme top of the tree will be crowned with a big white star, which can be seen for considerable distance. While the tree is in operation the west side "movie" houses will be free to all children.

PAY MORE MONEY FOR BEETS

Alma Company Officers Contract at 8-Cent Increase.

ALMA, MICH.—In spite of the new tariff, the price to be paid for sugar beets by the Alma Sugar Co., the coming year will be higher than ever before. The company will pay $5.60 a ton for pared beets, unloaded in the company's bins. If the beets are not hauled, $5 will be paid.

For the last fourteen years the price has been $5.52 for beets in bins, or eight cents less than the new contracts. The company has been exceptionally prosperous, and in the last three seasons has paid out more than a million and a quarter dollars to growers.

61 DEAD IN FLOOD

Latest Dispatches Increase the Number of Victims.

GOVERNOR APPEALS FOR HELP

Rapid Fall in Temperature and a Cutting Wind Increase the Sufferings of the Refugees—Negroes on a Rocking Ginhouse Sing and Pray—Child Born on a House Top.

HOUSTON, TEX.—The very latest dispatches increase the number of known dead in the Texas floods to sixty-one, with the possibility that a death toll of fifty more by drowning reported at Sunnyside but not yet confirmed, would increase this number. The additional known deaths include four at Hungerford and as many near Wellborn.

Reports from Wellborn that twelve negroes and a Mexican had met death on the Allen plantation, at the junction of the Navasota and Razos rivers, and that twenty-five negroes had been drowned on the Parker plantation, near by, were not confirmed.

The crest of the Razos river flood reached Brazoria county, on the gulf, and the crest of the Colorado river flood reached Mahagorda county, also on the gulf.

Governor Calls for Aid.

Governor O. B. Colquitt has issued an appeal to the people of Texas asking aid for the flood sufferers.

The task of rescuing inhabitants along the forty miles of flooded Brazos valley was succeeded by the problem of providing for 2,000 or more refugees. Reports brought by motor boats from the flooded territory showed that between 700 and 1,000 persons are marooned in ginhouses and plantation residences, safe from the flood, but in urgent need of food and clothing.

During the night, at Horse Shoe bend, above the roaring of the river could be heard the singing and praying of more than fifty negroes facing peril of death on a rocking ginhouse on an island a mile and a half out.

Fifty more refugees were in a ginhouse opposite Koppe's bridge. In a residence were eighty other flood victims and similar numbers in various plantation houses along the valley up to Mumford.

Cold Causes Suffering.

A rapid fall in temperature and a cutting wind increased the suffering, especially in the tent colonies along the river banks.

The flood stretches over the valley six miles or more, almost to the horizon, the water doted here and there by a house top or a submerged church or so.

During the night, six miles below Wellborn, a light bobbed up and down on the river and there came the frantic cries of a half-dozen persons, the hoarse shouts of the men mingling with the screams of women. The dim bulk of a house could be seen, but it was impossible for persons on the bank to aid those in the house.

In the same vicinity a child was born on a house top. The infant died and the mother, rescued by a motor boat, is in a critical condition.

GIRL HANGED; MOTHER HELD

Husband and Brother-in-Law Also Accused in Strange Case.

GRAND HAVEN, MICH.—Mrs. Eliza Lowing is being held in jail here on suspicion of complicity in the murder of her daughter, Mrs. Zelma Atwood, who was found hanged in an apple orchard.

Mrs. Ludwig boasted that she would never reveal what she knew of the crime. Morris Atwood, the husband, and Frank Atwood, his brother, are also under arrest.

TWO DEAD, TWO HURT IN CALUMET STRIKE

Tolley Is Fired Through Non-Union Boarding House.

CALUMET, MICH.—Most serious trouble is expected as a result of the murder at Painesdale of two copper miners and the fatal wounding of a third and of a young girl, as they slept.

The dead are: Arthur James, twenty-one years old, Toronto, Ont; Harry James, twenty-four years old, Toronto Ont. Both had just arrived here. Thomas Dailey forty-one years old, and Mary Nicholson, fourteen, are wounded.

This was the result of a gun attack at 4 o'clock on a nonunion boarding house, a score of rifle bullets being fired through this building and two others. Many such attacks have been made lately. Three thousand members of the Citizens' Alliance, which is pledged to rid the district of the Western Federation of Miners, met in the afternoon and called upon Sheriff Cruse to rid the district of strike agitators, threatening to "take other means" unless he does so. The sheriff attended the meeting. The impeachment of Judge O'Brien, Sheriff Cruse and Prosecutor Lucas for dilatory handling of strike union violations is threatened.

The strikers at union meetings were told by the agitators in the afternoon to use force, with arms, against officers who should attempt to arrest them in their homes.

BLUE SKY LAW IS SUSTAINED

Judge Collingwood Upholds Constitutionality of Recent Act.

LANSING, MICH.—Circuit Judge Charles B. Collingwood, of the Ingham county circuit court, sustained the so-called "blue-sky" law, regulating the sale of stocks and bonds in this state. A Grand Rapids brokerage firm assailed the law, asking the court for an injunction to restrain Edward H. Doyle, John W. Harrer and Grant Fellows, members of the Michigan securities commission, from enforcing its provisions. Their contention was based on section 21 of article V of the constitution of Michigan, wherein it states: "No law shall embrace more than one object which shall be expressed in its title."

Judge Collingwood held "in the opinion of this cout the title of the act and the provisions of the act in no way violate the state or federal constitution."

TO RESUME TEAM SERVICE

Indianapolis Business, Stopped by Strike, Almost Normal.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—Business conditions were resumed on almost a normal basis, the fourth day of the strike of the teamsters and chauffeurs' union. Practically all team owners had at least part of their forces in operation.

In view of Mayor Wallace's statement that "there is no reason why business should not be conducted as usual," and that the police department is "fully prepared to protect any one who desires to resume business," a number of department stores and other firms, which have not attempted to make deliveries this week, began preparations to resume their service. A ministers' committee, which began an investigation of the strike is continuing its hearing. It intends to publish its findings as soon as the hearings are concluded.

Eighteen Copper Miners Freed.

CALUMET, MICH.—Fourten of the eighteen copper mine strikers arrested charged with firing at deputy sheriffs at Painesdale, were released because the deputies could not identify them.

HOW THE RED CROSS SEAL WAS ORIGINATED.

Nearly $1,500,000 has been raised by Red Cross Christmas Seals in the last five years, and yet many people do not know how this charity stamp idea originated.

Some of your grandmothers first played "post office" with stickers similar to Red Cross Seals 'way back in 1862, when they conceived the idea of selling stamps at fairs for the benefit of the relief funds for the soldiers' hospitals in Brooklyn, Boston and elsewhere. Nearly $1,000,000 was raised in this way before 1865. After the war, this method of raising money was discontinued in this country for a generation, altough it found in Portugal, Switzerland, Austria, France, Spain, Denmark, Norway, Russia, Sweden and other European countries. There are now thousands of different types of charity stamps used in all parts of the world, as many as forty being used in Austria for children's hospitals alone.

Stamps or seals were first used to get money for the anti-tuberculosis crusade in Norway and Sweden in 1904. To Jacob Riis, the well-known social worker of New York and to Miss Emily P. Bissell, the energetic secretary of the Delaware Red Cross, jointly belong the honor of originating our American Red Cross Christmas Seal. In 1909, Mr. Riis' interest was aroused by the receipt of a Christmas tuberculosis stamp on a letter from Norway. He published an article about this queer looking stamp in the "Outlook," and suggested some possible uses for it in this country. Miss Bissell at once saw an opportunity here and prepared a stamp, from the sale of which her society realized $3,000 for tuberculosis work. So impressed was she with this success that she induced the American Red Cross to take up the sale in 1908 on a national basis. With very little organization and with hardly any attempt at careful advertising, the sale that year brought in, nevertheless, over $135,000 for anti-tuberculosis work in various parts of the United States. In 1909, with more thorough organization, the sale was increased to $230,000; in 1910 to nearly $310,000; in 1911 to over $330,000, and over 40,000,000 seals, netting $400,000, were sold last years

These stamps are on sale at nearly every place of business in town and as the cause is a good one, they find ready sale.

RESEARCH CIRCLE

The Research Circle held its regular meeting Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. J. O Eaton leader. Papers were read by Mrs Charles Morley on "Cleveland's Second Administration," and Mrs. Wm. Mobbs on "Current Events. Some of the wonders of Chicago furnished the topic for roll call.

"Muscle Maladies."

Muscle maladies must be the names henceforth of all of these miscalled "nervous" inflammations, and with this discovery of the cause comes at once a simple way to bring about a cure. Most cases of weak nerves or "neurasthenia" mean overfed, flabby, weak and neglected muscles. The thing to do is to rejuvenate those muscular tissues.

GOV. AND MRS. W. N FERRIS SEND SEASONS GREETINGS TO PEOPLE OF MICHIGAN

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 10—Gov. and Mrs. Woodbridge N. Ferris issued a Christmas greeting to the people of Michigan last night. The greeting follows.

"Of all the days we long for, birthday, wedding days, gala days, one day looms up brighter and more glorious than all the others—Christmas. This is the day that makes sweet music in the hearts of the children, in the hearts of youth, in the hearts of those grown old in service. It is the day of gladness made beautiful in giving.

"What every age needs most is not the art of accumulating gold, houses, lands, stocks and bonds but the art of cultivating patience, courage, trust, loyalty, faith and love—the treasures of the soul, the symbols of eternal youth. Something to eat, drink and wear is worth while, but something to give, a thank you, a good morning, a hearty handshake, is worth more to the hungry soul.

"When the Christ shall reign in the hearts of men, the kingdom of heaven will have come. We need to be born again this Christmas and at every other Christmas that shall come to us, born into an appreciation of loves' solution of all human problems.

"Let all the children of men rejoice in the matchless gift to the world of this day."

Onto Himself.

Bix—"Wonder why Podgers doesn't marry." Dix—"I guess he realizes he'd be a fool to marry a woman who'd be fool enough to marry him."

Keep Troubles to Yourself.

To think about our own troubles is excusable, sometimes it is a necessity; to speak about them is a social offense. There are times when we may, discreetly, and guardedly, confide something of our ailments or worries to a trusted friend; but even this is a gratification not to be too freely indulged. When we do so we must allow the friend to indemnify himself by enlarging on similar matters of his own; there must be give and take.

A NATURAL COMPARISON.

The nervous system can be compared to a telephone system, with the spine likened to the switchboard. Or for explanatory purposes, we may compare the body to a machine which receives its power from the dynamo (brain). As long as all parts of the machine (body) receive their full supply of power there is harmony and health, but if the power is partially cut off by pressure upon the wire (nerve) from one or more of the parts (organs) of this machine (body) there will be discord or disease.

When a machine fails to run properly we call a mechanic to find the trouble and remove it. Be as good to the human body (machine) and when it is not running properly (sick) go to a master mechanic (Chiropractor) and have him locate the trouble and remove the cause: thereby giving nature a chance to restore health.

Chiropractic does not confine itself to any one special disease, having successfully removed the cause of numerous diseases, both acute and chronic. It during the acute stage, the cause was removed by spinal adjustments there would be no chronic disease.

Investigation has made steps of progress in the care of the sick by the discovery of the principles which compose the science of Chiropractic.

Call at our office and let us convince you of the accuracy of the Chiropractic method of locating and removing the cause of disease

Wm. Hayden gave a reception to all his workmen last Tuesday evening in honor of his safe return from across the water.

The Editor of the Adrian Times feels bad because someone stole his umbrella. We are astonished that an old veteran like the Times Editor should be guilty of owning an umbrella.

Wm Hayden arrived home last Friday evening from his trip to Ireland. He enjoyed his visit to the 'auld sod very much. We understood that he was entirely successful in the business that took him over.

Mr. and Mrs. L. I. Bidwell returned last week from their wedding trip. They remained in New York most of the time during their absence.

The first job done in our press room was a pack of cards for Tom Adamson and the second one was the invitations for Cub Berdan's Grand New Year's Ball at the Opera House

Jehiel Davidson has rented the room in Swan's new block next to the Herald counting rooms and will use it for confectionery, cigar and a variety store. He proposes to fit it up in apple pie order and has already ordered his stock of goods and will be open for business about the middle of next week.

Daniel Raymond and family left for Florida last Monday. Mr. Raymond has bought a farm up the St. John's river where he will make his future home

Mrs. James C. Murry leaves Tecumseh this week for her new home in Missouri. Her many friends regret her departuae but will wish her much happiness in her western home.

We have listened to and enjoyed many pleasant strains of music in the tunes of long, and not so far away, the carol of birds, the murmur of the waterfall, and the bagpipes pensive refrain, but seldom indeed has any music been more touching and grateful to us than that rendered at our window a few evenings ago by some girls unknown to us, but whom we hope to meet at the river when we shall no longer be 'the old folks at home'. TO MAKE YOUR HAIR MORE BEAUTIFUL.

To give your hair that gloss and lustre and wavy silky-softness, use Harmony Hair Beautifier. It takes away the dull dead look of the hair, and makes it bright—turns the stringiness into fluffiness—overcomes the oily odors and leaves a sweet, true-rose fragrance—makes the hair easier to put up neatly and easier to keep in place. It is just exactly what it is named—a hair beautifier, and whether your hair is ugly now or beautiful, it will improve its appearance. You'll be proud of and delighted with the results, or your money back. Very easy to apply—simply sprinkle a little on your hair each time before brushing it. Contains no oil; will not change color of hair, nor darken gray hair.

To keep your hair and scalp dandruff-free and clean, use Harmony Shampoo. This pure liquid shampoo gives an instantaneous rich lather that immediately penetrates to every part of hair and scalp, insuring a quick and thorough cleansing. Washed off just as quickly, the entire operation takes only a few moments. Contains nothing that can harm the hair; leaves no harshness or stickiness—just a sweet cleanliness.

Both preparations come odd-shaped very ornamental bottles, with sprinkler tops. Harmony Hair Beautifier, $1.00, Harmony Shampoo, 50c. Both guaranteed to satisfy you in every way, or your money back. Sold in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store—one of the more than 7,000 leading drug stores of the United States, Canada and Great Britain, which own the big Harmony laboratories in Boston, where the many celebrated Harmony Perfumes and Toilet Preparations are made. BRIGHT IDEA CLUB.

Last evening 12 girls met at the pleasant home of Veva Hardcastle and organized the Bright Idea Sewing Club. One of the amusements of the evening was the untangling of many strings. Only two of the girls were successful in finding anything at the end of their string; one getting a thermometer, the other being lucky enough to meet a match.

THE SPENDTHRIFT.

It is to be regretted that there was such a small audience out last evening to witness "The Spendthrift."

It was a play fraught with deep meaning touching on the extravagance of the present day which is leading more than one to ruin and disgrace. Miss Marion Sherwood, who will be remembered as playing here last year in "The Thief", as the spendthrift wife of Richard Ward, was fine in her rendition of the part, and was well supported by Lee Barclay as her husband, whose earnest, manly pleading failed to avert disaster, but who, despite all, took her back to his heart and home again. Aunt Gretchen was a character of the hard, sensible type. Arthur Vernon as Monty Ward and Louise Berggren as Clarice VanZandt were fine.

"MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH."

A fair house greeted "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" at the Opera House Monday evening. The play being presented in a fine manner, every character being well taken. The audience was much pleased and delighted with Mrs. Wiggs in her management of her large family, as she arose above every trial and discouragement with her belief that all was for the best. It was a play that was good to hear and see.

NEWS OF THE STATE

Lad in Grief Nearly Drowns.

HARBOR SPRINGS, MICH. — Temporarily unnerved, probably by the tragic disappearance of Rev. A. Vandermeer, James Clark, a sophomore in the local high school, was taken from the swimming pool in Saginaw during the recent Y. M. C. A. convention, in a critical condition. Vandermeer and Clark were great friends, the lad being sent to Saginaw through the minister's efforts.

Despite reports to the contrary Vandermeer's whereabouts are as mysterious as ever. Letters received from friends in Chicago express great fear for the man's safety as he has not been heard of there.

Held Pending Investigation.

MT. CLEMENS, MICH. — Herman Meinka, who gave his address as 339 Hendricks avenue, Detroit, was arrested in New Haven and brought to the county jail here pending an investigation of the death of John Borho, of Detroit, whose body was found on the North Gratiot road, near Hall's Corners early in the morning. He acknowledges having left Detroit in company with Borho, en route to New Haven, where they were going to deliver a horse to W. Smith. He told Sheriff Harris that Borho had been drinking, became ugly and left him, and that was the last he saw of him.

Bay City Blocks Railroad.

BAY CITY, MICH. — The council on advice of City Attorney L. P. Coumans instructed Chief of Police Davis to prevent the Saginaw, Bay City Railway company from laying its third rail system on the Detroit-Bay City interurban in the city limits.

The company accepted the terms of the city demanding improved service in the city in return for the privilege of laying a double track curve at Columbus and Washington avenues for the new interurban route.

Signs Four $1,000,000 Checks.

MOUNT CLEMENS, MICH.—Martin Joyce, who has been conducting the "Pittsburgh club" more for the "fun of it" than necessity, was taken to the Dearborn retreat.

He has been a great booster for Mt Clemens and a liberal spender, but he raised the limit when he drew four checks on a local bank for $1,000,000 each and tendered one to the sheriff, chief of police and two personal friends.

Mrs. Sarah E. Austin, Pearl St. Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I suffered from kidney complaint for more than a year. When someone told me that Doan's Kidney Pills were good in such cases, I got a supply at Wright & Son's Drug Store. They helped me immediately and I continued using them until I was well. I have had no need of Doan's Kidney Pills or any other kidney medicine since."

CELEBRATED COURTROOM SCENE IN THE THIRD ACT OF THE GREAT ENGLISH DIVORCE PLAY, "A BUTTERFLY ON THE WHEEL," SOON TO BE PRESENTED HERE.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont Endorses "A Butterfly on the Wheel"

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, possibly the most prominent woman in the suffrage movement, after seeing a performance of "A Butterfly on the Wheel" at the Thirty-ninth Street Theater, in New York, wrote the following letter to Mr. Lewis Waller, who, in association with the Shuberts, produced this play:

My Dear Mr. Waller—In reference to the play "A Butterfly on the Wheel," I have seen this play and consider the court scene in same one that should interest all thinking women. It points strongly to the necessity of women on the jury, the possibility of a woman judge, and that existing laws discriminating against women should be abolished and both sexes dealt with equally. This can never be the case until the franchise is extended to women. Sincerely yours,

ALVA P. BELMONT
(Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont.)

"A Butterfly on the Wheel" will be presented here shortly.

"A BUTTERFLY ON THE WHEEL."

Patrons of the better class of dramatic offerings will be interested in the announcement that the famous English divorce play, "A Butterfly on the Wheel," is scheduled as one of the dramatic offerings soon to be seen here. This much talked of play was one of the dramatic sensations of recent years in London, where it came to the attention of Mr. Frohman, who immediately procured the American rights. The piece subsequently had a run covering the greater part of a season at the Thirty-ninth Street Theater, New York, where it duplicated its English success. There are four acts in the action of the play, and the courtroom scene in the third act is said to be nothing short of a sensation, rivaling in gripping interest the celebrated courtroom scene in "Madame X."

A Striking Argument Against Divorce

The story unfolded in "A Butterfly on the Wheel," which is soon to be seen here, teaches one of the greatest lessons against divorce that has ever been told. It goes to the courtroom for its most telling scene, a scene, by the way, which is said to be the finest reproduction of a law court ever staged. "A Butterfly on the Wheel" ran for the entire season in New York after having been played for a year in London. It was produced on this side by Lewis Waller, the English actor-manager.

"A BUTTERFLY ON THE WHEEL."

The announcement that the celebrated English divorce play, "A Butterfly on the Wheel," is soon to be seen in this city will be of interest to those who keep in touch with the more pretentious dramatic offerings. Probably no play of recent years has attracted the worldwide attention that has been accorded this piece. It made its first appearance in London, where its famous courtroom scene in the third act scored distinctly, being almost a sensation. The American rights were procured by Mr. Frohman and the piece duplicated its English success on this side. It was presented for the greater part of an entire season at the Thirty-ninth Street Theater, New York, where it rivaled "Madame X." in its drawing capacity.

KING'S COUNSELOR AND M. P. AS PLAYWRIGHTS.

"A Butterfly on the Wheel" is probably one of the most pretentious offerings to be seen here during the present theatrical season. It has the distinction of being written by a member of parliament and a king's counselor. It deals with the divorce problem and has attracted worldwide attention by the trial scene in the third act. It was a pronounced success in London and played an entire season in New York.

Put the Newspapers On Your Pay Roll

In discussing the value of the various kinds of advertising employed by theatrical concerns a well known manager recently declared that, in his opinion, newspapers came first and then mouth to mouth commendation. To the latter kind "A Butterfly on the Wheel," which ran in New York all last season, owes much of its success. Nearly 200,000 persons attended the play during its long stay at the Thirty-ninth Street Theater, where the Messrs. Shubert and Lewis Waller, the English actor-manager, produced it. Every one who attended a performance invariably sent others, which fact is not a surmise, for the statement is based on a systematic canvas made at the theater for a period covering four weeks. Out of town visitors also carried the news home with them, so that, what with the newspaper and magazine advertising, "A Butterfly on the Wheel" when it makes its appearance here will not come as a stranger.

"A BUTTERFLY ON THE WHEEL."

The coming of the great English play, "A Butterfly on the Wheel," will be a theatrical event that will appeal to those who support the better class of dramatic offerings, having to its credit a successful run on each side of the Atlantic. This play, which deals in the main with the divorce problem, has for the most of its dramatic personae people representing the aristocracy of England. While the piece is interesting through the entire four acts, being interspersed with brilliant dialogue as well as being virile, the third act, representing a scene in a London court, created a sensation equal to that of the famous trial scene in "Madame X." The company presenting the attraction has been carefully selected, and the scenic investiture will leave nothing to be desired.

Treasurer of New York Democratic State Committee Is Indicted.

NEW YORK. — District Attorney Whitman went before the grand jury to ask for the indictment of Arthur A. McLean, treasurer of the Democratic state committee, and Thomas Hassett, a former employe of the state engineer's office. The indictment was later returned.

He presented evidence showing that McLean accepted campaign contributions from corporations and that Hassett solicited a bribe as a condition to expediting payment on a state highway contract.

Everett P. Fowler, the alleged Tammany "bagman," already under indictment for extortion, was again indicted, charged with soliciting a campaign contribution from a corporation.

The feeling prevails that Villa is now in a position to restore the northern section of Mexico to a period of peace, since the federal troops by their voluntary vacation of the territory had evinced no desire to continue fighting, at least for the present.

ULSTERITES AROUSED

Leaders Declare Ban on Importation of Arms Comes Too Late.

BELFAST, IRELAND — The greatest excitement has been caused among the rank and file of the Ulster Unionists by the royal proclamation prohibiting the importation of arms and ammunition into Ireland.

During the night large quantities of rifles, bayonets and munitions of war were removed from Belfast to country towns in automobiles for fear the government authorities might put the Irish crimes act into force and seize the war stores already collected.

The customs authorities made their first seizure under the terms of the proclamation during the morning when they detained eighty-nine cases of ammunition and eight cases of rifles and bayonets.

Sir Edward Carson, in an interview at Nottingham, said the proclamation was too late. It would make no difference, he said, but would put to an end the liberal taunts about wooden guns and the Ulster movement being a farce.

Salves Can't Cure Eczema

In regard to skin diseases, medical authorities are now agreed on this:

Don't imprison the disease germs in your skin by the use of greasy salves, and thus encourage them to multiply. A true curd of all eczematous diseases can be brought about only by using the healing agents in the form of a liquid.

WASH THE GERMS OUT.

A simple wash: A compound of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, and other ingredients as combined in the D.D.D. Prescription. This penetrates to the disease germs and destroys them, then soothes and heals the skin as nothing else has ever done.

We have made fast friends of more than one family by recommending this D.D.D. Prescription to a skin sufferer here and there, and we want you to try it now on our positive pay guarantee. D.D.D. Soap keeps the pores clean; ask us.

The Evolution of Wealth.

Originally the process of accumulation comes by the toiler who spends less than he receives; eventually he is what is called a capitalist. If all were either improvident, vicious or incompetent, civilization would speedily decline, therefore the real benefactors of the rest are those who accumulate. Some of us have the capacity, others have not; that is an inexorable law of nature which cannot be altered.—Leslie's.

Found New Way to Obtain Credit.

A new way of establishing a line of credit is told by the Horton Headlight. "A man went into a Horton store and said he owed a bill of $2 for goods bought several years before. The storekeeper failed to find the account on his books, but as the man insisted he owed the money, the merchant accepted it. He invited the man to run a bill again, which he did. In fact he bought about $25 worth of goods, and up to date has not paid the bill."

Thirty-nine Smoking Car Passengers Are Treated.

SMALLPOX VICTIM WAS ABOARD

Car Was Locked After It Was Learned Infected Man Had Left—It Is Charged Passengers Were Admitted After Patient's Departure—Damage Suits Against Company Threatened.

Philadelphia, Dec. 15.—Following the discovery by the health authorities that a man who had been a passenger on the Pittsburgh express arriving at Broad street station had smallpox in its most virulent form, thirty-nine men who had been in the smoking car were vacinated before they left the car despite their protests.

Word was received in this city late the night before that a passenger who was taken ill and had left the train at Huntingdon, Pa., was suffering from the disease. Dr. Cairns and the corps of assistants immediately gathered their instrumentts and went to await the arrival of the train.

The doors had been locked when the train reached Overbrook station and none of the men in the car were allowed to leave until they had an injection of serum. Many of the passengers had entered the car at Harrisburg and other points this side of Huntingdon and protested against the hold up. It is said that more than a score of passengers left the train between here and where the afflicted man had been taken off.

Will Sue Company.

Because of the fact that they entered the car after the smallpox victim had left and were detained against their will, several Philadelphians have declared their intention of bringing suit against the railroad company.

FIRST SHIP THROUGH IN JAN.

Panama Canal Officials Give Out Statement Regarding Ditch.

Panama, Dec. 15.—Officials of the canal commission believe that if no further slides take place the first ship will go through the canal in January instead of some time next summer as had been expected. When Captain Amundson the polar explorer, decided to send his ship, the Fram, around South America fearing that she could not go through the canal for six months yet, it was stated that the first ship would possibly be able to pass from the Atlantic to the Pacific in May, 1914.

This was the last definite statement regarding the possible date of the first through navigation of the canal.

STRIKERS' PARADE HALTED BY COURT

Local Mine Workers Are Clamoring for Settlement.

Calumet, Mich., Dec. 15.—On orders of Judge P. H. O'Brien, Sheriff Cruz notified President Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners that the strikers must do no parading. This halted the big union demonstration which was ready to take place.

Mounted deputies swept the Calumet district and prevented the congregation of any strikers excepting in halls. It is believed the first of the year will see the end of the strike as far as the federation is concerned, though small bodies of miners may stay out longer.

The local strikers are clamoring fot a settlement. A standing vote was taken on the matter of returning to work and of the 150 strikers present 75 per cent voted to go back. This was merely an informal vote. President Moyer has again offered to arbitrate. The offer has been ignored by the companies.

SEVEN TIMES ABOUT CAPITOL

Suffragists to Emulate Performance of Joshua at Jericho.

Washington, Dec. 15.—The "seven times around Jericho" march the suffragists recently planned for the White House in case President Wilson refused to see them will now be made around the capitol as a hint for the congressmen to pass the pending suffrage amendment to the constitution.

A band will precede the marchers and trumpets will be blown, and as the four corners of the capitol building are reached the marchers will halt and speeches will be made calling the women of the north, east, south and west together in the new woman's crusade.

WOMEN ARE KNOCKED DOWN

Militant Suffragettes Engage in Street Battle with Police.

London, Dec. 15.—A score of women and children were injured in the evening in a riot growing out of an attempt by the police to disperse a procession of suffragettes in the Bow street district. The procession was designed as a protest against the action of the government in rearresting Mrs. Pankhurst. No permit had been issued for the demonstration and orders were issued to break it up.

Mounted and foot police charged the marchers when they refused to disperse. The women fought back with missiles of various kinds and some spectators took a hand in the fight. Many were knocked down and trampled and several women became hysterical. The fight lasted for a quarter of an hour. Several women were arrested, among them being Miss Zelie Emerson, the well-known American suffragette.

VILLA'S BANDIT SIDE REVEALED

Rebel Chief Demands $500,000 Ransom for Terrazas.

MUST COMPLY IN 48 HOURS

Son of Richest Man in Mexico Will Be Executed if Huge Sum Is Not Paid—Germans Also Held Prisoners by Rebels—Many Appeals to Consuls Being Made by Plundered People.

El Paso, Tex., Dec. 15.—A committee representing Pancho Villa, Constitutionalist commander in Chihuahua called upon General Luis Terrazas with a demand for the payment of $500,000 within forty-eight hours to save the life of his son, Louis Terrazas, who is now held a prisoner by Villa in Chihuahua City. If the ransom is not forthcoming the younger terrazas is to be executed. General Terrazas and his party arrived here during the night by train from Marfa.

It is reliably reported that a dozen wealthy German residents of Chihuahua also are held for ransom. They are charged with having given financial aid to the federals. Otto Kuch, German consul at Chihuahua, is reported to have been condemned to be executed within twenty-four hours unless $50,000 ransom is paid.

Germans in El Paso have appealed to Washington for immediate action to prevent the threats being carried out.

Telegrams have been sent by the El Paso chamber of commerce to Secretary of State Bryan and the Texas representatives in congress asking that Consul Letcher at Chihuahua be requested or authorized to take charge of the properties of Spanish residents of the city who were forced by the constitutionalists to flee the city and seek safety in the United States. The telegrams were sent at the request of mmbers of the Spanish colony here.

War Carried to U. S.

The war was carried to the American side of the international bridge in the morning when a group of Spanish refugees, smarting under the indignities which had recently been heaped upon them attacked a party of constitutionalists with knives, stilettos and other weapons. The fighters were scattered by a detachment of police under Police Captain William Smith, who was once well known in the prize ring as "Australian Billy" Smith. Half a dozen of the fighters were arrested and several others were taken to the hospital suffering from cuts and stab wounds.

Water Supply Cut Off.

Washington, Dec. 15.—A dispatch received from Rear Admiral Fletcher at Tampico said that at the hour of filing the dispatch, 2 p. m., firing had ceased and that the rebels have cut off the city's water supply. One of the Mexican gunboats is reported to be above the city and another below.

The American and other foreign refugees on board the American battleships are 195 men, 165 women and 146 children. The number remaining in the city is not known.

The warships now at Tampico are the Rhode Island, New Jersey, Virginia, Tacoma and Chester. The Wheeling has returned to Vera Cruz.

Money Good for Health.

Paris, Dec. 15.—Christabel Pankhurst, just before her mother left for England, insisted that "the American climate held such recuperative qualities" that her mother not only expected to be able to go through a hard winter campaign in England but also expected to visit the United States again whenever her health became bad.

EXPRESS BOMB MAN EDUCATED

Murderer of Ida Anusewitz Had Scientific Training.

ELECTRO-CHEMICAL MACHINE

Clerk at Adams Express Company Declares He Can Identify Sender—Police Theory Is That Girl Was Not Intended Victim, and Sender Was Hired by Plotter.

New York, Dec. 15.—The search for the murderer of Ida Anusewitz was extended to Philadelphia. Acting on information that a man resembling the shipper of the infernal machine which killed the young bookkeeper last Friday, had been seen in Philadelphia, two detectives were sent to that city.

Moe Andrews, the Adams Express company clerk who receipted for the parcel containing the machine, is positive that he could pick the shipper out of a crowd.

Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty said:

Fiend Was Educated Man.

"All infernal machines and bombs have pronounced characteristics. The most ordinary types are the 'tin can and gas pipe' bombs, used by the Black Handers, a simple affair made up of sticks of dynamite, a slow burning fuse and detonating cap. Such bombs are easily constructed by ignorant men. But the electro-chemical bomb, such as the one exploded in the O. K. Bottling company's office, can only be constructed by a person with scientific training. We know that the man we are after was well educated, shrewd, wrote a good hand and had a horrible sense of humor. In the second place, I have now made up my mind that the man wanted to kill Wm. M. Callanan and that he was actuated by deep personal hatred. No laborer, no Italian, did this job.

"In the third place, the murderer kept himself in the background and hired a man to carry the bomb to the express office. If I hadn't any other reason for thinking so, the mere fact that the man Andrews saw slammed the package down hard on the counter, would convince me that he didn't have a notion of what was in the package. If that man will come forward and help us, I can promise him a reward."

The detectives questioned half a dozen former employes of the bottling company and satisfied themselves in every instance that the men were above suspicion.

DOCTORS BALK ON EUGENICS

Medical Society Refuses to Issue Certificates for Marriage.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 15.—The members of the Milwaukee County Medical society voted to go on a strike and refuse to make the examinations and issue the certificates required by the so-called eugenic marriage law passed by the 1913 legislature.

A motion for the appointment of a committee of three to take up the eugenic marriage law with the proper authorities and convince them of the utter absurdity of the law was also passed.

Suffragists Must Wait Month.

Washington, Dec. 15.—It developed that there will be a delay of more than a month before the house committee on rules acts on the arguments submitted to it week before last by suffragists and anti-suffragists, for and against the creation of a standing committee on woman's suffrage in the house.

How to Detect the Alum Baking Powder

"Which are the alum baking powders; how can I avoid them unless they are named?" asks a housekeeper.

Here is one way: take the can of a low-priced powder in your hand and read the ingredient clause upon the back label. The law requires that if the powder contains alum that fact must be there stated. If you find one of the ingredients named alum, or sulphate of aluminum, you have found an alum baking powder.

There is another and a better way. You don't have to know the names of the alum powders. Use Royal Baking Powder only; that assures you a cream of tartar powder, and the purest and most healthful baking powder beyond question.

Mechanism of the Ear.

Comparatively few people thoroughly realize what a delicate and sensitive structure the human ear really is. That which we ordinarily designate so is, after all, only the outer porch of a series of winding passages which, like the lobbies of a great building, lead from the world without to the world within. Certain of these passages contain liquid, and their membranes are stretched like parchment curtains across the corridor of different places and can be thrown into vibrations or made to tremble like the head of a drum or as the surface of a tambourine does when struck with a stick or with the fingers. Between two or three parchment-like curtains a chain of very small bones extends, which serves to tighten or relax these membranes and to communicate vibrations to them. In the innermost place of all a row of white threads, called nerves, stretches like the strings of a piano from the last point to which the tremblings or thrillings reach and pass inward to the brain.

Keeps Tab on the Shipowners.

The captains' register at Lloyd's, the great English insurance concern, has aptly been described as the biographical dictionary of the whole of the certificated commanders of the British mercantile marine. In the register are entered the date and place of the worthy skipper's birth, the record of his progress at sea, the ships he has commanded and the ships, if he has been unfortunate, that he has lost.

There is also another register, a confidential index of British shipowners and the history of their ships, the number of shares held by the owners, the trade of the ships during the year, the accidents which have befallen them and other important information. If a firm loses ship after ship, if the entries "foundered," "wrecked" and "missing" appear in succession against the names of their vessels, here is a moral to be drawn by the broker and underwriter.

Medical Ethics In China.

In an article in the Journal of Race Development on the practice of medicine in China, Dr. C. W. Young of the Union Medical college of Peking quotes this from a work on medical ethics:

"When a patient is severely ill treat him as thou wouldest wish to be treated thyself. If thou art called to a consultation go at once, and do not delay. If he ask thee for medicine give it to him at once, and do not ask if he be rich or poor. Use thy heart always to save life and to please all. So will thine own happiness be exalted. In the midst of the darkness of the world be sure there is some one who is protecting thee. When thou art called to an acute illness and thinkest with all thy might of nothing but making money out of the patient, if thy heart be not filled with love of thy neighbor, be sure that in the world there is some one who will punish thee."

Early New York.

New York city had become one of the most important places on the coast before 1650. Its great advantages were its fine harbor and the noble river which emptied into it. The other towns on the coast were shut off from the far west by the Appalachian mountains or the Alleghenies, which follow the Atlantic coast at a distance of 100 to 200 miles from it from Georgia to Maine. But the Hudson river broke through this barrier and gave New York easy access to Canada and the profitable Indian trade. In 1697 the city contained about 4,300 inhabitants, about one-third being slaves. It extended from the Battery to a palisaded wall, where Wall street now runs. All above Wall street was in the country. The population grew to about 8,500 in 1730 and about 12,000 in 1750.

Test For Silk Goods.

There is a simple method of finding out whether a piece of silk goods has been adulterated or weighted as the manufacturers call it, with tin, and that is to cut off a small sample and burn it. Pure silk is animal matter, just as feathers or hair are made, as every one knows, by the silk worm. Now if pure silk is burned it will instantly curl up into a crisp mass, just as a burnt hair or feather will do, but if the silk goods has been adulterated with from 60 to 75 per cent of tin it will not do this. It will leave an ash in the semblance of the fabric, much as a burned piece of newspaper will leave an ash that still shows the printing. The harder and more firm this ash the more tin there was in the silk.—New York American.

Painless and Portraits.

"A famous artist has it so much easier than an unknown painter."

"How so?"

"The unknown painter has to make his portraits look like the people he paints. The people a famous artist paints are willing to try to look like their portraits."—Pittsburgh Post.

An Oversight.

"I want to pay this bill," he said at the hotel bar, "but I think you have made a slight error here in my favor. I've been reading over the extras, and I cannot find that you have charged anything for telling me you thought it might rain."

CHRISTMAS DON'TS

(State Fire Marshal's Bureau,
(Lansing, Mich., Dec. 10, 1913.

To the Public:

The State Fire Marshal's Bureau desires to call the attention of the people of Michigan to a few "Christmas Don'ts."

Don't forget that a resinous tree, decorated with cotton batting, tinsel and varnished toys, together with lighted candles forms a dangerous combination.

Don't let currents of air blow in from open windows or doors on the tree while the candles are lighted.

Don't fail to have a pail of water handy.

Don't put cotton and paper decorations too close to lamps, stoves or stoxepipes, either in homes or stores.

Don't have defective electrical conditions.

Don't lose your head, if there is a fire.

JOHN T. WINSHIP,
State Fire Marshal.

According to Passport.

Prince Metchersky, who is a journalist by profession, was commissioned by the czar to investigate certain agrarian troubles. The prince went to Roumania and there obtained one of the permits necessary for taking live stock across the frontier. Then he went to a Russian frontier post and presented the document to the official as his warrant to pass. The official could read but little in Russian and knew no Roumanian, but the big document, with coat of arms and seal, greatly impressed him, and he cheerfully put the Russian official stamp on it. His investigations ended, the prince went back to Moscow and at the first opportunity presented the passport to the governor, saying:

"With this document I entered Russia and traveled about for five months, yet you must admit that the description of me is scarcely correct or flattering."

The amazed governor read that the prince was "one black sow, full grown, with one ear partly torn away."

Got Even With the Lawyer.

Many years ago there lived in Camden, Me., two neighbors, Dr Huse and Judge Thayer. The doctor had occasion to sue a man and of course employed his neighbor, the judge, as his counsel. After a session of court he met the judge and asked about his case. The judge said it was continued. Meeting him again after another session and asking again about his case the same answer was given.

As it cost $2 or $3 each time it was continued, the doctor thought by the time it was settled, after paying the judge, he would get nothing.

Some time afterward the judge was afflicted with a felon and, of course, employed his neighbor, the doctor. After suffering awhile he met the doctor and said: "Doctor, this thing is getting along very slowly. I have walked the floor nights for a week. What are you doing to it?"

The doctor, who stammered, loudly replied, "Co-co-continuing it, by George!"

Attended to Beforehand.

When Judge Stewart of Vermont presided at the trial of a negro charged with the murder of another of his race he admitted afterward to friends that he had serious doubts of the prisoner's guilt until he began to pronounce sentence. The negro had pleaded not guilty and repeatedly on being questioned had asserted with much emphasis, "I didn't do it!" The evidence was not convincing, and the judge was surprised when the jury brought in a verdict of guilty. His doubts vanished when, after reminding the negro that he had been duly tried by a jury of twelve men, etc., he said: "It is my duty to warn you that your days on earth are numbered, and it behooves you to avail yourself of the little remnant of time allotted to you to make your peace with God."

Just there the negro broke in with the exclamation, "Ah done dat already, Jedge, befo' Ah went out ter kill dat nigger!"—New York Sun.

MONDAY CLUB

A regular meeting of the Monday Club was held Monday afternoon with Mrs. Ira Rogers, leader. A very interesting paper on Frederic Barbarossa was rendered by Mrs. J. J. Or. This was followed by a very fine paper on Lombard Cities and League by Mrs. F. G. Lewis. Two new members were voted into the club, Mrs. Cuthbert and Miss Clara Waldron. A short business meeting followed after which the club adjourned until after the holiday vacation.

WIT AND WISDOM

A most delightful evening was spent with the Wit and Wisdom club at the pleasant home of Mrs. Edyth Lamkin Monday night. Mr. and Mrs F. S. Turner assisted in entertaining the company. There was a large attendance and a fine program was given. A. O. Howard as leader in a very happy manner introduced the subject of the evening, "Oysters, the World's most valuable Water Crop," his paper abounded in witticisms which he passed around quite freely. Mrs. E. D. Brown and Miss. Augusta Moss had papers on "The World's greatest Oyster ground," and "Oysters Culture in the United States," and "Oysters of the Pacific Coast," which proved very interesting, as the oyster is a favorite most every where.

Roll call brought out many news items of interest. A contest on the various ages was also quite fine. The final article on the oyster was that provided by the entertainer in the form of oyster patties which proved a grand climax to all that had gone before.

After the holiday vacation the club will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rosacrans Jan. 5, 1914, when a musical program will be given.

ENTERTAINED

A party of friends were pleasantly entertained Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Rosacrads. Four tables of 500 were played, Miss Bessie Cupples and John Keeney being the lucky prize winners. A two course supper was served at the close of the games.

Unexpected Result of Mother's Pension

For something less than half a year the Mothers' Pension Law passed by the legislature of the State of Washington has been in operation. An idea of the results of this new experiment is furnished by the Seattle Post Intelligencer. It has filled the children's homes, that journal says, almost to their limit "through the giving up to institutional charge of the children of unsuccessful pentional applicants. Before the passage of the law mothers strove to hold the children of the family together, knowing that the law granted an allowance for every child; but when the mothers learned that only those in absolute penury would be granted pensions, the family breakup began. Fradulent representation and even perjury detected in a number of cases. Then it was learned besides, that many mothers who needed and desired aid could not bring themselves to the point of asking it.

Those States which contemplate a Mothers' Pention Act have a good deal of hard work before them if such a law is to be administered wisely and well and in the interest of the really deserving.—Christian Herald

REPORT SHOWING CONDITION OF HEATING AND VENTILATING SYSTEM IN OUR HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING

Some time ago the Board of Education wrote the Bryce Heating and Ventilating Co. of Toledo, O., to send an expert to go over our heating and ventilating system at the High School Building. Mr. J. W. Bryce representing the above Company came and made the examination and has submitted the following report.

REPORT.

Toledo, Ohio., Dec. 2, 1913.

Board of Education,
Tecumseh, Mich.

Gentlemen:—

The writer begs leave to submit herewith his report upon the condition of the heating and ventilating system in your public school building, as discovered by him on his recent inspection there.

The system of ventilating incorporated in this building (as you may doubtless be aware of) is the obsolete and discarded underfloor system of ventilation which even at its best, is rather an uncertain system in its operation and results.

In connection with this system of ventilation there was found in your building, two warm air furnaces which have been overloaded and which show the results of over work and strain in their present worn out condition. The underfloor system of ventilation is not only faulty and uncertain in its operation and results, but has also been discovered to be dangerous to the safety of school buildings, so much so in fact, that the State Board of Under-writers in Ohio and Indiana, absolutely forbid any insurance upon buildinhs so ventilated. As an evidence of the danger resulting from fires in school buildings equipped with this ventilation, I would cite the disastrouse fire in the Collingwood school several years ago, which building was equipped with this system of ventilation.

It seems to me that the continued use of the present ventilating system in your three story school building is tempting fate and should be avoided if possible.

I also found that the heating and ventilating system is consuming an extravant amount of fuel. As a matter of fact such a building as you have, if equipped with the proper heating and ventilating system should necessitate a fuel cost of not exceeding 65 per cent of the amount of fuel that you have been burning in this building from year to year. The excessive fuel cost in your heating plant has not been repaid by adequate results in the way of heat and ventilation, and in our opinion, it cannot be satisfactorily remedied except by an ex by an expenditure of quite a sum of money.

In short, the present heating system should be removed from the building, and the present system of ventilating should be entirely discarded. All of the under floor passages should be bricked up and stopped off, thereby closing all of the foul air chambers between floors, and eliminating that dangerous situation. A proper system of masonry vent and warm air flues should be constructed, although use can be made of the present warm air flues with some modifications.

I have gone over this matter quite thoroughly, and feel that your Board of Education should take steps to immediately remove the extremely dangerous condition of this building and place it in as near a perfect condition as is possible in a building of the character named.

A proper heating and ventilating system can be installed with all of the necessary changes in the construction of the building as outlined above, for a sum ranging from $5000 to $5500. This sstimate is conservative and you can be safely guided by it.

Respectfully submitted,
J W BRYCE

STUDY YOUR NERVOUS SYSTEM

Nerves must be free from pressure if you wish to get well and keep well. Chiropractic is the first aid to nature. It restores nature's healing power, (normal nerve impulse), making it possible for nature to cure disease. Abnormal function or weakness produced by interrupted nerve impulses is the first cause of disease. Therefore restoring normal nerve impulses, (nature's healing power) cannot help but restore health. Always seek the cause of disease. You will generally find it in the nerves, controlling the affected part and not in the part affected. Study your human frame and you will agree with me. Investigation will bring proof of these facts. Choose the natural way of getting well.

SPECIAL MASONIC SERVICE.

About 75 of the Masonic fraternity gathered at their Temple Sunday morning and went in a body to St. Peters Episcopal church where special services were held.

At the close of morning prayer Rev. Frederick Hewitt, in his usual pleasing manner, preached a very interesting sermon. He spoke of the good work being done by the Order, and of its noble teachings, but urged his brother Masons and men in general not to lose sight of the Christian church, but to unite with some of the numerous denominations and devote their lives more fully to Christian work.

W. S. Dickinson sang for the Offertory "Remember Now Thy Creator," in a very impressive manner.

The church was crowded to its capacity with a most appreciative audience. At the the close of the services Rev. Hewitt announced that Bishop Williams would confirm a class of 25, Sunday, December 21, at 4 o'clock. At the close of the services a reception at the Parish House for the Bishop and the confirmation class.

Drs. Conklin and Hendershott, Supervisor John Schreder and Mr. and Mrs Claud Mattis were in Adrian Friday in regard to the case of Miss Emma Biesing who became mentaly unbalanced about a year ago when her nephew was accidently shot and killed by a companion. She has been sent to the state hospital at Kalamazoo. In the examination it was found that she has fixed delusions in regard to Clairvoyant power which she said was the result of medicine she took about 25 years ago. The main delusion is that she hears noises constantly in her body which she calls "underground speeches". These speeches she says are vulgar in character and are increased by noise working with the electric iron in the laundry where she was employed, and by other forms of electricity. She says she can read a person's thoughts and gets most of of the "speeches" from other people in this way. When excited she says she speaks these underground speeches aloud. Aside from this one line of thought she seems to be normal. John Smith took her to Kalamazoo today.

During our past demonstrating week we sold Majestic Ranges to Fred Kopke, David Boyd, Ernest Lamkin, Emery Downing; E. J. Haines and Will Cole. Several of these ranges were bought as Xmas presents for the wife.

Mrs. ——, do you need and want a new range? Mr. ——, do you want your wife to have as good equipment in the kitchen as you have in the field and at the barn? Mrs. ——, perhaps if we knew you needed and wanted a new range we might be able to persuade your husband to buy a Majestic for YOUR Xmas present.

DEMANDS POTTS' REMOVAL

Attorney for Assured's National Mutual Company Charges Misconduct.

Decatur, Ill., Dec. 15.—Attorney F. R. Wiley of Decatur, representing the Assured's National Mutual Fire Insurance company, of which Percy B. Sullivan is president, presented to Governor Dunne a petition asking for the removal from office of Rufus M. Potts, state insurance commissioner. The petition was signed by Sullivan and by Edward Matthews, secretary of the company, as representing the 16,600 policy holders.

The petition charges Potts with not conducting the affairs of his office in a proper manner. It is alleged that the Assured's company was discriminated because it failed to join the Illinois inspection bureau, and is said to be a fire insurance trust.

FOOD IMPORTS SHOW GENERAL INCREASES

Prices, Though, Have Undergone No Reduction.

Washington, Dec. 15.—The Underwood-Simmons tariff law has materially increased the importation of food stuffs into this country. It has according to Secretary of Commerce Redfield unquestionably resulted in broadening the food supply of the United States.

This is the deduction drawn by Mr. Redfield from statistics which have just been compiled by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce showing the total imports in October last, the first month in which the new tariff law was in operation.

The increased importations at lower rates of duty, however, seem to have had no effect on the prices charged to the ultimate consumer. The Redfield statement shows that there has been a large increase in the number of cattle imported in the United States, in the amount of corn, fish, fresh beef, cream, potatoes, wheat and other food stuffs. Yet the prices, if the general complaints of consumers which have recently been pouring in on congress are true, remain as high as they were, if not higher, than under the Payne-Aldrich tariff law.

Many readers will profit by the following.

Mrs. Sarah E. Austin, Pearl St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I suffered from kidney complaint for more than a year. When someone told me that Doan's Kidney Pills were good in such cases, I got a supply at Wright & Son's Drug Store. They helped me immediately and I continued using them until I was well. I have had no need of Doan's Kidney Pills or any other kidney medicine since."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Austin had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Secret of Health is Elimination of Waste

Every business man knows how difficult it is to keep the pigeon holes and drawers of his desk free from the accumulation of useless papers. Every housewife knows how difficult it is to keep her home free from the accumulation of all manner of useless things. So it is with the body. It is difficult to keep it free from the accumulation of waste matter. Unless the waste is promptly eliminated the machinery of the body soon becomes clogged. This is the beginning of most human ills.

Realism on the Stage

Courtroom Scene in "A Butterfly on the Wheel," Said to Be a Model of Perfection.

"Far and away the best trial scene I have ever beheld on the stage is that in 'A Butterfly on the Wheel,' which is soon to be seen in this city,'" wrote Louis Sherwin, critic of the New York Globe, after the first performance of the play.

"The courtroom, of all institutions which are placed on the stage, is usually the most bungled behind the footlights. Judges who would be impeached even in Hawaii, jurymen whom even a New York coroner would eject, lawyers who could not be admitted to practice in Arizona, are shuffled together and paraded as imitations of courtrooms. The feebleness of such situations can be attributed only to stupidity. One of the easiest things to write for an author of only moderate intelligence and fairly good observation is a trial scene. How very much more effective the truth can be is demonstrated by the trial in 'A Butterfly on the Wheel.' It was written, first of all, by lawyers, one of whom was formerly an actor. Moreover, it was staged by an artist. Courtroom proceedings are naturally so theatrical that to hash them up, to make them effective, is like pouring prussic acid over an apple to make it palatable. In fact, there is so much kinship between the courtroom and the theater that many lawyers find their histrionic gifts quite inconspicuous at the bar and are obliged to go on the stage.

"In 'A Butterfly on the Wheel' it is a divorce trial. The atmosphere of the scene is perfect. Counsel, strange as it may seem, conduct themselves like gentlemen. The president of the court has dignity and does not act as though he were presiding over a prizefight. It is all most unusual and convincing. As for the play—well, it is the success it deserves."

"A BUTTERFLY ON THE WHEEL."

Among the higher class of attractions to be presented in this city this season will be the celebrated English play, "A Butterfly on the Wheel," which is scheduled to appear here soon.

This play has attracted farreaching attention both during its run in London and later when it appeared in New York, where it had a run lasting almost an entire season. The action of the piece deals mostly with the divorce question, but not in a manner that is offensive or unwholesome, the principal character being a woman not of the immoral type, but one who is frivolous and indiscreet. The third act, which discloses a courtroom scene, has caused wide discussion, not only because of the intensely interesting lines and situations, but from the care which the producers have given to scenic detail.

"A BUTTERFLY ON THE WHEEL."

An event that will be looked forward to by patrons of the higher order of things theatrical will be the early appearance here this season of the much talked of English divorce play, "A Butterfly on the Wheel," which made such a distinct impression in London and later in New York, where it was presented for the greater part of an entire season at the Thirty-ninth Street Theater. The play is in four acts and deals in part with the divorce question, the central figure being a young and frivolous wife, who, though in reality a good woman, indulges in flirtations and is sometimes even indiscreet. The third act is the celebrated court scene, in which the woman is mercilessly grilled by her husband's attorney, and the series of situations presented are said to rival in intensity the famous courtroom scene in "Madame X." without being quite so morbid.

HOKE SMITH HITS THE FLOOR

Washington, Dec. 15.—The dreary routine of the senate session was broken when a chair in which Senator Hoke Smith was seated collapsed under him and precipitated the senator's 275 pounds on the floor. In falling the senator struck a vacant desk and did some damage to that, but apparently was uninjured.

He also struck a chair which rolled into the Democratic cloak room and into the Democratic cloack room and startled a group of senators who were being entertained by Senator James Hamilton Lewis.

MISSING MINISTER WRITES A LETTER

Chicago Girl Gets Word from Rev. A. Vandermeer.

HARBOR SPRINGS, MICH.—It now is believed here that the Rev. A. Vandermeer, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city, who disappeared Thanksgiving day, is alive in New York City. Since the minister has been missing a country-wide search has been made to locate him.

The opinion that Mr. Vandermeer is alive is based upon information received here stating that Miss Pearl Komp of Chicago has recently received a letter from him which was mailed in New York City.

It is not definitely known here why the minister left the city. It is said that Mr. Vandermeer and Miss Komp were expecting to be married soon.

BROTHER'S RECORD IS BAD

Sister Faints When B. F. Germaine Proved Ex-Convict.

SAGINAW, MICH. — B. F. Germaine, one of the nephews of Edward Germaine, who is attempting to break the will of the deceased millionaire, struck a snag in the circuit court when the attorney for the Germaine heirs showed that he was a former convict, and that for that reason Mr. Germaine had cut him off.

When the attorney propounded the question relative to Germaine's incarceration in San Quentin prison for two and a half years for bigamy and for two years in an Oregon prison for false pretenses, Mrs. Walker, sister of Mr. Germaine, fainted. The case has lasted a week and is expected to last a week longer.

MAY FILL JOBS THIS WEEK

Gov. Ferris Is Expected to Announce Three Appointments.

LANSING, MICH.—Governor W. N. Ferris will spend nearly all of this week in Lansing and the chances are that before he leaves for his Big Rapids home on Friday all of the vacancies that now exist in state appointive offices will have been filled.

He will reach Lansing Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning and expects to appoint a state board of health secretary, a treasurer for the barbers' board and the jury commissioners of Wayne county. Some important conferences regarding the strike in the copper country are expected here next week.

OPPOSE PRISON MADE BRICK

Jackson Union Masons Declare Organized Men Will Take Stand.

JACKSON, MICH. — Just because of its competition with free labor the bricklayers' union, of this city, is opposing the manufacture of brick in Jackson prison, and the local union men say that this stand will be taken by other locals throughous the state.

The prison authorities are unable to ascertain that the opposition has curtailed their output, however. With hundreds of thousands of brick on hand, the manufacture of brick has been temporarily suspended, and the factory is now constructing drain tile.

$300,000 LOSS BY FIRE

Building of Illinois Warehouse Company at Peoria Destroyed.

PEORIA, ILL. — A fire destroyed the warehouse of the Illinois Warehouse company, causing a loss estimated at $300,000. A general alarm brought all the city's fire fighting apparatus to the corner of Harrison and Water streets, in the center of the wholesale district. The building was a seething mass of flame and within eight minutes after the arrival of the fire department the roof and one wall collapsed. Several firemen narrowly escaped death under the falling brick.

Surrounding property was endangered, but the fire was confined to the one building. Twenty carloads of sugar, several carloads of flour, farming machinery, groceries and household goods are a complete loss.

STRIKERS ORDERED TO GIVE UP ARMS

Judge O'Brien Warns Them Against Further Violence.

CALUMET, MICH. — "Give up your guns and revolvers and ammunition and turn them over to the sheriff; obey the laws and the injunction; if necessary, to avoid trouble give up your morning parades," said Circuit Judge O'Brien to President Charles H. Moyer and officers and members of the Western Federation of Miners in Calumet.

Judge O'Brien, accompanied by Sheriff Cruse and Special Prosecutor George E. Nichols, commanded the strikers to lay down their arms and to endeavor to maintain peace. "Violence will do your cause no good," he said. "I will protect your interests but you must obey the law or you will be punished to the full extent."

It is said that Moyer agreed to accept responsibility for further shooting by strikers. Sheriff Cruse has a list of 5,000 members of the Citizens' alliance who have promised to answer the call of a riot whistle at Houghton to go out as special deputies on occasion, such as at south range when 100 members of the alliance answered the ringing of the fire bells and went by special trains to help police the town.

NEWS OF THE STATE

Parade Halted by Court.

CALUMET, MICH.—By the orders of Judge P. H. O'Brien, Sheriff Cruz notified President Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners that the strikers must do no parading. This halted the big union demonstration which was ready to take place.

Mounted deputies swept the Calumet district and prevented the congregation of any strikers excepting in halls. It is believed the first of the year will see the end of the strike as far as the federation is concerned, though small bodies of miners may stay out longer.

The local strikers are clamoring for a settlement. A standing vote was taken on the matter of returning to work and of the 150 strikers present 75 per cent voted to go back. This was merely an informal vote. President Moyer has again offered to arbitrate. The offer has been ignored by the companies.

Locked-In Tots Are Burned.

PETOSKEY, MICH. — While Mr. and Mrs. G. Stoneburner were in the woods where Mr. Stoneburner was felling trees, their house in Bliss township, Emmet county caught fire, presumably from the kitchen stove, and cremated their son, three years old, and their daughter, two.

The tragedy took place when Mrs. Stoneburner, leaving her children asleep on a bed and locking the doors of the room, went into the woods to see her husband who had been cutting wood for several hours. Soon afterward the daughter of Perry Johnson, a neighobr, found the Stoneburner home on fire. She broke a window to ascertain if any one was within, but hearing no one thought the house was empty.

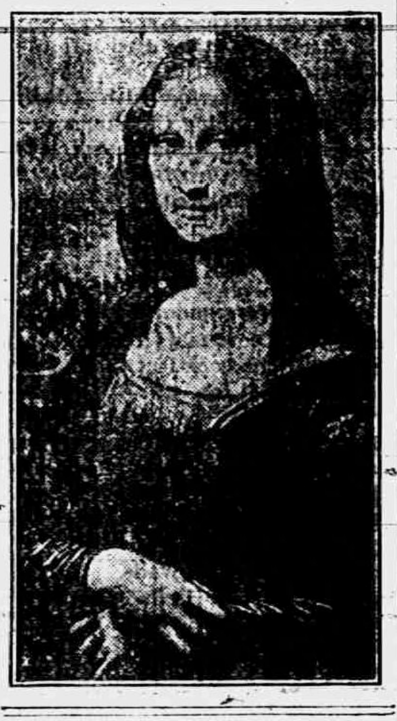
Student Rioters Are Fined.

ANN ARBOR, MICH. — The cases of student rioters—Daniel Newton of Salamanca, N. Y.; Irwin Oleson of Chicago, John Green of Saginaw, and John Carmody of Detroit—accused of taking part in the celebration following the Michigan victory over Pennsylvania on Nov. 15, were brought before Judge E. D. Kinne and pleas of Carmody and Newton changed from not guilty to guilty.

Each paid fines of $25 and costs. Green and Oleson, upon recommendation of the chief of police, were dis-

MONA LIZA

Famous Stolen Painting Which Has Been Recovered in Italy.



MONA LISA FOUND SECRETED IN ITALY

Italian Who Stole the Famous Painting Is Arrested.

FLORENCE, ITALY — Leonardo da Vinci's masterpiece, "Mona Lisa," the mysterious disappearance of which from the Louvre in August 1911, threw the art world into consternation, has been found in Florence. The man who stole it was arrested. He is an Italian. The famous "Joconde" was found when the picture was offered by an Italian resident of Paris to an antiquary. Both the picture and the Italian are now in custody of the police.

"I stole the picture," said the man, "in order to avenge the thefts which Napoleon I. committed in Italy."

The "Mona Lisa—more properly known as "La Joconde"—is one of the world's most famous paintings, and is regarded as priceless. Leonardo is supposed by some to have taken as his model for the picture Lisa del Giocondo, a woman of Florence. He worked on the painting for four years, from 1500 to 1504. It was bought for France by Francis I.

The value of the work can only be imagined, since all offers to buy it were refused, among them one reported to have been made by the British government of $5,000,000.

Mules for Jackson Parade.

JACKSON, MICH. — Two mules will head the Democratic parade for the Andrew Jackson club banquet to be held here January 8.

The animals will be brought to Jackson from Hudson. It is expected that William J. Bryan, secretary of state, will be one of the speakers. Governor Ferris will also speak. Representatives of Washtenaw, Lenawee, Monroe and part of Wayne counties will take part in the celebration.

Jail for Boy Smokers.

LANSING, MICH. — Attorney General Fellows says that minors who smoke cigarettes in public alleys, parks or highways, are liable to arrest. However, sentence may be suspended by the court if the boys will give evidence as to who furnished them the paper tubes.

If the boys smoke at home where they are under the jurisdiction of their parents or guardians they are not subject to arrest.

MONEY BILL WINS

Effort to Amend Measure Fails by Vote of 40 to 35.

HITCHCOCK IS ONLY ENEMY

All Other Democrats Line Up with White House in Vote on Number of Regional aBnks—Poindexter Votes with Majority—Owen and Hitchcock Clash.

WASHINGTON — By a vote of 40 to 35 the senate defeated the first attempt to alter the administration currency bill as framed by Democratic caucus. The vote sent to the table the first amendment proposed by Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, which would have fixed the number of regional banks in the new system at four and would have made the regional banks publicly owned institutions.

With the exception of Senator Hitchcock the Democrats voted solidly for the administration bill and supported Senator Owen's resolution to table the Hitchcock amendment. Senator Poindexter, listed as a Progressive, voted with the Democrats. The Republicans voted solidly for the Hitchcock amendment.

Have Votes to Pass Bill.

The vote indicated the lineup on the sweeping amendments proposed by Senator Hitchcock and the Republicans of the banking committee and indicated that the administration Democrats have the votes to pass the bill without sustantial change.

An attempt to secure unanimous consent to limit debate on the currency bill and to have a final vote Thursday was defeated by an objection from Senator Williams, Democrat.

Owen and Hitchcock in Clash.

Hostilities between Senator Owen, in charge of the currency bill, and Senator Hitchcock, the only Democrat who has stood out against the administration measure, broke out again in the debate. In the conclusion of the verbal duel the senate, on motion of Senator Hitchcock, struck from the record references to him printed as a part of Mr. Owen's speech last week.

The second test vote came on a motion by Mr. Owen to table another amendment offered by Mr. Hitchcock as a substitute for section four of the Owen bill. On this ballot, one other Democrat, Lane of Oregon, left the party fold and joined with Senator Hitchcock in voting against the motion. Their votes were reinforced with the vote of Senator Poindexter of Washington, a Progressive, who stood with the Democrats on the first test vote.

Boy Begs to Be Put In Jail.

JACKSON, MICH.—Being rejected by his parents, Lewis Bielski, sixteen years old, will be returned to Bay City to answer to three criminal charges to which he has confessed. He admits robbing a hardware store in Bay City, picking a man's pockets and committing larceny.

The youth was released, but returned and begged to be sent to the reform school.

To Stop Strike Outrages.

CALUMET, MICH. — The two hundred and fifty Houghton business and professional men, outraged at the murders when three Englishmen were shot to death in their beds, were deputized at their own request to help restore law and order in the copper strike district. They announced they were ready to stand with Sheriff Cruse in any emergency.

Man Killed—Unidentified.

BATTLE CREEK, MICH. — An unidentified man between fifty and sixty years old lies dead in the Farley morgue here. He was killed by a Grand Trunk train near Bellevue. He is five feet tall, has brown hair and a red mustache and was a laborer.

ENGLAND AND AMERICA AGREE

"THE BUTTERFLY ON THE WHEEL."

"A Butterfly on the Wheel," soon to be seen here, which prospered for a season in London, has duplicated its success in New York, where it is proclaimed "a drama as sensational as 'Madame X.'" Interest, apart from the admirable acting of the fine company, centers about the trial scene, which concerns the divorce of a young wife.

An admirer has trapped her into spending a night in a Paris hotel, the husband having been notified beforehand. Thus found in a compromising position the admirer argues that he will win the "butterfly" after she has been cast off by divorce.

The actual trial, set forth with great realism, shows the examination of the defendant, who is a frail woman of exquisite personal charms. The grueling is so severe and, to the audience, unjust that in the end the girl collapses. Nothing more dramatic has been seen on the stage this season.

The critics were unbounded in their praise, and their sayings are to be read on every billboard, while from windows, walls, barricades and what not one may read that "the famous divorce trial of Adamson versus Adamson takes place every night at 10 o'clock."

A RELIC OF OTHER DAYS

We have before us an old book belonging to the Presbyterian Sunday School with the constitution and by laws as amended Jan. 4, 1874. The report for 1874 by the Secretary and Treasurer S. W. Anderson given on Dec. 27, 1874, is quite interesting and at that meeting the following officers were elected:

Supt.—J. S Strong,
Asst. Supt.—Cyrus Wells,
Lady Asst.—Miss Della Dingman,
Sec. and Treas.—S. W. Anderson,
Libarian—Sam J. Helm,

In the year 1875, Leon I. Dutton was elected Secretary and Treasurer and served four years, after which Miss Alice Wimple held the office for two years. She was followed by F. B Wood who was elected Dec 18, 1881. This was the last one whose report was given in this book.

But the most interesting and also the most pathetic is the list of names of the various classes. One by one have passed over the great majority, while others have wandered far away. But thanks be the greater number are still in close touch with Tecumseh.

BULLETIN NO. 2

State Fire Marshal's Bureau
Lansing, Mich., Dec. 10 1913

Every year at the holiday time the State Fire Marshal's Bureau receives reports of fires which have taken place in stores and which have been caused directly or indirectly by reason of methods used in Christmas decorations.

It is far better to be safe than sorry. In using cotton or paper decorations attention should be paid that they are placed a proper distance from stoves, stovepipes and open lights. Merchants or others utilizing electrical displays should have them installed by competent electricians.

No merchant wishes to run the risk of a fire just at this time when he is carrying a heavy load of merchandise or to have a stampede in his store which will perhaps cause many deaths or injuries.

I should be pleased to have fire chiefs or others whose duty it is to assist in the prevention of fires, exercise extreme alertness at this time and urge the cooperation of merchants in their respective cities and villages in following the few simple suggestions made in this bulletin.

JOHN T. WINSHIP,
State Fire Marshall.

Marry and Part For a Year.

Among the many peculiar customs prevalent among the people of Central America is that of parting for one year after the marriage ceremony has been solemnized. This custom has prevailed among the Jarnos from time immemorial. There is no courtship allowed to be carried on between the parties prior to the wedding. When a man selects a woman he obtains the consent of the parents on both sides, and if this is given they are at once married. The reason, however, for their not living together as man and wife for one year after marriage is in order to permit of the parties visiting and staying with their respective friends in different parts of the country, which is a customary thing and occupies the time specified. Ninety-nine out of a hundred of these marriages turn out well.

Ways of Burmese Beauties.

Instead of a coming out party as we know it, the Burmese girl's entrance into society begins when she has her ears pierced. As soon after this as she feels inclined she selects a husband and goes to live in a home of her own. The home is provided by the man, but it becomes his wife's as soon as they are married. All women, young and old, are addicted to the use of tobacco. The women seem to prefer the very large size black cigar. Often one meets a woman on the streets of a village with one of these huge cigars in her mouth and two or three more stuck in the holes of each ear.

The Cosmic Law.

There is neither waste nor economy in nature. Energy is as indestructible as matter—no trace of waste anywhere, no economy. Nature does not use a fraction more than necessary nor less. The two words "waste" and "economy" cannot apply to the stupendous cosmic law, the conservation of energy.—Edgar Lucien Larkin in New York American.

No Luxuries.

"Any insanity in your family?" asked the life insurance man.

"No," replied Farmer Corntossel. "I couldn't afford to hire any alienist. If our boy Josh gets into any trouble we'll jes' have to admit that he's plain foolish."—Washington Star.

A Quick Switch.

Jack (studying geography)—Father, what is a strait? Father (reading the paper)—Five cards of a—that is, a narrow strip of water connecting two larger bodies.

HAPPY WOMEN

Plenty of Them in Tecumseh and Good Reason for it.

Wouldn't any woman be happy.
After years of bach suffering.
Days of misery, nights of unrest.
The distress of urinary troubles.
When she finds freedom.

Many readers will profit by the following.

Mrs. Sarah E. Austin, Pearl St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I suffered from kidney complaint for more than a year. When someone told me that Doan's Kidney Pills were good in such cases. I got a supply at Wright & Son's Drug Store. They helped me immediately and I continued using them until I was well. I have had no need of Doan's Kidney Pills or any other kidney medicine since."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Austin had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Have you noticed how quiet everything was in England while Mrs Pankhurst was visiting over here?

Stomach Troubles Disappear.

Stomach, liver and kidney troubles, weak nerves, lame back and female ills disappear when Electric Bitters are used. Thousands of women would not be without a bottle in their home. Eliza Pool of Depew, Okla. writes: "Electric Bitters raised me from a bed of sickness and suffering and has done me a world of good. I wish every suffering woman could use this excellent remedy and find out, as I did just how good it is." As it has helped thousands of others, it surely will do the same for you. The Secret of Health is Elimination of Waste

Every business man knows how difficult it is to keep the pigeon holes and drawers of his desk free from the accumulation of useless papers. Every housewife knows how difficult it is to keep her home free from the accumulation of all manner of useless things. So it is with the body. It is difficult to keep it free from the accumulation of waste matter. Unless the waste is promptly eliminated the machinery of the body soon becomes clogged. This is the beginning of most human ills.

SPIRIT OF THE AIR.

It Permeates the Entire Being of the Flying Bird.

The bird is little more than a drift of the air brought into form by plumes. The air is in all its quills. It breathes through its whole frame and flesh and glows with air in its flying, like brown flames. It rests upon the air, subdues it, surpasses it, outraces it—is the air, conscious of itself, conquering itself, ruling itself. Also in the throat of the bird is given the voice of the air. All that in the mind itself is weak, wild, useless in sweetness, is knit together in its song.

As we may imagine the wild form of the cloud closed into the perfect form of the bird's wings, so the wild voice of the cloud into its ordered and commanded voice, unwearied, rippling through the clear heaven in its gladness, interpreting all intense passion through the soft spring nights, bursting into acclaim and rapture of choir at daybreak or lisping and twittering among the boughs and hedges, through the heat of day, like little winds that only make the cowslip bells shake and ruffle the petals of the wild rose.

Also upon the plumes of the bird are put the colors of the air; on these the gold of the cloud that cannot be gathered by any covetousness; the rubies of the cloud, that are not the pride of Athena, but are Athena; the vermilion of the cloud bar, and the flame of the cloud crest, and the snow of the cloud and its shadow, and the melted blue of the deep wells of the sky—all these, seized by the creating spirit and woven by Athena herself into films and threads of plume, with wave upon wave following and fading along breast and throat and opened wings, infinite as the dividing of the foam and the sifting of the sea sand, even the white down of the cloud seeming to flutter up between the stronger plumes—seen, but too soft for touch.

And so the spirit of the air is put into and upon this created form, and it becomes through twenty centuries the symbol of divine help, descending as the fire to speak, but as the dove to bless.—From John Ruskin's "The Queen of the Air."

REMBRANDT AN EASY MARK.

The Great Painter Was a Victim of Reckless Speculation.

German art students who have been investigating the reason why Rembrandt died hopelessly bankrupt have discovered that he was an incorrigible speculator. It had hitherto been popularly supposed that he was compelled to remain poor because of his extravagant love of jewels.

Unfortunate speculations turn out to have been the cause of his financial ruin. Documents have been disinterred showing that he officially informed the municipality of Amsterdam that he had suffered heavy losses in business transactions as well as through damages and losses on the high seas.

It was at a time, 1640-60, when all Europe was engaged in feverish money making in connection with Holland's meteoric commercial prosperity. Speculation took place on a reckless scale. Immense fortunes were sunk in shipping, banking and colonial enterprises.

Rembrandt, whose highly artistic nature was sadly devoid of even elementary business sense, fell an easy victim to the scheming speculators of that era of frenzied finance, and he lost his entire fortune. Many of his pictures were seized for debt by the legal authorities before the canvases were half finished. Bankruptcy finally overtook him and compelled him to sell all his properties, his home and priceless works of art under the hammer at sacrifice prices.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Origin of Iron Duke.

The Iron Duke, of course, was Wellington, but he came by the nickname in a roundabout way. He was never so called until long after Waterloo. An iron steamship, a novelty at the time, was built in the Mersey and named the Duke of Wellington, and so the vessel came to be known as the Iron Duke, the transition being easy and obvious. It was the duke's union of resolution and physical energy which made the popular name for the Mersey built steamship to fit him like a perfect cap. Such, at least, is the explanation of his biographer, Sir Herbert Maxwell.—London Chronicle.

Power of Desire.

It has been said of Abraham Lincoln that as a boy he read less than a half dozen books and that they were such books as "Pilgrim's Progress," Weems' "Life of Washington" and a popular history of the United States written in almost primary language. Yet Lincoln was able to express himself more clearly than almost any public or literary man of his time. Such is the power of desire.

Getting a Verdict.

"We could have settled our difficulties by tossing a coin. Instead we spent a lot of money in going to law."

"Well?"

"I understand the jury settled the whole matter by tossing a coin."—Kansas City Journal.

FEDERALS ACTIVE

Villa May Have to Revise His Christmas Prediction.

IS IN DANGER AT CHIHUAHUA

American Army Officers Wonder If Federal Strategy Was Not Behind The Evacuation of Northern Capital —Ojinaga Said to Be Impregnable— Terrazas Is Writing Checks.

EL PASO, TEXAS—The federals under command of General Rubio Navarette, after retaking the City of Torreon from the rebels, are declared to be moving north in the direction of Chihuahua City, Pancho Villa's headquarters.

With most of Villa's men besieging the federals at Ojinaga, it begins to look as if Villa would have to quit Chihuahua or get trapped.

His announced intention of marching to the Mexican capital for Christmas dinner in the national palace will at least be revised. American army officers are wondering if federal strategy was not behind the evacuation of Chihuahua. General Mercado and his army marched out of the state capital and let Villa march in without a fight.

Then Villa sent most of his men after the federals at Ojinaga and now the Navarette command is coming from the south against Chihuahua from which Villa has taken the majority of his troops and much of his artillery.

From the direction of Nuevo Leon and Coahuila, another federal command is said to be marching against Chihuahua. If the rebel leader recalls his men from Ojinaga, the 4,000 federals there can march west to Juarez and cut off his base of supplies as Juarez could easily be taken by such a federal force as Mercado now has with him. If the rebels at Ojinaga remain there to attack the federals then Villa is in danger of being driven back to Juarez, out of Chihuahua, by Navarette and the Coahuila-Nuevo Leon column. The rebel outlook in Chihuahua is less bright than it has been for a month past.

Think Ojinaga Impregnable.

Ojinaga, which the federals command hold, is said to be almost impregnable and American officers on border duty there expressed the opinion that the rebels cannot take it from the 4,000 federals now holding it under Mercado.

Luis Terrazas, Jr., has already been forced to sign checks on the Banco Minero, which the Terrazas interests own, for $250,000 Mexican currency, as a part of his ransom money, according to Americans who arrived on the last refugee train from Chihuahua. They say that young Terrazas was ordered by Villa to sign the checks for amounts ranging from twenty cents to $5. These checks on the Banco Minero are being placed in circulation throughout the city as money. When the Americans left they say Terrazas was in the Chihuahua hospital under guard and that he was not to be executed.

Villa Robs German Consul.

The refugees say that Villa has shown every consideration to American Consul Letcher, except to permit him to send code messages, although he has not been so considerate of other foreigners. He confiscated an automobile and carriage belonging to German Consul Kueck.

FATHER STABS SON FATALLY

Tragic Ending of Family Fight Over Son's Shiftlessness.

BAY CITY, MICH. — Stanley Boyslak, twenty-five years old, is dead at his home, Twenty-eighth and Van Buren streets, and his father, John Boyslak, fifty-three, is locked up in local jail, charged with murder.

The tragedy was the result of a quarrel, which ended in the father stabbing and cutting the son in the abdomen with a butcher knife, inflicting injuries from which the young man died. The father unbraided his son for not paying any board and appearing at home only for his meals and his lodging. In the heat of the quarrel, the father says, his son struck him in the face with his fist. The father struck back and the son grabbed a water pitcher. The father rushed to the pantry and came back with a butcher knife and in the fight the father stabbed the son in the abdomen.

SCHMIDT TRIAL BEGINS

Grewsome Evidence Produced in New York Court Room.

NEW YORK — Many witnesses who knew Anna Aumuller and others who found portions of her body after Hans Schmidt had dismembered it and cast it into the Hudson river testified for the state at the trial, and Schmidt's attorneys seized on every point that would support their contention that he is insane.

On a table before Schmidt lay the saw and knife with which he dissected the girl's body; nearby was the blood-stained pillow slip in which a portion of it had been wrapped up. In the presence of these exhibits the prisoner sat unmoved. Miss Josef Igler, a friend of the murdered girl, is a witness for the prosecution.

REWARD FOR WRECKERS

Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Train Deliberately Derailed.

CLEVELAND, OHIO — That the partial derailment of train No. 16 of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railroad near Wickliffe, east of here during the night was the result of a deliberate attempt at train wrecking, is the belief expressed by Lake Shore officials. They assert spikes had been removed from the rails and the road has offered a reward of $1,000 for the arrest of the person or persons tampering with the roadbed.

Attached to train No. 16 was the private car of the newly elected president of the New York Central system, Alfred H. Smith. The fireman of the locomotive was killed.

"POISON PEN" STIRS SOCIETY

North Shore Notes Believed to Be Jealous Woman's.

GOVERNMENT IS INTERESTED

Writing and Paper of Two Epistles Shown to Be the Same—One Victim Fears Threat of Violence Will Be Carried Out—In State of Collapse—Neighbor Suspected.

Waukegan, Ill., Dec. 22.—A jealous woman is blamed for the "poison pen" letters sent to husbands in Waukegan and other North Shore towns warning them against alleged misbehavior on the part of their wives.

Careful comparison of two of the letters shows unmistakably feminine writing, and a handwriting that could only be the work of a cultured and refined woman. The paper is of excellent quality—a linen stock evidently by a high-class manufacturer, but with no water mark or distributor's check.

The two letters compared are the one received by James F. Minogue and the one sent to the husband of a young Waukegan society matron whose name the postal authorities are concealing. In each letter the paper is the same and the writing identical, although the Minogue letter was written a week ago and the other letter about Thanksgiving. A jealous neighbor is suspected.

One Victim Is Ill.

The Minogue letter is now on its way to the officers of the central postal inspection bureau in Washington. There it will be catalogued and an effort made to see if the paper, writing, or manner of sending check up in any way with the thousands of other cases reported to the department. Then the letter, with the additional information gained by the inspection of the files, will be returned to General James E. Stuart, inspector in charge of the Chicago division, to begin active work on the case.

Mrs. Minogue, who lives with her husband on a farm two miles southeast of Waukegan, is in a state of physical collapse as a result of the threat of violence contained in the letter sent to her.

"The letter promised that 'something terrible' would happen to me if I did not leave at once," said Mrs. Minogue. "The farm here is isolated, and I can hardly sleep through fear the writer of the letter will carry out the threat."

CLARK'S DEATH A MYSTERY

No Trail to Men Who Robbed and Murdered Indiana Farmer.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 22.—Emory C. Clark, the wealthy Jolietville (Ind.) farmer, whose body was found lodged in the trash gate of the canal at Military Park Friday, was murdered about 12:15 o'clock Friday morning by thugs who sought his money. That much, and no more, the police have determined.

Four detectives have worked on the case since the finding of the body, but other than the time of the murder, and the fact that it was committed at Missouri street and the canal, they have learned nothing. At no time have they been able to find a trace of the assailants.

Urbana, Ill., Dec. 29.—Housekeepers will go to school at the University of Illinois from Pan. 29, when a school for them will be held by the department of household science. Women from all over the state annually attend the school.

University of Illinois teachers appear on the program, which is divided into lectures on the house, food, clothing and health. Extension courses will follow on Feb. 2, but attendance is limited because of the capacity of the university kitchens.

MRS. RAY REFUSES "COP." JOB

Cannot Accept Till Laws She Is Fighting Have Been Repealed.

Gary, Ind., Dec. 22.—Mrs. Kate Wood Ray, active in suffrage work, startled her friends by declining the post offered her by Mayor Knotts of Gary, Ind., as head of the city's board of safety, which controls the fire and police departments. "I cannot serve under laws I am fighting to have repealed," she explained.

Mrs. Ray said if Indiana would grant suffrage to women she would be pleased to accept a municipal post.

DEATH WINS IN RACE HOME

Aged Woman Comes Within Half Hour of Having Wish Granted.

Flint, Mich., Dec. 22.—Mrs. Frank Randall, sixty-eight years old, was informed by her physician several days ago that she had but a short time to live. She was then wintering at Dixola, Miss., on the gulf. She declared she must get back to Flint at all costs.

When she was half an hour from Flint, on the Grand Trunk train, she died.

COURT MAY BAR OUT WOMEN

Evidence in Schmidt Case So Vile It Disgusts Lawyers.

New York, Dec. 22.—Upon the resumption of the trial of Hans Schmidt, who, while deceiving the diocesan authorities of his church in this city, killed Anna Aumuller, women will probably be barred from the courtroom.

The testimony has reached a stage which horrified everybody, from Judge Warren W. Foster of general sessions to the doortenders. Women spectators of the trial who have listened with frozen smiles to the previous testimony left the room with gasps of horror when Dr. Lichtenstein, a Tombs' physician, began telling of Schmidt's revelations to him.

CANCER VICTIMS SWAMP DOCTORS

Radium Treatment Encouragement Heartens Hopeless.

INCREDIBLE CURES EFFECTED

Work Has Been Going on at Oncologic Hospital in Philadelphia for Seven Years with Great Success—Staff Physicians Work Out Own Methods of Treatment.

Philadelphia, Dec. 22.—Heartened by the new encouragement held out by high medical authority that cancer may prove curable by radium treatment, men and women in Philadelphia who had all but given up hope of life have been flocking in such numbers to the Oncological hospital, where radium treatment can be obtained, that the resources of the institution have been swamped.

The three specimens of radium which are available for treatment are used day and night in the institution. Yet the rush of sufferers has grown to such proportions that scores of cases in which the need is slightly less urgent are now refused immediate treatment and relegated to the rapidly growing "waiting list."

Shows Almost Incredible Power.

At the same time the work with radium, which has been going on at the institution for seven years, shows the almost incredible power of the element as a healing agent.

Again and again persons who had been given up by eminent specialists as incurables, have been restored to the business of common life and scored on the books of the institution with the letters "W. M. E. D." (without manifest evidence of disease). The hospital is extremely careful about pronouncing a case "cured" but very few of the patients who have been so improved by radium treatment have shown symptoms of a return of the affliction. The staff of the American Oncologic hospital has worked out its own system of using radium. Special instruments devised by the physicians in charge, have been made for the institution and are in use there.

JOHNSON'S FATHER FORGIVES

Christmas Spirit Makes Old Man Willing to Forget Bitterness.

It was Grove L. Johnson, for two score years the greatest individual factor in the Republican party in California, who was speaking, and he was referring to his son, Hiram, the governor. "The boy is very bitter against me, but I don't know why," falteringly spoke the man who a few years ago held the state in his grasp. "He's a smart man. Why shouldn't he be? I am his father. Christmas is drawing near, and I want him back."

BABY SMOKER BADLY BURNED

Lights Rolled Paper in Disastrous Effort to Intimate Father.

Evansville, Ind., Dec. 22.—Three-year-old Joseph Petrig was badly burned about the face and hands when he rolled paper into the shape of a cigar and lighted it, as he had seen his father do a few minutes before.

Union City, Ind., Dec. 22.—Frieda May, the three-year-old daughter of Norman E. Erwin, living east of here, was burned to death as the result of her clothes catching on fire from the kitchen stove. The mother was burned severely in putting out the fire. The little girl died in a few hours.

HUERTA'S MEN RECEIVE CASH

Expected Trouble at Ojinaga Fails to Occur.

OROZCO TO STAND BY HUERTA

General Denies Any Intention to Join in New Revolution—Volunteers Feel Bitter Toward Gen Mercado—Break Expected—Officers Refused to Speak to Him.

Presidio, Tex., Dec. 22.—The payment of the long overdue wages of the federal and volunteer soldiers at Ojinaga has begun and none of the expected trouble over the distribution of the funds occurred. It will require several days in which to pay off the entire army. It is understood that the preference is being given the volunteers in the distribution of the money and that they waived their right to payment in full, agreeing upon a reasonable pro ratio.

Alberto Terraza, who brought the money from Farfa to Ojinaga, brought about the agreement on the part of the volunteers to take part pay.

General Orozco denies that he has any intention of joining the new revolution which it is alleged Felix Diaz and Emilio Vasquez Gomez are attempting to launch.

Will Stand by Huerta.

"I want to say," said General Orozco, "that I am for the Huerta government, first, last and all the time, and will be fighting for it because I believe it to be the only government capable of settling the problems that the republic of Mexico now has to face. I will stand by it until I have died upon the field of battle or until it is firmly established throughout the nation and peace has been restored to my unhappy country."

Despite the quiet which reigns at Ojinaga since the payment of the troops began there is still a feeling that there will be a break between the federals and volunteers, owing to the general dissatisfaction which with General Mercado is regarded by the volunteers.

Volunteers Dislike Mercado.

Several Americans who have been across the river declare that the volunteer officers refuse not only to take orders from General Mercado, but refuse to speak to him. One man saw General Salazar enter headquarters and shake hands with other officers but turn his back to his general without even saluting. Reports are in circulation that Mercado has been ordered to Mexico City because of his quitting Chihuahua in face of the enemy but these are not credited, as Mercado's wife is a sister of President Huerta's wife.

It is known that the volunteer officers, Orozco, Salazar, Rojas and Caraveo have wired Huerta that they will no longer take orders from Mercado and that at least Orozco and Salazar have been given independent orders for operation when they leave Ojinaga.

FUNK ON RAILROAD BOARD

Governor Will Also Name Progressive Leader in Utility Board.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 22.—Frank H. Funk was appointed a member of the railroad and warehouse commission by Governor Dunne in place of James A. Willoughby of Belleville, Republican, who resigned.

The governor let it become known that is is his purpose to appoint Mr. Funk as a member of the new public utilities commission when it is form-

ROVING COMMISSION DENIED TO WHITMAN

Gov. Glynn Thinks District Attorney Plays Politics.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 22.—Governor Glynn has denied the request of District Attorney Whitman for a designation as deputy attorney general with powers to go into any county of the state and in a statement setting up his reasons for the denial makes it plain that he believes Mr. Whitman is playing politics.

"I will not appoint Mr. Whitman a special deputy general to roam the state with blanket powers because I cannot," said Governor Glynn. "The law gives me no such power of appointment and Mr. Whitman, good lawyer that he is, must know this. I am not convinced that Mr. Whitman has stated his real purpose in making a request which he knew I could not grant."

District Attorney Whitman made the request for a designation as a deputy attorney general through J. W. Osborne and Henry R. Rubino, counsel for the Warner Quinlan Asphalt company and two supreme court justices.

PINDELL TO SHOW LETTERS

Senators Ask for and May Get Correspondence with Stone.

Washington, Dec. 22.—Henry M. Pindell of Peoria, nominated for ambassador to Russia, has been asked by members of the subcommittee appointed to investigate charges against him to permit his correspondence with Representative Stone of Illinois to be examined by the subcommittee.

It is reported he has agreed to let the letters be examined. The letters are said to relate to control of appointments in Peoria for personal ends.

PRESIDENT READY TO SIGN CURRENCY BILL

Owen and Glass to Get Pens Used to Sign It.

Washington, Dec. 22.—President Wilson was informed by telephone at frequent intervals as to the progress being made by the house and senate conferences on the currency bill. When he learned that the senate had yielded on the provisions in regard to the organization committee and the doing of an acceptance business by the banks, the last doubt vanished from his mind as to whether he would sign the bill as it will be finally agreed on.

The president plans that the ceremonies accompanying the signing of the measure shall be closely similar to those which marked his formal approval of the Underwood-Simmons tariff law.

Members of the banking and currency committees of the house and senate, cabinet officers and other high officials who were prominently identified with the drafting and enactment of the new currency law will be invited to his office. Probably he will use two pens to sign his name, so that there may be one for the chairmen of each committee, Senator Owen and Representative Glass, whose names the bill will bear.

Detroit, Dec. 18—Thousands of boys in the state of Michigan are forming conference clubs and Bible groups, and teaching Sunday School classes, and becoming members of the church as a result of the state boys' conference held in Saginaw Nov. 28 to 30.

According to reports received at the offices of the state executive commitee of the Young Men's Christian association the influence of that gathering, attended by 1100 boys, has been greater than anything ever known before in this state.

Reports from the different county and city secretaries of the association show that mass meetings and conference of boys are being held or planned in almost every community represented by delegates at the conference.

Many of thees have been held for the purpose of arousing other boys in the work and benefits of the state boys' conference. Others have been held so that the boy could make their reports

COUNTY MUST PAY EXPENSE OF SETTING GOVERNMENT HEADSTONES OVER THE GRAVES OF OLD SOLDIERS, SAILORS OR WIDOWS.

A bill for $1.00 expense for setting a government headstone over the grave of Patrick Blair buried at Brookside some time ago was presented to the Board of Supervisors for payment. The Board turned it down on the grounds that this expense should have come out of the $55.00 allowed by the county for burial expenses and for fear of establishing a precedent whereby other bills of a like amount would be presented.

The state of Michigan has an act that provide that where a veteran dies possessed of less than $1500.00 the county shall bury him, the expenses not to exceed $55.00.

An act of congress also provides that government must furnish a headstone pay the expense of shipping from Washington to the place of burial.

The cemetery committee of the G. A. R, through its chairman H. W. Stevens appealed this matter to Attorney General Grant Fellows and have received word that in his opinion the county must bear this expense.

JOHN VANCE GOHEEN

John Vance Goheen, a prominent farmer residing north east of Tecumseh, died Friday morning, December 12. Death was due to general breaking down.

Mr. Goheen was a well known farmer, having lived all but 2 years and a few months of his life on the farm, his father taking up the land from the Government. He was born in Groveland, N. Y., Oct. 12, 1829, being 84 years and 2 months old the day of his death. He was one of seven children born to Mr. and Mrs John Vance and was the last of the family to go, his youngest sister Miranda having died last April at the age of 78 years.

On the 11th of Oct. 1883, he was married to Miss Esther Murphy who survives his death. The funeral was held at his late home Monday afternoon at one o'clock. The services were largely attended by many friends who mourn the death of an old friend. The bearers were James and Thomas Elliott, James Aten, John Gillespie, will Schreder and Al Whitmore.

Rev. B. R. Weld, a former Tecumseh pastor, came from Toledo to preach the sermon. Music was furnished by Mrs Ella Hodges and Mrs. Richard Mead. Those present from out of town were Mrs. James Stephson of Napoleon, Mrs. Fannie Weed and daughter of Battle Creek, Fremont Goheen of Eaton Rapids, Chas. Culbertson and wife of Ridgeway, and Lewis Feldman and wife of Saline.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank all the friends and neighbors for kindness shown at the time of the sickness and death of my husband and also to thank all who sent the beautiful flowers.

Mrs. J. Vance Goheen

S. S. McCLURE

S. S. McClure one of the publishers of McClures magazine writes in their January number an autobiography of himself in which he speaks of his short residence in Tecumseh. It was about the year 1878 when he struck Tecumseh. He had been following the life of a peddler and was travelling through Southern Michigan when becoming discouraged he decided to take a train for Tecumseh where three of his uncles were living. Two of them owned a sawmill and worked at his father's trade, carpentering. The other ran a grocery store. He was hired in the grocery store as a clerk and worked in the store all summer.

To quote from his article "I didn't like it half so well as peddling. Whenever I think of that store, I thing of darkness and confinement of being shut in a narrow dusty room while their was sunlight outside. I plunged into that store everyday as if I were going into prison."

He didn't stay long here however but long enough to get a landslide from his grandfather who died in Ireland leaving all the grandchildren who were named after him (of which he was one) ten pounds apiece. With this great fortune he set out for Valpariso.

We are glad that good fortune crowned his stay here in Tecumseh and we are well aware of the fact that his success in life was largely due to his short stay here.

DENATURING CHRISTMAS.

"Denaturizing" is an odd word It means taking the spirit out of a thing' changing the nature of it, making it do something or mean something it was not intended to door mean Have we been doing that with our holidays and our holy days

The Scriptures give a number of badly managed occasions which suggest some of the faults of modern holy days and holidays.

Exodus 32 tells of a disgraceful blasphemous episode when the Israelites, under Aaron's leadership, made and worshiped a false god, indulging, in connection with their false worship, in orgies of wicked pleasures. Neh 8: 9-12 tells of a crime when the people were not to gay, but to sad.

All these errors we are in danger of translation into modern life.

Rest, worship, service, recreation, wholesome pleasure—through-going, enthusiastic joy—these, with the presence of our great Friend Christ, will make blessed holy days and glad and helpful holidays,

Holiday Exercises in Our Schools.

Friday Dec. 18 was the closing day of our schools and in each grade appropriate exercises were given, fine programs being prepared for this event. In the high school the Freshmen furnished the entertainment. Following was the program:

Recitation, "Original Christmas"—Doris Kloffenstein.
Piano Duet—Clara Bancroft and Lucile Conklin.
Reading, "The Other Wise Man"—Seymour Babcock.
"High School News," a paper of jokes—Russell Biesing.
Vocal solo—Lillian Kennedy.
Reading, "Goblins"—Paul Keyser.
Song "Lift Thine Eyes"—Glee Club.

EAST BRANCH.

The third and fourth grades gave a dialogue, "King Winter's Throne," which was followed by a program of of recitations and music and the final act, the giving of presents, was not the least enjoyable.

The fifth and sixth grades joined in giving a very pleasing entertainment with the following program.

Recitation—Naomi VanWinkle.
Solo "Christmas Lullaby"—Ruth Potter.

A dialogue with 17 characters "How Christmas was Saved, or the Sorrows of Santa Claus" was given in a very charming manner, each character being well represented.

CONFIRMATION SERVICES AT ST. PETER'S CHURCH

Bishop Williams In Attendance

St. Peter's Episcopal church was crowded to its capacity Sunday at the confirmation services at four o'clock. A class of twenty-two received the right of confirmation. Bishop Williams sermon on the words 'For me to live is Christ" was a most eloquent appeal to all to live the life of Christ and do to his work. He urged upon the class to take these words as their motto through life. The singing by the vested choir was exceptionally fine. Mrs. Eugene Rosacrans sang a solo at the close of the services. As the audience left the church it was with the feeling that it was good to have been here.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE.

It Causes Hardening of the Arteries and Other Grave Troubles.

Physicians have always studied the pulse, because it gives valuable information concerning the body's condition of health or disease. But it is only recently that they have begun to use the term "blood pressure" frequently and to regard the amount of that pressure as of great importance. That is because they now have instruments for accurately measuring the pressure, which previously they could only estimate by feeling the pulse.

Blood pressure or the degree of tension of the blood current within the arteries is chiefly significant because a permanent increase in it is quite sure to be followed in time by hardening of the arteries and by the degeneration or disease of important organs, especially the kidneys.

The blood pressure is increased by a number of causes that increase the force of the heart beat or that contract the [illegible] blood vessels. Any excitement, anger, joy, fear, "nervousness"—raises it temporarily. But that is of little importance unless the emotion is frequently repeated or unless the person already has diseased arteries. The blood pressure that is permanently high is more serious. That comes from long continued mental excitement, such as worry, business anxiety or political life or from the action of certain poisons that are formed in the system and not properly excreted.

These poisons come from the waste products of digestion, especially in large meat eaters. They raise the blood pressure by causing the smaller arteries to contract.

In small amounts these poisons are excreted at once, but in persons who eat large quantities of meat, especially of beef and mutton—poultry and fish are less harmful—they are sometimes formed in amounts so large that the kidneys cannot dispose of them promptly. When this happens, especially if it occurs in a person who is under a constant mental strain, like the politician, the financier or the chronic worrier, there is grave danger of a permanent high blood pressure and, following that, of hardening of the arteries and of kidney disease, mental disturbance or apoplexy.

[illegible] must worry be a vegetarian; if you must eat meat do so only once a day—or, better still, every other day.—Youth's Companion.

Wonders of Victoria Falls.

Victoria falls is in shape like a huge capital T—the falls represented by the top of the letter and the outlet by the stem. The water pours into a great pool a mile long and escapes by a narrow outlet not more than 150 feet wide in places. The water pours into the pool with a roar that may be heard twenty-eight miles and stirs up a spray that causes constant rain to fall in its immediate territory. This spray is so great that it looks like a cloud against the sky and may be seen before you hear the roar of the falls. Yet the water from this great pool escapes almost as quietly as water from an undisturbed lake. After the water escapes from the great pool below the falls through the stem of the letter T it makes a turn at right angles and sweeps around like the capital letter U. Yet there is no great disturbance in any part of the outlet from the falls. At Niagara the whirlpool rapids is one of the world's wonders. Here the river a few hundred feet below the falls seems to be navigable.—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

Couldn't Be Much Lighter.

At a mock parliament held in Bristol the "honorable member for Stranraer" asked the "right honorable the president of the board of trade" (referring to the merchant shipping act 1894, prevention of collisions) "whether a lighterman, having two light lighters in tow, would be required to light a lighter light on the lighter lighter, so that the lighter the lighter the lighter the light?" The president replied. "Obviously the answer is in the negative, since the lighter lighter being the lighter and the use of the comparative 'lighter' denoting that the lighter is already 'light' the lighter of the lights would not be required to light a lighter light on the lighter lighter, since the lighter lighter is lighter than the light lighter."—Strand Magazine.

Just Try It.

A curiosity in arithmetic has recently been worked out by a British astronomer in answer to the question, What is the largest number that can be expressed with three digits?

The answer is 9^{9^9} (the ninety-ninth power of nine).

The figure which this represents is so big that it is awesome. If it were printed in full it would fill thirty-three volumes of 800 pages each of fine type. The first twenty-eight figures are 428,124,773,175,747,048,036,987,115.9, and the last two are 89. In between these are 369,693,070 figures.

The Unknown Quantity.

"I'll bet she will," began the rash youth.

"Don't," interrupted his older and wiser companion. "Don't bet that she will ever do anything. You can never tell what a woman will do."

"But," protested the young man, "I was going to bet that she would do the unexpected."

"Don't," repeated the elder earnestly. "Even that is no safe bet."—Judge.

The Original New Zealanders.

The original New Zealanders were known as the most ferocious cannibals and the most warlike savages. They were big, gaunt fellows, of immense muscular force and great sagacity. These savage New Zealanders, though they ate their enemies, interred their own dead, and they believed that the third day after burial the heart separated itself from the corpse and was carried to the clouds by an attendant spirit.

Unfreezable.

"Can any one name a liquid that doesn't freeze?" asked the teacher.

There was a moment's silence, says the Berliner Illustrirte Zeitung. Then an excited little voice in the rear of the room answered eagerly, "Please, teacher, hot water!"

The Secret of Health is Elimination of Waste
Every business man knows how difficult it is to keep the pigeon holes and drawers of his desk free from the accumulation of useless papers. Every housewife knows how difficult it is to keep her home free from the accumulation of all manner of useless things. So it is with the body. It is difficult to keep it free from the accumulation of waste matter. Unless the waste is promptly eliminated the machinery of the body soon becomes clogged. This is the beginning of most human ills.

NAMED BY MISTAKE.

That Is What Happened to Three of Vermont's Towns.

It is not often that a town is named by mistake, but about 150 years ago this thing happened—not to one town, but to three towns in Vermont. At that time a grant of land was made by New Hampshire to some Connecticut settlers. This tract then, as now, was divided into three townships—Burlington, on the hillside of Lake Champlain; Colchester, just north, and Williston, east. The three towns were chartered on the same day, and it was at this time that the names were mixed.

The Burling family took up their land in the north section (Colchester), and it seems to be true that their name was to have been given the town, so that it should have been called Burlington. Other settlers took up the eastern portion (Williston), and the rest remained in the part by the lake (Burlington). Among these last was the Willis family, and there is evidence that they expected to call the city Williston. However, there was so much confusion in the entering of the records that the town where the Burlings settled was called Colchester, the town of the Willis family was named Burlington, while the town to the east was called Williston. And so they have remained to this day.—Ladies' Home Journal.

ORIGIN OF BLACKMAIL.

The Term Was Born of Outlawry on the Scottish Border.

The etymology of the expression "blackmail" is historically interesting. It appears to have its origin on the Scottish border and dating from times when frequent political feuds between the then two kingdoms of the British islands tacitly justified a sort of perennial terrestrial buccaneering as between borderers of each realm.

Many of these were outlaws on both sides of the border. Their neighboring victims to save their cattle from being lifted sometimes compounded for safety by an annual payment as insurance to the bandits. This fee not only gave them immunity, but entailed them to protect them from rival freebooters. It was their "mail," or "protection." The "mail" coach was so named because it had its armed guard with loaded blunderbuss on the dickey.

But the mail paid by border farmers was not for honest royal protection, but for guardianship by thieves, and hence was "black" mail, the color of black being typical of what was nefarious, whether in art or in guardianship, while the guardian of this stamp was known as the "blackguard" of the district. The last named latter day term of reproach seems to have obtained its expression originally as here described.—London Field.

REPRIEVE FOR SPENCER

Murderer of Chicago Tango Teacher Gets a Month's Delay.

CHICAGO—Henry Spencer, who was condemned to die on the gallows next Friday for the murder of Mrs. Mildred Allison-Rexroat, the Chicago tango teacher, will not hang on that day. Governor Dunne has granted a reprieve of thirty days so the case can be taken to the state supreme court.

"I do not like to see Christmas in the state of Illinois marred by a hanging," was one of the reasons given by the governor in respiting Spencer. Another reason, the governor said, was that Spencer was a poor man and entitled to a chance for his life.

Bede House Feasts.

At Fosdyke, a tiny village in England, there is held every year a most quaint dinner known as the Bede house feast. Some gentleman, many years back, left a sum of money with which half a dozen Bede houses were to be built, and once a year he directed that the occupants were to have a feast. Every year the six old ladies and the six old gentlemen meet, the trustees and have dinner. Some of the trustees are county councilors and the like; but, according to the terms of the will, they have to serve the old people first and make them comfortable. The guests always sit in the same order as the number of their houses and the menu must include a veal pie with plums in it.

When Hanging Was Common.

Edmond Burke said that he could in his time obtain the assent of the house of commons to any bill that carried the death punishment.

A man's life was not very valuable in those strenuous days. If he scratched his name on Westminster bridge, if he wore a wig or false mustache or any other disguise on a public road, if he cut down a young tree, if he stole property worth more than $1.25, if he had been transported for crime and returned a day ahead of the expiration of his term of punishment, if he wrote a threatening letter, if he stole a hide from a tanner's, for any and all of these things and for 200 more than these he was hanged by the neck until he was dead.

JOE TINKER IS INVALUABLE

Frank Chance Says $50,000 Would Have Been Cheap Price to Pay.

New York, Dec. 22.—"Frank Chance told me last summer that Tinker's release would be cheap at $50,000 if we could get him," said President Farrel of the New York Americans.

"Chance said that Tinker as a player and a field lieutenant was invaluable to any club. He declared that Tinker's knowledge of inside baseball had helped the Cubs to win two world's championships and that if our club could get him we would be strengthened at least thirty per cent. If it had been possible for me to bid for Tinker's release I would have gone higher than any other club owner."

STRYCHNINE PILLS KILL BABY

Bloomington Boy Feeds Eight Tablets to Younger Sister.

Bloomington, Ind., Dec. 22.—Edward, five years old, and Maude, three years old, children, of John Matthews, a Monon railway fireman of this city, found a box containing strychnine tablets at their home.

The boy fed his sister eight of the tablets before his mother discovered the fact, and the little girl died in great agony.

IOWAN "WINS" $5,000 FROM CITY "FARMER"

Police Get Busy and Save His Home Bank Account.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 22.—Into Chicago drifted Sherman Biederbeck, a farmer in Havelock county, Ia. He sold his drove of sheep for $1,500 and sent $1,400 home. Another "farmer" introduced himself as John Wilson. Near the German building in Jackson park Wilson introduced Biederbeck to a "famous race track bookmaker." "Here's the betting exchange," said the bookmaker, going into the German building. "I'll win a $5 bet for you."

A moment later he ran out and told the delighted pair they had both won. Several times he did this, each time shoving money into Farmer Biederbeck's willing hands. "Now I've made a killing," he said the last time "You're $5,000 richer, but you'll have to show money to cover the bet."

Biederbeck ran most of the way to the elevated station to send home for his $1,400. He and Wilson took a room downtown. Policemen entered and took both of them to the station, and a moment later appeared with the "bookmaker," who was identified as George Williams, the "Alabama Kid," with a long record.

Senator from Oregon Establishes a New Record for Brevity.

Washington, Dec 22.—Senator Lane of Oregon apparently believes "that brevity is the soul of wit."

Dr. Johnson Hated Baths.

Swinburne evidently found baths a source of inspiration, for he told Mr. Edmund Gosse that "Baudelaire" was written in a Turkish bath.

Dr. Johnson, on the other hand, regarded them with suspicion. When an old Lichfield friend, showing him over a house built specially for him, dilated on the advantages of the bathroom the doctor said, "Sir, are you well?" "Quite well, thank you, doctor," was the reply. "Then, sir, let well alone I hate immersion."—London Spectator.

The states which voted for the convention were Indiana, Kansas, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, New Mexico, New York, North and South Dakota, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Washington and West Virginia.

By a unanimous vote the committee adopted a resolution pledging the committee to carry out reforms in party procedure and management of its own motion.

It is the belief of both the so-called regular and progressive leaders that the day's work of the committee amounts to a revolutionary change in the organization of the Republican party and that it will go a long way toward restoring the harmonious relations that took wings in the convention of 1912.

RAILWAYS LOSE SUIT

Missouri Wins Victory in 2 Cent Fare and Freight Rates.

KANSAS CITY, MO. — The great state of Missouri won a final victory in the 2 cent railroad passenger and maximum freight rate cases when Judge Smith McPherson of Red Oak, Ia., following the mandate of the supreme court of the United States, dismissed "without prejudice" the cases filed by thirteen railroads enjoining the state from enforcing the rate laws. The higher court sustained the validity of both laws and ordered the cases dismissed.

Judge McPherson also refused to retain jurisdiction in the federal court, as asked by the roads. As a result shippers and travelers may bring suit to recover excess rates paid during the time the injunctions were in force. These charges are estimated to be in excess of $10,000,000.

NEWS OF THE STATE

Thief Ends Reunion Plans.

KALAMAZOO, MICH.—As Benjamin Brunnell, a local papermaker, boarded a train here for Fort Paine, Ga., where he expected to visit his parents whom he has not seen for fifteen years, his pocketbook was snatched from his inside coat pocket. He discovered his loss before the train left the station, and left the car penniless. The purse contained $155 and his railroad tickets.

"I don't mind losing the money, but I do hate to give up my Christmas visit at home," the victim lamented.

Costly Fire at East Jourdan.

The sawmill was worth $200,000 and the planing mill about the same. The loss will be keenly felt by many employes who will be thrown out of employment for several months while repairs are made.

Spoofed by Flashy Negro.

ANN ARBOR, MICH. — Officers are looking for a well-dressed negro giving the name of Brown, who obtained auto rides galore for nothing on the strength of a story of $22,000 in a bank in Seattle, Wash., and an expressed desire to buy a "cheap cat —something for $1,500, perhaps."

He offered to buy at least three cars with a $300 check as first payment, but remembered each time that he was short of change and tried to cash one for $5. He succeeded in one instance.

$1,100,000 for Clubhouse.

DETROIT, MICH.—At the meeting of members of the Detroit Athletic club $600,000 was subscribed in less than two hours toward the $1,100,000 required to purchase grounds and erect a new clubhouse. The entire sum raised will go to buy up second mortgage bonds of the club. Of first mortgage bonds, three bonding companies have bid for the full amount, $500,000. Another $100,000 will be spent for equipment.

HOOT ROOSEVELT

Colonel Has an Unpleasant Experience in Chile.

IN CLASH WITH DR. MARTINEZ

Washington Officials Are Anxiously Awaiting Authentic Reports of the Controversy in Santiago, Chile, Over the Monroe Doctrine—Former Minister Raises Ire of Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON — The official reports are being eagerly awaited here of the clash between former President Roosevelt and Dr. Marcial Mantinez at Santiago, Chile, over the Monroe doctrine.

Dr. Martinez, who was formerly minister to this country, is reported to have strongly dissented from the Roosevelt view that the doctrine is still a vital issue.

It is said that at the conclusion of the Roosevelt reception a demonstration against the American visitor was made by students as he left the university.

Both Speeches Officially O. K.'d.

The debate attracted unusual interest here because both of the prepared speeches had been carefully reviewed by the Chilean [illegible] Dr. Martinez, it was said at the Chilean legation, was selected as spokesman of the Chilean government at the state reception given the American visitor at the University of Santiago because of his warm friendship for the United States.

In his address Dr. Martinez dealt with the Monroe doctrine, characterizing it as a dead issue and arguing that the conditions which gave rise to its promulgation by President Monroe in 1823 have almost entirely disappeared.

Roosevelt's Ire Aroused.

This statement is said to have aroused the ire of Colonel Roosevelt, who replied with some heat, holding that the Monroe doctrine still was a vital principle of the foreign policy of the United States. He is said to suggested to the Chilean diplomatist, incidentally, that it was ill-advised on such an occasion to inaugurate a controversy.

Then Colonel Roosevelt, according to report, stated that before leaving the United States the text of the addresses he proposed to deliver in Brazil, Argentina and Chile had been submitted to the diplomatic representatives of those nations in Washington to avoid the inclusion of anything that might prove offensive to his hosts.

Dr. Mantinez's Reply.

To this Dr. Martinez is said to have replied that his own address had been submitted to the Chilean foreign office three days before Colonel Roosevelt's arrival, and that as no objection had been raised in that quarter, he could see no reason why the discussion of the Monroe doctrine should be avoided as a dangerus issue.

DEPOSITORS FIND BANK DOORS SHUT

Plainfield, Ill., Institution Closes Without Explanation.

JOLIET, ILL.—The Plainfield (Ill.) bank, a private institution owned by J. E. Evarts in the little town near Joliet, did not open its doors. This came without warning to the depositors in the village and the neighboring country and there was great excitement throughout the day.

No reason has been given for the bank's failure to open. Evarts could not be found and it is said he had left the town. At the Evarts home no information could be obtained. It was said that Mr. Evarts was not in and Mrs. Evarts refused to come to the door or answer the telephone. Crowds gathered in front of the bank and the Evarts' home, but could learn nothing and dispersed.

The bank is the oldest in the town, having been established twenty-five years ago. Up to last spring, when the Plainfield State bank was started, it had the field to itself. Its deposits are believed to aggregate $100,000. Farmers in the adjacent district are the largest depositors.

SOUTH IS CUT 82 DELEGATES

North Loses Eight of Which New York Suffers Four.

WASHINGTON — A new basis of apportionment to govern the selection of delegates to Republican national conventions was adopted by the Republican national committee at the conclusion of a session marked by sharp debate. The new plan reduces the representatives in the national convention of fifteen states and the territory of Hawaii.

The southern states suffer a reduction of eighty-two delegates, Hawaii, 4; New York, 4; Illinois, 2, and New Jersey and Kentucky one each. Every state is given one delegate for each congressional district and an additional delegate for every district casting 7,500 votes in 1908, besides two delegates for each United States senator and congressman at large.

GRAND RAPIDS LOSES RAW SEWAGE FIGHT

Many Towns Can Be Stopped from Polluting Streams.

LANSING, MICH.—That which is looked upon as one of the most important cases decided by the supreme court in years, was decided when the court denied the City of Grand Rapids a rehearing in the case in which the supreme court had before held the city had no right to run its sewage into Grand river, without first purifying it in some manner.

The decree orders that the City of Grand Rapids must install septic tanks or some other method of purification by which the sewage of the city will be purified before it is allowed to be drained into the river. The decision of the court will mean an expenditure of at least $1,000,000 by the City of Grand Rapids.

Prominent attorneys here claim the decision sets a precedent in the state in that it means any one can bring suit against a city which dumps its sewage into a stream, and that it is one of the first guns to be fired for the purification of the streams of Michigan.

Here Is a Late Specimen of One of Our New Sovereigns.

ADRIAN, MICH. — The largest class of aliens in the history of Lenawee county, twenty-four in all, came before Judge O'Mealey in the circuit court to become citizens.

Among this number was William Linse, a native of Germany, who did not know what an election was, said he never had heard of a town meeting, and didn't know the name of a single township or county officer. "Where would you go to get a hunting license," asked Federal Examiner F. W. Weber, of Chicago.

"To the court," Dinse replied.

"What court?" he was asked.

"To the nearest court, of course," said Dinse. He has lived in America twenty-five years.

Each told a sorrowful tale of meeting two negro women, who relieved Knight of $8 and filled his pockets with straw, and the unidentified man of $170 and filled his pockets with hay.

The police went out to round up the two women, but had not found them at a late hour.

THE harm that may come from an innocent flirtation is amply shown in "A Butterfly on the Wheel," the play which is based on the subject of divorce and which we are soon to have the opportunity of seeing in this city. While it is not a lesson in the ordinary sense of the word, it brings home a wonderful moral, but it is told in a most graphic and gripping manner. The piece held the attention of London for an entire season, and when produced in New York last year it met with equal success.

Peggy Admaston, wife of a member of parliament, has the idea that her husband is neglecting her for his work, while, as a matter of fact, the husband wishes to rise to greater heights in order to please his wife. She finds solace in the acquaintanceship of Roderick Collingwood, and then springs up an attachment which is purely innocent. Collingwood really falls in love with Peggy and on every possible occasion presses his suit. They plan a trip to Switzerland, being accompanied by Lady Atwill and Lord Ellerdine. At Boulogne Collingwood arranges to have Peggy's baggage placed on the wrong train. Consequently they are separated from their friends, and instead of going toward Switzerland they soon find themselves in Paris. There is nothing to do but put up for the night at a hotel. But Collingwood, it seems, has told Lady Atwill of his plan before leaving London. Lady Atwill has been rejected by Mr. Admaston, and in order to even the score she writes him an anonymous letter, acquainting him with the fact that his wife will spend the night in a Paris hotel with Collingwood. Admaston immediately hires a detective and sets out for Paris, meantime, however, calling up the hotel and finding that Collingwood is in the apartment of his wife. The audience, of course, has been a witness of what has transpired in Peggy's apartment, and they know that she is innocent, although not in the eyes of the law.

Early next morning Lady Atwell and Lord Ellerdine arrive, and the quartet busy themselves with contriving an excuse, but their attempts only result in one lie after the other, which are too ridiculous for any one to believe. Consequently when the husband arrives a short while later he refuses to credit any of the statements and casts his wife aside, telling her that she can now go to Collingwood forever. A divorce suit follows, in which occurs a scene of acute interest. The prosecution is conducted by an attorney who is of a station equal to that occupied by Peggy. He is a man of force, strong character, but unrelenting. All the delicate facial and vocal changes, the apt byplay, the studied urbanity suddenly replaced by ponderous indignation, the jocose suggestion, the seemingly casual question, the swift counterthrust following the incautious answer of the frail little "butterfly," the confidential aside to the judge, which is always meant to create the wrong opinion in the minds of the jurors, the beguiling courtesy to the victim—all the tricks of the adroit cross examiner are exhibited in this capital character of an English lawyer. The contrast is all the more pronounced on account of the frailty of the witness. Time and again she appeals to the court for protection, wailing out her innocence, but she is made to answer questions and instructed not to offer criticism. In a moment of despair she cries out:

"The truth! What is the truth to you? It is not the truth you want; it's me—my very soul—that's what you want; not to wring the truth out of me, but just so much of it as will serve your ends. I have been hunted and hounded into it. I am not surprised now that innocent women in hundreds let their cases go by default rather than face the humiliation and torture of this awful place."

"Now, Mrs. Admaston, and for the last time, I press you for an answer. Do you still insist that you and your lover"—

Peggy—How dare you suggest that he is my lover! If I loved him do you think I would be here now? For months and months he begged me to let my husband divorce me. If I had loved him do you think that I would have faced this horrible place? I have loved admiration—I have played with fire. I never knew that the law—man's law—made no difference between the opportunity to do wrong and the giving way to it. I know now. Some day men who know women will make other laws, but some of us must have our lives broken first. I swear before God I have done nothing wrong—nothing. But no one will believe me now—no one—

The strain of the trial and the gross insinuations prove too much, and upon the conclusion of the delivery of the foregoing speech the witness falls in a swoon, and the trial, for the day at least, abruptly ends.

The husband's eyes, the audience learns in the final act, are now open, and the inevitable reconciliation follows, but only after it has been strikingly shown just what anguish may be in store for many a woman who is really good, but is inclined to indulge in a so called harmless flirtation.

NEW RULE IN DAYTON

Ohio Community Run Under the Direction of a City Manager.

DAYTON, OHIO — Dayton has been successful in securing a city manager who has charge of all municipal affairs. After the recent floods the city found the old aldermanic system of government inadequate to cope with the serious situation; hence the commission form of government was adopted with a provision for a city manager.

The manager is responsible for de[illegible]ation and directs the city as a president directs a bank. Henry M. Waite has been awarded the position. The place was offered to Colonel Goethals of Panama canal fame, but he refused.

Coming to Herself.

On one occasion Dr. Francis Warner of the London hospital was trying to bring back to complete consciousness a woman who had had a paralytic stroke. His efforts seemed likely to be in vain. For a long time her utterances were only the ravings of delirium. But all at once she sat up in bed and, looking straight at Dr. Warner, she cried out, "Oh, you funny old man!"

"Ah!" said Dr. Warner cheerfully. "Now she's beginning to talk sense!"—London Tit-Bits.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

With the hall in Christmas decorrtions and bright with many electric lights, the pretty girls and their dainty dresses, the young men at their best, the Christmas party was surely a pleasant one. About 65 couple were present and with music furnished by Fishers orchestra of Ann Arbor the dance went merrily on until a late hour. A banquet was served in the Young Mens Club rooms and was much enjoyed.

MIDNIGHT SERVICE

At St. Peters Church

The advent of Christmas Day was very fittingly observed at St. Peters church on Christmas eve. The congregation assmbled in the gloom just preceding the glory of the dawn the choir marching in in the darkness. As the hour of midnight approached the lights were turned on and the star in the East shone forth in all its glory. The whole program was full of the theme of the birth of Christ and was an inspiration to all. At the close of the program Holy Communion was observed and in the early morning hour the crowd dispersed to their homes.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT CALUMET

Dead Total—78.

An unknown man gave a false alarm of fire in Italian Hall at Calumet on Wednesday evening during the Xmas eve entertainment which was attended by about 700 people mostly women and children.

Panic stricken the people rushed for the stairs when the alarm was given and men, women and children were trampled and crushed to death in their vain effort to escape. The police and fire department were called but were unable to stop the mad rush.

All was quiet until the cry of "fire." It was taken up in many tongues and there was a rush for the main entrance.

Mrs. Mary Clemens, president of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Western Federation of Miners, charge of the entertainment, attempted to quiet the throng but was unheard and unheeded.

One woman started playing the piano, another sang but their efforts were in vain.

The main stairway was soon blocked with bodies.

Of the known dead, 37 are girls, 19 boys, 13 women and 9 men.

The man who sounded the false alarm escaped unknown during the excitement. An effort is being made to find him.

An inquest will be conducted Monday by Coroner William T. Fisher.

Odors Easily Discovered.

A nose not overly sharp can discover such hygienic and unhygienic odors as sewer gas, cellar air, illuminating gas, decaying fruit, coal gas, putrid meat, new moan hay, fresh country breezes, frosty morning, showery atmospheres, ocean winds and the invigorating ozone that follows a thunder shower.

THE MILL OF LIFE.

The following little poem written by and old Tecumseh boy, son of the late Joseph Marsh for many years head miller at the Hayden Mills; Emmet was also a miller in the same mill. This is such a gem that we feel his many friends should have the pleasure of reading it.

How like to life is one great mill
Which never shutteth down;
And man is like to Nature's wheat,
The glory of her crown.
The roll are like the years which turn,
And grind us as they roll,
With God the Mighty Miller,
Whose product is the soul
To this great mill of life we come,
By his own will decreed:
He grinds us in revolving years
To suit his every need.
Death stands without to get his toll,
Time marks the final hour;
Earth takes the body, dust and dross,
God takes the soul—the flour.
—Emmet S. Marsh.

POSTAGE 100 YEARS AGO

In looking over the pages of the Michigan Manf. and Financial Record we find a very interesting article on the postage system back to 100 years ago, we find that the first postage stamps were issued in 1847; letters first registered in 1855, and postal postal cards in 1873.

In sending a letter 100 years ago, the amount of postage was written in ink or a hand stamp was used, the amount being paid by the sender or receiver as the case might be. Instead of 2c per ounce, as we pay today, a letter of a single sheet of paper for a distance not to exceed 40 miles was 8c; over 40 miles and not over 90 miles 10c, and in like proportion, the postage over 500 miles being 25 cents.

Should there be more than one sheet of paper used the amount was doubled. The result was that some very large sheets of paper were used. Envelopes were but little used, the paper being folded in such a manner that it could be sealed with wax or wafers.

In 1815 the rates were increased 50 per cent but this law was repealed the following year. The rates have slowly decreased from that time until now a letter weighing an ounce can go anywhere in the United States for 2 cents. In 1848 a letter from California cost 40c postage.

One hundred years ago there were only 2700 post offices in the United States. Today they number 58,000, and everybody can communicate with their friends for one cent by postal card where in the olded time poor people were not able to correspond with their kindred.

Railway Mail Cerks Wanted

The Government pays Railway Mail Clerks $900 to $1800 and other employes up to $2,500 annually.

Uncle Sam will seon hold examinations throughout the country for Postal Employees, Custom House Clerks, Stenographers, Bookkeepers, Departmental Clerks and other Government positions. The Postmaster General estimates that there will be seven hundred and fifty million parcel post packages carried next year which means thousands of appointments will be made. Any man or woman over 18, in City and Country have an equal chance for a job. Free information will be furnished by the BUREAU of INSTRUCTION, 866 WISNER BLDG., ROCHESTER, N. Y. adv

The Seven Wise Men.

The names and characteristic aphorisms of the seven wise men of ancient Greece are as follows: Solon of Athens, "Nothing in excess;" Theles of Miletus, "Suretyship brings ruin;" Pittacus of Mitylene, "Know thine opportunity;" Bias of Priene in Caria, "Too many workers spoil the work;" Chilon of Sparta, "Know thyself;" Cleobulus of Rhodes, "Moderation is the chief good," and Periander of Corinth, "Forethought in all things."

Father's Inconsistency.

Father will splash around in two feet of water and ruin a good suit of clothes to save articles in a stranger's house during a thirty cent fire. But if the pan under the icebox flows over he will go upstairs and wake mother so she can come down and mop it up.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

In the Marshes.

"What makes you stand on one foot and move your shoulders in that way?" asked the snipe.

"Well," replied the crane, "there's no chance of my learning to sing, so I'm practicing to see if I can't become a classic dancer."—Washington Star.

Matrimony!

There is a man whose wife makes him get up so often to hunt burglars that he says he is going to let her get a divorce and marry a night watchman.—Washington Star.

Most Important Sense.

Man's sense of smell can be of the greatest assistance to him in seeking the beneficial and avoiding the dangerous. The neglect of this one important sense has necessarily kept mankind backward. It, therefore, rests with the educators of the future to properly train and pay attention to odors, so that everyone may be able to distinguish seven octaves of smell or a great spectrum of odors.

A BUTTERFLY ON THE WHEEL

The sensational divorce play "A Butterfly on the Wheel" is an important booking at the Bradley Opera House on Wednesday, Dec. 31, and judging from the success of the attraction elsewhere, admirers of good acting may well anticipate something worth while.

This play "A Butterfly on the Wheel" created an instantoneous hit, both in England and America, and ran for an entire season and now vis its the various cities of the country fresh from its Metropolitan triumphs.

Its scenes are those of modern life and amaze one with their direct and plain treatment. In Act I is shown the temptations of the young wife in Paris and her thoughtless behavior in a hotel with an admirer—the discovery of her compromising actions by her husband in Act II, the great divorce trial in Act III and the clearing up of the incriminating evidence in Act IV.

The trial scene holds the auditors spell bound and has been pronounced unanimously a masterpiece in stage craft especially the Butterfly wife who vaitly endeavors to avoid the shafts of satire and the thrusts of keen suggestion, at her conduct by a pitiless prosecutor until overwhelmed she breaks down in despair at being so misunderstood.

"A Butterfly on the Wheel" has most realistic trial scene ever staged, has, by its merits and the admirable interpretation of the piece by the specially selected English company, earned a place on the American stage for conciseness, graphic portrayal and popularity which has fallen to the lot of few foreign plays. The piece rose to immediate favor when the Shuberts and Lewis Waller, the English actor manager produced it in New York last fall. There it remained all season. Previously it had been seen in London with Mr Waller in the cast and like New York it remained in London the entire season. Such a well established record will it is believed make the coming engagement in this city one of the notable events of the theatrical year.

TWO GREAT STARS.

Sirius Is the Brightest of All, and Canopus Comes Next.

The results of that instrument of precision, the meridian photometer, are that Sirius is seven-tenths of a magnitude brighter than Canopus, which easily teaches that Sirius is brighter than any other star.

Canopus, next in brilliancy, is visible from all that portion of the world south of north latitude 37 degrees, since its declination is south 53 degrees and 53 is the complement of 37.

It therefore never rises above the south horizon of any point 37 degrees north. The latitude of this observatory is 34 degrees 17 minutes; hence Canopus rises very nearly 3 degrees above the watery wastes in the Pacific sea. Its low altitude makes it much fainter than higher Sirius, as the light must traverse layers of dust and water vapor near the earth's surface. Still it is magnificent, especially when standing over a calm ocean surface.

Canopus has no parallax that the highest power telemicrometers that can be made are able to measure. This is one of the most overwhelming facts within the entire range of human experience. This means that if one goes to Canopus with the most powerful telescope ever made, turns and looks back this way, the base line, the entire diameter of the orbit of the earth—185,764,000 miles—dwindles to a minute point too small to be measured by any microscope. Some idea may be had of the immensity of the universe by thinking of this fact during each spare minute. Better to so think than to waste the precious moments.—Edgar Lucien Larkin in New York American.

FIGHTING A FIRE IN IRKUTSK.

A Comedy of Flaming Torches and Empty Water Wagons.

They fight fires in a peculiar way in Siberia. First you find the fire. The city is plotted into districts, each with its engine house and watchtower. On the watchtower by day and night stands a guard who scans the housetops for a sign of smoke. When the fire has got enough headway for him to see the smoke he gives the alarm and the engines dash out. The spectator is amused, not so much at the dash as at the engines. They are primitive, and the use of them is more so.

We went to a fire one Sunday afternoon in Irkutsk, continues Mr. Richardson L. Wright in his book "Through Siberia." It was close to our hotel, so that we had an excellent view. First came a troika team that dragged a hook and ladder carriage. On the carriage clung the firemen, howling Cossacks with brass helmets jammed down over their ears, who carried in one hand—how the symbolism would have stirred the heart of Maeterlinck!—flaming torches. Behind the hook and ladder was the hosecart, and then came a hand engine of the type our grandfathers used to drag to fires. After that, for two blocks, trailed a queue of water filled hogsheads on wheels. The cavalcade passed us in a cloud of dust, accompanied by the yells of the torch bearing firemen. When the supply of water ran out the carts dashed down to the river and were replenished.

This crude high pressure service gave rise once to a rather humorous incident that the Irkutskians tell with great glee. During a fire several years ago a string of water wagons went down to the river, were filled and came rumbling back. When they reached the fire the water was gone. The enthusiastic captain of hogsheads had neglected to put back the plugs in the barrels and had spilled his supply for several blocks along the main street.

Uncle Sam's Antecedents.

A reader asks how the name Uncle Sam came to be adopted for the imaginary genius who directs the destinies of this nation. The answer is very simple. "Uncle Sam" is merely a popular expansion of the letters "U. S." Albert Matthews once wrote a forty-five page monograph to prove this, and he showed that the expression went back to the year 1813. James Fenimore Cooper in "The Prairie" in 1827 spoke of "the well known initials that have * * * gained for the government of the United States the good humored and quaint appellation of Uncle Sam."—New York Post.

The Secret of Health is Elimination of Waste

Every business man knows how difficult it is to keep the pigeon holes and drawers of his desk free from the accumulation of useless papers. Every housewife knows how difficult it is to keep her home free from the accumulation of all manner of useless things. So it is with the body. It is difficult to keep it free from the accumulation of waste matter. Unless the waste is promptly eliminated the machinery of the body soon becomes clogged. This is the beginning of most human ills.

PETITION WILSON AND FERRIS

Minister and Members of Organization Implore Liquor Extermination.

BARAGA, MICH.—Being signed by a minister and seventy-eight members of the "Christian Anti-Liquor society," attested by a notary public, and written in the form of a religious prayer, a petition imploring extermination of the liquor traffic in Skanee, a village in this county, has been forwarded to President Wilson, Governor Ferris and the postmaster general. "From this liquor traffic, the whole community it reaping nothing but evil results," continues the petition. "Our religious services are interrupted by drunken men and our homes are in peril. This petition is sent in the name of Almighty God and in the presence of His holy angels and all the saints in heaven," concludes the document.

Women and Gossip.

It is more important that a woman should be a good gossip and tell pleasantly and smartly of common friends and the thousand and one nothings of the day and hour than that she should speak with the tongue of men and angels, for awhile together by the fire happens more frequently in marriage than the presence of a distinguished foreigner to dinner.—R. A Gamin's Romance

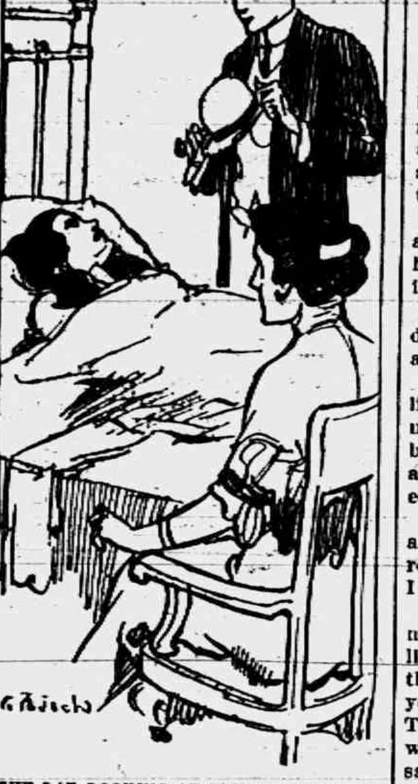
It Illustrates the Adage "A Bad Beginning Makes a Good Ending."

By ELIZABETH WEED

Little Tim Cosgrove was a newspaper boy. Tim had a very indistinct memory of his antecedents—a vague picture of a comfortable home with a woman who cared for him, putting him to bed, dressing and undressing him and now and again lulling him to sleep in her arms. But by the time he was ten years old all remembrance of her features had passed away from him, and there was no well defined link between that period and his selling papers whereby to make a living.

One day when the weather was hot Tim succumbed to the heat and fell on the sidewalk. There he lay, his newspapers scattered about him, till a policeman came along and, calling for an ambulance, sent him to a children's hospital. Tim came out of his collapse and one day was put on a steamer with a lot of other invalid children and sent off on the water. Beside him on the boat sat a little girl about his own age who fell to talking with him. Like Tim, she could remember a pleasant home, and more distinctly. She could recall an old fashioned house, with four pillars before it, in the center of beautiful grounds. One thing was indelibly stamped on her mind—her father being carried out to a cemetery. She did not know the reason why, but she and her mother left the big house, and then her mother was carried to a cemetery too. Later transitions came so rapidly that she could not remember them all, but her clothes were wearing out, and she did not get new ones. She was often hungry and did not have pennies to spend for candy. She was now living at an orphan asylum, but she longed to get away from it, for she was kept shut in most of the time, she said, and she pined for freedom.



SHE LAY LOOKING AT HIM IN WONDER.

Presently the boat landed at an island, and the children were put ashore and permitted to wander in a wood, or, better still, on the shore. At noon a luncheon was served on tables under the trees. Tim and his new found friend—Alice, she said her name was—played together, both preferring the shore.

In the afternoon the steamer with its load of children returned to the city. Tim told Alice of the life he led and said that if she would like to join him and sell papers as he did he would give her some of his stock. He made his home with a woman named Murphy, to whom he paid what he could for his board. She was a kind woman, and he thought she would take in Alice too. The little girl, dreading to go back to the asylum, agreed when they made a landing to slip away with Tim and cast her fortunes with him as a newsgirl.

Alice was received under protest by the woman with whom Tim made his home. She strongly advised the child to return to the asylum, but Alice begged to be kept and said she would sell papers like Tim to pay for her keeping. So Mrs. Murphy consented. Being a pretty child, Alice readily gained customers and soon sold more papers than Tim. But Tim looked after the finances, and soon the two, besides paying for their necessities, were laying up money. The accumulative principle was strong in the boy, and he was destined to become rich.

One day while Tim and Alice were on a much frequented street corner selling papers a man across the street beckoned to Alice to come over to him with a paper. Several other gamins started to get ahead of her. She became reckless in the race, was knocked down by a wagon and lay insensible. Tim saw her and, throwing down his papers, ran to her, took her up in his arms and carried her to the sidewalk.

Alice was taken home—that is, to the only home she knew. The day ended, and she did not recover consciousness. Another day and another, a week, a month, went by, and still she did not awaken, for her condition seemed rather that of sleep than what is called comatose. There is recorded a case of a person lying eleven years in such a condition, and the next longest case is that of little Alice, who lay nine years in constant slumber.

Let us pass over this gap in her life as she passed it, without taking cognizance of it, to the awakening. It occurred in the morning about 10 o'clock. For some time previous, so she has said, she felt a semiconsciousness, but rather as a dream than a reality. Some one was moving about her, opening blinds, arranging things in the room, rubbing furniture with a cloth. This person, though indistinct, seemed to be a woman, a maid, though Alice then did not know this meaning of the word. Then for a time all was silent.

The awakening came by degrees. Alice remembers trying to throw off sleep, realizing that she must get up and be at her post selling papers. Finally she opened her eyes and was surprised to find herself, instead of in the little wooden box she called her room, in a large, well furnished chamber. She could not grasp the situation or, rather, the connection between it and the past. Her first idea—that natural to a child—was that a fairy had taken her out of her bed and carried her to another, perhaps in a palace.

What confused her most was a faint memory of having been in that same chamber before. She attempted to sit up in bed, but found it so difficult that she desisted. But she managed to turn on her side and looked straight into a mirror in the door of a wardrobe.

What did it mean? That reflection was not her own. It was the reflection of a young woman. She glanced at her body as it appeared under the bedclothes and saw that it was not the body of a child. It extended from the headboard nearly to the footboard. Turning again to the image in the mirror, she looked at the features. She opened and shut her eyes, moved her lips, to determine if it were her own reflection. It certainly was the reflection of the person lying on the bed, but that person could not possibly be herself, the child Alice. She was becoming frightened at these incongruities when the door opened and a maid stepped into the room. She looked at Alice with surprise depicted on every feature. Alice looked at her as one bewildered. The maid turned and ran out out of the room.

She was gone only a few moments when she returned with a woman who looked for all the world like Mrs. Murphy, though Mrs. Murphy's hair was brown and this woman's was a grizzly gray. Nevertheless she ran to the bed and folded Alice in her arms. But, seeing the bewildered expression on the girl's face, she said quickly:

"Don't excite yourself. There's been a great change, but it's all well. You have made us all happy by awakening."

"Have I been long asleep? What does it all mean? Who am I? I'm not a little girl any more."

The woman soothed her and little by little gave her enough of the story to make her aware of the fact that long before she had been knocked down by a wagon in the street and had remained unconscious for a number of years.

"But what means this other change?" asked Alice. "Where am I? This room seems familiar to me. How did I come here?"

"Tim will tell you about that. You must remember that Tim is not now a little boy any more than you are a little girl. He has grown to be a fine young man. But no more at present. The doctor told us recently that you were showing signs of awakening and said that if you did awake you must be handled very carefully."

"Where is Tim?"

"He has been sent for and will be here directly."

"Does he still sell papers?"

A smile came and went quickly over the woman's features as she replied: "Oh, no. Tim hasn't sold papers for a long time. He owns a newspaper himself. Few men of his age have ever succeeded as he has succeeded. But you must hear that from him."

There was a tap at the door, and it was pushed open, and a man who looked to be nearly thirty, though he was but twenty-two, entered the room with an expression of intense happiness on his face, which, when he saw the sleeper awakened, broke into a joyful smile.

"Alice!" he exclaimed.

She lay looking at him in wonder for awhile, then asked:

"Can you be Tim?"

"I am Tim."

"Then tell me," she added presently, "how I came here."

"It is a long story, and I have been warned to condense it. You remember the money we had saved before you were injured?"

"It was $37.42."

"It is now as many thousands. But I must be brief. I went to the asylum you left to come with me and learned there all about you, including your former home. I resolved to buy it for you and succeeded in doing so only a few months ago. You are in the home where you were born and lived till misfortune overtook your family. The second happiest day in my life was when I received the deed for it made out in your name. The happiest day is this at seeing you awakened."

She found strength to put out her hand, and as Tim grasped it he knew the love that had been growing within him for years would be returned.

Horses Not Like Machines.

Animals are not like the machinery on the farm. They have a mind and sensibilities that should be given some consideration by those who have to work with them. A machine can be neglected and misused, and the greatest harm that can come of it is that the owner will have to buy a new machine, but an animal that is treated in a similar manner is made to suffer pain. Horses get tired and need good food, water and rest. Don't treat them like mere machines.—Farmer's Guide.

Horrible Dueling.

A particularly terrible kind of duel was fought on one occasion in Mexico. The opponents were an Indian settler and a rich cattle owner. The weapons chosen were butchers' knives, and it was settled that each combatant was to hold out his hand in turn to have one of his fingers cut off. The first to show the least sign of suffering pain was to have a bullet put through his heart by the other. The Indian had the first cut and amputated the cattle owner's first finger at a single blow. The Indian's first injury was the loss of a thumb, and he likewise remained as impassive as marble. This horrible drama went on until each combatant had lost four digits. Then the cattleman's second became so frightened at the ghastly sight that he shot the Indian dead and ended the fight.

FIXING BOUNDARIES RESERVE DISTRICTS

Possible Units of New System Leave Much to Decide.

Washington, Dec. 29.—The organization committee of the federal reserve system provided for by the Glass-Owen currency law consisting of Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and Secretary of Agriculture Houston has issued a statement setting forth their plans for the next two months.

The ten reserve districts which may be regarded as the possible units of the new system are:

The New England district dominated financially by Boston: the Eastern district, dominated by New York; the southeastern district, including Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Baltimore, Washington; southern district, dominated by Atlanta. Another southern district with New Orleans or Houston, Tex., as central point; district dominated by Chicago; a district dominated by St. Louis; a district dominated by Denver; a northwestern district dominated by Seattle and Portland, Ore; a southwestern district dominated by San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Arguments have been received at the treasury department favoring the cutting out of two districts around Knasas City and the twin cities, St. Paul and Minneapolis as centers.

WILD RAMPOLLA RUMORS

Hint of Death from Unnatural Causes Brings Denial from Vatican.

Rome, Dec. 29.—Many wild rumors are in circulation concerning the recent death of Cardinal Rampolla. One of them hinted that his demise was brought about by unnatural causes and that there was a possibility of his body being exhumed for a postmortem examination.

Attendants, intimate friends and relatives of the cardinal, as well as the officials of the Vatican, deny all these rumors.

CAUGHT IN TRESTLE GIVES LIFE FOR TWO

Man Carries Girls to Safety, But Is Hit by Train.

Pana, Ill., Dec. 29.—Caught upon Long Hollow trestle of the Clover Leaf Railroad near Hanson by a train last night, Tony Liuneanch, twenty-two years old, gave up his life in saving his sister, Miss Carrie Liuneanch, and Miss Lulu Sloat. He carried the two young women in his arms almost to the end of the trestle and dropped them in shallow water and soft earth near the bank of the creek. They were uninjured, but before he could jump the engine struck him and threw him into the creek with a crushed skull George Smith, who was with the party, jumped and was uninjured.

ILLINOIS THIRD IN MINERALS

Washington, Dec. 29.—Although Illinois is generally known as a premier agricultural state, the United States geological survey announces her third among the states in the value of mineral production. In 1912 the total value of the mineral production was $123,000,000, of which coal alone represented more than $7,000,000. The total value of minerals in 1911 was a little more than $106,000,000.

The report shows that while Illinois produces no iron ore, it is an important manufacturer of pig iron, being exceeded only by Pennsylvania and Ohio. In the production of coal the state is surpassed only by Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Testing the Iron.

The laundress puts a little saliva on the flatiron to see if it is hot enough. If it runs along the iron rapidly it is hot enough, but if it sticks to the bottom and is evaporated the iron is too cold. The reason is that if hot enough the bottom of the drop of saliva is converted into vapor and the drop rolls along the iron rapidly; if too cold the drop sticks and evaporates gradually.

VAMPIRES WORK ON GIRL'S FAMILY

500 Try to Prey on Miss McCann's Stricken Parents.

ONE ALLEGED HARPY IS HELD

Alvin Simmons Is Accused of Demanding $2,000—Threats Were Contained in Letters Against Missing Girl's Safety—Many from Cranks But Others from Criminals.

New York, Dec. 29.—The arrest Saturday night of Alvin Simmons on a charge of attempting to extort $2,000 from the family of Robert G. McCann, whose daughter, Jessie, is missing, revealed that the heart-broken family has been deluged with letters of a similar character as that which caused the arrest of Simmons since the girl disappeared from home about a month ago.

"We have received about 500 letters of various kinds since Jessie disappeared," said Robert G. McCann, Jr., today. "A number of them came from cranks, but a large number came from persons who asked us to place money in amounts ranging from $500 to $2,000 at a specific place and we would have our sister returned to us."

Simmons' Letter

Police Lieutenant Busby in tracing Simmons discovered part of the second letter received by the McCanns, reading:

"Your daughter Jessie would be back to your home by this time and all worry would be over if you paid me the money I asked. You must think more of your money than you do of your own flesh and blood. It strikes me funny when I read in the papers of the various clews the police are working on. They don't know where she is any more than the man in the moon.

"I feel sorry for you. It would hurt me if anything should happen to her. It will take $2,000 for me to escape the gang after I return your daughter. This is your last chance to get your girl back alive as the gang is going to take her to another city in a few weeks.

"When I told your sick child last Saturday that you did not pay up the money to save her from a life worse than death she would not believe me.'

MANY JOBS ARE IN JEOPARDY

Lucey Holds New Law Ends Protection of Over 150.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 29.—Nearly 150 state employes, now protected by civil service, are in danger of losing their jobs about New Year's day. Fifteen of them—all now employed in the state house offices of the railroad and warehouse commission—will go on the retired list with the official birth of the utilities board.

This was determined by Attorney General Lucey in a conference with Railroad and Warehouse Commissioners Richard Yates and Frank H. Funk. Mr. Lucey gave to the two commissioners, who are to be transferred into the public utilities commission, the opinion that the statutory protection of the secretaries, clerks, and stenographers, now in pay roll, dies with the expiration of the old railroad and warehouse commission act, on Jan. 1. He held that the grain inspection department, carrying 115 employes in Chicago, was created by a special act which had not been repealed directly by the public utilities law. There are twenty others in East St. Louis, Peoria, and Decatur in the same boat. Some of these men have held offices from the Tanner and Yates regimes

DR. JONES GETS SURPRISE VISIT

President Wilson Unexpected Attendant at Church.

MOVIE MAN IS DISAPPOINTED

Young Minister Who Had Prepared Supreme Effort of His Life Misses Coveted Opportunity—President and Mrs. Wilson Congratulate Aged Pastor—Congregation Pays Respects.

Gulfport, Miss., Dec. 29.—President Wilson surprised the score and a half of worshippers of the First Presbyterian Church of Gulfport by dropping in for the morning service just a moment before the little melodion struck up the voluntary. Before the second psalm was sung, however, word had gone out, and the church was overflowing.

There was, however, a tragedy in the affair. Nine miles away, a place of worship was jammed to the doors. A young minister had devoted many sleepless hours preparing the supreme effort of his life, but after long waiting he had to begin his sermon to the regular members of his flock and to one pew in which every seat was empty.

The sermon which Mr. Wilson listened to was from the lips of Rev. Herbert Albert Jones, a noted evangelist more than 75 years of age.

Dr. Jones Not Rattled.

Considering the sudden invasion of his tiny congregation, Dr. Jones' long training and superior balance stood him in good stead. He was not obfuscated by the presence of the chief executive.

Before lining out the concluding hymn, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," Dr. Jones requested the congregation to remain standing at the end of the hymn, until after the presidential party had left the church. The President, stopping at the portal of the edifice, shook hands with the venerable Dr. Jones, introduced him to Mrs. Wilson, who complimented him warmly.

HELD AFTER WOMAN'S DEATH

Paramour in Jail Following Shooting in Terre Haute.

Terre Haute, Ind., Dec. 29.—Mrs. Mamie Long, 26 years old, died of a revolver wound inflicted in the hotel in which she had been living with William H. Blacketer, a coal miner, and Blacketer is in jail, pending an investigation.

Before her death Mrs. Long made a statement to Deputy Prosecutor Long that she had accidentally discharged the revolver after it had been given to her by Blacketer. Her father, John Mendenhall of Mecca, says that he does not believe the shooting was accidental. Mrs. Long has been separated from her husband, H. E. Long, two years. Blacketer has a wife in Mecca.

BIG FIRE IN ST. LOUIS

St. Louis, Dec. 29.—Fire of mysterious origin destroyed a five story building in the heart of the business section, causing a loss of $250,000.

One hundred and fifty guests at the St. Regis hotel were forced to flee in their night clothes by flames, which leaped across the alley and threatened the hotel. Six firemen were injured, although not fatally, by showers of brick, glass and burning embers caused by the collapse of walls and roof.

TRUCE IN STRIKE TO BURY VICTIMS

Funeral Services in Six Calumet, Mich., Churches.

MINERS ACT AS PALLBEARERS

Fifty-nine of Victims of Christmas Fire Are Laid to Rest After Church Services—Public Eulogies Are Pronounced—Moyer's Story Mystifies the Sheriff.

Calumet, Mich., Dec. 29.—Inexpressibly saddened, Calumet buried 59 of the forms of tots, children, men and women who on Christmas eve found death in the panic ridden Italian Hall building during the progress of a Christmas tree entertainment for the little ones. The people of the entire copper country and many from outside points paid tribute to the dead. All factions were united for the time being by the common sorrow and bereavement and the lifeless forms were laid at rest and gathered about the long rows of yawning graves as the caskets were lowered into the earth.

Total Dead 72.

Four of the victims were buried the day before. Nine will be buried today, making the total number of the dead 72.

Funeral services were held in six churches and were followed by a funeral procession made up of the smaller processions from each of the churches. It was more than an hour and a half before the end of the cortege reached the cemetery gates. It is estimated that between ten and fifteen thousand persons marched. The miners carried all but four of the caskets. The interments were in the Lakeview cemetery.

The dead were buried, most of them in trenches, 25 on the Catholic side and the remainder on the Protestant. Following the interment and the brief services at the grave sides conducted by the priests and ministers of churches attended by the deceased in life, a public service of eulogy was conducted at a stand near the entrance to the cemetery.

Moyer's Trouble Mystery.

Sheriff James Cruse reports that he has been unable through the hardest work, to solve to his satisfaction the sudden leaving of the district by C. H. Moyer, president of the Federation of Miners. The sheriff is not convinced that Moyer was forced to leave and says it was not known that he had left the Scott hotel or where he had gone until the riot siren sounded.

He does not know who ordered the riot call. There was no trouble whatever at the Scott hotel, he says.

INDIANA'S MINERAL WEALTH IS GROWING

Clay Products and Portland Cement Show Well.

Washington, Dec. 29.—Indiana in 1912 produced minerals to the value of $42,239,150, an increase of nearly $5,000,000 compared with $37,480,187, the production of 1911. The 1912 figures however, do not include the value of the pig iron produced in the state, which was more than $17,000,000. In the production of coal, Indiana ranked seventh in 1912, with an output amounting to 15,285,718 short tons, valued at $17,480,546. The value of the clay products was $7,935,251 and the value of the Portland cement $7,237,591. In 1912 Indiana was the third largest coke-producing state, the output being 2,616,339 short tons, valued at $12,528,685 in 1912.

The value of the natural gas produced decreased to $1,014,295 in 1912, and the output of petroleum also decreased to 970,009 barrels, valued at $885,975. The sand and gravel beds yield products worth over a million dollars annually, the value of the output being $1,175,370.

MYSTERY OF THE DESERTED HOUSE

Strange Experience of a Man on Robbery Bent.

I've had every avenue of escape cut off, I've been chased over tin roofs. I've been shot at, but I never was appalled but once, and that was by silence.

I'd served a term for burglary, spent what money I'd been given on getting out and was looking for a job—not a job of honest work. I'd tried that on getting out once before and found it impracticable. When an ex-convict knows that he's liable any moment to be spotted and discharged it takes the zest out of him for work. I'd made up my mind there was nothing left for me to do but stick to my business, which was burglary. Well, as I was saying, I was looking for a house to get into and, walking on the outskirts of a city saw one that struck me as being very inviting. It was in the center of a six acre lot, with no neighbors near enough to make it unpleasant for the burglar and a wood in the rear affording a safe retreat. I made a careful survey of the premises. No one happened to be visible in or about it at the time, but there was plenty of evidence that it was occupied. Newly washed clothes were hanging on the lines; smoke was issuing from the chimneys; children's sleds and wagons were scattered about in the yard.

The night was cold and blustery. At about 10 o'clock I took position in the yard, shielded from the wind by a carriage shed, with a view to determining by the lights what rooms were occupied. The whole house was lighted. I got into a vehicle and sat watching my quarry. The seat was comfortable, and some blankets and robes that had been left in it kept me warm. The result was that I fell asleep.

When I awoke every light in the house was out. A distant clock struck 1. I got out, went to the house, took a pane of glass out of a kitchen window, turned the "catch," raised the sash softly, pulled myself up and crawled inside. Striking a match, I lit my dark lantern and surveyed the room. Everything had been put in order after the evening meal. A fire was burning in the range. I went through a pantry to the dining room. Here, too, all was in order.

Passing through the parlors, I entered the hall and went upstairs, taking every precaution against waking the inmates. A bedroom door near the landing stood ajar. I listened, but could hear no one breathing. I went in and felt of the bed. There was no one in it. There being nothing of value in the room, I passed on to the next, examined it and found it also empty. Coming to one of the front bedrooms, I certainly expected to find it occupied and entered it with all possible stealth, listening long for the sound of a sleeping being. That I heard no such sound began to affect my nerves. An empty room is a good find for a burglar, but the advantage in this case was overcome by the unexpected vacancy. I groped my way to the bed, felt of it and found it unoccupied. Then, flashing my lantern about, I saw a woman's clothing that had been evidently taken off at bedtime lying on the chairs. The woman had vanished.

I went to another room and another with the same result. In some of them I found clothing that had been laid aside, but no one in the beds. None of the beds showed signs of having been occupied. I went on to every story, and not a single living being did I find. There was some plunder on the dressers, but not very much. I did not think of taking it. My mind was fixed upon the lights I had seen in the house a few hours before and the present absence of those whom the lights had served.

There is no similarity between daylight and dark for weird impressions. One human being, even if a policeman, would have broken the spell. I feared a haunted house, but I feared more that something in my brain had gone wrong. Had that which I had seen in the afternoon and evening been an hallucination or did I now experience something that was not? Coming to a window overlooking the rear yard, I flashed my lantern down into it. There were the clothes still hanging on the line. I walked back through the hall, bringing my feet down heavily on the floor that I might hear a sound. The carpet was thick, and there was but a faint response—a response that added to my growing terror.

Suddenly the rays of my lantern struck a living figure. At once my instinct of preservation ordered me to cover my light. I did so and waited. There was no sound. Believing I had been mistaken, I mustered courage to raise the lantern again. There was the figure, but it was my own reflected from a mirror.

I now had but one desire—to get out and away. Descending to the main floor, I saw a piece of yellow paper on the floor. What prompted me to pick it up I don't know, but I did and read: "Mother dying. All come at once."

Here was a clew. The hour of sending and receipt of the telegram was written out and gave evidence that it had been delivered while I was asleep in the carriage shed. The family had doubtless hurried to a train, taking even the servants with them.

I could have taken away anything I could find, but I was so rattled that I had no desire to do so. I went away empty handed and the next day resolved to go at legitimate work, a resolution I keep even to the present day.

A Mother's Sacrifice.

Legends in India run that if a woman stricken with leprosy suffers herself to be buried alive the disease will not descend to her children. There was in the northwest provinces of India the wife of a gardener on whom the loathsome malady had fallen. Children were born to her. The disease grew worse. She importuned her husband to bury her alive. He at last, yielding to her prayers, summoned his son. The two dug the grave, and four neighbors assisted at the sepulture. So the woman died These remarkable facts were investigated in a magistrate's court and were fully proved.—London Mail.

THE BLUE OF THE SKY.

It Is Caused by the Oxygen in the Air, Says a Scientist.

Professor Spring of the University of Liege has a theory of his own regarding the blue of the sky.

Scientists have tried to explain the blue of the sky ever since the days of Leonardo da Vinci and Sir Isaac Newton. Some have held that it was due to the polarization of the solar light, while others have held that the blueness is due to the reflection, or, rather, the vibration, upon the minute drops of water which the atmosphere holds in suspension or upon the matter in the atmosphere, according to Tyndall.

Professor Spring has rejected all these theories, denying the "dust theory" altogether. He holds with Lord Rayleigh that instead of the dust increasing the blueness it diminishes it greatly. And, according to Professor Spring, all of the appearances of blue tints in the atmosphere are explicable when we consider liquid oxygen. "Liquid air" is known to be decidedly blue in color, so the contention that blueness is due to the oxygen in the air seems to be substantiated.

If condensed and liquid air are blue in color it is most probable that the blueness of the sky is due to the oxygen in it.—New York World.

INGENUITY IN SUICIDE.

This Parisian Planned a Most Dramatic Taking Off.

Some years ago, when there was an epidemic of dramatic suicides in Paris, a man who had visited the French capital told of an extraordinary suicide he had heard of in that gay city.

"He was a Frenchman, who was nothing if not original," said the teller of the tale, "and even when he grew despondent he planned his death in a most original fashion. He locked the door of his room in the Rue Nitot and, removing the weights of the window cord, fastened them to the window itself. He added to the weight of the window by attaching six flatirons. On the sill he adjusted a large triangular bread knife, such as is used by chefs, and made ready a small balloon, capable of lifting fifty pounds.

"The ingenious Frenchman then put his head out of the window after attaching the balloon to his neck and by releasing the clamp that held the window cut his head off completely with the improvised guillotine. The decapitated body was discovered several days later, but it was not until the balloon and the head were found a week later in the field of a peasant, eighteen miles from Paris, that the method of suicide was really known."

Cornish Humor.

The magistrate at the Liskeard police court might well have excused the laughter which greeted the remark of a police witness only a short time ago who said, with all seriousness: "He was drunk, your honor, and couldn't stand. I told him to go away, and as he wouldn't I locked him up."

The laugh in another court was against the solicitor who severely asked, "Were you present when you heard this?"

Mixed metaphors are not a peculiar nor indeed a common failing of the Cornishman, but a certain eloquent town councilor quite recently got entangled when in the course of a protracted debate on the momentous subject of the local dust bins he declared indignantly, "It is time we put our foot down with a loud voice."—English Illustrated Magazine.

Buried Upside Down.

If Major Labelliere of Dorking was buried on the top of Box hill, head downward, in 1800, he probably got the idea from Mr. Hall of Leith Hill place, who in 1767 built the tower on the neighboring Leith hill and was buried there six years later. The usual Leith hill story, as recorded by one writer, is that the tower "marks the spot where an eccentric farmer of the neighborhood was buried on horseback upside down, so that when the world was turned, as he believed it then soon would be, topsy turvey, he might at last come up in the right position." The tradition might easily be transferred from one hill to its neighbor. There seems no doubt, however, that Mr. Hall was buried on the summit of Leith hill.—London Chronicle.

Chief Justice's "Hantecedents."

Lord Alverstone's gift of song has sent the tourist on his track. There is a story that one Sunday an American lady attended the morning service at St. Mary Abbots, Kensington, and asked the verger which of the choristers in the chancel was the lord chief justice. "Well, mum," replied that dignitary, "that is the vicar, and them's the curates, and I'm the verger. But as for the choir, as long as they does their duty we don't inquire into their hantecedents."—London Chronicle.

Hard Luck.

"So your baby won a prize in the baby show?"

"Yes," replied the proud but worried father. "And I guess we'll move out of the community. All the envious neighbors will resent it as long as he lives."—Washington Star.

His Ears.

"If Smithers undertakes to pull my ears," said a fellow at a street corner "he will have his hands full."

The crowd looked at the man's ears and smiled.—London Telegraph.

"Which tooth are you going to have pulled, Sam?"

Selenium In Time Recording.

An ingenious application of the peculiar property of selenium of varying its electric resistance with change of illumination has been made in Heidelberg in the electric transmission of pendulum beats to a distance for recording time and comparing clocks. For a long time the beats were electrically transmitted through contacts made by the pendulum itself. This method introduced irregularities of consequence, where hundredths of a second are taken into account, as in astronomical observations. The Heidelberg method causes the swinging pendulum, just as it touches its lowest point, to reflect a beam of light upon a selenium cell, which transmits the message without physical contact with the pendulum.—New York Tribune.

Music at the Churches

ST. PETERS CHURCH

A most delightful program of music was rendered at St. Peter's Episcopal Church sunday morning.

The Processional, a Christmas Carol was sung with much fervor by the choir. The Glori Patri venlti and Te Deum followed, them came the hymn by the whole congregation. A most interesting and inspiring Sermon by the Rector was listened to with marked attention. Mrs. Harry C. Moore then gave an Organ Solo in a most charming manner. The Misses Mary Kreidler and Bonnie Brown each sang a solo in their own most pleasing style. The Anthem by the Boy Choiresters was most beautifully rendered, their sweet voices blending in perfect harmony.

A solo, "Christmas Heralds" with violin accompaniment was sung by Mrs E. Rosacrans in her own charming manner. A Christmas Anthem, "Sing, O Sing," With the Recessional Shout the Glad Tidings" completed the morning service of praise and song

SACRED CANTATA AT THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

An audience which taxed the seating capacity of the Presbyterian Church greeted the Sacred Canata, "The Story of Christmas" given Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The programme as printed in our last issue was given under the direction of Mrs F. C. Dickinson and Mrs. J. Q. Look at the organ.

The solo parts were well rendered and chorus work was fine. Surely those in charge had their reward in the delightful way in which each part was rendered.

HER PROMISE.

Mrs. Flint sighed deeply as she removed her hatpins—so much so that her husband looked up anxiously from the evening paper. "I don't believe I've any bent for politics," she said, in responce to his inquiring glance. "Every time there's an election of officers of the club I get into some kind of trouble. try as I may to avoid it. You see, Will," she continued confidently, "I don,t care a snap who is in office as long as I'm not.

I really like all of the members very well, and it is a matter of perfect indifference to me who is president, secretary, or on commitees. I'm truly impartial, but that won't work. You know Mrs. Elliott has been president for years, and every year Mrs. Grant has tried to get Mrs Elliott out and herself in. A short while ago she came to me and said she was sure of the nomination if I would vote for her. I thought it over and told her I would, for I like her. She is lovely. To-day, just before balloting, Mabel Bonp came to me and said that I must vote for Mrs. Elliott. Mabel said I owed it to her—you know she has just helped me to do a lot of preserving, and last fall she helped make over my brown silk Mabel said everybody wanted Mrs. Elliott, and if I voted for her she would be sure to get the nomination. Finally, I said I would vote for her. She is really very witty and entertaining, and I thought if everybody wanted her it was only proper——"

"Do you mean that you promised to vote for both?" interrupted Mr. Flint.

"Yes, I promised Mrs. Grant, as I just said; and I promised Mabel because——"

"But you did n't actually vote for both?"

"Why, of cource I did, Will I may not be much of a polition, but I was brought up to keep my word," replied Mrs. Flint, with dignity.

Various dishes in the Hungarian restaurant were numbered for the convenience of the waitresses and the benefit of the patrons. A young couple entered. The orchestra struck up the "William Tell" overture. Turning to her escort, the young woman said: "That's familiar—what is it?" The man glanced up at the orchestra and saw the number three displayed. Then, with the air of one who is accustomed to cafe life, he looked up number three on the bill of fare. "That," he replied, when he had located it, "is 'Filet Mignon,' by Chat bignons."

A BUTTERFLY ON THE WHEEL

"A BUTTERFLY ON THE WHEEL" with its impressive trial scene will be the attraction at the Bradley Opera House on Wednesday, December 31, when those who are fond of stirring drama will have an opportunity to enjoy themselves to the limit. The long engagement of "A Butterfly On the Wheel" at the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre, New York and its season in London gives every assurance that, on tour, the same hearty reception will be accorded not only the play but the special company which has been playing it so successful.

"A Butterfly On The Wheel" tells of a wife who, believing herself neglected by her husband, invites the attention of a friend. This intercourse so n leads to disastrous ends but, in reality, the wife has done no moral wrong. She is merely a "butterfly" and does not weigh matters in their true light. Therefore when she is sued for divorce she puts in an answer and actually takes the stand in her own defence. Her examination is one of the final pieces of dramatic work seen for many years. The prosecuting counsel attemps to break down her testimony and in devious ways endeavors to create the impression that she is guilty.

Having been observed in the two former acts as a butterfly, whimsical, changeable and uncertain, the character now rises to great dramatic heights. She declares that if she were guilty she would not face humiliation of a trial but go to the man whom the court had characterized as her "lover" The logic of her argument is apparent but it doesn't fease the prosecution which, wolf-like renews the attack with even greater viciousness. Finally the frail little woman collapses.

The story is told in four acts. The first two show an apartment in a Paris hotel where the butterfly is trapped into going with Collingwood, the man who is mentioned as co-respondent. The third takes place in the court room and the fourth shows the home of the two principals.

The play has been staged with all the care and precision usually found in first class productcons

CLIPPINGS

That the poetic sentiment is not confined to woman alone, is evinced by the fact that lately two men have brought in clippings that they thought worthy of a place in the Herald.

DAD

Dad was never no hand to fuss;
Used to hurt him to hear us cuss;
Kind o' settled in his old ways,
Born an' raised in the good old days
An'the farm was home, not a tollin' mart,
'When a tattered coat had a kindly heart,
An' a man was judged by his inward self;
Not his worldly pelf.
Seems like 'twas yesterday we sat
On the old back porch for a farewell chat
Ere I changed the farm and the simple life
For the city's roar and bustle and strife.
His eyes looked out o'er the fertle farm
An' he said as he rubbed where his hair was thin,
'Member the night I trudged back home,
Sinkin' deep in the fresh turned loam;
Sick and sore for the dear old place,
Hungerin' most for a loved old face.
When I had climbed the hilltop o'er,
There stood dad in the kitchen door,
An' he says in a voice from deep with in,
"Hello, son, come in."
One winter's day, the first of snow,
He went the way that we all must go;
An' his spirit soared to the realms above
On the wings of a simple hearted love.
An' I know that when I cross the bar
I'll find him there by the gates ajar,
An' he'll say as he idly strokes his chin,
"Hello, son, come in."

PESSIMISM.

Nothing to do but work,
Nothing to eat but food,
Nothing to wear but clothes
To keep one from going nude.

Nothing to breathe but air—
Quick as a flash, 'tis gone!
Nowhere to fall but off,
Nowhere to stand but on.

Nothing to comb but hair,
Nowhere to sleep but in bed,
Nothing to weep but tears,
Nothing to bury but dead

Nothing to sing but songs,
Ah, well, alas, alack!
Nowhere to go but out,
Nowhere to come but back.

Nothing to see but sights,
Nothing to quench but thirst,
Nothing to have but what we've got,
Thus through life we're cursed.

Nothing to strike but a gait;
Everything moves that goes;
Nothing at all but common sense
Can ever withstand these woes.

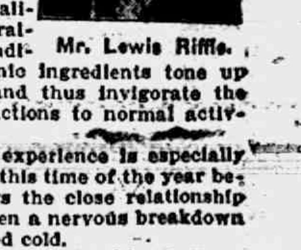
"A Shine In Every Drop"

MR. LEWIS A. RIFFLE tells his experience with coughs and colds that lead to nervousness and debility.



Mr. Lewis Riffle.

Colds are often aggravated during the Summer because inactive bowels and a stomach out of order are prime causes in keeping a cold from getting well.

Pe-ru-na has very beneficial laxative qualities that neutralize such conditions. Its tonic ingredients tone up the system, and thus invigorate the stomach's functions to normal activity.

Mr. Riffle's experience is especially interesting at this time of the year because it shows the close relationship there is between a nervous breakdown and a neglected cold.

Pe-ru-na should be kept in the home at all times, that a cold upon its first appearance may be treated promptly and successfully. This often saves money and time, and what is more important, a great deal of vitality.

Mr. Riffle, of 758 Gautenbein Ave., Portland, Ore., writes: "I have found Pe-ru-na a most remarkable medicine for building up the system and for curing coughs and colds.

"I took it for four weeks a few months ago when I was all run down, nervous and debilitated, and it quickly restored my health.

"I always keep it on hand, as a few doses will cure a cold if taken in time."

FINANCIAL TRUTHS
For the New Year Start.

Here we all are again—facing a New Year. Most of us will renew resolves—resolves we failed to keep on former New Year occasions.

Many resolves are money resolves. If you vowed to save last year and didn't—try again—but try this time with the aid of a Savings Account.

By preparing a place to put the money, you remove most of the difficulties that attend its accumulation. So before resolving to save this year, come here with one dollar, deposit it, and thus make your Savings Resolve mean something.

You will find in so doing that it is impossible to break the resolve—for the Savings Account makes it a fact.

Sister of Monticello Lawyer and Her Husband Dr. Curlette.

Photos by American Press Association.

Monicello, N. Y., Dec. 29.—Dr. Curlette is one of the few with whom Miss Branch, Couch's "soul widow," consented to talk. Discussing the dead man, she said: "Mell, at his age, was stronger than the average man of thirty. I never dreamed that his heart had weakened so as to cause instant death. It is true that he complained of not feeling quite well the night before he died, but he seemed as strong as ever when he returned from the room of [illegible] H. Smyth, who lived in the Terr

A Fine Flow of Speech.

A native lawyer was defending a lady client in one of the Madras courts. The lady was accused of assault, but the man of law endeavored to show that she herself had been assaulted and had suffered damage on the most conspicuous feature of her countenance.

"My learned friend," he said, "with mere wind from a teapot thinks to browbeat me from my legs. He runs amuck upon the sheet anchors of my case. My poor client has been deprived of some of her valuable leather (skin), the leather of her nose. Until we are told what became of my client's leather nose the witness can not be believed. He cannot be allowed to raise a castle in the air by beating upon a bush."—London Mail.

Highbrows.

Will Irwin, the magazine writer, is credited with the invention of the word "highbrow." It was coined to express a blend of "snob" and "academic." He first used it when, as a reporter, he had occasion to describe the proceedings of societies who talked about the betterment of the drama. [illegible] the word will be [illegible]ilated by the dictionaries.

Cheerful.

Professor of Chemistry—If anything should go wrong in this experiment which is a particularly dangerous one, we and the laboratory with us might be blown sky high. Come closer, gentlemen, so that you may be better able to follow me without difficulty.—London Telegraph.

Bad Oversight.

"Why these pouts?"

"Look at this press notice!" stormed the actress.

"The critic speaks highly of your genius."

"And never mentions my gowns."—Washington Herald.

House of Retired Wives.

One of the most interesting houses we saw in Algiers was the "House of the Retired Wives."

It stands directly opposite the Catholic cathedral, which was once the palace of the bey; and the House of the Retired Wives is now occupied by the archbishop.

When the bey was supreme in Algiers, before the intervention of France, the palace contained several hundred wives. And as new ones were frequently added, old ones had to be retired. So as a wife became superfluous or undesired, for any reason, she was sent across the street, where she had much more freedom than in the bey's palace; for there she was supposed to keep to her own apartments and not wander about at will. In the House of the Retired Wives she could move about at will.

She left all jewels and valuable presents which the bey had bestowed upon her in the palace for her successors but she was fed and clothed until she died in her new home.—National Magazine.

The Secret of Health is Elimination of Waste

Every business man knows how difficult it is to keep the pigeon holes and drawers of his desk free from the accumulation of useless papers. Every housewife knows how difficult it is to keep her home free from the accumulation of all manner of useless things. So it is with the body. It is difficult to keep it free from the accumulation of waste matter. Unless the waste is promptly eliminated the machinery of the body soon becomes clogged. This is the beginning of most human ills.

WHEN THE EARTH QUAKES.

Stresses and Strains to Which Our Globe Is Subjected.

When the stairs creak and the furniture gives out mysterious crackling sounds at night we sometimes sit up in bed and wonder if there is a burglar about, but it doesn't occur to us that what we hear is really an earthquake on a small scale. The night air has caused the wood to contract with a snap, thus accounting for the alarming sounds. This is just exactly what the earth is doing periodically. To a microbe, reposing on the polished surface of the table, this disturbance is probably as violent as an earthquake is to a human being.

An earthquake is a terrible thing. It comes without warning. It is over before one knows which way to fly, and its fury can be abated by no man.

Yet to the geologist earthquakes are only symptoms. They are not causes so much as results—results of great stresses and strains within the earth that cause slippings and slidings from time to time. If the rocks on the shell of the earth slip and grate against each other so much as an inch along a fissure ten miles in length a shiver is felt. A slip of fifteen feet along a course of 200 miles sufficed to bring about the terrible San Francisco earthquake and fire.

These strains and stresses accumulate steadily within the earth. The point at which they have once found relief is weaker to resist the next strain. It slips again presently. By successive movements its sides become more and more displaced. Rock layers, mineral veins, coal seams that cross the line of displacement are jogged out of their course. So are roads, fence lines and brooks that run across it on the surface. In the San Francisco quake one man's front yard was moved twenty feet to one side of his house, and in another place the slip line came so close to a man's barn that some piles of straw, thrown out from the windows, were carried away. In Japan a cliff twelve feet high interrupted a roadway, and thousands of similar cases might be cited. These were primary movements along the line of the disturbance that caused the earthquakes.—Brooklyn Eagle.

BRITISH GROUSE HUNTERS.

No Business Is Allowed to Interfere With Their Sport.

The grouse hunting season in Britain opens on Aug. 12. On that day every Englishman and every Scot who makes any pretension to a standing in society goes gunning for two weeks at least. Nothing is allowed to stand in the way of this annual diversion. For a week or two preceding this outing business is of little consequence. Everything to receive any attention at all must relate in some way to guns and dogs. A year or so ago a New York man had occasion to go to London to meet a British financier to put the finishing touches to a matured business proposition. He arrived a couple of days before the 12th of August. The financier was not in his place of business. "No," said his chief clerk; "he has gone for the grouse shoot. He will not talk business with any one. I do not think he will see you at all, sir."

"But," said the New Yorker, "I have crossed the Atlantic for no other purpose than to see him. This business will not take more than half an hour of his time, and then I'm off for home again."

"I should advise against your going to his home, sir. He would not receive anybody at this time. He will attend to no business."

But the New Yorker thought differently. He went to the country home of the financier. A burly butler met him at the door. To him the New Yorker gave his card. It was promptly returned to him.

"The master," said the butler, "will see no one. He sets out for the grouse shooting tomorrow. He says to call, please, in a fortnight."

And the New Yorker was compelled to remain two weeks longer until the Englishman returned from his hunt, when the business was finished in twenty minutes.—Indianapolis News.

Dr. Burleson Arrives

A Very Natural Mistake

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Dr. Allen came into the living room, drawing on his driving gloves. He was an elderly man, hard driven by an extensive country practice, which he was about to share with an assistant from the city.

"I am called over to Ridgewood. Molly," he said to his plump little wife. "There's to be a consultation on the Travers case. Brown has telephoned for me. I may not return until late this evening."

"Oh, dear!" sighed Mrs. Allen. "That is awkward—just when you are expecting Dr. Burleson. But he may not come today."

"I'm expecting a telegram any moment. He said he would wire just before he left. You have a room for him, dear?"

"Oh, yes, the chimney room. It's so cozy on these October evenings."

Della Allen looked up from her sewing with a mischievous smile crinkling her lips.

"Mother is spoiling him, dad, dear. She has hung new curtains in the chimney room, and she has picked out all the prettiest worked slippers and necktie holders and shaving paper balls that your lady invalids shower on you at Christmas and has adorned his room with them. Now, mother, you know you have!"

"THEY TELL ME YOU ARE FROM ALLEN'S."

Father and daughter laughed tenderly at the embarrassment of the dear little woman, who murmured something about "refined young men far away from their homes."

"Here comes Peter with the carriage," announced Della from the window, and she flew to tuck his medicine case into the buggy and receive his farewell kiss.

It was an hour later that the expected telegram arrived.

Della smoothed out the message and read scornfully:

Meet me at 3:12 train. Save best room for me. BURLESON.

"Why—why, what a singular message!" faltered Mrs. Allen, all her exalted ideas of the new assistant crumbling to dust.

Della laughed. "Well, mother, of course I will meet him. He must be rather amusing, to say the least. We won't worry father about Dr. Burleson's eccentricities. He will be disappointed."

Della Allen, very straight and slim in her scarlet coat and gray skirt, with scarlet feather in her gray hat, drove Dandy to the railroad station to meet the 3:12 train. As the rubber tired runabout wheeled around to a standstill at the platform the train rushed in with a roar of escaping steam and a thunder of wheels on the rails.

Then a high pitched, rather disagreeable voice sounded at Della's elbow.

"They tell me you are from Allen's," said the voice sharply.

"Dr. Burleson?" she asked crisply.

"Yes."

Della turned the carriage, and Dr. Burleson tossed a heavy suit case in the back and climbed to a seat beside her.

They drove in silence for some time.

"How's the old man?" he asked after awhile.

Della stiffened.

"You mean my father, of course," she said coldly. "He is very well, thank you. He was called to Ridgewood this morning. Otherwise he would have met you himself."

"Every cloud has a silver lining," he said with a laugh that was extremely unpleasant to Della Allen.

Della thought of the dainty chimney room, and she wondered what her mother would think of the guest for whom she had made such thoughtful preparations.

Dandy turned in at the open gateway and stopped before the door of the wing where her father's office was situated.

Mrs. Allen came into the porch, cordially smiling.

"Here is Dr. Burleson, mother," said Della dryly as the new assistant went up the steps with his suit case in hand. "I am very glad to see you," said Mrs. Allen, holding out her hand.

The physician gripped it in a large red paw.

"Pleased to meet you," he said rather awkwardly, and Della stared as he added in a businesslike tone: "I hope you saved a decent room for me. I wired Allen to that effect."

"I trust you will find it entirely comfortable," said Mrs. Allen haughtily, and she called Peter from the flower beds to conduct the doctor to his room.

Alone, the two women stared at each other.

"Mother, he will never do!" whispered Della.

"He is impossible," said Mrs. Allen with flashing eyes.

Della drove Dandy around to the barn and then returned to the house to find black Peter in earnest conversation with her mother. The old servitor was rubbing his woolly head in perplexity.

"Sho, Miss Molly, he am de contraptedest I eber seen," grumbled Peter. "Ses he, 'Bring me ice water, boy, an' is dey a drink in de house or am dis a temp'rance hotel?' an' when I tells him it ain't a saloon he asks, 'What kinda ranch am dis anyway?'"

Mrs. Allen's face was pale and red by turns.

"Is there anything else that Dr. Burleson wishes?" she asked.

"Yas'm, Miss Molly. Ses he, 'Take all dese yere dinglebats outer dis yere room,' an', yas'm, he flang all dese t'ings at my haid." Peter brought his hand from behind his back and displayed an orange colored shaving ball, a beribboned necktie holder, a fancy pincushion and a pair of worsted slippers.

"The man is intoxicated," said Della from the doorway, and just then Dr. Burleson's heavy step was heard in the hall. In a moment he appeared, looking at his watch.

"It's after 4, and I had a light lunch," he said briskly. "Just have cook [illegible] up a [illegible] for [illegible] Some onions with it would go well. And a piece of apple pie, the kind mother used to make, eh? I'll go out to the stables and take a look at the horse." He nodded toward them, clapped his green hat on his head and left the house, sauntering slowly toward the barn.

Peter followed him, grumbling.

Mrs. Allen looked at Della and was about to speak when there came a ring at the doorbell.

Della answered it, looking singularly handsome, for her cheeks were flushed with anger and her eyes shining like stars

On the doorstep stood a tall, slightly built young man, with eyeglasses astride his handsome nose. He was immaculately attired, and beside him on the porch were a leather suit case and a traveling bag.

"Dr. Allen?" he inquired, baring his head.

"I am sorry, but my father is away He may not return until late this evening," returned Della. "Is there anything?"

"I am Dr. Burleson," explained the newcomer calmly.

"Dr. Burleson!" shrieked Della. "Why—why, pardon me, but we have been entertaining Dr. Burleson. Oh, there must be some mistake. Do come in and see mother."

So Della hustled the astonished young man into the living room and introduced him to her mother.

"I knew there was some awful mistake," said Mrs. Allen quietly as she shook hands with him.

The new Dr. Burleson displayed a letter from Dr. Allen, which fully identified him as the new assistant. Still, there was the man at the barn whom Peter reported as making a careful examination of Dandy and who was behaving in a very rude manner.

"Suppose I go out and interview this gentleman," suggested Dr. Burleson.

"He asks me to apologize for a mistake," said the young doctor.

"Now, do tell us all about it," said Mrs. Allen after the new assistant had returned for the second time, having escorted Dr. Burleson to the top of the hill and directed him to his proper destination.

Dr. Burleson laughed pleasantly.

"It appears that your visitor has a right to his professional title, but he happens to be a veterinary surgeon. He was called here to treat an animal belonging to Hosea Allen, proprietor of some big boarding house. Perhaps you know of the place?"

"Oh, yes—over near the bay," responded Mrs. Allen.

"He had never been here before and was surprised to find the boarding house conducted on such a small scale. It seems he wired Hosea Allen to have a room reserved for him, and at the station I believed he asked if there was a conveyance for Allen's, and they evidently pointed out your daughter."

"But your telegram?"

"My telegram? Oh, I never sent any, after all."

So the new assistant had a very informal introduction into his wife's family. Oh, yes, he fell in love with Della and married her, much to the delight of Dr. Allen and his wife. And Mrs. Allen often shudders and says:

"Just suppose the other Dr. Burleson had been the right one, Della!"

But Della only laughs and answers:

"Then you couldn't indulge in dingbats, mother, dear!"

Land and Water.

It cannot, of course, be said for certain that we yet know the greatest depth of the sea. But Sir James Ross once took soundings 900 miles to the westward of St. Helena and found the depth to be just under six miles! And the pressure of the water at only 1,100 yards is equal to 15,000 pounds to the square inch.

Altogether there are about 147,000,000 square miles of water on the earth to 49,500,000 square miles of land.—London Globe.

Say Operation Cured Him.

DETROIT, MICH. — Harry E Hamberger, convicted of the murder of John Reindel, a bicycle dealer who was beaten to death fourteen years ago in his little shop where the Miles theater now stands, has been paroled. Hamberger was transferred to the Ionia hospital for the criminal insane soon after he had started to serve his life sentence in Jackson prison.

An operation was performed on Hamberger at Ionia, which is asserted to have lifted a "brain cloud." But Captain James McDonnell, who, as chief of the detective bureau in 1899, obtained a confession from Hamberger and kept him closely under observation up to the day he was sent to Jackson, said that in his opinion Hamberger never had been insane.

HASTINGS, MICH. — Repenting of his decision which placed behind the bars his protege, "Viscount" Philip Cosmo Gordon Lenox, "Uncle" Isaac Arnold of Charlotte, retired farmer, who has been harboring the young Englishman, has again furnished security for the alleged aristocrat and he is at liberty.

He was convicted of non-support, but obtained a twenty-day stay of proceedings.

SAGINAW, MICH. — Two deputy state game wardens, searching the Saginaw river for fish nets, were marooned thirty feet from the shore for many hours when the engine of their motor boat balked, and allowed the craft to freeze fast in the ice.

They worked for two hours but the motor refused to budge. Then they gave it up and swam ashore.

MANY ARE KILLED

Christmas Tree Rush Smothers Women and Children.

STAIRS BLOCKED BY BODIES

Man Shouts "Fire" at Celebration at Calumet, Mich., and Starts Disaster—Hundreds Caught in Jam in Narrow Stairway—Grownups Pile on Children.

CALUMET, MICH.—The fool who ran up the stairs shouting "fire" is responsible for the death of eighty three persons and the injury of over a score more who were attending a Christmas eve entertainment for the children of the striking copper miners of Calumet in the Italian hall. Fifty eight of the dead are children.

There was no fire. Not a candle was lighted on the three Christmas trees in the hall, for there were no candles; the strikers could not afford them. But when the man came rushing in from the street with his wild cry there ensued one of those strange panics such as ended so many lives in the Iroquois theater in Chicago.

The majority were smothered to death. The outside door was opened by passers-by, but the women and children were so solidly packed at the bottom of the stairs and half way to the top of the single flight that they could not be pulled out. In the mean time others within the building poured over the bodies of the crushed and lifeless at the bottom of the stairs, using them as a roadway to escape from the building.

Stairway Blocked by Bodies.

So solidly were the bodies at the bottom of the stairs packed that it was necessary for the firemen and deputy sheriffs to go into the second story windows with ladders and to come down the stairs and pull the children back off the pile at the top.

Only when the deputies appeared in the hall at the top of the stairs were others forcibly prevented from piling upon the bodies below. It took two hours to clear the hallway, many in the pile breathing their last while being taken out.

The first on the scene to help in the work of rescue were members of the Citizens' Alliance.

Many of the bodies were snatched away by grief-maddened parents, as the lifeless little forms lay along the walks and were taken to their homes.

Bodies Are Taken to Morgue.

Seventy-six bodies were taken to the temporary morgue established in the Redjacket Town hall, where identifications are being made as rapidly as possible.

Clamoring about the building is a mob of several thousand strikers and others, including hundreds of women. Many whose children were at first thought to be among the dead later found their little ones. Many sobbing children are in the crowd looking for their parents.

The children among the dead range in age from two or three years to twenty. Nearly all were with mothers or fathers in the building, but the older people lost their heads as quickly as did the little ones on the cry of fire.

Deportation Stirs Strikers.

The strikers in the copper region are aroused over the deportation of Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, and the situation has become more grave. Feeling between the strikers and the Citizens' Alliance, embittered by the disaster of Christmas eve, reached a point where the conservative look forward with relief to the early arrival of John D. Densmore, the federal agent delegated to pour oil on the troubled waters.

At the headquarters of the Western Federation of Miners is was charged that Moyer was kidnaped because of statements made by him growing out of the panic in Italian hall in which scores of lives were lost. The Citizens' Alliance conducted Moyer out of the state because he would not retract the assertion that according to his information the men who started the panic with the cry of "Fire were at the bottom of the alliance and because of his advice to bereaved families to accept no aid from the alliance.

GREEN BAY, WIS. — Lying in a berth in a sleeping car, with his head bound by a blood-stained bandage, Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, passed through this city on a Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul train on which he claims he was forcibly placed and guarded by two thugs until the train reached Channing, Mich. He said:

"I was terribly beaten, shot in the dark, dragged more than a mile along the streets, threatened with death by hanging, and finally placed aboard a train for Chicago."

MONEY BILL A LAW

President Wilson Attaches His Name to Measure.

IS FULSOME IN ITS PRAISE

"I Believe That the Passage of This Bill Will Mark a New Epoch in the Business Prosperity," He Declares—First of Series of Constructive Measures.

WASHINGTON — President Wilson has signed the currency bill, making the measure a law.

There were present at the ceremony the majority of the members of the cabinet, members of the senate and house committees on banking and currency, Mrs. Wilson, the Misses Eleanor and Margaret Wilson and Mrs. Owen.

After signing the bill the president arose from his desk and said:

"The most significant fact in the passage of the currency bill by both the house and the senate was the team work evident in both chambers. One of the most pleasing and gratifying results was the great number of Republican votes cast for this measure.

Expresses Gratitude.

"I need not tell you that I feel very deep gratification at being able to sign this measure and the very deep esteem for the men who made it possible for me to sign it.

"There have been currents and counter currents that threatened the existence of the bill, but it has come through safely Especially to the chairman of the two committees and then to the members of the committees themselves I wish to tender my congratulations for bringing this bill safely into being.

"This is the first of a series of constructive measures which the Democratic party means to pass in order better to serve the people

Law Is Constructive.

"In saying this I do not wish to cast any reflection upon the tariff bill. But that was passed in order to remedy existing evils. This is strictly a constructive measure. I consider it a happy omen that it has been made a law just fifty years after the passage of the national banking act in 1864.

"We have come to the end of the day of criticism. What we have been trying to do has been to engage in a peaceful fight for the betterment of conditions. This day of peace has arrived. Business men have a better understanding of conditions and criticism has been entirely obliterated. Today marks the constitution of peace.

Sees New Epoch.

"We have simply been seeking to serve the best interests of the country. I believe that the passage of this bill will mark a new epoch in the business of prosperity."

The pen with which the president signed "Woodrow" he presented to Representative Glass. That with which he signed "Wilson" he presented to Senator Owen.

The senate began voting on the final passage of the bill at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The bill was passed by a vote of 43 to 25. Four Republicans voted with the Democrats. They were Jones, Norris, Poindexter and Weeks.

Speaker Clark ended the House's part in the work by signing the bill at 2:48 o'clock.

Congress Adjourns.

The senate adjourned for the Christmas holidays at 4 o'clock and the house at 3:10. Congress will reconvene on January 12.

TRUCE IN STRIKE TO BURY VICTIMS

Funeral Services in Six Calumet, Mich., Churches.

MINERS ACT AS PALLBEARERS

Fifty-nine of Victims of Christmas Fire Are Laid to Rest After Church Services—Public Eulogies Are Pronounced—Moyer's Story Mystifies the Sheriff.

CALUMET, MICH.—With inexpressible sadness, Calumet buried 59 of the forms of tots, children, men and women who on Christmas eve found death in the panic ridden Italian Hall building during the progress of a Christmas tree entertainment for the little ones. The people of the entire copper country and many from outside points paid tribute to the dead. All factions were united for the time being by the common sorrow and bereavement and the lifeless forms were laid at rest and gathered about the long rows of yawning graves as the caskets were lowered into the earth.

Total Dead 72.

Four of the victims were buried the day before. Nine will be buried today, making the total number of the dead 72.

Funeral services were held in six churches and were followed by a funeral procession made up of the smaller processions from each of the churches. It was more than an hour and a half before the end of the cortege reached the cemetery gates. It is estimated that between ten and fifteen thousand persons marched. The miners carried all but four of the caskets. The interments were in the Lakeview cemetery.

The dead were buried, most of them in trenches, 25 on the Catholic side and the remainder on the Protestant. Following the interment and the brief services at the grave sides conducted by the priests and ministers of churches attended by the deceased in life, a public service of eulogy was conducted at a stand near the entrance to the cemetery.

Moyer's Trouble Mystery.

Sheriff James Cruse reports that he has been unable through the hardest work, to solve to his satisfaction the sudden leaving of the district by C. H. Moyer, president of the Federation of Miners. The sheriff is not convinced that Moyer was forced to leave and says it was not known that he had left the Scott hotel or where he had gone until the riot siren sounded.

He does not know who ordered the riot call. There was no trouble whatever at the Scott hotel, he says.

TWO MOTHERS WORRY OVER CALE MYSTERY

Woman Claims "Duchess of Sutherland" Is Daughter.

DETROIT, MICH.—There's another mother worrying over the ddisappearance last Saturday night of Philip H. Cale, young Detroit attorney, his fifteen-year-old bride, formerly Luella Stratmann, a man calling himself "Sir Frederick Idegray, duke of Sutherland," and the latter's wife. This second mother is Mrs. C. Johnson, 33 Crawford avenue, Windsor, and her daughter is the wife of "Sir Frederick," who was known to her as Frank Richie.

"We heard of Richie two years ago, when we were living in Taber, Alberta," said Mrs. Johnson. "From the moment she saw him Alma seemed to be greatly taken up with Richie, while on the evening of the day he first met her Richie came to me and told me he would win my daughter, whether I was willing or not.

"Two months after meeting this Frank Richie, Alma announced that they were going to get married. It was against my wishes, but my husband consented. They were married October 14, 1911. The last I saw of my daughter was last week, when she came to visit me with the two Stratmann girls. Since then I have heard nothing from her. I never liked Richie. Evidently my daughter knew something was wrong, because she told me several times that if her husband was ever put in prison she would either go with him or kill herself."

Now Some of Town's "Younger Set" Are in Disgrace

BATTLE CREEK, MICH. — Climax, a little town in Kalamazoo county, west of Battle Creek, never saw the tango until a Battle Creek orchestra introduced some of the one-step music. For a while the village belles and their escorts hung back; then they "went to it," and all kinds of "bunny hugs" and "grizzly bears" were introduced.

Shocked villagers sent for the manager of the dance hall, who rushed in and stopped the tango in the midst of a dance. Now several of the "younger society set" are in disgrace.

35 YEARS AGO

Delagates from the Reform Club of Tecumseh, made the President of the W. C. T. U, Mrs. N. M. Sutton, a New Years call yesterday afternoon. They were very hospitably entertained by her, Mrs. Sutton on her part felt highly gratified at this mark of esteem by the Reform Club.

Dr. and Mrs. N. H Kimball of Adrian were in town Thursday and favored the Herald Office with a call.

Our Merchants have been reaping a harvest these last weeks as trade has been lively.

Sleighride parties are numerous these days.

Thomas Lovett of Chicago is visiting here for a few days. Last Monday he and his brother William and sister Mrs. Zack Cook happened in Whitenack's together and took a notion to get weighted, the three weighed 671 pounds. Pretty good for three persons in one family.

AMUSEMENTS!

"Lavender and Old Lace," dramatized from Myrtle Reed's popular book of the same name, tells in a charming fashion a quaint New England love story. Two million people have laughed and wept with Miss Reed's characters and the real flesh and blood people of the book lose neither their strength nor attractiveness in the stage version, which Mr Fisher has skillfully written. Love stories of the good old fashioned kind have not gone out of style, a fact fully proven by the enormous sales of this book and the instantaneous popularity of the play. It is one of the real events of the present theatrical season.

"Lavender and Old Lace" is under the management of The United Play Company, the same people that sent us "The Man From Home" and "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" and the local management guarantees "Lavender and Old Lace" to be an attraction of equal merit and presented with a complete scenic production and an excellent cast. The United Play Company send no other kind on the road Their name alone guarantees the worth of their attractions.

Eric Delamarter, critic in the Chicago Inter Ocean said of "Lavender and Old Lace," "The audience yesterday afternoon decided that the play is one of the prettiest things we've seen' and said so." The Chicago Advance says, "A story as fragrant and exquisite as its title."

"Lavender and Old Lace" will be the attraction at the Bradley Opera House, next week, Thursday, Jan. 8

Stomach Trouble; Wholly Restored!

Mrs. Wilson Robison.

Mrs. Wilson Robison, 744 Nessle St., Toledo, Ohio, writes:

"I feel like a new person. I have no more heavy feelings, no more pain, don't belch up gas, can eat most anything without it hurting me. I want to be working all the time. I have gained twenty-four pounds.

"People that see me now and saw me two months ago seem astonished. I tell them Peruna did it. I will say it is the only remedy for spring and all other ailments."

No argument is needed for Peruna. Just get a bottle and try it. If you have catarrh of the stomach you have a serious trouble. If you want to find a remedy it would be very easy to make the experiment. Before you have taken Peruna a week you will likely find yourself better, then you will need no testimonials on the part of other people, or arguments to convince you. Until you try Peruna, however, all the testimonials in the world and arguments, however logical, will not move you. Just one trial of Peruna will convince you.

Persons who object to liquid medicines can now obtain Peruna Tablets

"BUTTERFLY ON THE WHEEL"

The Butterfly on the Wheel, as presented at the Opera House Wednesday night was certainly all that had been promised, and more, and the audience was an appreciative one.

The gay little butterfly Peggy was taken in a most masterful manner by Charlotte Lillard who entered heart and soul into the character. Adele Alcott as Lady Atwell, lady of fashions and false friend played the part well. The role of Collingwood, the man of fashion and would-be villian was finely rendered as was that of Geo. Admaston, the husband of Peggy.

The scene in the Divorce Court was well staged and here Peggy proved that she was not all butterfly but a woman, frivolous and thoughtless, maybe, but at heart pure.

THE NEW YEAR

The Herald extends to its Friends and Patrons its best wishes for a happy and a prosperous New Year.

The past year has been a very prosperous one for Tecumseh people, our Merchants report a fine business and the holiday trade was unusually good. The Banks report a fine business for the year, and have made their usual dividends to their stock holders. The Factories have been busy and have given employment to a large number of men and women, everywhere a feeling of prosperity prevails and the outlook for the coming year is good.

The year 1914 was ushered in by the ringing of the church bells A big bonfire on Chicago St, and the usual hullabaloo of the large and the small boy. A chorus (?) of congenial souls were singing long and loudly, "How Dry I Am" etc, when they could have slaked their thirst at the fountains on the street, provided for just such emergencies. But 1914 arrived on schedule time and will remain for 365 days, as is the custom of the years.

When the attacks were present it was all I could do to work When stooping I became very dizzy and spots of fire seemed to flash before my eyes. I rested poorly and in the morning when I got up. was unrefreshed I doctored and used various remedies but got no benefit until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills They made me feel like a different person, ridding me of the trouble I gladly confirm my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills"

MUST BE TWO HAZEL PAINES

Boston Youth Thinks Her Former Sweetheart, but Is Mistaken.

GRAND HAVEN, MICH.—On believing that Hazel Paine, a Grand Haven girl, who was found by a farmer while she was lying bound on the Grand Trunk tracks, was his former sweetheart, Hazel Paine, now an actress, a Boston law student sent her a letter. The letter caused Sheriff Dykhuis of Grand Haven to believe for a time that he had another clew in the case.

The young man had come to the conclusion that his old sweetheart had been trying to get some free advertising to air her work on the stage. Miss Paine denied knowing the young man, and it soon became apparent that there were two "Hazel Paines."

Every business man knows how difficult it is to keep the pigeon holes and drawers of his desk free from the accumulation of useless papers. Every housewife knows how difficult it is to keep her home free from the accumulation of all manner of useless things. So it is with the body. MARRIAGE

J. Maynard Mulvaney and Miss Ivah Caswell were quietly married on Jan. 2 in Ypsilanti at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George Burleigh, Mrs. Burleigh being a sister of the bride. The ring service was used. Dr. W. B. Hartzog of Tecumseh performed the ceremony. Only the immediate families of the bride and groom were present. A dainty three cource luncheon was served. The young couple will reside at Tecumseh where the groom is engaged in the lumber business. Through the announcement of their marriage comes as a complete surprise to their friends, all join in extending heartiest congratulations.

The Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters will hold a joint public installation Friday evening, January 9. Let every member be present.

REUNION OF THE QUARTETTE

Fred Dickinson, Wade Frost, Roger Waring and Seymour Boyd the old quartette had a happy reunion last week, the first in four years. Roger is now located in Detroit, Seymour in Springfield, Ill., Wade in Carson City, each one a busy worker in his chosen pursuit. Fred remains in Tecumseh in the postoffice and has assumed the responsibilities of a wife and home. Roger's engagement to Miss Elsie Bond of Ann Arbor has been announced; Wade seems quite preoccupied as a maiden fair, Miss Vinnie Booth of Alma, was also of the party; Seymour says he is the black sheep, as he was alone.

The culmination of the meeting took place New Years night when Mr. and Mrs Fred Dickinson entertained at dinner for the crowd. A regular singfest was the great event of the evening after the bountiful dinner had been disposed of. The boys sang until they were hoarse, and a most delightful time was the verdict passed.

The Quartette are planning for a meeting next summer, a week at the lakes if it can be arranged and are anticipating a right jolly time.

Scene from "LAVENDER AND OLD LACE" at Bradley Opera House, Thursday, January 8.

AMUSEMENTS!

"LAVENDER AND OLD LACE."

The story of "Lavender and Old Lace" is the romance of Carl Winfield and Ruth Thorne, both of newspaper profession, who meet as they are spending their vacation in a quaint little village by the sea. They come to know Miss Ainslie, a dainty little woman, who loves lavender and old lace and other beautiful things. There is a mystery in her life and how Carl most strangely enters into that mystery forms some of the most fascinating pages of the tale.

"Lavender and Old Lace" first appeared ten years ago and it is today in demand at every public library as their well thumbed copies attest. It has had forty printings.

The general expectation that some day this delightful romance would be dramatized has been realized. The stage version has been prepared by David G Fischer and a company of whose ability much praise is heard is in tour in the piece. The production is by the United Play Co (Inc.) which has many successes to its credit.

"Lavender and Old Lace" has long been known as one of the prettiest of love stories. It is bright and wholesome and has just enough mystery to impart a little thrill. As a play it is said to be quite as entertaining as in the story form. Theatre-goers of this city will have an opportunity to judge as the dramatization of "Lavender and Old Lace" is announced for presented at the Bradley Opera House on Thursday, Jan. 8, under the management of the United Play Co (Inc)

The seat sale for "Lavender and Old Lace" opens at Hay's Bakery tomorrow (Wednesday) morning at 8:00.

LAST DAYS OF POMPEII.

There are many ideally beautiful scenes in George Kline's magnificent photo-drama production "The Last Days of Pompeii" which will be at the Bradley Opera House, this week Friday and Saturday nights, Jan. 9 and 10. Among the unusual episodes that are particularly pleasing to the discriminatingly artistic spectators are those showing Glacus and Ione floating down the Bay of Naples in their beautiful barge, attended only by their slaves slowly developing that glorious, steadfast love that sustained them later in the terrible ordeals that befel them and the scene showing Ione at her bath, receiving the message of Arbacas to come to the temple. "This is one of the most beautiful pictures of the group and gives an excellent idea of the luxurious manner in which the wealthy ancients lived.

Both the homes of Glacus and Ione are gorgeous specimens of ancient beauty and luxury, denoting the artistic quality of those times. The scene showing Ione and Glaucus feeding the fish and doves is exquisite in its daintiness.

This magnificent production of The Last Days of Pompeii was made in Pompeii, Italy and is in six parts or over 6000 feet of the most magnificent scenes ever shown. The scene showing the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius is said to be one of the most wonderful ever produced. Nothing like it has ever been seen here before.

Don't Sleep Well
No Good Reason
Just Can't Sleep

Some people can't sleep. There seems to be no special reason. They have no disease of the nervous system. Digestion is fairly good. Their habits are pretty good. They may smoke a little or drink a little, yet their habits are fair. Still they can't sleep well.

Just a little unbalanced in the nerve centers. That is all. They should have a little "righting up."

A tonic will generally do this. The right sort of a tonic. Peruna is exactly the tonic. Digestion is hurried by Peruna. The stomach is empty and ready to rest for the night. The circulation is equalized. The brain is relieved of all congestions and irritations.

The Peruna acts on every blood vessel in the system. It acts on all of the nerve centers. One begins to sleep and hardly knows why.

Take a teaspoonful to one tablespoonful of Peruna before each meal. Sometimes another tablespoonful at bedtime is necessary, where the sleeplessness is very pronounced.

Just try it, neighbor. You will be glad if you do. One bottle will convince you. Peruna is no sleep medicine. It is not a nervine. It contains no narcotics. It is nothing of that sort. It is simply a regulative tonic. Every home should be provided with the last edition of the "Ills of Life," sent free by the Peruna Co., Columbus, Ohio.

A Resident Known to all Our Readers Relates an Experience.

Readers of the Herald have been told again and again of the merits of that reliable, time-proved kidney remedy—Doan's Kidney Pills. The experiences told are not those of unknown persons living far away. The cases are Tecumseh cases, told by Tecumseh people.

J. B. Smith, E. Chicago St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I was caused a great deal of suffering by pains in the small of my back. When the attacks were present it was all I could do to work. When stooping I became very dizzy and spots of fire seemed to flash before my eyes. I rested poorly and in the morning when I got up was unrefreshed. I doctored and used various remedies but got no benefit until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. They made me feel like a different person, ridding me of the trouble. I gladly confirm my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills."

CUZCO AND THE INCAS.

Peru's Ancient City Was on the Plan of the Roman Camp.

The ancient city of Cuzco, when first viewed by European eyes, was, according to the best authorities, a great and wealthy municipality of perhaps 200,000 souls. How old it was at that time we have scant means of knowing. Garcilasso would have us believe that there were only thirteen Incas in the royal family line from Manco Capac to Huayna Capac. Montesinos, on the other hand, assures us that the Incas ruled a thousand years! Which are we to believe? No written history of the race exists—only the records of the quipus, those queer knotted strings which were the Incas' sole documents and for which no archaeologist has as yet discovered the key, the Rosetta stone.

Cuzco's original plan was, singularly enough, that of the Roman camp, a quadrangle divided by two intersecting streets into quarters, with a gate on each face and towers at the angles.

The Incas, like the citizens of the United States, had no more definite name for their country than Tavantinsuyu, the Empire of the Four Provinces. The four streets of the capital, prolonged by great roads, divided it into four main provinces, each under the dominion of its governor. When their people came to Cuzco they lodged in their own quarter, where they adhered to their national costumes and the customs of their own province.

The city today retains the same general plan, its two principal streets being virtually the old main thoroughfares. Its two eastern quarters lie upon steep hillsides; the two western are in the valley, where runs a little river, the Huatanay, spanned by bridges.

The northeast quarter was the Palatine hill of this South American Rome and contains the palaces of the kings, for each Inca, after the manner of the Roman emperors, built his own abode, scorning to live in that of his predecessor.—Scribner's Magazine.

Too Great a Risk.

"A Chicago lawyer found a new sort of therapeutic treatment. His instructor told him that if he retired into the silence, breathed rhythmically and said certain words he would be able to cast off all his bodily ailments. He tried it, and it worked. Then his three-year-old child got measles, and he worked it on him. He was all puffed up. Later his prize setter contracted the mange. He summoned a veterinary. Then a friend expostulated. "Your system worked with yourself, and it worked with your child," he said. "Why don't you try it on the dog?" "That dog cost me $100 when he was a mere pup," was the answer, "and I can't afford to take any chances."—Argonaut.

MYSTERY OF A SENTRY POST

A Strange Episode of the Spanish-American War.

During the Spanish-American war my regiment of United States infantry occupied a single position in Cuba for quite awhile. We were not very near an enemy and kept out no vedettes or pickets, the colonel being satisfied with the usual chain of sentinels. There was one sentry beat overlooking a valley from which every man posted at the evening relief disappeared. No cry, no sound of any kind, was heard at post No. 8, but the sentry placed there was not found when the corporal of the guard took a man to relieve him, nor was he ever heard of afterward. Some concluded that an enemy crawled up from below, stabbed him and took his body away. Some concluded that the post was haunted and the sentry was carried away by a ghost.

When the first man disappeared the officer of the guard reported the matter to the colonel, who, thinking that it would be better that the next man to stand post on No. 8 should not know of the occurrence, ordered the officer to keep the matter a secret and if there were inquiries about the missing man among his comrades to give out that he had been ordered away on a special service. So the second man did not know of the mystery of the first, nor the third of the second, nor the fourth of the third. The fourth man was the last to vanish, for after he had gone the regiment went to the front.

I was a member of Company C, and we knew more about the disappearances than the officers thought we did, but we didn't know what had become of the sentries. It was the prevailing opinion that the men were murdered by hostile Spanish citizens, but with what object we were ignorant. After the war closed I came north with the rest of the command, but eight years later went to Cuba on business, and there one day, while passing a sugar plantation, who should I see sitting before a workman's cabin but John Henderson, the last man who had disappeared from sentry post No. 8. At first he pretended not to know me, but I looked him square in the eye, and told him he couldn't fool me. Then he told me the following story:

"When placed on post and left by the retreating relief I stood for awhile uncertain whether to risk death by some unearthly means or by being shot for deserting my beat.

"While I was deliberating I heard a girl's laugh and, looking down, saw a merry face and two black eyes peering up at me. The girl had a basket on her arm full of flowers and began to pelt me with them. I supposed she was simply passing that way and didn't connect her with the ghost who had spirited away the other sentries. I seized one or two posies and threw them back at her. She was too pretty to keep at a distance, and I invited her to come up and sit with me on the slope. It wasn't long before I had my arms around her and stole a kiss.

"She spoke some English and, pointing to a house below, told me she was on her way to a dance to take place there. We soon heard the sound of music, and the girl begged me to go down with her, have a dance and get back before the relief came. I was tempted and fell. I went with her, danced several times and was thinking of returning when I was surrounded and made a prisoner.

"They were about to take me out to shoot me when the girl who had arranged for my capture stood in the door and jabbered Spanish at them with constantly growing irritation. I didn't know then what she said, but learned afterward that, having given them three victims, she wished the fourth to be spared. Finally she prevailed, partly by threats to expose them to our troops above and partly by her influence over them. I was released and, accompanied by the girl, started up to camp. I had plenty of time to get there, but was dallying with her, she showing plainly enough that she had gone daft on me. I tried to tear myself away from her, but couldn't. I knew she had betrayed three other men, but her preference for me caught me, and while I was trying to get away from her I heard the relief visit my post. Then I knew I was too late, for if I went to camp I would be shot for being absent from my post.

"That threw the whole matter into the hands of the girl. It was the same as having sold my soul to the devil. I deserted, and we went away together. She deserted, too, for she never went back home. Her people were Spaniards, and the men who had been bent on shooting me were Spaniards. They lived about there with their families, and had the girl told on them, as she threatened to do, our colonel would have arrested and shot them. They had only consented to let me go on her promise that she would keep me from getting back to the command. Of course, not understanding Spanish, I didn't know this at the time or I should have been forewarned."

Henderson had married the girl, and they had several children. In that country women fade early, and upon an introduction I found the wife homely enough to use for a scarecrow. I have remembered the incident since as a warning to all men not to be led away from their duty by a pretty face. Henderson was living in terror, conscious of being a deserter, and all because he had listened to a siren.

"GLAD HE IS DEAD," SAYS FATHER OF BOY

"Two Others Should Follow Example," He Asserts.

DETROIT, MICH.—"I am glad he is gone, there are two more who ought to follow his example," declared William Hasse when Coroner Rothacher showed him the dead body of his son hanging from a rafter in a dairy barn.

Hasse, who is a molder in the employ of the Art Stove company, walked to the form of his seventeen-year-old son and shook the body without the slightest indication that his son's death had affected him. Coroner Rothacher was so shocked by the man's attitude that he ordered him from the barn in language that was far more firm than polite.

The boy, Ernest, hanged himself just after noon. The boy had been grieving over the separation of his mother and father. Some time ago the father, it is alleged, sent most of his eight children to the homes of others. Mr. and Mrs. Hedgar had taken one young son of the Hasses and Ernest applied there about a month ago. They took him in, he sharing his younger brother's room. The boy began to brood over the family's troubles. Saturday noon he dressed himself in his Sunday suit, went to the barn, procuring a harness strap and hung himself.

MAN WEDS BEFORE DIVORCED

Now He Will Have to Marry No. 2 All Over Again.

KALAMAZOO, MICH. — Although Hiram Hekkema, Democratic politician, was advised by attorneys not to get married again until a motion which had been entered in his divorce case had been settled by the court, he obtained the necessary marriage license, and was married. Judge Stewart granted the motion which had been filed by attorneys for the first wife, and Hekkema will now be obliged to defend the suit, and the divorce decree is in the eyes of the court still pending.

A plea was made by Hekkema's attorney that such action on the part of the court would be unjust to the wife, but Judge Stewart ruled that as far as he knew the second marriage had not been legal. Hekkema will now be obliged to get his divorce and remarry his second wife.

ROBBERS KILL 7TH OFFICER

Record of Detroit Murders in a Few Months Swelled by Tragedy.

DETROIT, MICH.—The Policeman John Gordon was shot and killed by robbers, the seventh Detroit officer slain while on duty since March. Before succumbing to his wounds Gordon identified three suspects as men he encountered.

A second victim of the day was in the Italian colony—a dwarfed, slender Sicilian, whose soft, well-cared for hands belied the rough working clothes he wore—has not yet been identified. In the man's pocket as he lay in the alley off Riopelle street, south of Monroe avenue, where the shooting occurred, was found an unmailed black hand letter, addressed to Mario Turtamelli, a grocer, of 496 Riopelle street.

Aged Divorcees Wedded.

DETROIT, MICH.—The romance that had bloomed and faded has blossomed again. John Harwood, seventy-two years old, a lawyer of Whitecloud, and Harriet Harwood, seventy-one years old, were married by Justice Command.

Twelve years ago the two were divorced and Mr. Harwood married again. Last June his second wife died. Grandchildren brought about the reconciliation.

MORGAN'S FIRM QUITS TRUSTS

Firm Bows to the New Era in Sensational Step.

SAYS ACTION IS VOLUNTARY

Step Is Taken In Response to an Apparent Change In Public Sentiment on Account of Some of the Problems and Criticisms Having to Do with So-Called Interlocking Directorates.

NEW YORK.—J. P. Morgan & Co. announced that they had severed their connection with some of the biggest corporations in the country, with which they have long been connected.

This step, the firm announced, was taken voluntarily in response to "an apparent change in public sentiment," on account of "some of the problems and criticisms having to do with so-called interlocking directorates."

Among the companies from which they retired are the New York Central and the New Haven railroads.

Statement Made by Morgan.

J. P. Morgan made the following statement:

"The necessity of attending many board meetings has been so serious a burden upon our time that we have long wished to withdraw from the directorates of many corporations.

"Most of these directorates we have accepted with reluctance, and only because we felt constrained to keep in touch with properties which we had reorganized, or whose securities we had recommended to the public, both here and abroad.

"An apparent change in public sentiment in regard to directorship seems now to warrant us in seeking to resign from some of these connections."

George F. Baker Withdraws.

George F. Baker, chairman of the First National bank of New York, and one of the dominant figures in the financial world of America, withdrew from the boards of corporations with which he is identified.

No Effect on Market.

The only effect on the stock market of Morgan & Co.'s announcement was to bring trade virtually to a standstill. When the news was flashed by telephone and news ticker to the stock exchange, brokers dropped their business and for some time the exchange was practically given over to discussion of the announcement, which probably was a complete surprise to every man on the floor. The announcement had no effect on the market. Even the stocks of corporations most directly connected with the house of Morgan did not vary in price.

DYNAMITE CASE DECISION

Sentences of Twenty-Four Union Labor Men Are Upheld.

CHICAGO — The judgment of the federal district court at Indianapolis in sentencing to prison thirty members of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers was affirmed by the United States circuit court of appeals in twenty-four cases. Six cases were reversed.

The defendants whose cases were reversed are Olaf A. Tveitmoe, San Francisco; William J. McCain, Kansas City; Richard H. Houlihan, Chicago; Fred Sherman, Indianapolis; William Bernhardt, Cincinnati; and James E. Ray, Peoria, Ill.

The cases of the twenty-four men who lost in the circuit court will be taken to the Supreme court according to attorneys. Among the sentences affirmed is that of President Ryan of the iron workers to seven years imprisonment.

YOUTHS ADMIT JOY RIDE AND TRAGEDY

School Board Chauffeur and Companions Jailed.

DETROIT, MICH. — Four young men, all members of good families are being detained by the county authorities as the members of the motor party whose machine killed Edward Griffin and injured his wife while they were walking out Gratiot avenue New Year's evening.

The mystery of the death-dealing automobile was cleared when Sheriff Oakman, arrested Chester Bowers, twenty-four years old, chauffeur for Captain A. E. Stewart, supervisor of the board of education and driver of the board's automobile that was found abandoned with its windshield broken the day after Griffin was killed.

Bowers confessed to Assistant Prosecutor Jasnowski that he was driving the automobile, which he had taken over for his own use during the holiday, when Griffin and his wife were struck and told the story of the night's affair. Three other boys who were in the car when the accident happened were taken into custody. These boys are Herbert Schulte, twenty-one years old, another chauffeur employed by the board of education; Albert Mitchell, twenty years old, and his brother, Russell, fifteen years old.

TO DISCUSS BETTERING RACE

Scientists to Hold National Conference in Battle Creek.

BATTLE CREEK, MICH.—The final preparations are being made for the national conference on race betterment which will be held here Jan. 8 to 12.

Many notables will be present, headed by Dr. Stephen Smith, president of the conference, who owns up to ninety-two years, and is vice president of the New York Board of Charities. The conference will be the first representative gathering of scientific experts ever held in the United States for the consideration of race deterioration and the remedies therefor.

LOSES HIS LIFE UNDER CAR

Painter Is Killed as He Attempts to Board Trolley.

ANN ARBOR, MICH. — John W Wasmond, a painter, fifty years old, was instantly killed by a D. U. R. car as he was attempting to board it while it was moving.

The car had turned down the spur by the waiting room, and was going rapidly when Wasmund started toward it on a run. According to Motorman Backmaster, he believed Wasmond intended to get on the front step but slipped, and was trying to regain his balance when he fell in front of the car. The wheels severed the body.

Leaps from Auto and Dies.

WAUKESHA, WIS. — Joseph R. White, about seventy-five years old, was instantly killed when he jumped from the running board of an automobile at Pewaukee village. He carried the mail from the depot to the postoffice and asked for a ride in order to make a train, which was due. He misjudged the speed of the machine and fractured his skull when he jumped. He served in the civil war and leaves a large family.

Heavy Loss to Shippers.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH. — It is estimated that Michigan shippers stand to lose $1,000,000 on back claims against railroads as a result of the ruling of the United States supreme court that carriers do not have to consider claims that are filed after four months from the date of shipment. Claims were filed here aggregating several thousand dollars, which will be taken into the court for settlement.

ATTACK OJINAGA

Federals Maintain Their Position at Border Town.

BOTH SIDES WELL SUPPLIED

Rebels with 6,000 Men Directing Effective Fire—Federal Losses Said to Be Less Than Foes—Gen. Martinez Has Wounds Dressed in U. S. Territory.

PRESIDIO, TEXAS — More than 5,000 rebels, the combined forces under General Ortega and General Rodriguez, renewed the attack on Ojinaga shortly after noon and stormed the town from the west. The fight from the new position seems to have given the rebels a slight advantage and they rapidly advanced on the garrison. Early in the day the rebels attempted to take the garrison from the north but this proved disastrous to them and many of their troops were mowed down from the terrible resistance put up by the federals.

Retreating from the Arroyo, a mile and a half from the garrison, the rebels under the command of Ortega moved to the Conchos river and there joined the forces of General Rodriguez and resumed their attack.

Rebel Fire Effective.

The rifle and cannon fire of the rebels have been very effective and more than seventy of the government forces are said to have been killed and 150 wounded. The federals believe that the rebel losses are equally as heavy, and reports have been received in the town indicating an enormous death list.

Two thousand federal cavalry left Ojinaga at dusk, headed for the Arroyo, a mile and a half from the city, and will make an effort to flank Ortega's section of the attacking army near the Conches river. This step was taken when the assault from the combined rebel force became so fierce that the rebels began to drive in the federals. Fifteen wounded constitutionalists crossed to the American side about noon and were taken in charge by the Red Cross nurses. Federal Brigadier General Martinez was seriously wounded in the morning and is now on his way to Marfa, having crossed to the American side for medical treatment.

Both Armies Well Supplied.

Both the rebel and federal armies have sufficient food and ammunition and if the government forces stand by their guns, it will be days before the rebels will be able to capture Ojinaga, if at all.

Major Luis Terrazas, third grandson of General Luis Terrazas, multimillionaire land baron of Chihuahua of the federal army at Ojinaga, was shot in the foot. The federal desertions have also stopped since the men were paid.

The dead so far is estimated at 200 for both sides with about 300 wounded on both sides, a total of 500 casualties since the fighting opened a week ago. The rebel claim to have 6,000 men and the federals 4,000.

EGGS AT $1.00 A DOZEN

Pennsylvania Lecturer Says That Will Be the Cost in Two Years.

FRANKLIN, PA. — Eggs at $ a dozen within two years was the prediction made by W. Theodore Whittman, a state lecturer on poultry, in addressing a gathering of farmers.

He said the increase in egg production, although large, is not keeping up with the increase in demand. He urged the farmers to take better care of their hens.

MRS. LEONARD WEST

Mrs. Jane West who died December 31, 1913 at the home of her daughter Mrs. A. E. O'dell in Tecumseh was born in Oneida county, New York, Aug. 8, 1846, second child of Mr. and Mrs. Oramand Tuttle. She came to Michigan with her parents when 8 years of age. Dec. 1, 1868 she married Charles Babcock. To this union were born four children all of whom survive. They are Mrs. Edith Odell of Tecumseh, Tracy Babcock of Brooklyn, Hervey Babcock of Cement City and Dora Babcock of Chinook, Mont. There are 4 grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Charles Babcock died Dec. 12, 1886. In 1892 the deceased married Leonard West who died in 1900. Since her husband's death she has lived in Deerfield and Cement City and had been for the last year with her daughter Mrs Odell in Tecumseh. She was a kind and thoughtful mother and will be greatly missed by those who knew her.

Dr. R. D. Smith PAINLESS EXTRATOR of Teeth.

Did intend to leave Dundee on the 9th but owing to the large amount of work that he has had since coming he has decided to cancel his next appointment and stay here at the National Hotel until

Jan. the 14th.

Since coming here 2 weeks ago he has worked for a large number of pleased patients and it has been most gratifying to Dr. Smith to know that a large number of them were former patients of a year ago. Here can be found the names of a few who will gladly tell you about the work that was done for them.

Mr. H. Shaw,
Mrs. Fred Baker
Mr. Andro Noskr,
Mr. Scott W. Jackson,
Mr. Chas. Prout,
Miss Genie Rodd,
Miss Hazel Rodd,
Miss Lily Pritchard,
Mr. Al. Totten
Mrs. Jno. Peters,
Mrs. Wallace Taylor,
Mr. Carl Friendt,
Mrs. Wm. Shipman,
Mrs. Henry Ramble,
Mrs. Wm. Brundell,

and a large number of others to numerous to mention. These people and many more have said that the work was the best that they ever had done. Mrs. H. D. Covell was one of the many that before now had been made sick for two weeks on account of tooth extracting, she said, "My! I am glad that that tooth is out. It did not hurt me a bit and I would not complain at being charged $5.00 for that job." Mrs. Covell is only one out of a thousand patients that have told Dr. Smith that same thing. If you are thinking of having teeth removed suffice it to say that this is a chance will come again. Remember that Dr. Smith does nothing else but extract teeth and he is an

at the business.

Fifteen years at extracting teeth has given him all kinds of practice.

He does not use cocaine in any way shape form or manner in any of his work and there will not be any unnecessary bad-after-effects.

Bear in mind that fully 90 per cent of his patients are referred to him by those who have had work done. This would not be true if the work was not what it should be. It is just as much to the best interests and your own are mutual.

You can find Dr. Smith at the National Hotel in Dundee until Wednesday eve the 14th will be the last day on this visit

POSTIVELY

SINCERELY

DON'T WAIT:

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED!

Note,—

This is the same Dr. Smith who was in Tecumseh last summer and who pleased a number of patients who had work done at that time he now finds that it will be at least 3 years before he can be in Tecumseh again, Dundee will be the nearest he will get so come to Dundee any time up to Wednesday eve the 14th of January.

Screech Owl in Church.

A fine specimen of the screech or barn owl was seen in Castleacre parish church in Norfolk, England, one Sunday morning, perched on one of the beams of the nave, just before the service began. While the officials were wondering how to get rid of it the owl alighted on the hat of a lady in the congregation, whence it was carried to the open air and set free. It is supposed that the bird descended the belfry stairs while an official was winding the church clock.

Best He Had Tasted.

Mark Twain was playing golf on a well known English course. In trying to make a very long brassie shot, Twain tore up considerable turf and a chunk of dirt hit him squarely in the face. The Englishman he was playing with, seeking to relieve the embarrassment of his guest, remarked: "By the way, Mr. Twain, how do you like our course?" "Fine," said Twain. "I think it is the best I have ever tasted."—From "Golf Yarns," by H. B. Martin.

Oldest Epigram.

An epigram must pass through many hands and get much polishing before it is a perfect jewel. You may remember how Oscar Wilde sent (on the stage) the man of the world through the drawing room door with the epigram. "There is one thing I never could resist; that is temptation." But you may trace it from the Garden of Eden, where the masculine plea for mercy was that the "woman tempted me."

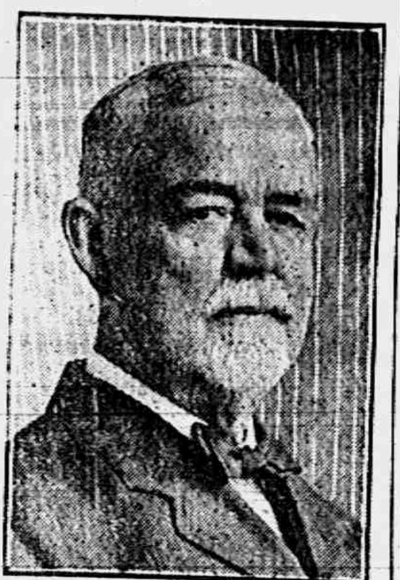
GEO. S. TIFFANY

When a great man dies his deeds are blazoned far and wide, and honors are paid whether he be worthy or not But when a good man passes away, too often his memory is cherished only in the hearts of his nearest and dearest. In the passing of George S. Tiffany from among us we all feel a personal loss, for he had endeared himself to everyone. He was highly gifted and of a fine poetic temperment and was ever ready with a choice poem from the old poets which he would repeat with feeling that made it seem his very own and his beautiful Christian character was lived day by day.

As president of the Men's Business Class at the M. E. Church since its inception under the Ministry of Rev. Wm. Ward until the time of his death, he was faithful and true, beloved by all its members, who will mourn his death.

Geo. S. Tiffany was born in Palmyra, Mich., July 7, 1841 His parents were Mr. and Mrs Alexander Tiffany, who with several families migrated from Palmyra, N. Y., in 1833 to the place which was afterword named for their home town. Judge Tiffany was appointed Prosecuting Attorney and in 1836 was made the second incumbent of the office of Judge of Probate for Lenawee County, which he held for eight years He was a man of giant intellect and wrote and published "Tiffany's Justice Guide" and "Tiffany's Criminal Law" which have proved very valuable to the law fraternity. The father endowed the son with a goodly share of his genius, giving him fine educational advantages, and sending him to Hillsdale College, where he graduated with honors



He was united in marriage to Miss Charlotte A. Tiffany in London, Ontario, Nov. 21, 1863, two sons were born to them George of Seattle, Wash. and Fred of St. Paul, Min. who with their mother mourn their loss.

Mr. Tiffany developed a great inventive genius long before his majority and was a successful patentee on several inventions

We append the following which will tell of his work in Tecumseh.

"It is safe to say that few of the present generation realize the great extent to which we are all indebted to Mr Tiffany for his invention of the Drain Tile Machine, through the product of which countless thousands of acres of our most fertile and valuable land have been reclaimed from swampy wastes, and countless thousands more have been doubled and quadrupled in productivity.

Under drainage had long been practiced in Europe and New England, but the tile were high in cost and poor in quality as a result of the crude methods of production by hand. None but the richest landowners could afford it, but through his tireless effort and ingenuity, Mr. Tiffany changed it all and brought about a condition wherein no man is so poor that he cannot afford to under-drain

During the late fifty's while living in Palmyra, Michigan, he realized the great benefit to be derived from more rapid and economical methods for the manufacture of drain tile, and having gathered his ideas together, he brought them to Tecumseh and had them put into mechanical form in shops then operated by Horace Brewer & Son. Since that time Tiffany Drain Tile Machines have been built in Tecumseh by the same concern or its successors, and are today, as far as the fundemental principal is concerned, a power in the Drain Tile Machinery world which remains unconquered.

At about the time of Mr. Tiffany's invention of the Drain Tile Machine, Porter L. Sword of Adrian was working upon a brick machine, and he also had come to the Brewer Shops in Tecumseh, for the execution of ideals. Here Mr. Tiffany's ideas were included in the Sword patents upon brick machines which were granted in 1861.

Like many, or perhaps the majority, of inventors Mr. Tiffany had first to conceive and build the machine and then to educate by personal effort the men who were to operate it, and in this direction also he proved himself a master, going to the bottom of the many difficulties which presented themselves in all of the different branches of the business from the selection of the clay from which the tile were to be made to the last stages of burning the ware in the kiln."

Mr. Tiffany has been a resident of Tecumseh for nearly 30 years and has always identified himself with the interests of the town.

The funeral was held at the home Wednesday afternoon, Rev. F. Hewitt officiating, the pall bearers being members of the Men's Business Class Burial private in Brookside Cemetery.

NERVOUS HEADACHES

Heavy Feeling, as If My Brain Was Pressing Down

MRS. EFFIE HILL,
Blanchester, Clinton Co., Ohio.

Mrs. Hill says: "I cannot tell you how much I have suffered during the past twelve years." Twelve years is a long time for any one to suffer. A great multitude of women in this country know exactly what Mrs. Hill means when she says, "Heavy feeling, as if my brain was pressing down. So nervous I could not get my rest at night. Would have sinking spells and then so weak that I could not do my work." A great many women in the United States will recognize in this description their own experience.

Mrs. Hill found a remedy. After taking four bottles of Peruna she gained in strength and flesh and wrote us that she was a well woman again. She says, "I cannot thank you enough for my recovery."

This is no ordinary incident. Twelve years suffering. Four bottles of Peruna. Restored to perfect health. If Peruna can do this for one woman why can it not for another? Is it not worth your attention? Is it not worth trying?

Those who object to liquid medicines can now obtain Peruna Tablets.

TOLD IN TECUMSEH.

A Resident Known to all Our Readers Relates an Experience

Readers of the Herald have been told again and again of the merits of that reliable, time-proved kidney remedy—Doan's Kidney Pills. The experiences told are not those of unknown persons living far away. The cases are Tecumseh cases, told by Tecumseh people.

J. B. Smith, E. Chicago St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I was caused a great deal of suffering by pains in the small of my back. When the attacks were present it was all I could do to work. When stooping I became very dizzy and spots of fire seemed to flash before my eyes. I rested poorly and in the morning when I got up, was unrefreshed. I doctored and used various remedies but got no benefit until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. They made me feel like a different person, ridding me of the trouble. I gladly confirm my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Smith had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

A Difference in Working Hours.

A man's working day is 8 hours. His body organs must work perfectly 24 hours to keep him fit for 8 hours work. Weak, sore, inactive kidneys can not do it. They must be sound and healthily active all the time. Foley Kidney Pills will make them so. You cannot take them into your system without good results following. NEWS OF THE STATE

Plan War on Caterpillar.

TRAVERSE CITY, MICH.—As a result of an inspection made in the northern part of western Michigan by Professor Myron A. Cobb of the Central Michigan Normal school, Mt. Pleasant, an active campaign is to be started against the apple tree tent caterpillar, which was so greatly in evidence last year.

Professor Cobb discovered that there were literally millions of egg masses fastened on the limbs of fruit and forest trees. He also discovered that these could be gathered and destroyed at this season with little trouble, thus reducing the number of caterpillars for next season. It will be urged that teachers become familiar with the egg masses, point them out to children and urge the children to gather and destroy them.

Will Not Grow Sugar Beets.

RACINE, WIS.—Most Racine and Kenosha county farmers will refuse to produce sugar beets this year.

This is the decision of the Racine and Kenosha County Beet Growers' association. It is claimed the refiners are willing to pay only $4.50 per ton this year. The farmers received $5.50 last year and declare that unless the refiners agree to pay the same price this season no beets will be raised. This companies representatives refuse to do. The association, numbering nearly 1,000 farmers of the two counties, is a unit against producing this year. The companies claim the tariff cut is the cause of the reduction in the price of sugar beets.

Cramer Shot for Revenge.

ST. JOSEPH, MICH. — William Bedde, a farmer, confessed to Sheriff Franz that he shot William Cramer, a neighbor, from ambush last week.

Revenge was his motive. The victim lies at the point of death with his chest torn open by a discharge of a shotgun. Both men are bachelors, past fifty years of age. Cramer had been missing stove wood from his farm during the last few months. To stop the thefts he plugged a chunk of gun powder in a stick of wood. One day Bedde's stove was wrecked by an explosion and he swore vengeance.

He Saw What Would Happen.

MUSKEGON, MICH. — Touching off a two-inch cannon shell with a gas lighter at the armory Chas. Scull, a member of Company I, Michigan national guard, was badly injured by the explosion and may lose his right foot.

The explosion threw him twenty feet into a corner and he sustained bruises about the head and shoulders. No reason is given for Scull's act, which appeared to be a boyish prank. It is believed he knew the shell was loaded, but applied the gas lighter with the idea of seeing what would happen.

Phones Are Ordered Out.

BATTLE CREEK, MICH.—The city commission has now ordered the Citizens' Telephone company to take out all telephones in municipal offices except the fire and police departments, detention hospital and the city scales office—to punish the company for threatening to raise rates on the service accorded the local government.

The company has to furnish free service to all school buildings, under the terms of its franchise, and the city has had a moderate rate until lately.

WRECKERS DITCH TRAIN

Switch Sawed and Fireman Is Scalded to Death Near Mobile, Ala.

MOBILE, ALA. — What the railroad officials declare was an attempt to wreck Mobile and Ohio passenger train No. 2, bound for St. Louis, at a siding twelve miles north of this city, resulted in the ditching of the engine, express and baggage cars and the death of the fireman, and serious injury of three other persons.

The engineer threw on the emergency brakes as the train struck the switch and saved the passengers from injury. Fireman Hodge was scalded to death beneath the engine. It was found that the switch had been sawed and then left open by the miscreants.

BANKER FLEES BUT SAYS HE WILL PAY

Leaves New Year's Greeting for Victimized Institution.

SCHAUMBERG, ILL.—"I have lost $40,000, but I'll pay it all back if you'll give me time and not prosecute me. Happy New Year!"

Such, in brief, is the message left the other officials of the Farmers' Bank of Schaumberg, by Assistant Cashier Frank Henning, when he disappeared on Dec. 30. To show that he took himself seriously, Henning left notes covering the entire shortage, the notes due in from six months to five years.

Also Henning took $2,000 in cash from the vaults, and also in lieu of that he left securities to the value of $1,000 and his own $1,000 in stock in the bank. Henning left his wife and baby girl in his rooms on the second floor of the bank building. Mrs. Henning has gone to live with her relatives at Dundee, Ill. "The bank is in good condition and will open for business today," said President Fence. "The directors held a meeting Saturday, the capital stock was raised from $25,000 to $50,000, and the twenty-two stockholders made up the shortage. The business will go right on." Warrants have been issued for Henning.

GOVERNOR FERRIS

© 1912, by H. E. Nix.

FERRIS IN STRIKE REGION

Michigan Governor Is Endeavoring to Settle Controversy.

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 7.—With the arrival of Governor Woodbridge N. Ferris in Houghton active negotiations toward a settlement of the miners' strike, which came to an abrupt close when John B. Densmore, special solicitor of the United States department of labor, quit in disgust because of lack of co-operation on the part of the mine owners and labor men, will resume. Governor Ferris was met at the station by a delegation from the Citizens' alliance and by the representatives of the mining interests. The labor men announced instead that they would wait until the governor had conferred with the mine owners and received the best proposition they will make.

Before the arrival of the governor the mining operators brought into the strike district over 100 of the 2,000 strike breakers to be imported from distant states.

MANY DIE DURING STORM ON COAST

Three Ships Sink and Property Loss Is Heavy.

NEW YORK—Three big ships have been sunk with a probable loss of seventy lives, seven persons are known to have been drowned and more than a million dollars loss has been caused by the gale sweeping the Atlantic coast.

The tank steamer in trouble off Sandy hook was the Oklahoma, and thirty of her crew perished. Eight were saved. This was the substance of a wireless message received here.

The storm raged from Portland, Me., to Norfolk, Va. In New York harbor shipping was halted by the ninety-mile-an-hour gale. Many small craft have been lost, in addition to the three ships.

The New Jersey coast has suffered the greatest damage. At Atlantic City a 500-foot extension of the million dollar pier has been carried away and nearly a mile of the board walk at Chelsea, adjoining Atlantic City, has been washed away.

More than $500,000 damage has been done at Seabright. The Octagon hotel is practically a wreck and more than half of it has either crumpled or been washed to sea.

ADMITS ROBBERY OF MAIL SACK [illegible]

Harry Watson Is Arrested With Telltale Check.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—Harry L. Watson, twenty-nine years old, of Belle Plaine, Ia., who was arrested here Friday night, has confessed to General James E. Stuart, chief postoffice inspector, that he stole $15,000 in checks and money orders from a mail pouch in the Iowa town on Jan. 7.

Watson was arrested by the police when he attempted to purchase jewelry at a South State street store and tendered a check for $400 in payment. The check was made payable to Mrs. Elizabeth Kittle of Belle Plaine and was drawn on the First National bank of that town.

Employes of the store called in the police, who took Watson into custody and General Stuart confronted the prisoner and obtained his confession.

Investigation by General Stuart developed the fact that Watson already bears a criminal record, having served a term, it is said, for arson in the [illegible] prison at Anamosa, Ia.

Mr. Mann has been indisposed several days. His condition became worse and he is compelled to take to his bed.

Old Philadelphia.

A book printed in England at the end of the seventeenth century says that Philadelphia contained many stately houses of brick and several fine squares and courts. Between the principal towns the "watermen constantly ply their wherries." There are no beggars to be seen, nor, indeed, have any the least temptation to take up that scandalous life.

CROSSES OCEAN TO SLAY MAN IN U. S.

Feudist Wrote Letter Threatening Death from Abroad.

Kenosha, Wis., Jan. 12.—Possibilities of an international feud were brought to light here in connection with the death of Ernest Contald, a wealthy real estate man whose body was found frozen in the sand on the lake shore two miles south of Kenosha.

The man had received a letter from Greece only a short time ago in which it was declared that his brother had been killed by assassins and that an assassin was now on his way to Kenosha to kill Contald. He had appealed to the police of Kenosha for protection.

At the time he told the officers he felt certain that the death threat would be carried out. He was panic stricken when last seen and he insisted that one of his friends go with him from a boarding house to a downtown hotel, where he would be better protected from assault. No one knows how or when he left the hotel. Nothing was seen of him after.

HENRY FORD

FORD TAKES SLAP AT WALL STREET FOES

Auto Man Says He Is Not Under Their Domination.

New York, Jan. 12.—Henry Ford, accompanied by his wife and his son, Edsall B. Ford, left the Grand Central station on the Wolverine at 5 o'clock in the afternoon for home. The train was due in Detroit at 7:15 o'clock this morning, which will get Mr. Ford to his factory in ample time to witness the introduction of his two fold plan—the profit sharing scheme which will make his employes $10,000,000 richer at the end of a year, and the eight hour shift in place of the present nine hour day.

"I don't have to be there," Mr. Ford said. "Everything would start off all right whether I was there or not. But naturally I want to be on hand myself."

Mr. Ford repeated his denials of stories of Wall street origin, explaining his profit participation as a result of a break with the Dodge Brothers. He said that the Dodges, who are going to manufacture a somewhat more expensive car than the Ford on their own hook, and he are still friendly as they have been for years. Then he took this little whack at Wall street. "A good many of the manufacturers in Detroit who are under Wall street have practically closed down," he said. "The money needed to run their plants has been used elsewhere and they have to slow down on their work until the money market changes and they can get money to operate with. I am not under Wall street."

Chicago, Jan. 12. — "Adam K. Adams," who said he was a well-to-do farmer from Oshkosh, Wis., appeared before Judge Hopkins in the morals court. He had been arrested the evening before with Jane Seabright, when leaving a hotel in West Thirty-first street. "What is your real name?" asked the judge.

"I would rather pay a $10,000 fine than reveal my real name," the man answered. "It would hurt me greatly in Oshkosh." Judge Hopkins fined him $3 and let him go on his promise to read a book the jurist suggested.

DICTAGRAPH IN USE IN STRIKE

Operators Had Instrument In Rooms of Federation.

CONTAINS SECRETS OF UNION

Records Contain Doings of Federation of Miners' Leaders for Five Weeks In Summer—Reveal Much, It Is Said, on Which Indictments Will Be Based.

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 12.—The dictagraph, the little instrument which has played a foremost part in the big exposures of recent years, will probably be the greatest informer in the settlement of the Michigan copper country strike troubles.

The Burns Detective agency is now in the strike district, and has been since a short time after the strike declaration. It became known that a dictagraph was in the law headquarters of the Western Federation of Miners for five weeks last summer, when the seat of the trouble was Calumet.

Dictagraph Got Secrets.

Angus W. Kerr, one of the lawyers for the Western Federation of Miners; Edward F. Legendre, another of the attorneys; Yanko Terzich, a member of the executive council of the Western Federation of Miners; Charles H. Moyer, president Western Federation of Miners, and Charles E. Mahoney, vice president Western Federation of Miners, held practically all their important conferences at the beginning of the strike in the very office in which the dictagraph is said to have been secreted and a complete report of what transpired is believed to have been secured by the Burns operators.

A second dictagraph, it is said, was in the Hancock headquarters of the Western Federation of Miners in the Scott hotel when President Moyer and the other officials named held their legal conferences with Judge O. N. Hilton, chief counsel for the federation.

The Burns men were originally brought into the strike district by the mine operators. Their reports are said to have been turned over to Special Prosecutor George Nichols, who has charge of the grand jury, which is investigating both the deportation of President Moyer and the charge of conspiracy that has been laid at the feet of the labor chiefs.

It is common rumor throughout Houghton and the entire strike district that this information represents the greater part of the state evidence on the conspiracy charge.

That the dictagraph record is known to the labor men was evidenced when the newspapermen in the strike zone made an independent poll of labor leaders. Not one of them would talk for publication, but each one interviewed admitted having knowledge of the dictagraph operator's activity.

To Attack Any Indictments.

The planned move of the labor counsel to attack any indictments of labor leaders returned by the grand jury, on the ground that the presence of Attorney General Grant Fellows and Governor Woodbridge N. Ferris before that body violated the constitutional section of the grand jury, is thought to be an anticipated step to forestall the weight of the dictagraph records.

Not the Head.

The father had gone away and left his only son in charge of the shop.

"Are you head of the firm?" asked the man with the sample case, who had just come in.

"No, sir," remarked the young man, with a smile. "I'm only the heir of the head."—London Tit-Bits.

PRESIDENT ENDS SOUTHERN REST

Special Train Is Hurrying Him to Nation's Capital.

BIDS TOWNSPEOPLE GOOD BYE

Pass Christian, Miss., Jan. 12.—President Wilson has started back home. He is accompanied by Mrs. Wilson and the other members of the family. He went to bed in his private car on the long railroad switch adjacent to the little Pass Christian railroad station shortly after 9 o'clock. A few minutes after 11 o'clock the special train started north. Washington will be reached, if all goes well, at 7:11 on Tuesday morning.

There were a few persons gathered at the depot when the big White House automobile arrived alongside of the private car and as the executive alighted from the machine and courteously assisted Mrs. Wilson to the ground, there was hearty cheering by those present.

The president doffed his hat for an instant. Then the group of secret service men gathered behind him and he was whisked across the gravel paved platform, up the steps and into the recess of the big private car.

Precautions Taken.

Unusual precautions have been taken to safeguard the life of the chief executive. His train is preceded over the route by a pilot train. The latter ran just ten minutes ahead of the presidential special. The regular night and day force of operators were kept on duty in the signal towers while section hands were ordered to man every switch along the route until the special had passed.

Freight trains along the route had orders to clear the main line thirty minutes ahead of the pilot train or forty minutes in advance of the presidential special. Passenger trains were ordered to the sidings twenty-five minutes before the special was due and the head officials of the railroad kept vigil on board the train to see that the orders were obeyed.

O'CONNELL AND DUNNE TALK

Further Announcement of Appointments Are Expected.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 12.—The arrival in the city of Treasurer William O'Connell of Cook county, political adviser of Governor Dunne, gave rise to rumors that today will witness further patronage announcements.

It was stated that O'Connell was here for the purpose of talking over with the governor the appointments that remain to be made. These include the state fire marshal and a few state board positions, principally. In the last few weeks pressure has been brought to bear in behalf of Bull Moose appointments on the state civil service commission, and these matters are expected to constitute a part of the subject matter of the discussions between the governor and Mr. O'Connell.

VILLA LOSES HIS BIGGEST QUARRY

Federal Generals Find Safety Across the Border.

VILLA EXECUTING HUNDREDS

Gen. Caravco Is Among Generals Unaccounted for—Luis Terrazas, Third, Is Missing—Major Mondoza Proves Hero and Is Killed—Rebels Capture 400—All to Die.

Presidio, Tex., Jan. 12.—It is now generally agreed that Generals Orozco, Jose Y. Salazar and Antonia Rojas, the federal volunteer generals most wanted by Villa, have, with 300 or 400 loyal followers made their escape. It is also said now that they were joined by General Marvelo Caraveo, another federal volunteer general. Caraveo was reported to be among those who had surrendered to Major McNamee, but when a census was taken in the morning, he was not found among the federals who had sought asylum in the American camp at Presidio.

Villa Hunting Federal Generals.

When it became known that Salazar and his fellow federal volunteer officers, who are considered by the constitutionalists as arch traitors, and upon whose heads a price has been put, had escaped, Villa sent detachments in every direction with instructions to overtake them and capture them either dead or alive at any cost. Some of these detachments have returned to Ojinaga reporting failure, while others are still scouring the hills with the hope of catching the much-wanted men.

Major Luis Terrazas, third, grandson of General Terrazas, the Chihuahua land baron, is missing.

Mondoza Proves Hero.

Major Mondoza of the federals was killed while making a stand at the custom house on the bank of the Rio Grande, while holding at bay a detachment of rebels intent upon cutting off the retreat of the main body of federals. Had it not been for Mondoza's brilliant work, the slaughter of fugitives along the banks of the river would have been terrible.

The rebels captured between 300 and 400 prisoners at night, the most of them volunteers and hundreds of these have been executed.

Villa has refused to allow foreigners to visit Ojinaga. The constant bark of rifle and revolver heard across the international boundary tells of the work of wholesale execution of federal prisoners.

INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK BRIGHT

More Men Are Put to Work in Calumet Region.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—The industrial outlook in the eastern end of the Calumet region has been brightened during the last few days. The receipt of new orders at the Gary works of the Illinois Steel company resulted in placing seventy more coke ovens on the active list. At the American Sheet and Tin Plate mills the output has been increased. Jan. 22 has been set as the opening date of the first unit of the West Gary clearing yards.

At Miller, east of Gary, Ind., the town board has placed at work at $2.50 a day every unemployed man applying. Grading is being done for new roads through the sand dunes.

Schmidt's Trial Begins Today.

New York, Jan. 12.—Today is the day set for beginning the second trial of Hans Schmidt for the murder of Anna Aumuller. On the first trial the jury disagreed, after thirty-two hours' deliberation. A special panel of 150 will be summoned for the selection of the new jury.

FROM OUR FRIENDS, THE SLAYTONS

New Orleans,
Jan. 8, 7 p. m.

Editor Herald:

As you asked me to let you know occasionally of the whereabouts of the Slaytons and to save writing many letters to other friends will begin the account of our pilgrimage.

We left Tecumseh 7 a. m. Tuesday January [illegible], and hoped by the next morning to find green grass and growing things, but the trees were as bare and grass as brown as at home till nearly dark Wed. and then only a few pines and patches of grass, and when we got off the train at Memphis, for we stopped here 25 minutes, the air was cold and raw Quite an exciting experience occured in the next sleeper to ours when the people in there found seven Chinamen in charge of three U. S. Marshals in their midst who were being deported. Some demanded they be put off, others a change to other cars and one gentleman who changed to our sleeper said he did not propose to pay Pulman rates and ride with such a crowd. I think the Ill Central will hear from some of them We passed through the car on our way to dinner and it surely was not a pleasant place to be in. Suppose the Marshals wanted to ride that way and got them in on the quiet

We arrived in New Orleans 9 p m. Wed eve. glad to rest from the R R. for awhile. The air was mild and we began to hope we had found a warmer clime. When we read the evening paper we found weather rport said, highest temperature 55, lowest 36 and the poinsettas in some places showed the frost and many vines and window boxes were covered yet this a m. mercury this noon was 62 and we have enjoyed the sunshine, palms and flowers.

We started out this morning for sightseeing and have ridden and walked miles and seen a good deal of quaint old N. O. The old French Quarters, Markets, Wharf and Shipping, Cathedral, Museum, etc. I think it must be owing to my abolitionst grandfather that when in the south, I always get in the negro (can't say "nigger" for some reason) seats in the street cars and Charles has to move me for a few times, but someone has to furnish amusement for the others

We felt quite at home when we registered below a man from Hillsdale, Mich., and the streets looked very familiar, John Deere, McCormick, Park Davis & Co, Reo Auto, Studebaker, but missed the Ford. We have not missed anything else, not even Charley's neuralgia which he foolishly brought along with him. Tonight he feels quite like himself and hope the sunshine and the quinine has subdued it.

When this reaches you we will be started on our journey via S. Pacific for Los Angeles. Wishing all our friends were going along.

Sincerely yours,
Alice M. Slayton.

TECUMSEH A CIGAR MAKING POINT

The manufacture of cigars is one of the important industries of Tecumseh The two local factories are long established, the first beginning business in 1876, while the other started in the early nineties.

Cigar making is one of the few trades that has not been affected by modern machinery the work being done entirely by hand as far as the actual work of building a cigar is concerned. Several attempts have been made to perfect a machine that would substitute the hand work, but so far it has proven entirely unsuccessful.

Within the past few years stripping machines have been installed that are superior and much more economical in booking and removing the stems from the leaf than by the method of hand stripping.

Tecumseh's two cigar manufacturers give employment to about 35 people the year around and Tecumseh-made cigars have a country wide reputation being sold and smoked in all sections of the coury. The yearly output of cigars and the pounds of leaf tobacco used in their manufacture yearly reaches a very high figure—Michigan Manufacturer and Financial Record.

"LAVENDER AND OLD LACE"

The presentation of "Lavender and Old Lace" last Thursday evening was one of the most pathetic and homelike plays that have been given at the Opera House, and those who failed to attend missed a good treat.

Every character was well taken and each one entered into the spirit of the story.

Those who have read the book could not fail to sympathise with Mary Anslie in her trouble that she had borne alone for twenty three years, watching by day and keeping a light in the window by night to guide her husband to his home and the happiness it gave her when Carl Winfield called her Mother when it was proved that he was the babe that she had lost so long ago. Ruth Thorne was a delightful girl and Hepsey was a genuine type of the novel reading rustic and whose highth of bliss was reached when she eloped with Joe, a fine specimen of New England happy-go-lucky fellow. Lawyer Wheeler with his tender care and loyalty to Mary Anslie wss fine as were Jane Hathaway and James Ball. Carl Winfield in his fight against the drinking habit, and his love for Ruth Thorne was a fine type of so many of the young men of today, and his final success, should be an incentive of others to follow his example.

The only regret one could have was that there were so few present to enjoy the play.

"THE LAST DAYS OF POMPEII"

The presentation of the Last Days of Pompeii at the Opera House on Friday and Saturday evenings was wonderful, and as the pictures unfolded the story, one was held spellbound, and drew a sigh of relief when the strain was broken. The final scene, when the volcano belched forth its death dealing and destruction fire and smoke, when the proud city was buried in the lava and ashes and its days were numbered, made one shrink and shiver as if they too were about to be engulfed, so realistic and awful was the scene.

As the pictures were thrown on the screen, the story was told by a reader, making it a most interesting entertainment from first to last.

D T. & I. SYSTEM READY TO BE PICKED BY CROWS

The Michigan state railway commission has issued an order requiring officials of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton railroad to show cause why traffic on its road should not be stopped or the speed of trains be reduced because of the alleged bad condition of 61 bridges and tressles along 70 miles of right of way.

These bridges have been inspected by O. W. Albie and Engineer James Bice of the commission who report them to be unsafe for trains running at high speed.

The day for a hearing has not been set.

This proceeding, following similar action by the Ohio railroad commission will undoubtedly operate to bring about the segregation of the northern, central and southern divisions of this unfortunate railroad and permit the sale of its parts to other railroad systems which want them. The Norfolk & Western is after the southern division and interests not disconnected with the Pennsylvania want the northern division, the middle division to go to whosoever will. Some months ago it was decided by the interests that want parts of the road to wait until it fell down as a system and buy it piecemeal. Whether the reorganization committee will allow this or not remains to be seen.—Mich. Mfg. & Fin. Record.

WASHINGTON LETTER

The New Currency Law

Washington, D.C.,
Dec. 29, 1913

The crowning event of the Wilson administration culminated when President Wilson signed the new Currency law on Dec. 23 Under the operation of this law it will be almost impossible to ever have another financial panic such as we had under Roosevelt in 1907, Cleveland in 1893 and Grant in 1873. This measure brings the banks of the country into closer relation with the Government at Washington than they ever have been and the Government control and regulation of banks in turn is more complete and thorough. In the future whenever a bank runs short of money with which to make loans to its customers, under this bill it can turn its own securities, such as first class stock, bonds and mortgages over to the Government Regional Bank and get the money with which to supply loans and the needs of its vicinity.

At the first when the Bill was introduced last summer a great many bankers did not thoroughly understand it and were at first somewhat hostile towards it, but now the banks are rejoicing over the triumph of the bill and it is regarded as a certainty that it will bring good times and the greatest era of prosperity that this country has ever known and what is more important the prosperity will be evenly distributed and not flow into the coffers of Wall Street and through it the control of the great industries of the country is now a thing of the past

It was a great relief to Pres Wilson to be able to sign the Currency Bill before Xmas so that he could hike away down to the Gulf of Mexico to pass Xmas at Pass Christian, Miss. The President and Congress have both been busy for nine long months without rest and have well earned their vacations.

D. D. D. Opens New Era in Cure of Skin Disease

Professor Budlong's case of eczema was known to almost every hospital and physician of reputation throughout the state of Connecticut. His letter is another interesting demonstration of what is being accomplished by the famous specific D. D. D., Prescription. "It may be of interest to you to know that your life-giving preparation, D. D. D. Prescription has been of incalculable value to me. I was covered with eczema from head to foot when I began using your remedies. I could get no relief, although I tried a thousand means. I applied but two bottles of the Prescription; a cure was effected in a very short time, in less than one month."—Prof. C. J. Budlong, South Lyme, Conn.

Ask any druggist today for D. D. D.'s Prescription. He'll tell you it allays the itch instantly—and soon there are signs of cure.

We have handled the remedy for years and regard it as the specific for skin troubles of all kinds. Come in or ask us about D. D. D. Prescription, also about D. D. D. soap especially for tender skins.

We offer the first full size bottle on the guarantee that unless it stops the itch at once, it costs you not a cent.

GROWTHS HINDER WORK

Many Michigan School Suffer From Adenoids and Enlarged Tonsils.

Seventy-five per cent of children who fail to keep up with their grades in school work are mouth breathers. The cause of this condition is usually enlarged tonsils or adenoids or both. These throat growths interfere with the normal process of breathing, forcing the child to breathe through the mouth rather than the nostrils If a child shows a tendency to breathe through the mouth, the parent or teacher should insist upon a medical examination and if the growths are found to be present to a dangerous decree they should be removed, as otherwise the entire physical condition and sometimes the mental condition of the child is impaired. Adenoids and enlarged tonsils make a child much more susceptible to colds, sore throat, tonsilitis' pneumonia, tubercolisis, anaemia, catarrh, ear diseases and not infrequently loss of hearing, while defective speech, dulness and lack of the power to concentrate often result, interfering with the student's progress in schools.

Evidences of adenoids are found in practically every school room. The pronounced cases often cause the jaw to become deformed so that the upper teeth protrude and the arch is narrowed. While the enlarged growth are sometimes out grown, the effects of them are permanent.

Protected by the Flag.

There was a sudden halt in the battle between the Mexican Federals and Constitutionalists at Montarey on the afternoon of October 28 All day long the fight had raged. Machine guns and rifle fire swept the city streets. In an old Mexican residence, right in the line of fire, lived an American family named Stockhouse, whose members found shelter in a wardrobe, where they huddled together, weak from hunger and thirst, and in momentarily increasing danger. Suddenly, before the eyes of the astonished combatants, there appeared a girl of fourteen, Elsie Stockhouse. She dashed out of the house with an American flag wrapped around her slender shoulders, and the firing haulted as she ran through the center of the melee toward the American consulate a few blocks off. The bewildered soldiers, saluting her with cries of "Viva la senorita Americana!" opened a line to let her pass In a few moments the entire family were conveyed to a place of safety. Both armies recognized and respected the flag, and during the fierce fighting that followed not a single shot strock any house where "Old Glory" was exposed. It was the sympol of protection and safety, and as such was recognized by all nationalities in Monterey.—The Christian Herald.

MRS. L. D. KENYON

Mrs. L. D. Kenyon passed away Saturday, Jan. 10, 1914. at 5 o'clock p. m. after an illness extending over many months. She was a great sufferer, but was so patient and brave, thinking ever of others rather than herself. Hers was a such a cheerful nature that it infected all who met her, making sunshine in many a shady place. Her beautiful helpful life, her devotion as wife and mother, will linger as a fragment memory in the home that is made desolate by her death. She was young to be taken away, being only 51 years of age. She has run her race quickly and is now at rest. She leaves her devoted husband, two daughters Ethel and Merle, and a son Jay to mourn her. The funeral was held this (Tuesday) afternoon at the Friends Church, Rev. Moore of Ypsilanti officiating. Burial in Brookside Cemetery.

Feed for Profit

If you are feeding for market we have Oil Meal Cotton Seed Meal and good pure grains and tonics. If you are feeding cows for milk we advise Larro-Feed, the guaranteed feed. We have just unloaded our second car of Larro-Feed this fall and find that it is giving splendid results wherever used, as it shows an increase of milk production for less cost. This, of course appeals to every dairyman as it means more profit.

We put Larro-Feed out on a trial proposition of money back if not satisfied. Larro-Feed sells for $1.70 per 100 lbs. with 5c rebate for sack returned Try a few hundred of Larro-Feed and see the result in the milk pail.

YOU CAN'T EAT APPETITE POOR

Multitudes of people lose their appetite. Simply don't care for anything to eat. The dinner bell has no interest to them. They loathe their breakfast. They may nibble a little of this and a little of that, but they do not care for it.

Lunch has lost all of its charms, although they try to eat something.

Dinner about the same.

There is something positively wrong, of course, but no disease that can be named. Just out of sorts. That is all.

It is in this kind of a condition that Peruna acts very beneficially.

After using Peruna, interest in food is revived. Beginning with a teaspoonful of Peruna before each meal will generally quickly improve the appetite and help the digestion.

Thousands of people can testify to this. Liberated from a slavery that is almost unbearable. The slavery of having no interest in life. All used up. Yet one does not know exactly why. Take Peruna before each meal. Skies will get blue again. Fields will look green once more and life will be pleasant. You will feel that you are good for something and the world is a good place to live in. Peruna will do it. Not as an artificial stimulant. Simply a tonic that stimulates appetite in a natural way.

Those who object to liquid medicines can now obtain Peruna Tablets.

Interstellar Space.

That interstellar space is not absolute void, but is partly filled with particles of matter, however small or invisible, is the theory that an American astronomer has evolved through the study of comets.

His theory is based upon the fact that all bodies fall at the same rate in a vacuum, but in the open air lighter bodies are retarded by friction and fall at a slower rate. If interstellar space were a vacuum all stars, comets and planets would keep the same relative position and speed. But if it were not a vacuum the lighter celestial bodies, such as comets, would tend to be retarded by friction and fall behind the larger and denser bodies.

This retarding would be most noticeable in the part of the comet's orbit which is farthest from the sun, and the comet would tend to change its movement at this point and assume an individual direction. This hypothesis seems to be borne out by his observations.—Popular Mechanics.

TOLD IN TECUMSEH.

A Resident Known to all Our Readers Relates an Experience.

Readers of the Herald have been told again and again of the merits of that reliable, time-proved kidney remedy—Doan's Kidney Pills The experiences told are not those of unknown persons living far away. The cases are Tecumseh cases, told by Tecumseh people.

J. B. Smith, E. Chicago St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I was caused a great deal of suffering by pains in the small of my back. When the attacks were present it was all I could do to work. When stooping I became very dizzy and spots of fire seemed to flash before my eyes. I rested poorly and in the morning when I got up, was unrefreshed. I doctored and used various remedies but got no benefit until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. They made me feel like a different person, ridding me of the trouble. I gladly confirm my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills."

The Love of a Woman.

If I loved a man I should love him so completely that I should never think of anything in which he had not the first and greatest share. I should see his kind looks in every ray of sunshine. I should hear his loving voice in every note of music. If I were to read a book alone I should wonder which sentence in it would please him most. If I plucked a flower I should ask myself if he would like me to wear it. I should live through him and for him. He would be my very eyes and heart and soul.—Marie Corelli.

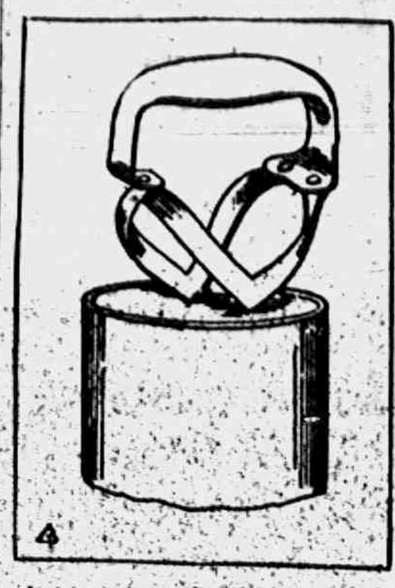
HELPFUL HINTS FOR HOUSEWIVES

Can Opener That Removes Top With One Cut.



A can opener that is intended for quick work has been designed by an Arkansas man. A spirally curved cutting blade that forms two heart shaped sections is attached to a U shaped handle. At the bottoms of the sections are sharp points. To use this tool the cook has merely to press down upon it until it has sunk through the top of the tin clean to the handle, then give the implement one twist around and the entire top of the can is removed as swiftly and neatly as any one could wish. Where a number of cans have to be opened quickly this device is an obvious improvement over the type that slowly saws through the tin. Furthermore, there is here no danger of cutting the fingers on a jagged piece of lid.

Preserving Mint.

Drying is the best method. The mint should be picked just before it flowers and should be gathered on a dry day. Wash it thoroughly, spread on brown paper and place it in a warm oven to dry quickly, taking care, however, not [illegible] rub leaves from the stems, cool, put into jars or bottles and cork tightly. The following recipe for mint sauce, using dried mint leaves, is recommended: Three tablespoonfuls of finely chopped mint leaves to two gills of French vinegar mixed with three ounces of powdered sugar.

Tongue With Spiced Sauce.

Brown two tablespoonfuls of butter and gradually add one pint of boiling water, stirring until smooth. Boil for a few minutes; then add a little grated lemon rind, one-third cupful of raisins and a pinch of salt, then six cloves, six peppers, one bay leaf tied in a piece of cloth. Cover the dish and simmer slowly until raisins are tender. Remove spices and add juice of one lemon. Cut the already cooked tongue into slices, add to sauce, cover and simmer until meat has become thoroughly seasoned. Serve with potato croquettes.

Scrambled Eggs.

A scrambled egg can be made to seem quite an important dish if a tablespoonful of milk and a dessertspoonful of breadcrumbs are mixed in with it. Pour the milk on to the crumbs to soak them. Beat up the eggs in the usual way and stir the soaked crumbs into it.

Scramble all together lightly and quickly. A single egg done in this way seems as much as two done by the usual method.

Nut Bread.

One-half cupful of sugar, one egg, one teaspoonful of salt, one and one-quarter cupfuls of milk, four cupfuls of sifted flour, four level teaspoonfuls baking powder, one cupful of chopped nuts. Beat egg, add sugar, then flour which has been sifted, with salt and baking powder alternately with milk, then nuts. Allow to stand in warm place twenty minutes and bake in moderate oven forty minutes.

Cheese Crisp.

Dissolve a piece of butter the size of a walnut in a chafing dish with three cupfuls of rich cheese dry enough to be grated. When melted add a pinch of salt and two tablespoonfuls of tomato ketchup. Serve on toasted thin crackers on warm plates piled high with very hot and crisp potato chips.

Damask and Double Damask.

Following is the distinctive meaning of damask and double damask as applied to table linen: The term damask refers to the satin finish in table linen. This finish is a matter of weaving, the facing that is given the flax thread. Double damask linen is a finer linen with the satin finish on both sides.

Almond Wafers.

Pour a layer of melted sweet chocolate into a flat greased pan and place a layer of blanched almonds on top of this. Cover these with another thin layer of melted chocolate and set away in a cool place. When perfectly dry cut them into thin wafers.

Baked Custard.

When making baked custard warm the milk before adding the eggs and there will be less danger of the custard turning watery. Bake in a pan set in boiling water.

Glowworms Use Anaesthetics.

Before he begins to feast the glowworm administers an anaesthetic. He chloroforms his victim, rivaling in the process the wonders of modern surgery, which render the patient insensible before the surgeon operates on him. The usual game is a small snail, hardly the size of a cherry, which in hot weather collects in clusters on the stiff stubble and other long, dry stalks by the roadside, remaining there motionless, in profound meditation, throughout the scorching summer days. It is in some such resting place as this that I have often been privileged to light upon the lampyris banqueting on the prey which he had just paralyzed on its shaky support by his surgical artifices.

But he is familiar with other preserves. He frequents the edges of the irrigating ditches, with their cool soil, their varied vegetation, a favorite haunt of the mollusk. Here he treats the game on the ground and under these conditions it is easy for me to rear him at home and to follow the operator's performance down to the smallest detail.—Henri Fabre in Century Magazine.

LAND OF MIRAGES

Death Valley and Its Treacherous Lures of Beauty.

WORK OF A GOOD SAMARITAN.

Beck, the Prospector, Who Has Made the Desert Bloom With Guideposts Pointing the Way to Water and Saved Many Men From Death.

In the American Magazine is an article about Lew. Westcott Beck, who is known as the "good Samaritan of Death valley." He and his dog, Rufus, have saved many prospectors from a horrible death by making the desert blossom with guideposts showing the way to water. The following is an extract from the article:

"Time was when Beck was a plain prospector in the Cripple Creek country. He was in on the diggings at Leadville, and he panned around in Montana awhile. Likewise he rushed into the Big Horn at the time of the mineral strike there, but he never struck a lead that made him rich.

"Eventually he drifted down through Nevada and into Death valley, chasing rainbows. Wild rumors about 'Death Valley' Scotty's big find in that section electrified the country and scores of prospectors [illegible] desert prospecting to make their fortune in a few days. Beck was among those present.'

"There were several in Beck's party. They hiked many miles through the mirage land, finding nothing worth while and worrying constantly lest they exhaust their supply of water. For two days they sought water holes, and when out of water they went for hours with tongues swollen and lips parched from want of moisture. Then when death seemed inevitable they suddenly discovered a tiny stream trickling out of a canyon at the base of the Panamint mountains.

"When Beck returned to civilization he was a changed man. He had seen sands that were strewn with skulls, and that sight had put a big idea into his head.

"Came spring, and Beck made another trip through Death valley. At his side was a Newfoundland dog. The prospector carried a bundle of tin strips. They were signboards to guide the wanderers' steps aright.

"Each summer since then the prospector and his dog have made a journey to the land of the purple mist, piling up rocks and attaching signs to them, searching for lost travelers and incidentally keeping a lookout for a piece of precious metal. Once or twice Rufus has led his master to prospectors who, after long suffering from thirst, had fallen upon the burning sands to die.

"In signboarding the desert Beck has saved a number of thirst mad rainbow chasers and has also in remote districts stumbled upon the bleaching bones of dead men who may have found fortunes in the silver sulphuret district, but who did not live to tell the world about it. At one time he assisted at the burial of four men who died of thirst within two miles of a spring.

"The country that Beck traverses is the most arid section of the American continent—a dreary stretch of hundreds of miles of desert, dotted here and there with foothills, buttes, dry creek beds, chaparral, prickly pear and sagebrush. Springs are miles upon miles apart. Most of them are bitterly alkali, and some are poison.

"On an ordinary summer afternoon the thermometer runs up to about 134 degrees in the shade out in Death valley, and the most unpleasant thing about it is that there is a dearth of shade. When man ventures out upon this trackless expanse the shimmering heat dazes him, the scarcity of water crazes him, and the mirage—treacherous, lying thing of beauty that it is—looms ever before him, flashing upon the canvas of his mind's eye a verdant valley, gorgeously green with growing things, fresh with flowers, wet with water and waiting to welcome him.

"He can see grassy hill slopes just ahead, and the mirrored lake appears to lie just beyond some beckoning meadow. He follows on and on and afterward drains the last drop from his canteen. Then his throat becomes parched, his tongue cleaves to the roof of his mouth, and strange things pass before his eyes. The buzzards begin to soar over him, and the coyotes sit upon their hunkers and watch him chase rainbows until he pitches forward upon his face and closes his eyes upon a world that is too mysterious and merciless for him to linger in longer."

Song of a Little River.

There's no music like a little river's. It plays the same tune (and that's the favorite) over and over again, and yet it does not weary of it like men fiddlers. It takes the mind out of doors, and, though we should be grateful for good houses, there is, after all, no house like God's out of doors. And, lastly, sir, it quiets a man down like saying his prayers.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

FERRIS WINDS UP MINE QUIZ

Governor Says That Outsiders Prevent Settlement.

PEACE IN REGION SEEMS AFAR

Grand Jury's Report Pending—It Is Expected 23 Will Be Indicted—Strikers Object to Attorney General Being Present with Grand Jury—Official Defends Act.

HOUGHTON, MICH. — Governor Ferris has wound up his personal work in the copper strike district and gone to his home in Big Rapids.

"I got what I came for," he said, as he stepped aboard the train. "This strike can not be settled in a week or a fortnight. I think that if it were left to the miners and employers themselves it would be settled very quickly. It is the advice of the outsider—and this is a somewhat venturesome thing to say—that is likely to do more than anything to prolong this strike."

The governor said he thought the present an inopportune time for executive action calling attention to the fact that the judicial machinery of the state is in full swing.

Evictions Become Big Issue.

Two additional eviction cases were related to the governor, and it became evident that this phase of the situation is likely to assume major proportions soon. The men who told their stories were strikers from the Winona mine.

Theodore Dessenette said that his furniture was thrown out Thursday, and was still in the snow. His wife and four children, ranging in age from ten to eighteen years, he said, were housed with neighbors. Josip Burcar, whose family consists of four children, the eldest less than five years old, said he was not sure his family had been evicted, but that this action had been threatened. He said he got a letter a month ago, but could not read, and therefore did not know its contents. He said one of his children was sick, and that the doctor at Winona "wouldn't come for nothing."

This brought action from the governor. Turning to Dan Sullivan, president of the union's district council, he told hmi to see that the strike relief provide a doctor at once. Sullivan explained that Durcar had made no report of the illness to his union.

Sullivan said that he recognized the union would have to meet the eviction situation soon. He thought that arrangements could be made for sheltering and feeding families in halls or commons.

Twenty-three May Be Indicted.

The Western Federation of Miners, through the attorneys representing them in the copper country, will attack any indictments returned on grounds of illegality. The charge is made by them that Attorney General Grant Fellows was present in the grand jury room when Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, testified regarding the deportation and assault charges made by him against the citizens of Hancock.

Twenty-three names are said to be on the list of those to be indicted, but under the Michigan state law the public announcement of an indictment before the return of the capias is contempt of court, and the strictest secrecy is observed.

OJINAGA IS TAKEN

Federal Generals Find Safety Across the Border.

VILLA EXECUTING HUNDREDS

Gen. Caravco Is Among Generals Unaccounted for—Luis Terrazas, Third, Is Missing—Major Mondoza Proves Hero and Is Killed—Rebels Capture 400—All to Die.

PRESIDIO, TEXAS — It is now generally agreed that Generals Orozco, Jose Y. Salazar and Antonia Rojas, the federal volunteer generals most wanted by Villa, have, with 300 or 400 loyal followers made their escape. It is also said now that they were joined by General Marvelo Caraveo, another federal volunteer general. Caraveo was reported to be among those who had surrendered to Major McNamee, but when a census was taken in the morning, he was not found among the federals who had sought asylum in the American camp at Presidio.

Villa Hunting Federal Generals.

When it became known that Salazar and his fellow federal volunteer officers, who are considered by the constitutionalists as arch traitors, and upon whose heads a price has been put, had escaped, Villa sent detachments in every direction with instructions to overtake them and capture them either dead or alive at any cost. Some of these detachments have returned to Ojinaga reporting failure, while others are still scouring the hills with the hope of catching the much-wanted men.

Major Luis Terrazas, third, grandson of General Terrazas, the Chihuahua land baron, is missing.

Mondoza Proves Hero.

Major Mondoza of the federals was killed while making a stand at the custom house on the bank of the Rio Grande, while holding at bay a detachment of rebels intent upon cutting off the retreat of the main body of federals. Had it not been for Mondoza's brilliant work, the slaughter of fugitives along the banks of the river would have been terrible.

The rebels captured between 300 and 400 prisoners at night, the most of them volunteers and hundreds of these have been executed.

Villa has refused to allow foreigners to visit Ojinaga. The constant bark of rifle and revolver heard across the international boundary tells of the work of wholesale execution of federal prisoners.

Entire Army Deserted.

That the entire army deserted is borne out by the fact that hundreds of belts were full of ammunition while very few were wounded. These hundreds of deserters are nearly freezing to death and the question of food is important.

General Mercado, the federal commander, in an interview claims that Villa won by a fluke as the federal outposts rushing in for ammunition caused a panic among the federals in the trenches.

Generals Stole Money and Decamped.

R. F. Flores, confidential man to Orozco, appeared on this side and declares that all federal generals held a conference prior to an attack and agreed to desert. He is the man who took $70,000 to Ojinaga last week to pay off the federal soldiers. He claims that the officers divided up most of the money and that the soldiers got but little.

Federal Paymaster Shot.

Guadalupe Sanchez, a federal paymaster in an automobile, was shot between here and Marfa by a United States soldier while trying to escape to the railroad in an automobile. The soldier called on him to halt, but the automobile speeded up and the sentry fired, hitting the paymaster in the back. The wounded officer will die.

DICTAGRAPH USED

Operators Had Instrument In Rooms of Federation.

CONTAINS SECRETS OF UNION

Records Contain Doings of Federation of Miners' Leaders for Five Weeks in Summer—Reveal Much, It is Said, on Which Indictments Will Be Based.

HOUGHTON, MICH. — The dictagraph, the little instrument which has played a foremost part in the big exposures of recent years, will probably be the greatest informer in the settlement of the Michigan copper country strike troubles.

The Burns Detective agency is now in the strike district, and has been since a short time after the strike declaration. It became known that a dictagraph was in the law headquarters of the Western Federation of Miners for five weeks last summer, when the seat of the trouble was Calumet.

Dictagraph Got Secrets.

Angus W. Kerr, one of the lawyers for the Western Federation of Miners; Edward F. Legendre, another of the attorneys; Yanko Terzich, a member of the executive council of the Western Federation of Miners; Charles H. Moyer, president Western Federation of Miners, and Charles E. Mahoney, vice president Western Federation of Miners, held practically all their important conferences at the beginning of the strike in the very office in which the dictagraph is said to have been secreted and a complete report of what transpired is believed to have been secured by the Burns operators.

A second dictagraph, it is said, was in the Hancock headquarters of the Western Federation of Miners in the Scott hotel when President Moyer and the other officials named held their legal conferences with Judge O. N. Hilton, chief counsel for the federation.

The Burns men were originally brought into the strike district by the mine operators. Their reports are said to have been turned over to Special Prosecutor George Nichols who has charge of the grand jury, which is investigating both the deportation of President Moyer and the charge of conspiracy that has been laid at the feet of the labor chiefs.

It is common rumor throughout Houghton and the entire strike district that this information represents the greater part of the state evidence on the conspiracy charge.

That the dictagraph record is known to the labor men was evidenced when the newspapermen in the strike zone made an independent poll of labor leaders. Not one of them would talk for publication, but each one interviewed admitted having knowledge of the dictagraph operator's activity.

To Attack Any Indictments.

The planned move of the labor counsel to attack any indictments of labor leaders returned by the grand jury, on the ground that the presence of Attorney General Grant Fellows and Governor Woodbridge N. Ferris before that body violated the constitutional section of the grand jury, is thought to be an anticipated step to forestall the weight of the dictagraph records.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—Since the declaration of Mrs. Horace Warren, of this city, that she was a member of the Kierstead family, which may inherit portions of a $20,000,000 estate left by Webber, the merchant prince of the Netherlands, Adam Thomas and family, of North Dorr, will start proceedings for a share of the estate. Mrs. Thomas is a Kierstead.

LOSE LIVES IN MINE; RESCUER IS VICTIM

Captain Barrett Dies in Vain Attempt to Save Worker.

CALUMET, MICH. — In the fire which broke out in the mine of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company at Negaunee, and is still raging, two men lost their lives. One of these was John Beebe, a pumpman. The other was Captain John S. Barrett, who headed the first rescue crew in search of Beebe and lost his life in the dense smoke in drifts at the seventh level where Beebe was thought to be.

Barrett leaves a wife and eight children. Several others of the rescuing party were overcome by smoke and had to be helped to the surface. The fire is believed to be spreading rapidly among the timber.

ANGLER BATTLES ICY WATER

After Half Hour He Wades Forty Rods to Safety.

SEBEWAING, MICH. — John W. Quick was fishing on the ice of Saginaw bay, when a gale began breaking the ice between him and shore. Twenty-five other fishermen came ashore when the ice began to move, but Quick took a chance and remained in his shanty to wait out the storm. When he finally saw the peril of his position there was forty rods of open water between him and shore.

He took one desperate chance against death, and jumped into the icy water, and started to wade. The water just reached his neck, and for nearly a half hour the man battled. When he finally reached shore, he fell exhausted. The men wrapped him in blankets, and he soon revived.

FORMER HOTEL MAN DROWNS

David M. Murphy Meets Death in St. Clair River.

PORT HURON, MICH. — David M. Murphy, former proprietor of the City hotel, was drowned in St. Clair river.

His absence from home was not reported to the police until the morning, and after an investigation a fishing outfit owned by him was found on the wharf at the foot of Thomas street. Murphy recently retired from the hotel business. He is survived by a widow and family of grown children.

BURIED ALIVE IN SAWDUST

Man Clings to Belt Conveyor Two Hours Till Rescued.

MENOMINEE, MICH.—To be buried over two hours under two tons of sawdust, and yet live was the harrowing experience of August Bergfeldt, a fireman employed at one of the local mills.

Bergfeldt was saved by clinging desperately to the cleats of an endless belt fuel carrier used to convey sawdust to the furnaces.

GEN. SIMON B. BUCKNER DIES

Mexican and Civil War Veteran and Vice Presidential Candidate.

MUMFORDVILLE, KY. — General Simon Bolivar Buckner died at his home here in his ninety-first year. General Buckner was former governor of Kentucky. He was a graduate, and afterward an instructor at West Point. He commanded a confederate brigade at Fort Donelson and was afterward a division commander under General Bragg in Tennessee. He was wounded in the Mexican war.

General Buckner was the candidate of the gold Democratic party for vice president in 1896, running on the ticket with Senator John M. Palmer of Illinois, candidate for president.

"WITHIN THE LAW"

THE PLAY THE WHOLE WORLD IS TALKING ABOUT.

One of the genuine treats of the local theatrical season is fore shadowed in the announcement that "Within The Law," Bayard Veiller's absorbing new play of modern American life which is the dramatic sensation of the year in New York, is to be presented by the American Play Co. at the Bradley Opera House, next Monday January 19.

"Within The Law" teems with thrills and laughs. A world-wide success The only play to remain in New York for one full year Its imitators have all closed. "Within The Law" is now in its second year, thrilling thousands, who are enthusiastic in its praise.

"It is not merely one of the most vivid and stirring, but without exception, the most satisfying melodrama ever written."

Louis Sherwin, N. Y. Globe

"I call "Within The Law" the greatest melodrama I ever saw, because seeing it, I forgot that it was a melodrama, forgot that it was a play even, and saw a cross section of real life, full of truths, facts. If ever there was a real American play this is it." Irvin S. Cobb

A big vital American drama of today, so simple all can understand. The ringing dramatic sensation of London and New York. A triumph under two flags. If you fail to see "Within The Law," you will miss the biggest play of the decade!

Ex-president Roosevelt said in a letter to the author "As a good citizen I want to thank you for the play."

The seat sale for "Within The Law" opens at Hay's bakery Friday morning at 8 a. m. and from the demand already made for seats it is advisable to get yeur seats reserved early. Everything indicates one of the biggest houses of the year for this attraction.

SOUTHLAND SEXTETTE

A full house greeted the advent of the famous Southland Colored Jubilee Singers at the Methodist Church, Thursday evening. The entertainment was a delightful one throughout. The select readings were exceptionally fine.

As for the singing, everybody knows that a negro is the embodiment of melody and this sextette certainly proved this to be the truth. Besides the plantation melodies, they had a fine repertoire of high class music and the audience could not help but be pleased with the whole entertainment. The society cleared about $18.

TOLD IN TECUMSEH.

A Resident Known to all Our Readers Relates an Experience.

Readers of the Herald have been told again and again of the merits of that reliable, time-proved kidney remedy—Doan's Kidney Pills. The experiences told are not those of unknown persons living far away. The cases are Tecumseh cases, told by Tecumseh people.

J. B. Smith, E. Chicago St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I was caused a great deal of suffering by pains in the small of my back. When the attacks were present it was all I could do to work. When stooping. I became very dizzy and spots of fire seemed to flash before my eyes. I rested poorly and in the morning when I got up, was unrefreshed. I doctored and used various remedies but got no benefit until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. They made me feel like a different person, ridding me of the trouble. I gladly confirm my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills."

A·CLERGYMAN'S STORY

Came Near Losing His Life--How He Escaped

The following letter was received by The Peruna Co., from Rev. G. W. Roberts, R. R. 2, Box 27, Hartsell, Alabama, under date of April 2, 1904, which is exactly nine years ago. He says: "I take pleasure in informing you of what your Peruna has done for me after three years of suffering. I had tried the treatments of several doctors, also home remedies, but they failed and all hope had gone. My friends, like myself, thought I was in the last stages of consumption.

REV. G. W. ROBERTS,
R. R. 2, Box 27,
Hartsell, Ala.

"My daughter brought me a bottle of Peruna and plead with me to try it. I had got so weak I had lost my voice, and I thought it no use. That was in May, 1902. I began to take it, according to directions. I wrote to you, and you gave me your kind advice.

"I soon felt better, my cough began to give way, and the expectoration lessened. I have taken fourteen bottles. I feel well, eat hearty, sleep soundly, weigh as much as I ever did, do considerable work on my farm, and attend to my other business. My friends seem astonished at my recovery.

"I wish to thank you for your kind advice and the books you have sent me. I shall ever praise your medicine and hope that you may enjoy a long life."

It will be observed that Rev. Roberts waited two years after he began to use Peruna, before he wrote the above letter to The Peruna Co. So that his apparent recovery could not possibly have been temporary relief.

In a later letter to The Peruna Co., dated September 22, 1908, Rev. Roberts says: "I am a great friend of Peruna. By the use of Dr. Hartman's advice I am here to-day able to be with my family and attend to my business."

We quote from another letter, dated December 10, 1906: "I praise Peruna to all the sick. The people know my case, and they praise it also."

In a letter dated November 22, 1909, we quote Rev. Roberts: "Peruna gave me back my life ten years ago. All my acquaintances know that. I am certainly thankful to you for your kindness."

In a later letter, dated January 13, 1910, he says: "I shall ever in the future, as in the past, be ready to speak in praise of Peruna to all sufferers. I believe my miraculous cure has been the means of many others being cured in this county."

From a letter of September 5, 1911, we quote a few words: "I am still among the living. As to Peruna, I do not feel that I have words to express the faith I have in its merits. I feel that Peruna has been the means, through the kind providence of God, of prolonging my life for more than ten years."

We quote a still later letter, October 31, 1912. He says: "I took a severe cold three weeks ago. I at once sent for Peruna. Have been taking it two weeks. I am now better. I consider that Peruna has carried me over a dozen years of life. I always stand ready to answer any question in reference to Peruna."

We quote from his last letter, dated January 2, 1913: "Dear Friends: I wish this bright New Years to express my thanks to you for your kindness. Trusting that you may have a successful and happy year, and that your medicine may prove a blessing to many as it has to me, I am yours as ever, G. W. Roberts, Hartsell, Alabama, R. F. D. 2, Box 27."

It is not necessary for us to add any words to this story. The eloquence and pathos of these letters are more convincing than arguments or affidavits. Who can doubt the clergyman's story? Who can doubt that Peruna saved his life?

Every home should be provided with the last edition of the "Ills of Life," sent free by the Peruna Co., Columbus, Ohio.

"In our opinion, it is reasonably probable that Harry K. Thaw's liberty under bail would not be dangerous or a menace to the public peace and safety."

CONGRESS MEETS AFTER A RECESS

Work Expected to Cover Wide Range of Subjects.

WASHINGTON—Congress has got back to work again after a holiday recreation spell. In the house, promptly at noon, Speaker Clark dropped his gavel and a similar scene was enacted in the senate with Vice President Marshall in the chair.

Fresh from a vacation which followed nine months of tariff and currency debate, members of both houses returned ready for work at a new point in the Democratic administration.

For the first time since President Wilson ordered the special session last April, congress is without the overshadowing influence of a dominant issue such as tariff or currency reform, to be fought out to the exculsion of other business. As a consequence the work of the next few months in national legislative halls is expected to cover a wide range of subjects.

Anti-trust legislation remains as an important factor in President Wilson's legislative program that must be considered by congress, but it will not displace other important legislation, as the bills for tariff and currency revision did.

THOUSANDS MAY BE DEAD

Terrible Havor Wrought by Volcano on Japanese Island.

NAGASAKI, JAPAN—The indications are that the death list from the earthquake and volcanic disturbances around Kagoshima will run into the thousands. Government authorities declare that any official estimate of the extent of the disaster will be impossible for several days. The population of the city of Kagoshima, which is almost completely buried in volcanic ashes and stones, was 60,000 at the last census.

The population of the adjoining island of Sakura, the center of the disturbance, is given as 15,000. On this island hundreds are reported to have perished beneath the streams of molten lava from the volcano of Sakurajima. Many more were undoubtedly drowned while trying to escape.

The Answer.

"I just found out last night," he said, looking nervously at his watch, "that a man's a fool to allow himself to be henpecked."

There was a general roar of laughter, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Then one of the men asked:

"And how did you come to make that startling discovery?"

"Well, it was this way. My wife was jumping on me something fierce, and I couldn't figure out how I deserved it. So I spunked up and said: 'Look here, why do you always pick on me when you're sore? Why don't you raise thunder with Albert once in awhile?' (Albert's our youngest boy.) 'Why,' she says, 'Albert wouldn't stand for it, that's why!'"

Famed as a Murderer.

A story once went the rounds in Paris that an enterprising visitor to M. Constans proposed to pick a quarrel with M. Rochefort and kill him.

"Many thanks," said Constans, "but I do my own murders."

The retort found its way to Constantinople, and when M. Constans arrived there as French ambassador he was struck by the exaggerated deference of the Turkish officials from Armenia. A man who did his murders himself was a remarkable figure to administrators who employed the Kurds for that necessary business.

"Indeed! That's more than I should like to do with yours," smilingly retorted his learned friend.—London Answers.

LOST CARIB TRIBES HAVE "REFINEMENTS"

South American Amazon Expedition Sends Specimens.

Philadelphia, Jan. 19.—Just before penetrating into a section of French Guinea which has never been visited by white men, Dr. Wm. C. Farabee, leader of the South American Amazon expedition of the University museum, succeeded in communicating with civilization.

That an inkling of "the refinements" of civilization has penetrated to the lost Carib tribes of Brazil is indicated by the presence of a number of boudoir cases, elaborately wrought and filled with cosmetics. There are some pretty necklaces, several knives, decorated with feathers with blades of peccary teeth, and a large collection of very firmly woven strips of cloth with elaborate fringes, all dyed red. These are wound about the body and the limbs by the Caribs to make a complete costume.

Among the domestic exhibits are some specimens of pottery, some of which have a slight glaze. There are various utensils for cooking which indicate that simplicity in house keeping prevails among the lost tribes, and that a weeding outfit is not expensive.

FRATERNITIES ARE NO HELP

One-Tenth of Members Fail in Studies at Stanford.

Stanford University, Jan. 19.—College fraternities and scholastic wisdom do not walk hand in hand, according to semester records at Stanford university. One-tenth of the fraternity men have received notice of failure in studies.

Only one-thirteenth of the non-fraternity men were unsuccessful. Eighteen Stanford students have flunked and cannot return because football, rag dancing, card playing, the flowing bowl or an inherent love of loafing kept them from their studies.

The Union In Cooking.

The greatest of French cooks, being asked to give the secret of his success, answered: "The very foundation of all good cooking is butter and onion! I use them in all my sauces and gravies. They have the effect of making a customer come back for more. Butter without onion will drive the customer away after a few days. Boil the onion till it melts or entirely disappears; then add the butter and call the mixture stock."—Exchange.

STRIKERS WILL CONTINUE FIGHT

Western Federation of Miners Claims to Have Help.

A. F. L. IT IS SAID WILL AID

James E. Roach, Personal Representative of Samuel Gompers, Gives Out Statement—To Extradite Federation Official—Sufferers at Last to Get $30,000 Relief Fund.

Calumet, Mich., Jan. 17.—That the Western Federation of Miners, with the backing of the American Federation of Labor, proposes to continue to fight against the mine operators of Northern Michigan was the statement of James E. Roach, personal representative here of Samuel Gompers, and this statement is borne out by preparation for the fight being made not only in the copper district but in the iron mining district.

Roach and James A. Short, who are here with him, refute the claims of the mine operators that the copper country strike is beaten, even though the operators are filling their mines with imported men.

Funds Are Gone.

Labor leaders here are confident that the American Federation executive committee, which meets in Washington today, will decide to give full backing "to the finish" to the copper strikers, and there is no apprehension in their minds that the American Federation will ask the Western Federation to step out of the fight so that the strikers might return to work, organize local unions, and affiliate through them with the American Federation with the consent of the mine operators.

They feel that the operators would not listen to such a plan.

To Extradite Federation Heads.

Special Prosecutor Nicholls says some time will be allowed before extradition proceedings to bring Moyer, Mahoney and other indicted federation heads back to the district will be opened. He is advising with Governor Ferris as to the governor's expressed opinion to him.

To Give Relief Funds.

The citizens relief committee, who collected $30,000 to be used in relief work among the sufferers from the Italian Hall panic, money which they could not induce federation members to take from them because President Moyer of the federation ordered the sufferers nt to, have met. It is understood the union people will not object to the distribution of this money by Judge O'Brien.

PRIMARIES LAW BEING DRAFTED

Bill for Direct Nomination of President Being Prepared.

CARRIES OUT WILSON PLANS

Chairman Rucker of House Elections Committee Says It Will Go Before Congress This Session—Measure Will Not Conflict with State Laws on Equal Suffrage.

Washington, Jan. 19.—Definite plans for a presidential primaries law to meet the wishes and the views of President Wilson are being completed by Chairman Rucker of the house committee on elections. Mr. Rucker has been in close touch with the White House since undertaking this legislation. In an interview he said:

"The bill will be presented at the present session of congress. The finished draft will add in no way to the federal government's existing rights in connection with the holding of elections in the several states.

"The Democrats will guard against the danger of possible federal control of the presidential primaries. The states will conduct these elections under their own laws not in conflict with the federal statues.

Will Recognize State Laws.

"There will be no difficulty in getting around the special state laws under which women have equal rights with men to cast the ballot. With specific recognition of such state laws the women will have the right to vote in the presidential primary.

"There can be no legal question that where such a law declares that men may vote in a state under certain qualifications, women with the state right to vote cannot be prevented from exercising that right."

Mr. Rucker did not discuss the "grandfather clause" to election laws in many of the southern states under which a large body of the colored citizens are deprived of a vote. His declaration that there shall be no conflict with state election laws is assurance that no attempt will be made to repeal or modify these laws in connection with the country-wide expression or presidential preference.

PORTRAIT OF THE PRESIDENT

University of Virginia, Alma Mater, Has Given the Commission.

Washington, Jan. 19.—A portrait of President Wilson, full length and life size, will soon hang in the place of honor upon the walls of one of the main buildings of his alma mater, the University of Virginia, from which he was graduated in the school of law in 1881.

The alumni society of the university has given the commission for painting this portrait to Richard N. Brooke, a prominent artist of Washington and himself a native of Virginia who received his artistic education in France. The society will present the portrait as a gift to the college.

BOOM WOMAN FOR GOVERNOR

Miss Fern Hobbs, Executive Secretary in Oregon, May Be Elected.

Salem, Ore., Jan. 19.—Those who have been watching the course of politics at the state house for the last year are predicting that Miss Fern Hobbs, the private secretary of Governor West, who led the invading forces to Copperfield, is not an unlikely candidate.

Miss Hobbs has been much in the public eye, in a political manner, and it is declared that Governor West, who has announced he will not run again, purposes to support his secretary to succeed himself.

BEARDSLEY IN OWN DEFENSE

Beseiged Man Says He Is Protecting His Home.

LAW MAY BE ON HIS SIDE

Some Question Has Arisen as to Regularity of Papers That Attempt Was Made to Serve on Him at Time He Shot Poor Master—Children Well Fed.

Jamsetown, N. Y., Jan. 19.—A correspondent passed the cordon of sentinels posted by Sheriff Anderson, a mile and a half from the home of Edward Beardsley who since last Tuesday has stood off a sheriff's posse anxious to arrest him for shooting Overseer of the Poor John G. W. Putnam, and approached the Beardsley house. Beardsley with his Winchester poked through a slat in the boards over the window commanded a halt. Convinced that no harm was meant he lowered his gun and invited the correspondent to the house and for the first time since the shooting last Tuesday he conversed without covering his man with the gun. He said he would gladly make a statement to the press and in response to a suggestion procured a sheet of writing paper, pen and ink and wrote a statement in which he said:

Beardsley's Statement.

"I wish to state the facts in the shooting of Poor Master Putman. These people came to my house. Sheriff Anderson, Putman and Sheriff Colegrove with the subpoena to appear before Justice of the Peace Harry M. Young. These papers, without the signature of the said justice of peace, and to show cause why said children should not be taken and put in a charity institution. My children had board, clothes and money in my pocket to buy more. Whereupon, I felt it my duty to protect my home and family and children, even with my life. To you fathers and mothers if you have a vacant place around the table think of the one that is gone from you bringing the pang of sorrow.

"Now what is life after your home is destroyed, though it be ever so humble. My brother expects to take my children and take care of them and me to jail Wednesday next to await a trial for shooting in the defense of my own home and little ones. Did I do right or not? Do unto me as you would have others do unto you is a motto we all love. I certainly knew nothing about this man Putman being shot until they told me. So I need friends and assistance from those that believe in the protection of home and family.

"I need bail if permitted to have bail. Good bye."

Children Rosy Cheeked.

The children were photographed about Beardsley. They are plump and rosy cheeked and playful. One of them held in her hand a big white rabbit. "We've got two white rabbits and two black ones," she volunteered shyly.

There is some legal question as to whether the authorities had complied with all the provisions of the law for taking possession of the children at the time the poor master and sheriffs went there last Tuesday.

Horses and Hogs Burned.

Wabash, Ind., Jan. 19.—Several head of horses and forty hogs were cremated and an automobile, farming implements and feed amounting to $4,000 were destroyed near here when a barn owned by Hugh and Guy Barnhart was burned. Insurance amounting to $1,200 was carried.

ROCKEFELLER IN TALK ON LIFE'S STANDARDS

Grandfather, Father and Himself All Total Abstainers.

New York, Jan. 19.—"Young men who want to get on in the world don't drink nowadays," said John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to the Bible Class of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church. "Great corporations will not employ men who drink."

Mr. Rockefeller told the members of the class that his grandfather and his father never touched intoxicating liquor and were total abstainers as a matter of principle and that he himself had followed their example. His advice and suggestions as to clean living and as to what every young man can do toward mitigating the social evil was heard with keen interrest by 200 members of the class. Young Mr. Rockefeller's address was on the subject "Setting Life's Standards."

"To quote the words of another," said Mr. Rockefeller, "let me remind you that 'success consists of doing the common things of life uncommonly well. There is one thing more needful to this success than ability. That is will. If a man is unwilling to do small tasks and do them well, he ought not to be permitted to do big tasks and if he is permitted mistakenly he is certain to fail. The power of application is essential in all standards."

WINS TITLE TO 200 ACRES

Woman Establishes Claim to Farm Property Worth $40,000.

Noblesville, Ind., Jan. 19.—Miss Daisy Cook won her case against the heirs of the late Richard F. Cox in circuit court, the jury returning a verdict in her favor after being out five hours.

The verdict establishes her claim to 200 acres of land in the Hazel Dell neighborhood as the illegitimate child of Everett Cox, son of Richard. The property is estimated to be worth about $40,000, and the verdict, in addition, gives the woman the rents and profits of the land since the death of Everett Cox, which occurred about a year ago. The case will probably be appealed.

Women to Study Vote Laws.

Clinton, Ill., Jan. 19.—Two hundred Clinton women organized a woman's law and order league. Mrs. W. S. Harold was elected president. Members of the organization plan to study voting laws, so they can take an active part in the local option campaign in April.

OPPOSES CANAL TO ST. LOUIS

Bridges Over Waterway Would Make Progress Too Slow.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—The construction of a waterway between Chicago and St. Louis is characterized as a blunder by William A. Shelton of Cambridge, Mass., in an article in the January number of the Journal of Political Economy issued by the University of Chicago press.

Mr. Shelton shows that the proposed waterway would contain more than fifty bridges and that boats could not travel on it faster than three to five miles an hour.

The Husbands of Edith

By GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON

PROLOGUE

This humorous tale, written in McCutcheon's best vein, is faultless in its morals, despite its title, and cumulative in its interest. It may be stated in strict confidence that Edith did not actually have more than one husband; consequently the gentle reader need harbor no apprehension on this score. Like all other estimable married women, Edith had only one husband, but circumstances arose through which it seemed necessary for her husband to be in two places at the same time, and how this was accomplished and what the outcome was— But wait a bit; let George Barr McCutcheon, the prince of story tellers, unfold the romance.

CHAPTER I.

Husbands and Wife.

BROCK was breakfasting out of doors in the cheerful little garden of the Hotel Chatham. The sun streamed warmly upon the concrete floor of the court just beyond the row of palms and oleanders that fringed the rail against which his Herald rested, that he might read as he ran, so to speak. He was the only person having dejeuner on the "terrace," as he named it to the obsequious waiter, who always attended him. Charles was the magnet that drew Brock to the Chatham, that excellent French hotel with the excellent English name.

Charles was standing, alert but pensive, quite near at hand, ready to replenish the bowl with honey. Brock was especially fond of it. Brock had gone to the Chatham for years just because Charles was a fixture there. Charles spoke the most execrably picturesque English, served with a punctiliousness that savored almost of the overbearing, and boasted that he had acquired the art of making American cocktails during a five weeks' residence in the United States.

It was a lazy morning. Brock was happy. He was even interested when a porter came forth and unraveled a long roll of garden hose, with which he abruptly began to splash water upon the concrete surface of the court without regard for distance or direction. Moreover, he proceeded to water the palms, operating from a spot no less than twenty feet away, until the faithful Charles restored him to earth by means of certain subdued injunctions and less moderate gesticulations, from which it could be readily gathered that "m'sieur was eating, not bathing." Whereupon the utterly uncrushed porter splashed water at right angles, to Brock's relief. "M'sieur will pardon the boy," apologized Charles in deepest humility, taking much for granted. "It will be very warm today. Your serviette, m'sieur—it is damp. Pardon!" He flew away and back with another napkin. "Of course, m'sieur, the Chatham is not the Waldorf," he announced deprecatingly. "Parbleu," beating himself on the forehead, "I forgot! M'sieur does not like the Waldorf. Eh, bien, Paris is not New York, no." Having sufficiently humbled Paris he withdrew into the background, rubbing his hands as if he were cleansing them of something unsightly. Brock spread one of the buttered biscuits with honey and inwardly admitted that Paris was not New York.

He was a good looking chap of thirty or thereabouts, an American to the core, bright eyed, keen witted, smooth faced, virile. From boyhood's earliest days he had spent a portion of his summers in Europe. Two or three years of his life had been employed in the beaux arts, fruitful years, for Brock had not wasted his opportunities. He had gone in for architecture and building. Today he stood high among the younger men in New York, prosperous, successful and a menace to the old cry that a son of the rich cannot thrive in his father's domain. Nowadays he came to the old world for his breathing spells. He was able to combine dwelling and development without sacrificing one for the other, wherein lies the proof that his vacations were not akin to those taken by most of us.

The fortnight in Paris was to be followed by a week in St. Petersburg and a brief tour of Sweden and Norway. His stay in the gay city was drawing to a close. That very morning he expected to book for St. Petersburg, leaving in three days.

Suddenly his glance fell upon a name in the society column before him. "Roxbury Medcroft." His face lighted up with genuine pleasure. An old friend, a boon companion in bygone days was this same Medcroft, a broad minded, broad gauged young Englishman who had profited by a stay of some years in the States. They had studied together in Paris and they had toiled together in New York. This is what he read:

Mr. and Mrs. Roxbury Medcroft of London are stopping at the Ritz en route to Vienna. Mr. Medcroft is to attend the meeting of Austrian architects, to be held there next week, and with his wife, will afterward spend a fortnight in the German Alps, the guests of the Alfred Rodneys of Seattle.

"Dear old Rox, I must look him up at once," mused Brock. "The Rodneys of Seattle? Never heard of 'em." He looked at his watch, signed his check, deposited the usual franc, acknowledged Charles' well practised smile of thanks, and pushed back his chair, his gaze traveling involuntarily toward the portals of the American bar across the court, just beyond the concierge's quarters. Simultaneously a tall figure emerged from the bar, casting eager glances in all directions, a tall figure in a checked suit, a gray cap, white reindeer gloves, high collar, and gray spats. Brock came to his feet quickly. The monocle dropped from the other's eye, and his long legs carried him eagerly toward the American.

"Medcroft—bless your heart! I was just on the point of looking you up at the Ritz. It's good to see you," Brock cried as they clasped hands.

"Of all the men and of all the times, Brock, you are the most opportune," exclaimed the other. "I saw that you were here and bolted my breakfast to catch you. These beastly telephones never work. Oh, I say, old man, have you finished yours?"

"Quite—but luckily I didn't have to bolt it. You're off for Vienna, I see. Sit down, Rox. Won't you have another egg and a cup of coffee? Do!"

"Thanks and no to everything you suggest. What you doing for the next half hour or so? I'm in a deuce of a

THE GREATEST ENGINNERING FEAT IN HISTORY

There is only one opinion concerning the reproduction of the $100,000,000 job Uncle Sam is just now completing down on the Panama Canal, which Lyman H. Howe will present at the Bradley Opera House on Monday, January 26, and that is that it far surpasses anything that even he has ever offered. And that is saying much. From everywhere come reports that it exceeds the most sanguine expectations of all in the audience. As a portrayal of the greatest engineering feat in all history, it is without a parallel since the inception of moving pictures.

The clever camera men "covered" apparently every scene and incident that appeals to mind and eye. So thoroughly have they done the work that nothing seems to have escaped their vigilance. At the same time their work is absolutely perfect photographically and in this respect as in all others it is unrivalled. It is a mystery to spectators how many of the incidents were photographed at all. That the camera men placed themselves in the most perilous positions entirely regardless of their own safety is self-evident in the pictures. However, credit is due not alone to them for the perspicacity in selecting their subject matter and for the alertness and thoroughness which they showed constantly, but much credit is also due for the thought, care and judgment shown in the "editing" and arranging for it. No amount of reading would enable even the world's best engineers, surveyors, builders, etc., to grasp the significance and magnitude of the task and its tremendous difficulties and yet Mr. Howe's film reproduces the immensity of the enterprise so vividly that a child can grasp it.

Yellowstone Park—that vast arena carved by nature in the heart of the Rocky Mountains where numerous geysers are contending gladiators is another big feature to be presented. The film shows strange forces of nature more furiously active than anywhere else on earth. The scenes are of such a volcanic nature that the brand of fire seems to lurk everywhere, and as such they convey the real "atmosphere" of a region where fire and water have struggled for supremacy for countless centuries. Click! The views change instantly—to a ride through, under and over the St. Gothard mountains between Italy and Switzerland and take spectators past magnificent mountain scenery and giant peaks, through ragged crags, and to quaint Swiss villages. Again the scenes change—this time to the Paris Zoo showing a splendid collection of animals at close range, some of them very little known, such as the Rhea or South American Ostrich, the Alpaca, the African Moufflen and the acrobatic Mamanda. Then come lively fishing scenes in British Columbia and equally vivacious views of tunny fishing near Palermo. A ramble through the ruins of Pompeii, reproduced in nature's own colors, imparts vivid impressions of the havoc caused by the historic earthquake centuries ago. Wood turning and decorating clocks at Saint Claude; Naples; symphonies of the sea, and a ride through the Montana Canyon and over the Cascade Mountains in Oregon on the Chicago Milwakee and St. Paul's "Olympian" are only a few of the many other features.

First Chimney in History.

The oldest account of a chimney places it in Venice in 1347.

MRS. L. D. KENYON.

Eunice A. Kenyon the third daughter of James E. and Eliza D. Benedict was born December 28, 1862 at Lyons, Michigan and departed this life at her late home in the city January 10th, 1914, age 51 years, 14 days.

On January 22, 1883 she was united in marriage to Lorenzo D. Kenyon of Lyons, Mich: to this union were born three children, Merle F. of Grass Lake, Ethel M. of Tecumseh, and J. Louis of Detroit.

In August 1885 she moved with her husband and oldest child to Lenawee county, where she lived until death.

In early life she accepted the Saviour and united with the Friends church and was an active worker for the Master as long as health permitted. Her steadfast and serene faith in the Saviour and her cheerful acceptance of the two years of sickness and suffering, with her firm belief in the power of prayer were an inspiration to all who knew her. The influence of her saintly life was felt by a large circle of friends. She was a mother of sterling worth whose first thought was for the welfare of her children and home. Her mother heart was large and loving enough to embrace in her love and thoughtful care all who needed a mother's council and loving advice. Those left to mourn their loss are the bereaved husband and three children, her aged father and sister Mrs Mae Kenyon of Arizona, sister Florence Clark and brother Ray M. Benedict of California and a host of other relatives and friends.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Friends' church. Rev. Howard Moore of Ypsilanti, assisted by Rev. and Mrs. Coffin of Raisin Valley, sang "No Night There" and "One Hour with Jesus." F. D. Avery, O. B. Finch, A. A. Comfort, N. S. Satterthwaite, Andrew Wonder and Robert Glenn of Adrian acted as bearers. Those from out of town who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Jay Kenyon of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kenyon and daughter Genevieve of Toledo, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Kenyon of Elkhart, Ind., Augusta Kenyon of Bowling Green, O., J. C. Corwin of Parma, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kopke of Holloway, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Comfort of Raisin, Mr. and Mrs Stephen Bowerman of Raisin, and Rev. Rowe of Raisin.

Beautiful flowers in profusion gave evidence of the love and esteem in which the deceased was held.

MASONIC CLUB ROOMS

Ever since these rooms were first opened it has been conceded that Tecumseh Masons had as fine club rooms as could be found about the country. However, the spirit of improvement has wrought some great changes during the last few weeks.

A large archway has been cut between two of the rooms and in throwing these together the effect is fine. New paper on the walls is another vast improvement and various other minor changes have helped to make the whole a wonderful success.

Just club rooms, yes, but what a source of comfort they have proved to be to a number whose only home is the boarding house, and whose friends meet them here for mutual companionship. Books, papers, writing material, games, and the bonds of brotherhood make these club rooms a source of comfort and pleasure to many a lonely brother.

WILSON—GOVE

A pretty mid-winter wedding took place Thursday evening, January 15, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Gove where Miss Iva Belle and Leon S. Wilson were united in marriage.

The guests were received at the door by the bride and groom and ushered to their places by Miss Marian Foote. At the appointed hour Miss Mary Anderson took her place at the piano, when to the strains of Lohengrins wedding march the happy couple unattended except by the groom's brother George Wilson, who carried the ring in the heart of a rose, took their places in the bay window which was banked with green and white. The ceremony took place under a large bell which was showered with ropes of smilax and was performed by Rev. F. O. Jones, the ring ceremony being used.

When they were pronounced man and wife, the bride threw a bouquet of carnations which made glad the hearts of the recipients, amid a shower of rice, their many friends congratulated them.

The bride wore a dress of white brocaded silk over white satin with pearl and bead trimmings and tulle with white satin bead trimmed slippers to match. She carried a large bouquet of white roses.

The groom wore the conventional black and after congratulations the bridal party took their places at the table decorated in ropes of pink and white carnations. The others were seated in various rooms while the three course supper was served to the 125 guests by 9 friends of the bride. Eula V. Underwood and Florence Smith who served at the bride's table and Marian Foote, Mary Anderson, Wylma Wood, Alice Lowe, Ellen Smith; Gertrude Baker and Haze Laudenslager.

The gifts were numerous and beautiful including much cut glass, silver and hand painted china.

The happy couple left on a wedding trip to Detroit, Petersburg and Toledo. Her traveling dress was of blue with blue velvet hat to match. Both the bride and groom are well known having always lived here, and their many friends join in wishing them a very happy and prosperous future.

The out of town guests were from Detroit, Toledo, Adrian, Tecumseh, North Adrian Holloway, Tipton and Raisin Centre.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Linn catered.

THE MONDAY CLUB

A most delightful meeting of the Monday Club was that of Monday, January 19, when they entertained a large delegation of the Clinton Culture Club, some 58 coming on the afternoon train for the occasion, assembling at the parlors of the Presbyterian Church an hour later. The time was spent in social chat until the call came for the banquet, which was served in the dining room. About a hundred were seated at the tables, and a fine three course supper was served by the committees in charge, After all had been served an adjournment was made to the lecture room where a program was given, opening with a violin solo by Duaine Service, accompanied on the piano by Miss Edyth Shull. Mrs. R. S. Mocre gave a most charming vocal solo, with Miss Ella Hodges accompanist. She responded to an encore in her most kindly way.

Mrs. O. A. Wright gave the talk of the evening, her subject being, "Views of Venice," illustrated by the stereoptican. A personal knowledge of the various scenes and her happy manner of description made this most interesting, and one felt that they were traveling with her and seeing for themselves.

As the hour drew near for the train that was to take the ladies to their homes, there was a general buz of appreciation and good fellowship over the pleasant hours that had passed all to swiftly.

"WITHIN THE LAW"

The presentation of this wonderful play at the Opera House, Monday evening, was the grand event of the season.

The story has been told so many times that it need not be repeated, but the acting deserves special menti n. Edward Gilder dealing out his thousands where it will make the most show, condoning the kleptomaniac because she was the wife of a magnate, yet crushing to earth the poor shop girl for a theft for which she was innocent is but one among many rich men to be found in our cities. The son however, proves of better stuff and stands by his choice to the end. The character of Mary Turner, the leading role taken by Grace Dunbar Nile, was a most wonderful portrayal of the crushed, disgraced, desperate girl who seeks revenge on the man who brought her low, by any means Within the Law. She was well supported throughout, every actor doing his part finely.

I TOOK PE-RU-NA

Was Able to Sleep and Eat Again

Mrs. Mueller says: "I keep Peruna in the house constantly. When I am not feeling well I take a few doses. It always restores."

MRS. M. MUELLER, P. O. Box 321, Hawley, Wayne Co., Penn.

Mrs. Mueller's story of her experience with Peruna fully explains why she always keeps Peruna on hand. A few years ago she was very sick. The trouble seemed to be the stomach and liver. She suffered great pain. Was unable to get anything to help her. She was growing weaker and weaker. She became tired of life.

Somebody suggested that she write to the Peruna Co. She did so. Through their advice she began to use Peruna. In a letter from her at this time she says: "Through the use of Peruna I have regained my health. I took only a bottle and a half when I was able to sleep and eat and my nervousness disappeared." No wonder Mrs. Mueller keeps Peruna in the house. Under similar circumstances Peruna would be in every house in the land.

Any one taking Peruna ought to have a free copy of the "Ills of Life." Address Peruna Co., Columbus, Ohio.

A Resident Known to all Our Readers Relates an Experience.

Readers of the Herald have been told again and again of the merits of that reliable, time-proved kidney remedy—Doan's Kidney Pills. The experiences told are not those of unknown persons living far away. The cases are Tecumseh cases, told by Tecumseh people.

J. B. Smith, E. Chicago St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I was caused a great deal of suffering by pains in the small of my back. When the attacks were present, it was all I could do to work. When stooping, I became very dizzy and spots of fire seemed to flash before my eyes. I rested poorly and in the morning when I got up, was unrefreshed. I doctored and used various remedies but got no benefit until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. They made me feel like a different person, ridding me of the trouble. I gladly confirm my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Smith had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

A Difference in Working Hours.

A man's working day is 8 hours. His body organs must work perfectly 24 hours to keep him fit for 8 hours work. Weak, sore, inactive kidneys can not do it. They must be sound and healthily active all the time. Foley Kidney Pills will make them so. You cannot take them into your system without good results following. Your Silver Teapot.

When the inside of a silver teapot starts to tarnish the following idea is very good to make it look like new: Put a large piece of washing soda into the teapot and fill with boiling water. Then boil it for one hour over a spirit lamp and you will find it will become as bright inside as out, and the soda will not injure the silver in any way.

His Chief Objection.

Turning to the newspaper reporter, who was his passenger, the aviator exclaimed:

"It's all off; the propeller is broken, and we are doomed to fall 6,000 feet!"

"Great guns!" cried the reporter. "I hope we don't fall into the water. I can't swim a stroke!"—Lippincott's.

Equality of strength in both arms occurs almost twice as frequently with women as with men, more men than women being stronger in the right arm than in the left.

dilemma and you've got to help me out of it." The Englishman looked at his watch and fumbled it nervously as he replaced it in his upper coat pocket. "That's a good fellow, Brock. You will be the ever present help in time of trouble, won't you?"

"My letter of credit is at your disposal, old man," said Brock promptly. He meant it. It readily may be seen from this that their friendship is no small item to be considered in the development of this tale.

"My dear fellow, that's the very thing I'm eager to thrust upon you—my letter of credit," exclaimed the other.

"What's that?" demanded Brock.

"I say, Brock, can't we go up to your rooms? Dead secret, you know. Really, old chap, I mean it. No one must get a breath of it. That's why I'm whispering. I'm not a lunatic, so don't stare like that. I'd do as much for you if the conditions were reversed."

"I dare say you would, Rox. But what the devil is it you want me to do?"

"Do I appear to be agitated?"

"Well, I should say so."

"Well, I am. You know how I loath asking a favor of any one. Besides, it's rather an extraordinary one I'm going to ask of you. Came to me in a flash this morning when I saw your name in the paper. Sort of inspiration, 'pon my word. I think Edith sees it the same as I, although I haven't had time to go into it thoroughly with her. She's ripping, you know—pluck to the very core."

Brock's face expressed bewilderment and perplexity.

"Won't you have another drink, old man?" he asked gently.

"Another? Hang it all, I haven't had one in a week! Come along. I must talk it all over with you before I introduce you to her. You must be prepared."

"Introduce me to whom?" demanded Brock, pricking up his ears. He was following Medcroft to the elevator.

"To my wife—Edith," said Medcroft, annoyed by the other's obtuseness.

"Does it require preparation for an ordeal so charming?" laughed Brock. He was recalling the fact that Medcroft had married a beautiful Philadelphia girl some years ago in London, a young lady whom he had never seen, so thoroughly expatriated had she become in consequence of almost a lifetime residence in England. He remembered now that she was rich and that he had sent her a ridiculously expensive present and a congratulatory cablegram at the time of the wedding.

The Londoner did not respond to the innocuous query. He merely stared in a preoccupied, determined manner at the succeeding etages as they slipped downward. At the fourth floor they disembarked, and Brock led the way to his rooms, overlooking the inner court. Once inside with the door closed he turned upon the Englishman.

"Now, what's up, Rox? Are you in trouble?" he demanded.

"Are we quite alone?" Medcroft glanced significantly at the transom and the half closed bathroom door. With a laugh Brock led him into the bathroom and out and then closed the transom.

"You're darned mysterious," he said, pointing to a chair near the window. Medcroft drew another close up and seated himself.

"Brock," he said, lowering his voice and leaning forward impressively, "I want you to go to Vienna in my place." Brock stared hard. "You are a godsend, old man. You're just in time to do me the greatest of favors. It's utterly impossible for me to go to Vienna as I had planned, and yet it is equally unwise for me to give up the project. You see, I've just got to be in London and Vienna at the same time."

"It will require something more than a stretch of the imagination to do that, old man. But I'm game, and my plans are such that they can be changed readily to oblige a friend. I shan't mind the trip in the least, and I'll be only too happy to help you out. Gad! I thought by your manner that you were in some frightful difficulty."

"By Jove, Brock, you're a brick!" cried Medcroft, shaking the other's hand vigorously. At the same time his face expressed considerable uncertainty and no little doubt as to the future welfare of his as yet partially divulged proposition.

"It's easy to be a brick, my boy, if it involves no more than the changing of a single letter in one's name. I'd like to attend the convention anyway," said Brock amiably.

"Well, you see, Brock," said Medcroft lamely, "I fear you don't quite appreciate the situation. I want you to pose as Roxbury Medcroft."

"You— What do you mean?"

"I thought you'd find that a facer. That's just it. You are to go to Vienna as Roxbury Medcroft, not as yourself. Ha, ha! Ripping, eh?"

"'Pon my soul, Rox, you are not in earnest?"

"Never more so."

"But, my dear fellow"—

"You won't do it? That's what your tone means," in despair.

"It isn't that, and you know it. I've got nothing to lose. It's you that will have to suffer. You're known all over Europe. What will be said when the trick is discovered? Gad, man!"

"Then you will go?" with beaming eyes. "I knew it would appeal to you as an American."

"What does it all mean?"

"It's all very simple, if one looks at it from the right angle, Brock. Up to last night I was blissfully committed to the most delightful of outings, so to speak. At 10 o'clock everything was changed. Mrs. Medcroft and I sat up all night discussing the situation with the messenger—my solicitor, by the way. The Vienna trip is out of the question, so far as I am concerned. It is of vital importance that I should return to London tonight, but it is even more vitally important that the world should say that I am in Vienna. See what I mean?"

"No, I'm hanged if I do."

"What I have just heard from London makes me shudder to think of the consequences if I go on east tonight. I may as well tell you that there is a plot on foot to perpetrate a gigantic fraud against the people. The county council is to be hoodwinked out and out into moving forward certain building projects, involving millions of the people's money. Our firm has opposed a certain band of grafters, and when I left England it was pretty well settled that we had blocked their game. They have learned of my proposed absence and intend to steal a march on us while I am away. Without assuming too much credit to myself, I may say that I, your old friend, Roxbury, I am the one man who has proved the real thorn in the sides of these scoundrels. With me out of the way they feel that they can secure the adoption of all these infamous measures. My partners and the leaders on our side have sent for me to return secretly. They won't bring the matter to issue if they find that I've returned. It would be suicidal. Therefore it is necessary that we steal a march on 'em. I know the inside workings of the scheme. If I can steal back and keep under cover as an advisory chief, so to speak, we can well afford to let 'em rush the matter through, for then we can spring the coup and defeat them for good and all. But, don't you see, old man, unless they know that I've gone to Vienna they won't undertake the thing. That's why I'm asking you to go on to Vienna and pose as Roxbury Medcroft while I steal back to London and set the charge under these demmed bloodsuckers. Really, you know, it's a terribly serious matter, Brock. It means fortune and honor to me, as well as millions to the rate payers of Greater London. All you've got to do is to register at the Bristol, get interviewed by the papers, attend one or two sessions of the convention, which lasts three days, and then go off into the mountains with the Rodneys. The society reporters will do the rest."

"With the Rodneys? My dear fellow, suppose that they object to the substitution? Really, you know, it's not to be thought of."

"Deuce take it, man, the Rodneys are not to know that there has been a substitution. Perfectly simple, can't you see?"

"I'm d—d if I do!"

"What a stupid ass you are, Brock! The Rodneys have never laid eyes on me. They know of me as Edith's husband, that's all. They are to take you in as Medcroft, of course."

At this point Brock set up an emphatic remonstrance. He began by laughing his friend to scorn; then, as Medcroft persisted, went so far as to take him severely to task for the proposed imposition on the unsuspecting Rodneys, to say nothing of the trick he would play upon the convention of architects.

"I'd be recognized as an impostor," he said warmly, "and booted out of the convention. I shudder to think of what Mr. Rodney will do to me when he learns the truth. Why, Medcroft, you must be crazy. There will be dozens of architects there who know you personally or by sight. You"—

"My dear boy, if they don't see me there they can't very well recognize me, can they? If necessary you can affect an illness and stay away from the sessions altogether. Give a statement to the press from the privacy of the sickroom—regret your inability to take part in the discussions and all that, you know. Hire a nurse if necessary. You might venture to express an opinion or two on vital topics in my name. I don't care a hang what you say. I only want 'em to think I'm there. No doubt our enemies will have a spy or two hanging about to see that I am actually off for a jaunt with the Rodneys, but they will be Viennese, and they won't know me from Adam. What's the odds, so long as Edith is there to stand by you? If she's willing to assume that you are her husband"—

"Good Lord!" half shouted Brock, leaping to his feet, wide eyed. "You don't mean to say that she is—is—is to go to Vienna with me?"

"Emphatically yes. She's also invited. Of course she's going."

"You mean that she's going just as you are going—by proxy?" murmured Brock helplessly.

"Proxy, the devil! 'Pon my soul, Brock, you're downright stupid. She can't have a proxy. They know her. The Rodneys are in some way connections of hers, and all that—third cousins. If she isn't there to vouch for you, how the deuce can you expect to"—

"Medcroft, you are crazy! No one but an insane man would submit his wife to— Why, good Lord, man, think of the scandal! She won't have a shred left"—

WILLIAMS IS NAMED FOR CURRENCY JOB

He Will Officially Help to Put New Act Into Effect.

WASHINGTON — The name of John Skelton Williams, assistant secretary of the treasury, was sent to the senate as comptroller of the currency by President Wilson.

The nomination was determined upon at a conference between President Wilson and Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo. It is expected that a fight will be made upon the nomination in the senate, as Mr. Williams has many opponents among the southern senators. However, it is generally believed here that the nomination eventually will be confirmed.

As comptroller of the currency Mr Williams will be on the organization committee charged with putting the new currency act into effect. The other two members are Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and Secretary of Agriculture Houston. Mr. Williams nomination has been expected generally for ten days, as Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo was his principal backer.

GREAT STRIKE IS ON

Delaware and Hudson Railway Employes Cease Work.

ALBANY, N. Y. — Approximately five thousand men employed by the Delaware and Hudson Railway company walked out quietly at 5:45 a. m. The strike order was issued to every union engineer, fireman, conductor trainman and telegrapher at work along the line from Rouse's Point N. Y., to Wilkesbarre, Pa.

Crews brought their trains to terminal points, took their engines to roundhouses and then went to their homes to await the result of a conference between union leaders and officers of the company. G. W. W Hanger of the federal board of mediation, telegraphed to Martin C. Carey, in charge of the strike, but Carey replied: "The die is cast. Only the concessions we ask will bring about a settlement."

The men demand the reinstatement of two men who were discharged for alleged disobedience.

ELEVEN GUARSMEN VICTIMS OF CUPID

Troopers on Calumet Strike Duty Stay as Husbands.

CALUMET, MICH. — Perfect in his aim, Cupid has sent darts through the hearts of many national guardsmen since they came to this district last summer.

To date eleven troopers have taken Houghton county girls as their brides, and better still, every one of them is now a resident of this county, employed in a good position.

In many instances the grooms, through the influence of their wives' relatives, were able to step into handsome paying positions. And dame rumor has it that several more guardsmen are to succumb to the inprecations of the little archer in the near future.

CONVICTS REVOLT

Former Illinois Congressman and Judge Among Slain.

WOMAN IS ALSO SHOT DOWN

Three Prisoners Make Escape, but Are Afterward Overtaken and Killed by Pursuers—Three Prison Guards Slain and Two Others Wounded—Men Not Trusties.

M'ALESTER, OKLA.—At least seven men are dead and one woman injured as the result of an attempt on the part of three prisoners to escape from the state penitentiary here.

The dead: P. C. Oates, deputy sheriff; P. C. Godfrey, guard; H. H. Decover, Bertillon man; Judge John R. Thomas, formerly congressman from Illinois; China Reed, prisoner; Tom Lane, prisoner; Charles Kuntz, prisoner.

The injured: Miss Mary Foster, prison stenographer, shot in leg; J. W. Martin, turnkey, shot in cheek; C. B. Woods, guard, shot in arm.

Judge Thomas, a Muskegee attorney, was formerly congressman from Illinois, a federal judge and a member of the state code commission. He served five terms in congress from the Egypt (Ill.) district.

Shoot Prison Officials.

Reed, Lane and Kuntz, the three prisoners, stormed the guard, shooting the three prison officials and Judge Thomas, who was in the penitentiary consulting a client.

The prisoners then rushed to the penitentiary office and at the point of revolvers forced F. C. Rice and Miss Mary Foster, the lattera penitentiary stenographer, to go with them in a buggy near the penitentiary and get in.

A bullet from one of the prisoners' guns entered the leg of Miss Foster. She fainted in the buggy.

An alarm was sounded and guards on horseback were sent in pursuit of the fugitives.

Battle on Highway.

In the meantime the sheriff of Pittsburg county had been notified and asked to quickly summon a posse of gunmen.

Before the prisoners had gone more than a half mile from the penitentiary, however, they were overtaken by the penitentiary guards. A battle took place on the highway in which all three of the convicts were shot to death.

Governor Lee Cruce was notified of the outbreak over long distance by Warden Dick.

Dick told the governor that none of the men were trusties. They were regarded as being desperate characters, one of them serving a forty-year term.

They Open Fire.

The first intimation prison officials had that anything was wrong was when the men grabbed the two guards and marched them in front of them into the penitentiary office. Deputy Warden Oates was in the office talking with Judge Thomas of Muskogee. As the men entered they pointed their pistols at Oates.

Oates jumped to his feet and began to fire, but his aim was poor, because he was afraid of hitting the guards, who were serving as breast works for the prisoners.

At the second shot from Oates' pistol the men shot Oates and the others to death.

While they were fleeing in the buggy, pursued by the mounted posse, Miss Foster fell out of the vehicle. Then the guards closed in and shot the prisoners to death.

PRESIDENT READS MESSAGE

Gives to the Congress His Views on Trust Legislation.

WASHINGTON — The house and senate held a joint session in the hall of the house at 12:30 p. m. to hear President Wilson read his message on trust legislation. The galleries were packed and there was a full attendance of members of both houses. In the galleries reserved for them were members of the diplomatic corps, the supreme court, cabinet members and many notables.

The president delivered his message from the speaker's stand, as he had on other occasions. The joint session showed marked evidence of approval of his recommendation of a board to keep corporations from violating the law, and defend that ground known as the "twilight zone" in operating their business.

The president served notice on "big business" that it must alter its methods to coincide with public opinion. He expressed his wish to have corporations shown how to comply with the law. At the same time he manifested his desire to have the business law breaker treated as any other criminal, holding that guilt is personal. Congressionel compliance with this declaration means jail terms for violators of the anti-trust law.

Warrant Issued for Man with Scheme for Millions.

DETROIT, MICH.— A court warrant was sworn out for arrest of Marcus Pollasky, a Chicago promoter, because he failed to pay a board bill of $350 at the Cadillac hotel.

Pollasky came from Chicago two weeks ago to renew his attempt to get a franchise for a subway system. He has made no headway with the city council. Among items on the hotel bill are $45 for typewriting and $50 for taxicabs. There also are items for cigars and drinks with which he treated men with whom he was trying to do business.

LITTLE MAN REMAINS IN JAIL

Fred Eldred, Ex-Employe of Kalamazoo Buggy Company, Is Held.

KALAMAZOO, MICH. — Although every effort has been made to obtain $5,000 bail for Fred Eldred, the former employe of C. H. Hays, who was indicted and arrested in Morris, Ill., he has so far found no one who will go his bond. Eldred was brought back to Kalamazoo from Illinois and although he has not yet been locked up, he is in the custody of an officer. What led to the indictment of Eldred is not clear. When the prospectus was issued for the Michigan Motor Car company he was an employe and as far as is generally known he put only such information in the book as was given to him.

Eldred has appealed in vain to his former employer in an effort to have him go on his bonds, but this he has refused to do absolutely.

TWO RESCUED BY ATHLETE

A. B. Loucks Saves Tots from Icy Kent County Stream.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH. — Alvin B. Loucks former Union high school football star, brother of Arthur Loucks, city hall reporter for the Detroit Free Press, was the hero of a chilly lifesaving act at Plaster Creek. As Loucks was crossing the bridge his attention was attracked by cries for help from two young children struggling in the stream. They had broken through the ice about 15 feet from shore.

Loucks shook off his overcoat and sprang from the railing of the bridge After a short struggle he succeeded in carrying the children to safety.

Oregon Man Urges Grand Rapids P. M. Agent to Be Christian.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—Neil De Young, the district passenger agent of the P. M. railroad, received a letter from Falls City, Ore., containing ten cents in stamps which the writer sent as payment for a ride stolen from Alma to St. Louis, Mich., ten years ago.

The anonymous writer closed the communication with a plea that the passenger agent, if not a Christian, should take up the work of the Lord at once.

WANT ELDERLY CHAPERONS

Alma Students Can't Go Sleighing After Dark Without Them.

ALMA, MICH. — Following the faculty ruling forbidding sleighing parties after dark by college students this year, the students petitioned for a reconsideration.

The faculty announced that the students could have their customary sleigh rides providing they took along a chaperon, married at least ten years.

MOYER INDICTED

President of Miners Federation Charged with Conspiracy.

ANTTILLA ALSO IS CAUGHT

First Count Charges Plot to Prevent "by Force and Arms" Pursuit of Vocations by Workmen—"No Bills" Result of Efforts to Indict Many Others.

HOUGHTON, MICH. — Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, was indicted for conspiracy with other officials of the federation in connection with the strike of the copper miners. The first count of the indictment charges conspiracy to prevent by force and arms the pursuit of their vocations by employes of the mining companies. The bill against Moyer and the other officials of the federation charged a misdemeanor.

It was brought out that several "no true bills" were included in the grand jury report and the court ordered these made public.

The jury exonerated H. Stuart Goodell, an oil merchant, of complicity in one of the strike shooting affrays. The indictment against Anttilla included the charges against Charles H. Moyer, president; C. E. Mahoney, vice president; Guy E. Miller, Yarco Terzich, J. C. Lowney and W. P. Davidson, members of the executive board of the Western Federation of Miners. In addition Lynn Sullivan, William Richard, Ben Goggia, Frank Altonen, Charles E. Hietala and other local union leaders were named, the list including thirty-nine individuals.

Conspiracy Is Charged.

The second count was similar to the first, but the charge was broadened to include all classes of workmen. In the third count it was charged that the union men had, by their conspiracy and attempts to intimidate, interfered with the rights and property of nonunion men. The jury made no reference to the Moyer deportation, so far as could be learned.

Court officials promised that as fast as warrants were served the names of the indicted men would be made public. One guess as to the nature of the concealed charges had it that they related to the four guards and two deputy sheriffs who are charged with what has become known as the "Seeberville murders." These men have been out on bonds awaiting disposition of their cases by the grand jury.

Beaten for Thief; Is Pa'd.

LANSING, MICH. — Peter C. Fritz, employed as a laborer in the Michigan Central yards at Detroit, was badly beaten by a special officer of the road while trying to recapture a duck that had escaped from a poultry car, and as the result of being taken for a thief.

Fritz will receive $5.05 a week compensation from the railroad company. The case was decided by the industrial accident board.

Steals Wire Heavily Charged, Alleged

JACKSON, MICH. — That Edward Ferris, who is under arrest, stole a large quantity of copper wire while 650 volts of electricity was coursing through it, is the declaration of the police. Ferris was arrested on complaint of Detroit, Jackson and Chicago railway officers who say that he cut the wire from poles in a gravel pit near Jaskson.

Ferris' Memory Keen.

PETOSKEY, MICH.—A good exemplification of the keen memory of Governor Ferris was seen here, when, after the Democratic banquet, at which he was guest of honor, he recognized and called by name Albert Atkin of Bigger, Sask., who is here on a visit, and who attended the Ferris institute twenty-five years ago.

Cabaret Minstrels

An event which should be of unusual interest to the theatre going public will take place in the form of the "CABARET MINSTRELS," to be produced by the Young Men's Club, under the direction of Mr. Harry Spaulding, a professional stage director. The idea of "CABARET MINSTRELS" is new and the effect is startling and original. The first setting is of a fashionable cabaret restaurant and the stunts which take place are extremely funny. The jokes which will be used are all new and the songs are catchy and many novel effects are introduced.

In the OLIO a Vaudeville program will be used and will consist of SONGS, MONOLOGUES and DANCES. One of the big features will be the song

"THE GOOD SHIP MARY ANN"
BY
MISS BONNIE BROWN AND CHORUS

The costumes are new and very fetching. The last number of the OLIO is a scream consisting of an automobile stunt by which is extremely realistic to say the least.

Mr. 'Cork' Smith
"You'll Have to Get Out, Get Out and Get Under"

Among the soloists are

Don Heesen	Ralph Smith	Don Smith

A NATURAL RIDDLE

Attraction of Gravitation Is a Mystery to Science.

IT CONTROLS THE UNIVERSE.

Yet That Wonderful Force That Directs and Regulates Moons, Planets, Suns and Stars Without Visible Means of Connection Is Inexplicable.

The mystery of mysteries in science is the attraction of gravitation—that very force of nature that is the most familiar to us all. It seems strange that the most familiar thing in the world should be at the same time the most inexplicable, but so it is.

In order to see clearly wherein the mystery consists, let us first consider what gravitation appears to be. It is gravitation that gives the property of weight to all bodies. If there were no gravitation we could float like thistledowns and infinitely better than thistledowns, for they, too, are finally brought down by gravitation.

It is gravitation that brings a cannon ball eventually to the earth, no matter how swiftly it may be projected. The faster it starts the farther it will go, but during every second of its flight it drops the same distance vertically toward the earth, whether the speed imparted to it by the powder is 500 or 3,000 feet per second. Gravitation acts on a moving body exactly as well as on one at rest.

It is gravitation that curbs the motion of the moon and keeps it in an orbit of which the earth is the active focus.

So, too, it is gravitation that governs the earth in its motion around the sun, preventing it from flying away into boundless space. Astronomy shows that gravitation acts between all the planets and all the stars and controls their motions with respect to one another.

Now, this mysterious force appears to be an attraction, as if there were elastic cords connecting all the bodies in space and tending to draw them together. But space, as far as our senses can detect, is empty. There are no elastic cords and no physical connections whatever between astronomical bodies or between a flying stone or cannon ball and the earth. How, then, can there be an attraction? In order that a body may be attracted or drawn there must be something to draw it. Gravitation does the trick, but completely hides from us the mechanism through which it acts. We can discover no mechanism at all.

When an unfortunate aeroplanist drops from his machine at a height of a thousand feet he begins at once to fall toward the earth as if it were pulling him. But how can it pull if it has nothing to pull with? You may think at first sight that it is the air which acts as an intermediary, but that is not so, because the earth and the moon "pull" upon one another with a force equal to the strength of a steel cable 500 miles in diameter. But there is no air and no other tangible thing in the open space, 240,000 miles across, that gaps between the moon and the earth.

Then, gravitation exerts the same force at every instant. No matter how fast the falling aeronaut may be descending at any moment, gravitation will keep on adding speed as if he had just started. Disregarding the slight retardation produced by the resistance of the air, he will fall sixteen feet in the first second, forty-eight feet in the second second, eighty feet in the third second, gaining thirty-two feet in his velocity during every second after the first.

From a height of 1,000 feet he will come down in about eight seconds, and will strike the ground with a velocity of about 256 feet per second. From a height of 10,000 feet he would fall in about twenty-five seconds and would strike with a velocity of 400 feet per second.

The same kind of calculation can be applied to the gravitation between the earth and the moon. If the moon were not in motion across the direction of the earth's "pull" it would fall to the earth in about 116 hours.

Now, to return to the mystery, how is this force exerted? Is it really a pull, as it seems to be? The answer to which science is tending is that instead of being a pull, gravitation is a push; in other words, that the falling aeronaut is pushed toward the ground and the moon is pushed toward the earth.

On the face of it one might think that nothing was gained by this theory, because it seems as impossible that a push should be exerted without a tangible connection as a pull. But the clew is found in the supposed properties of that invisible, intangible, all pervading medium called the ether.

This, to be sure, is explaining one mystery by another, for we know nothing about the ether except that it conveys the waves of light and electricity; but, at any rate, it affords a conceivable explanation of gravitation. Dr. Charles F. Brush's theory regards the ether as being filled with a peculiar form of waves and that material bodies may intercept these waves in such a way as to be pushed toward one another on account of the diminished effect of the ether waves in the space between the bodies.—Garrett P. Serviss in New York Journal.

Ancient Egyptians.

That the ancient Egyptians were not negroes is certain, and it is equally certain that they did not belong to the Semite or Jewish race. Said the late Professor Huxley: "I am not aware that there are any living people who resemble them, except the Dravidian tribes of central India and the Australians, and I have long been inclined to think that the latter are the lowest and the Egyptians the highest members of a race of mankind of great antiquity, distinct alike from Aryan and Turanian on the one side and from negro and negrito on the other." In a word, nobody can say with any degree of assurance what breed of men the builders of the pyramids were.—New York American.

Explorer's Remarkable Feat.

Sir James Barrie's affection for explorers is no new thing. All who know his "Edinburgh Eleven" will remember the eulogy of Joseph Thomson, the Dumfriesshire Scot, who did pioneer work of the Livingstone kind in Africa. It is a fine pen picture of a dour, brave man, but it has flashes of the early Barrie. This, for example:

"Perhaps his most remarkable feat consisted in taking a bottle of brandy into the heart of Africa and bringing it back intact."—Glasgow News.

MID-WINTER TRIP ACROSS CONTINENT

Adventurous Hobo Makes One in Aristocratic Studebaker Sedan

DETROIT TO PORTLAND

Deep Upholstery and Electric Lights Help Him Pass Time

To cross the American Continent in a closed body motor car is an unusual feat, though no longer unique, since last summer, when an adventurous Los Angeles citizen did it in a Studebaker Sedan. To make the trip, however, in the dead of winter, crossing deserts and mountain ranges and penetrating even the far Northwest is a far different problem, yet is one recently solved by a tourist.

The feat loses much of its motoring significance through the fact that the automobile rode in a box car and carried a nameless knight of the road. Nevertheless, it possesses many features of an unusual nature.

Late in December this resourceful hobo must have passed the Studebaker loading platform in Detroit. He doubtless marveled at the many frieght cars being loaded and noted that each car carried on its door the name of the city which was to be its destination. The variety from which he chose contained about every trading centre of moment in the country, but he must have passed along until he reached a car tagged "Portland, Ore."

Portland sounded attractive. The hobo smuggled himself inside the car with the automobiles. An inspector came along and verified the shipment, the human frieght keeping out of sight. The car was sealed.

Once embarked on his trip, the tramp made his headquarters in a Studebaker "Six" Sedan which was the crowning glory of the shipment. Its cushions made him a luxurious bed. He had but to touch a button to illumine its interior. Its body gave him double protection against the weather. He must have been provisioned for the trip for, when the car arrived at Portland and the door was opened for the first time, the hobo bounced out with abounding energy and promptly disappeared, the employes of the Portland Studebaker branch being too amazed to give chase.

An abundance of cigarette stubs and a large empty jug were left behind, along with a note which stated:

"Gents.—I thanks you for the ride. This is sure the swellest benzine buggy I ever rode in. Happy New Year."

MIDWINTER MEETING OF THE MICHIGAN STATE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY

TO BE HELD AT

Benton Harbor, Feb. 5 and 6, 1914

The Midwinter Meeting of the Michigan State Horticultural Society will be held in Benton Harbor, Mich., Thursday and Friday, February 5 and 6 in the auditorium of the First Baptist Church. Benton Harbor, situated as it is in the heart of one of the largest fruit growing districts in the State and the home of many expert growers who are able to impart much valuable information regarding the fruit growing industry, is an ideal place for this meeting.

The State Society will be the guests of Berrien County Horticultural Society, which numbers over 200 members. The local Society will do everything in its power to see that all brother fruit growers and visitors receive a hearty welcome, and will assist them in procuring rooms and hotel accommodations, if desired. The latter are first-class.

You should attend this meeting. If you wish to be an up to date grower, get out and find out what is doing in the world. If you gain nothing more than a new interest and enthusiasm in your work, you have been more than paid for the small expendisure of money and time. Come and bring the ladies with you.

The program is a fine one, and some 12 or 14 of the best speakers in the state will take part. A list of questions has been made out, embracing Apples, Peaches, Pears, Grapes, etc. A very interesting season is anticipated.

Harriett Eliza Bissell was born May 21st, 1832 daughter of Theodore and Cynthia (nee Spofford) Bissell, both of prominent colonial families. The first twelve years of her childhood were spent at Bastrop, Texas, in the stirring times prior to the Mexican war, removing to Tecumseh, Michigan, in 1844, which was to be her home for a long lifetime.

In 1856 she was united in marriage Edwin B. Wood, then a young attorney, friend and associate of the late Judge Thomas Cooley and partner of the late Judge C. A. Stacy, a descendant of one of the English Cavaliers whose offspring fought the wilderness in Maryland, Virginia and Kentucky, coming to Michigan in 1818. Seven children were born of this union, three sons and one daughter having passed on with her husband, who died in February 1885.

Many years ago Mr. and Mrs. Wood united with the 1st Presbyterian Church of Tecumseh, and were of the generation that built the present edifice of that congregation, both having been influential in bringing about the building of the church and large contributors towards its completion.

Until the growing feebleness of age and increasing deafness interfered, she was active, prominent and influential in church, school, social and public affairs. She was one of the first women to serve on the School Board of this District, and one of the first Worthy Matrons of Tecumseh Chapter of the Eastern Star. She was progressive in her views, and possessed of the staunch and sterling elements of character typical of the pioneers with whom she was associated in the days of her youth. She was faithful and loyal to her friends and her family and a true christian throughout her days.

Though a woman, and one in whom the love of home and family came first, with her generous and broad-minded husband, she influenced in no small way the history of the community she loved, her adopted home. Though clinging tenaciously to her interest in the lives of her friends and the affairs of her country, with the ripening of age, she gradually withdrew to the society of a few old friends and her family, and as life's evening shadows lengthened, with a firm belief in the reward awaiting faith, service, welcoming the dignity of Death, on the 20th of January, she peacefully passed, as, "One who wraps the drapery of his couch about him, and lies down to pleasant dreams."

COMPLETE PANAMA CANAL REPRODUCTION
IS NEW ACHIEVEMENT OF HOWE CAMERAS

WITH THE PANAMA CANAL READY FOR OPERATION LYMAN H. HOWE HAS COMPLETED HIS MOVING PICTURE RECORD OF THE GIANT TASK OF BUILDING IT

THESE STRIKING SCENES WILL APPEAR IN THE PRINCIPAL THEATRES OF EIGHT HUNDRED AMERICAN CITIES AND TOWNS AS A FEATURE OF THE NEW TRAVEL FESTIVAL.

This photograph is from the Lyman H. Howe reproduction of the Panama Canal, one of the features of the new Travel Festival coming to the BRADLEY OPERA HOUSE next MONDAY, JANUARY 26th. It was taken when one of the gates which guard the approach of the great locks was being formed.

As most readers of this newspaper know, the canal is virtually completed and there is water in it. It is only a question now of the formal opening of the "big ditch" to the commerce of the world. Already small vessels, canal tugs and the like have passed through the canal.

The big locks are double, so that vessels can pass in either direction just as trains do on a tournout or a double track. Each of the three locks represents a different level for the vessels passing through.

In passing from ocean to ocean in either direction a vessel takes three steps upward and three downward by means of the locks. A vessel entering from the Atlantic side is tied up to the wall at the entrance. There her officers are relieved of her command. A Government official takes the bridge and another is placed in the engine room. A vessel is not permitted to pass through the canal under her own power. She is hitched to four engines, one on either side of the canal at the bow and two others similarly placed at the stern. These electric locomotives tow the vessel into the Gatun locks. After a ship has left the highest locks at Gatun she is afloat in the lake. She then proceeds through the canal proper to Pedro Miguel. There she is lowered to the level of Miraflores Lake. At Miraflores she takes two other downward steps through locks. Then she reaches the level of the Pacific and may proceed without difficulty.

It is not only as a portrayal of the greatest engineering feat since the dawn of time that makes the reproduction of the construction of the Panama Canal so notable. Nor is it merely the purely mechanical aspect of the scenes. But this reproduction has still a deeper significance in that it records how man can conquer nature by patience, tenacity of purpose and perfect organization combined with engineering and mechanical genius, and at the same time can reproduce so lucidly how Uncle Sam consummed a task of heroic proportions. The scenes reproduce what is indeed a triumph for Uncle Sam—the greatest of any age. And from a photographic, human interest, instructive and any other standpoint they are likewise a crowning achievement for Lyman H. Howe as an exhibitor. No verbal description of what has been accomplished could possibly convey—even remotely—the profound impression which these scenes must impart on the mind of every spectator, young or old. This splendid series is so bewildering in its variety as to baffle description. It conveys an idea of the infinite magnitude of the work as no words could hope to impart, and spectators are amazed and fascinated not alone by the astounding magnitude of the work, but in almost equal degree by the skill and perfection of the reproduction itself.

The fiery geysers of Yellowstone Park which act as a "safety valve" for mother earth also constitute a big feature of Howe's new program. At every turn, water is seen boiling furiously either in vats carved by nature or its being ejected to great heights by fierce explosions underneath. Masses of steam rush from openings in the ground. Terrible convulsions of nature ensue and monstrous cauldrons become more and more active until the whole ensemble becomes a veritable inferno. The historic ruins of Pompeii in the colors of nature, a visit to Naples and to the Paris Zoo where acquaintance is made with numerous strange animals at close range, the wood turning industry at Saint Claude, salmon fishing in British Columbia, tunny fishing near Palermo, Sicily, new "symphonies of the sea" and a ride on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company's train de luxe "The Olympian" through the Montana Canyon and over the Cascade Mountains in Oregon are a few of the many other features included in the program.

Seat sale for Howe's Pictures opens at Hay's Bakery, tomorrow (Saturday) morning.

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to all our friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted us during the sickness and at the death of our beloved wife and mother. Also for the beautiful flowers, and for the words of comfort and the sweet singing that took away the bitterness of our grief.

35 YEARS AGO

Jan. 23, 1879.

Is this our January thaw? Did someone say something about the weather?

A. A. Kennedy went to Lewisville Ky. last week with a carload of apples.

John Thurlby has gone to Memphis Tenn with two carloads of apples for H. W. Stevens.

Rev. J. Phelps will take his choir with him to Clinton next Sunday p. m.

About fifty ladies and gentlemen, mostly ladies called last Tueday afternoon to see our Taylor Press work.

That half bushel of apples left here last week by Henry Keysor, was properly taken care of by the Herald boys. Thanks

Fred B. Wood is home for a few days. He troubled some with sore eyes and has been compelled to take short respite from labor.

John Halley sold thirteen cutters in two days when the sleighing first began and he felt awfully bad that he didn't have 30 or 40 more on hand. He could have sold them, he didn't calculate on this kind of winter.

John Hicks has secured the agency for the State of Michigan of the Howe Scale Co. The Howe Scales are now used by the U. S. government as the official standard.

The McGiberny Family a fine Instramental Concert Co., will appear here Feb. 5th and 6th under manager Stevens.

S. W. Temple has bought the brick house on the corner near the depot, and east of his lumber yard, people need not interfer this that he is going into the saloon business. He is giving the building a through over hauling and will fit it up expressly for a business office.

MISSPELLED WORDS

The most misspelled word in the language is "occurrence," if one is to judge from the results of three spelling examinations given to the last three freshmen classes at the Michigan College of Mines. In one examination, only one student in four spelled it correctly, and the average is one in three. The word with next honors is "preceding," misspelled by one half the students, and the next is "referring." "Separate" and "receive" are seldom misspelled, in comparison with the three mentioned, so that perhaps the schoolma'ams ought to focus some of the superfluous attention of their charges on "occurrence" and "preceding" for a while.

The "County Work" of the Y. M. C. A.

An organized county can maintain one or more rural-life engineers. The organization of counties began in 1900 and to day there are about eighty counties in twenty States organized. These counties are in charge of about 100 Y. M. C. A. county secretaries or rural-life engineers. Most of thes secretaries are college-trained men with an agricultural education. There are about 25,000 boys and young men in these county associations, and the work directly or indirectly affects the lives of 3,000,000 people in these rural communities.

This is the outcome of more than ten years of the hardest sort of toil, and it hardly blacks the map, yet the foundation for the greatest human conversation and reclamation work ever undertaken has been laid. Besides, the country as a whole, rurally, has been religiously, socially, and economically charted. In the New England and Middle Atlantic States rural initiative has practicially disappeared. The spirit is urban, even in the most remote country districts, and the presence of the large foreign element presents an added problem to country association work. According to the opinion of Mr Henry Israel, editor of Rural Manhood, the rural communities of the Middle Western and the Southern States hold the destiny of the United States in their hands for the next hundred years. Here rural power will be made to balance urban power before many many years.—From "The Rural Life Engineer and His Work," by David F. St. Clair, in the American Review of Reviews for January.

SMOTHERING SPELLS

Sour Stomach, Heart Burn

MRS. JAMES A. HALL, Box 36, Norris City, Illinois.

In October, 1910, we received a letter from Mrs. Hall, from which we make the following extracts:

"About twelve years ago my health began to fail. I couldn't eat anything without suffering for it. I had heart burn, sour stomach, palpitation of the heart, smothering spells, pains in my sides and back. In fact, I suffered all over, and a cough almost like consumption. Doctors failed to relieve me; in fact, they didn't seem to know what ailed me. I continued to grow worse until I was able to sit up only a part of the time. I had almost lost all hopes of ever being any better.

"But one day some one threw some books in at my door. I read them and found them to be Peruna books.

"They described my feeling so truly I sent at once and got a bottle and began taking it. You pronounced my ailment systemic catarrh, and gave me some advice.

"When I had taken two and one-half bottles I began to eat without suffering. I continued to improve.

"When I had taken eight I was like a new person. That was nine years ago.

"I think Peruna the greatest family remedy there is, for so many ailments are due to catarrhal trouble. I would advise any one afflicted with catarrh to take Peruna and I am sure it will leave."

In the Revised "Ills of Life" we have many similar testimonials which should interest sick people everywhere. Sent free by the Peruna Co., Columbus, Ohio.

People who object to liquid medicines can now obtain Peruna Tablets.

TOLD IN TECUMSEH.

A Resident Known to all Our Readers Relates an Experience.

Readers of the Herald have been told again and again of the merits of that reliable, time-proved kidney remedy—Doan's Kidney Pills. The experiences told are not those of unknown persons living far away. The cases are Tecumseh cases, told by Tecumseh people.

J. B. Smith, E. Chicago St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I was caused a great deal of suffering by pains in the small of my back. When the attacks were present it was all I could do to work. When stooping I became very dizzy and spots of fire seemed to flash before my eyes. I rested poorly and in the morning when I got up, was unrefreshed. I doctored and used various remedies but got no benefit until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. They made me feel like a different person, ridding me of the trouble. I gladly confirm my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Smith had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

A Difference in Working Hours.

A man's working day is 8 hours. His body organs must work perfectly 24 hours to keep him fit for 8 hours work. Weak, sore, inactive kidneys can not do it. They must be sound and healthily active all the time. Foley Kidney Pills will make them so. You cannot take them into your system without good results following. NEWS OF THE STATE

To Build "Community Hall."

EAST LANSING, MICH. — Acting according to the ideas of rural sociology as taught at the Michigan Agricultural college, ruralites a few miles north of here have organized to build a "community hall" as a measure to counteract the "to-the-city movement." Steps toward purchasing the land have already been taken.

One of the promulgators of the new move said: "We believe that our young people are going to be more contented with country life with such an institution as the neighborhood hall. It will keep them from the city, and they will have something to become interested in, and to plan for in the dances, socials, debates, lectures, literary and musical programs."

Says Purser Buncoed Her.

PORT HURON, MICH.—Miss Hermine Zanz, a young woman who came to McGregor, Mich., from Bremen, Germany, recently has retained an attorney to obtain the return of $50 from the steamship company.

The young woman alleges that when she boarded the steamer at Bremen to come to this country she gave $350 to the purser to keep for her until her arrival in America. Upon landing at New York she received her roll of money and came on to McGregor. She did not examine the money at the time. Among the bills was a $50 confederate bill which was substituted for a good bill and which was presented to one of the local banks. Miss Zanz did not know that the bill was valueless.

Decide for Eight-Hour Day.

KALAMAZOO, MICH. — Secretary William Kane, of the Michigan conference of bricklayers, plasterers and masons, announced that the unions throughout the state which for the last two weeks have been balloting on whether to adopt an eight-hour day instead of the nine-hour day, had voted almost unanimously in favor of an eight-hour day.

The order will become effective May 1. It will affect about 1,000 bricklayers throughout the state, the other 2,500 workingmen having for some time been on the eight-hour basis.

The Beginning of Football.

The first reference to what may possibly be the game of football is to be found in a proclamation of Edward II., 1314, when the people were forbidden "to hustle over large balls." The present name was first used in a statute of Edward III., 1347, when "football" in London streets was declared illegal. —London Reader.

THE HUSBANDS OF EDITH

By
GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON

Copyright by Dodd, Mead & Co.

"At the proper time the matter will be explained to the Rodneys—not at first, you know—and I'll be in a position to step into your shoes before the party returns to Paris. Afterward the whole trick will be exposed to the world, and she'll be a heroine."

"I'm absolutely paralyzed!" mumbled Brock.

"Brace up, old chap. I'm going to take you around to the Ritz at once to introduce you to my wife—to your wife, I might say. She'll be waiting for us, and take my word for it, she's in for the game. She appreciates its importance. Come now, Brock, it means so little to you, and it means everything to me. You will do this for me—for us?"

CHAPTER II.

Mrs. Medcroft.

FOR ten minutes Brock protested, his argument growing weaker and weaker as the true humor of the project developed in his mind. He came at last to realize that Medcroft was in earnest and that the situation was as serious as he pictured it. The Englishman's plan was unusual, but it was not as rattle brained as it had seemed at the outset. Brock was beginning to see the possibilities that the ruse contained. To say the least, he would be running little or no risk in the event of its miscarriage. In spite of possible unpleasant consequences, there were the elements of a rare lark in the enterprise. He felt himself being skillfully guided past the pitfalls and dangers.

"I shall insist on talking it over thoroughly with Mrs. Medcroft before consenting," he said in the end. "If she's being bluffed into the game I'll revoke like a flash. If she's keen for the adventure I'll go, Rox. But I've got to see her first and talk it all over"—

"'Pon my word, old chap, she's ripping, awfully good sort, even though I say it myself. She's true blue, and she'll do anything for me. You see, Brock," and his voice grew very tender, "she loves me. I'm sure of her. There isn't a nobler wife in the world than mine. Nor a prettier one either," he concluded, with pride in his eyes. "You won't be ashamed of her. You will be proud of the chance to point her out as your wife, take my word for it." Then they set out for the Ritz.

"Roxbury," said Brock soberly when they were in the Rue de la Paix after walking two blocks in contemplative silence, "my peace of mind is poised at the brink of an abyss. I have a feeling that I am about to chuck it over."

"Nonsense! You'll buck up when Edith has had a fling at you."

"I suppose I'm to call her Edith?"

"Certainly, and I won't mind a 'dear' or two when it seems propitious. It's rather customary, you know, even among the unhappily married. Of course I've always been opposed to kissing or caressing in public. It's so middle class."

"And I daresay Mrs. Medcroft will object to it in private," lamented Brock good naturedly.

"I daresay," said her husband cheerfully. "She's your wife in public only. By the way, you'll have to get used to the name of Roxbury. Don't look around as if you expected to find me standing behind your back when she says 'Roxbury, dear!' I shan't be there, you know. She'll mean you. Don't forget that."

"Oh, I say," exclaimed Brock, halting abruptly and staring in dismay at the confident conspirator, "will I have to wear a suit of clothes like that and an eyeglass and—and—good Lord! spats?"

"By Jove, you shall wear this very suit!" cried Medcroft, inspired. "We're of a size, and it won't fit you any better than it does me. Our clothes never fit us in London. Clever idea of yours, Brock, to think of it. And, here! We'll stop at this shop and pick up a glass. You can have all day for practice with it. And, I say, Brock, don't you think you can cultivate a—er—little more of an English style of speech? That twang of yours won't"—

"Heavens, man, I'm to be a low comedian too!" gasped Brock as he was fairly pushed on to the shop. Three minutes later they were on the sidewalk, and Brock was in possession of an object he had scorned most of all things in the world—a monocle.

Arm in arm they sauntered into the Ritz. Medcroft retained his clasp on his friend's elbow as they went up in the lift, after the fashion of one who fears that his victim is contemplating flight. As they entered the comfortable little sitting room of the suit a young woman rose gracefully from the desk at which she had been writing. With perfect composure she smiled and extended her slim hand to the American as he crossed the room with Medcroft's jerky introduction dinging in his ears.

"My old friend, Brock, dear. He has consented to be your husband. You've never met your wife, have you, old man?" A blush spread over her exquisite face.

"Oh, Roxbury, how embarrassing! He hasn't even proposed to me. So glad to meet you, Mr. Brock. I've been trying to picture what you would look like ever since Roxbury went out to find you. Sit here, please, near me. Roxbury, has Mr. Brock really fallen into your terrible trap? Isn't it the most ridiculous proceeding, Mr. Brock"—

"Call him, Roxbury, my dear. He's fully prepared for it. And now let's get down to business. He insists upon talking it over with you. You don't mind me being present, do you, Brock? I dare say I can help you out a bit. I've been married four years."

For an hour the trio discussed the situation from all sides and in all its phases. When Brock arose to take his departure, he was irrevocably committed to the enterprise. He was, moreover, completely enchanted by the vista of harmless fun and sweet adventure that stretched before him. He went away with his head full of the brilliant, quick witted, loyal young American who was entering so heartily into the plot to deceive her own friends for the time being in order that her husband might profit in high places.

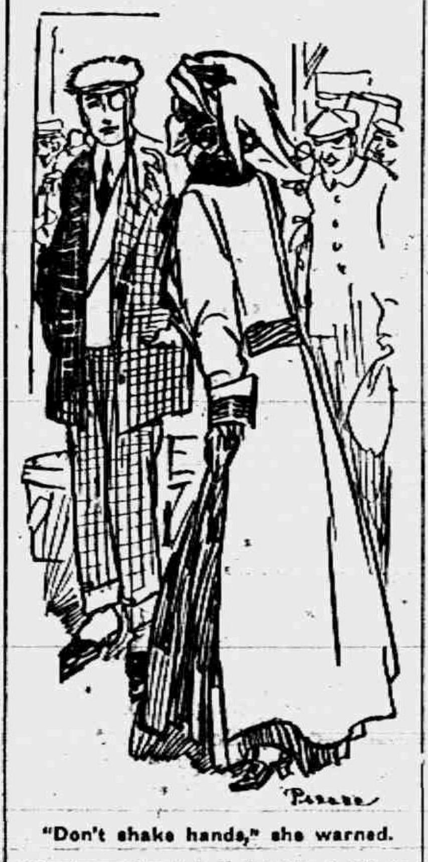
"She is ripping," he said to Medcroft in the hallway. All of the plans had been made and all of them had been approved by the young wife. She had shown wonderful perspicacity and foresight in the matter of details. Her capacity for selection and disposal was even more comprehensive than that of the two men, both of whom were somewhat staggered by the boldness of more than one suggestion which came from her fruitful storehouse of romantic ideas. She had grasped the full humor of the situation, from inception to denouement, and to all appearance was heart and soul deep in the venture, despising the risks because she knew that succor was always at her elbow in the shape of her husband's loyal support. There was no condition involved which could not be explained to her credit; adequate compensation for the merry sacrifice was to be had in the brief detachment from rigid English conventionality, in the hazardous injection of quixotism into an otherwise overly healthful life of platitudes. Society had become the sepulcher of youthful inspirations. She welcomed the resurrection. The exquisite delicacy with which she analyzed the cost and computed the interest won for her the warmest regard of her husband's friend, fellow conspirator in a plot which involved the subtlest test of loyalty and honor.

"Yes," said Medcroft simply. "You won't have reason to change your opinion, Brock." He hesitated for a moment and then burst out, rather plaintively: "She's an awfully good sort, demme, she is. And so are you, Brock. It's mighty decent of you. You're the only man in all the world that I could or would have asked to do this for me. You are my best friend, Brock—you always have been." He seized the American's hand and wrung it fervently. Their eyes met in a long look of understanding and confidence.

"I'll take good care of her," said Brock quietly.

"I know you will. Goodby, then. I'll see you late this afternoon. You leave this evening at 7:20 by the orient express. I've had the reservations booked, and—and"— He hesitated, a wry smile on his lips, "I daresay you won't mind making a pretense of looking after the luggage a bit, will you?"

"I shall take this opportunity to put myself in training against the day when I may be traveling away with a happy bride of my own. By the way, how long am I expected to remain in this state of matrimonial bliss? That's no small detail, you know, even though it escaped for the moment."



"Don't shake hands," she warned.

"Three weeks."

"Three weeks!" He almost reeled.

"That's a long time in these days of speedy divorces," said Medcroft blandly.

The Gare de l'Est was thronged with people when Brock appeared fully half an hour before departing time. In no little dismay he found himself wondering if the whole of Paris was going away or, on the other hand, if the rest of the continent was arriving. He felt a fool in Medcroft's unspeakable checked suit, and the eyeglass was a much more obstinate, untractable thing than he had even suspected it could be. The right side of his face was in a condition of semiparalysis, due to the muscular exactions required. He had a sickening fear that the scowl that marked his brow was destined to form a perpetual alliance with the smirk at the corner of his nose, forever destroying the symmetry of his face. If one who has not the proper facial construction will but attempt the feat of holding a monocle in place for unbroken hours he may come to appreciate at least one of the trials which beset poor Brock.

Every one seemed to be staring at him. He heard more than one American in the scurrying throng say to another, "English," and he felt relieved until an Englishman or two upset his confidence by brutally alluding to him as a "confounded American toady."

It was quite train time before Mrs. Medcroft was seen hurrying in from the carriage way, pursued by a trio of facteurs laden with bags and boxes.

"Don't shake hands!" she warned in a quick whisper as they came together. "I recognized you by the clothes."

"Thank God, it wasn't my face!" he cried. "Are your trunks checked?"

"Yes, this afternoon. I have nothing but the bags. You have the tickets? Then let us get aboard. I just couldn't get here earlier," she whispered guiltily. "We had to say goodby, you know. Poor old Roxy! How he hated it! I sent Burton and O'Brien on ahead of "The greatest trade depression at the present time," said Mr. Redfield, "is in England, Germany, Austria, Brazil, India and the Argentine. Leave aside the pitiful parables of the prophets for evil, who for political purposes preach national pain and ruin."

Mr. Redfield spoke encouraging of the expansion of foreign trade and also spoke warmly of the "new conscience" which he declared had been aroused among all classes of business men, but especially among the classes that has hitherto been referred to as the "pedatory rich."

BARONESS WAS RESORT INMATE

Dazzling Titled Woman Declared World's Most Dangerous.

PINKERTONS GIVE OUT RECORD

Baroness de Pallandt Was Nortorious Underworld Charactter and Swindler When She Obtained Title—Used Social Standing to Increase Gains—Brother Posed as Husband.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—A few days ago, in the high court of justice in London, a woman appeared to defend herself against a suit for $20,000. She was the Baroness de Pallandt, a woman known in social circles in many capitals of Europe.

The suit was brought by Dr. Ernest Villiers Appleby, a former professor of chemistry at the University of Minnesota. He seeks to recover $20,000 from the baroness. She obtained a necklace from a Paris jeweler on notes indorsed by him. He says the notes were fraudulently obtained. Previous to the suit, it is said, he spent $15,000 on her.

On taking the stand the Baroness de Pallandt denied the charge. Whereupon an attorney for Dr. Appleby stepped up to the baroness and showed her two photographs. The baroness, after gasping something about "blackmail," promptly was taken ill. Dr. Appleby is now waiting for her to recover so he may continue his suit. The professor and the baroness had been companions in their journeys in Europe and America.

This is the record of the baroness taken from the record of the Pinkertons, where she is down as "the most dangerous woman in the world."

In 1887 there lived in Menominee, Mich., a woman named Mrs. Sophie Dugas. She had two children, May and Jean. May at that time was seventeen years old.

During the following year May Dugas came to Chicago. Within a few months after her arrival she became an inmate of the resort of Carrie Watson. She was known there as "Pauline Davidson."

Fleeces Her Companion.

She remained there for one and one-half years. Then she came to Chicago in company of a wine agent. They went to New York. After fleecing her companion of all she could get, May left him. For a time she led a nortorious life there, later going to San Francisco to enter a dive run by Lellie Winters.

While in San Francisco she and Fannie Lyle were arrested on Oct. 24, 1889, for having administerad "knockout drops" to a male companion and afterward robbing him. May managed to obtain her release, but, believing her victim was going to die, sailed for China.

At Hongkong she was known as "Maud Jackson." Subsequently she visited all the large cities of the orient. It was said she was at that time "the most nortorious American woman in the far east."

Then She Meets the Baron.

She toured Europe and while in Germany she met the Baron de Pallandt, who was at that time master of hounds for the then Princess of Wales, now the Queen Mother Alexandra.

The baron married her. Through her husband's connection with the royal family the baroness was enabled to mingle as a social equal with members of many of the "blue blooded" families of England. She used the position to such good advantage in swindling the baron's friends, however, that he offered her $10,000 to get a divorce. Realizing the value of the title of baroness to her she refused to do this, though she consented to a separation.

Enter Her Brother Jean.

It was after this that her brother Jean took a hand in her operations. During the time she was in the underworld she had spent a part of her earnings in giving Jean an education at the University of Michigan.

He joined his sister in Europe. He was a partner to many and varied schemes of extortion, blackmail, and swindling in many European and American cities.

The "badger game" also was operated with much success, Jean posing as the husband.

One of the men who fell into her clutches, according to the Pinkerton records, was John D. Flynn, a wealthy mining man with interests in Mexico. It is said she managed to make his bank account poorer to the extent of $100,000.

In such fashion has the former innocent village girl of Menominee accumulated her money, her title, and her social position. Today she is reputed to have a fortune of not less than $750,000 and a controlling interest in one of the biggest hotels at Hot Springs, Ark.

She appears in the best society of the continent, and whenever she attends the opera wears $150,000 worth of jewelry. She travels with her brother, a maid, and fifteen trunks. She visits Chicago every other year and always stops at the best hotels here.

DE LA BARRA TO BE PRESIDENT?

Story Given Out That President Has Mexican Plan.

OBTAINS FAVOR OF CARRANZA

Report That Villa and Zapata Alone Stand in Way of Complete Agreement—Powers to Support Wilson—Huerta Allowed to Head Army "to Save His Face."

Washington, Jan. 26.—From a high Mexican source, the following is given out as President Wilson's Mexican program:

1. The voluntary retirement of President Huerta under pretext of taking charge of the federal army.
2. The elevation of Francisco de la Barra to the provisional presidency in Huerta's place.
3. The recognition of the de la Barra government as de facto in the hope that it will acquire sufficient strength to bring permanent peace to Mexico.

This is the plan which the president has been trying to work out since his conference with Special Envoy John Lind at Pass Christian.

De la Barra Acceptable.

Foreign powers with interests in Mexico are in touch with the United states and are now awaiting the outcome. De la Barra is acceptable to them as a provisional president.

Agents of both Mexico and the United States have sounded out General Carranza and he is for the de la Barra scheme or anything that will hasten the ousting of Huerta. He has exacted pledges that the reforms demanded by the northern states of Mexico will be carried out and that the good offices of the United States will be given to this end.

One stumbling block in the way of speedy peace is the attitude of General Villa and Zapata. These bandit chiefs are against any compromise but it is felt that they can be speedily won over as soon as Mexico is placed under a leadership that will have the recognition and backing of the United States.

U. S. to Protect Huerta.

The recent conferences at Vera Cruz between John Lind, Jesus Flores Magon and other prominent Mexicans have all been part of the plan to get Huerta to step down for de la Barra. Lind was authorized by President Wilson to assure Huerta that the power of this government would be used to protect his person if he relinquished the presidency.

Villa Delayed by Sickness.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 26.—Pancho Villa, leader of the rebels in northern Mexico, is indisposed. His doctors have forbidden him to see any one in Chihuahua. Complete rest has been demanded for the rebel leader before he sets out to take Torreon from the federals.

This may delay the campaign somewhat as Villa wishes personally to command when the fight is opened.

While commending his generals for their work at Ojinaga, he calls attention to the fact that the place fell at his first attack after he had arrived and taken personal charge and he does not want to take any chances at Torreon. Meantime, the rebels are being moved south to their base at Jiminez and even nearer Torreon.

St. Louis to Wreck Billboards.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 26.—Nearly 1,000 billboards in St. Louis must be torn down by next Friday noon or the city building commission will tear them down. The announcement was made by the commissioner. An ordinance regulating billboards has been upheld.

GRAFT MOUNTS INTO MILLIONS

O'Gorman Is Expected to Confirm Sulzer Story.

DEPOSED GOVERNOR STARTS IT

Contracts for Barge Canal, Catskill Aqueduct, and Highway Construction and Repairs Involved Expenditures of Nearly $375,000,000—Fraud and Thievery Written in Every Line.

New York, Jan. 26.—The prospect that United States Senator James A. O'Gorman may confirm the sworn testimony of former Governor William Sulzer, with respect to the attempt to extort $150,000 from James C. Stewart is the most significant feature to date of the investigation of highway, barge canal and aqueduct contracts.

Swindle Involves Millions.

The greatness of the prize which the organizers of the machine held before those whose aid they sought is astounding. The decision of the people of the state to build the barge canal at a cost of $101,000,000, New York's necessity forcing her to the expenditure of $161,000,000 for the Catskill aqueduct, the authorization of a bond issue of $50,000,000 for the construction and repair of the highways—these were the circumstances that fired the ambitions of those whose eyes were peeled for public plunder. The gigantic swindle was already well advanced when another bond issue of $50,000,000 was put through to feed the eager grafters.

Contracts Held Up.

Almost at the start of the "John Doe" inquiry in this city the fact was brought out that the Democratic organization campaigned as earnestly for the passage of the second $50,000,000 referendum as it did for control of political offices. One phase of the repair contracts for highways was the holding up of contractors already at work for alleged campaign contributions. One contractor has admitted bribing an official in the department to get his final payment.

As for barge canal contracts, the testimony to date is of the same general character as that given with respect to the highways.

It was an attempt to sell a [illegible] contract that brought Senator O'Gorman to the front of the investigation.

Sulzer Started It All.

In the aqueduct, the district attorney has given much attention, and startling information, much of it involving the name of James E. Gaffney, has been brought out. With the inquiry at its present stage and with former Governor Sulzer in the limelight again at the district attorney's side, it is a fact of grim significance that he actually started the whole investigation. He turned to an investigation of the state highways when he saw that he must fight Charles F. Murphy and the Democratic organization. Now the inquiry is at the stage where some of the biggest men in the Democratic party realize the whole political graft combine must go.

DR. KELLY SAILS FOR EUROPE

Radium Expert May Confer With Powers on Sale of Magic Metal.

New York, Jan. 26.—Dr. Howard A. Kelly, the Baltimore surgeon who has attracted wide attention through his remarkable cures by radium treatment, it is learned, sailed suddenly Saturday on the steamship Minnewaska for Europe.

A close friend of Dr. Kelly at Baltimore said he understood the trip was made for the purpose of conferring with foreign governments and experts on the regulation of the sale of radium.

MRS. HIGGINS PARTY TO HER OWN MURDER?

Friend Says She Died to Aid Daughter's Love.

Aledo, Ill., Jan. 26.—Of all the theories that have been advanced to account for the murder of Mrs. Nettie Higgins and the later confession and then repudiation of the confession on the part of her husband, Robert, the most amazing was advanced by a friend of the family, who contends that Mrs. Higgins asked her husband to kill her when she found that he was involved in a love pact with her daughter, Julia Flake. One significant fact is that Mrs. Higgins, although slain early in the morning, left her house in order as if she had prepared to go on a long journey.

"She was a weary, tortured woman who did not care to live longer in the tainted atmosphere of that home," declared a friend. "When she married Higgins she did so against the will of her friends and relatives. She turned from them and went with Higgins. Except for her husband and her daughter there was no one else for her to live for. Then she found that they had combined to betray her. From that moment on she did not want to live.

"She made her husband murder her as his punishment for his treachery. She believed he would take care of Julia. The alternative she held over him was the publication of his treachery."

Search resulted in discovery of Krebs' body on the roadside near Avalno. His neck had been broken Krebs was a farmer and was twenty-four years old.

No True Bill in Moyer Case.

Cabaret Minstrels

An event which should be of unusual interest to the theatre going public will take place in the form of the "CABARET MINSTRELS," to be produced by the Young Men's Club, under the direction of Mr. Harry Spaulding, a professional stage director. The idea of "CABARET MINSTRELS" is new and the effect is startling and original. The first setting is of a fashionable cabaret restaurant, and the stunts which take place are extremely funny. The jokes which will be used are all new and the songs are catchy and many novel effects are introduced.

In the OLIO a Vaudeville program will be used and will consist of SONGS, MONOLOGUES, and DANCES. One of the big features will be the song

"THE GOOD SHIP MARY ANN"
BY
MISS BONNIE BROWN AND CHORUS

The costumes are new and very fetching. The last number of the OLIO is a scream consisting of an automobile stunt by

Mr. 'Cork' Smith

Among the soloists are

Don Heesen Ralph Smith Don Smith
Eslie Marsh Chas. Hanna Fred Dickinson
Ernest Church Mrs. Dale Hodges will sing in tableau and a male quartette will be used in the first part.

WHIRLING BODIES

They Invariably Tend to Point to the Pole Star.

SCIENCE AND SPINNING A TOP.

That the Earth Revolves on Its Axis May Be Proved by a Simple Experiment With the Gyrostat—Phenomena of Rapidly Revolving Objects.

Spinning a top is not always child's play, although it has generally been regarded as a juvenile sport. Once in England top whipping was practically ordered by law. There was a huge top formerly provided in every village to be whipped in frosty weather that the peasants might be kept warm by the exercise and out of mischief while they could not work. Shakespeare in "Twelfth Night" says, "His brains turn like a parish top." Ben Jonson in "New Inn" writes, "He spins like a parish top," and Beaumont and Fletcher have "dances like a town top and reels and hobbles." Evelyn, the diarist, speaking of the uses of willow wood, says that it was ordered that "the great town tops should be made thereof."

Of late years, however, science has taken a hand in spinning tops with fruitful results. From spinning tops we can learn many interesting and valuable things. For example, we can prove that the earth revolves on its axis and calculate at what speed.

The phenomena of spinning bodies are extremely interesting. If you throw your hat into the air, but without spinning it, it will fall perhaps on one side, perhaps on the other, but if you give it a spinning motion before sending it into the air it will always come down the same side down as it went up. The same thing is true of coins and in fact of all objects spun in this manner. A knife, if merely thrown into the air, may come down at any angle, but if held point down and sent spinning into the air it will on falling stick its point into the floor invariably.

Other bodies acquire rigidity when spun rapidly. Thus a piece of chain if placed on a wheel and made to revolve rapidly will form a perfect circle and if thrown off the wheel suddenly will roll across the table or the floor just like a solid hoop until its speed is diminished, when it will fall into a huddled mass.

It is a strange fact that spinning bodies always tend to point to the north star—the pole star. Gently, but firmly, they seem to tug at their moorings in an effort to assume the angle that will point them in that direction. Once they have attained it they do not vary.

If, now, you want to prove the rotation of the earth by means of a spinning top you can do so as follows: Provide yourself with a gyrostat capable of being driven by electricity so that it can run for twenty-four hours or more without stopping. Set this going and point it to the north or pole star. It will soon assume that direction. Now, as the axis of the top is pointed in a certain direction (say the north wall of the room) and stays there, without ever moving, this will be a guide to you to check off your observations. And as you watch you will notice that in six hours' time the top will point to the west and six hours later to the south, six hours later to the east, and at the conclusion of the twenty-four hours it will have completed the circle and will again be pointing due north. It will have completed the circuit of the four walls of the room.

What does this mean? It means that the room has revolved round the top, but as the room is fixed to the solid earth it implies that the whole earth has revolved round the top, which alone remained stationary. Consequently we have proved by this means that the earth has turned once round on its axis, and that it does so turn, and that the heavens remain still and stationary.

Many interesting astronomical discoveries have been made by the aid of spinning tops, and the facts obtained by their study have been applied to the rotation of heavenly bodies, the earth included, and the "wabble" of its axis has been calculated by this means. In many ways, therefore, the spinning top is a valuable scientific instrument. —Hereward Carrington in New York World.

Effect of a Dream.

"The happiest dream I can recall," said a successful business man, "was one I had ten years ago. In it I was with my good mother again, seated in the old home church. She placed her hand on my head and whispered, 'Son, I am proud of you.' That little statement has kept me out of wrongdoing more than all the sermons I have ever heard and, I think, has made me a better man."—Philadelphia Record.

Missing a Great Chance.

During an aviation meet in Chicago a professional pickpocket, who was locked up in jail pending trial, sent for the prosecuting attorney and begged to be released.

"But," said the P. A., "you picked a man's pockets. Of course you'll have to 'do some time.'"

"Well, sir," replied the prisoner, "I suppose you're right, and, to tell the truth, I don't mind the mere fact of being in jail; but, gee, it's fierce to be here during this aviation meet, with everybody looking up in the air!"—Everybody's.

They Court Death.

Steeplejacks are proverbially reckless—or apparently so—in their actions when engaged on their dangerous work. A laborer who was attached to one of these experts used commonly to take a midday nap wherever he might happen to be situated. His mates commonly found him on the top of a steeple or chimney stretched full length upon a single board, his arms dangling over its sides, fast asleep. A single lurch would have meant a fall of a couple of hundred feet, and therefore certain death, yet he treated this possibility with the utmost indifference. —Chicago Record-Herald.

WHAT IS A RESTAURANT?

Here's a Definition of the New York High Life Brand.

A restaurant is a place where you pay $4 for 15 cents' worth of food, accompanied by about $2 worth of light labor, light china and light music, which you have heard before. After leaving your hat with a Wall street syndicate you pay all the way from 10 cents to 25 cents for the privilege of getting it back and wearing it once more. The difference between a man and woman indeed today is quite simple. A woman pays $50 all at once for her hat, while a man pays $5 for his and $55 more in tip installments for storage at restaurants while he is vainly trying to obtain enough nourishment to sustain life between times.

The object of all restaurants is to furnish you with everything you want except nourishment. This is carefully extracted from all food before it reaches you.

Every restaurant nowadays has attached to it a homeless hotel and a drugless drug store, a newspaper stand, where you can buy a paper for not over twice what you can get it for across the street, and a box office dispensary, where you can get theater tickets for almost any night you don't want them at the same rates. Every restaurant also has a wine cellar which is filled with native cobwebs, European labels and California grape juice. —Life.

A TALE OF THE SEA.

Lucky Rescue of a Boy Who Was Lashed to the Branch of a Tree.

A sailor tells a tale of peril that is out of the ordinary. He was one of the crew of an English ship bound from British Guiana to Rio Janeiro. When off the mouth of the Parana river there came on a calm, followed by a dense fog.

At 10 o'clock in the morning there came out of the fog the voice of a human being, calling for help. A noise in a fog is very deceptive, and this one could not be located, but an answering "hello" was given.

Suddenly something struck the vessel on the port quarter, and it was made out to be a tree, and in its branches was a native boy, lashed to a limb and almost unconscious. The tree was caught with a rope and the boy taken on board.

It was half a day before he rallied enough to tell his tale. He and his father had been hunting twenty miles up the Parana river when a sudden freshet came down. Both climbed the same tree, but it was rooted up and carried down the river. The father tied his son to a limb with his loin cloth, but before he could thus protect himself the tree tilted over, and he was swept away. The boy had been floating three days and nights when he was picked up.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Our Longest River.

Our longest river is the Mississippi. There is no other stream within our borders that can stand a moment's comparison with the "Father of Waters." To be sure, there are some who claim that the really great river is the Missouri, that that stream is the main one, of which the Mississippi is only a tributary. But the claim is without foundation. The Missouri, from its source in the northwestern Rockies to its junction with the Mississippi at St. Louis, is a distinct stream from the one into which it empties near that point. It is quite true that from the headwaters of the Missouri to the gulf the distance is greater than it is from the headwaters of the Mississippi to the gulf, but in the one case it is two streams, in the other only one.—New York American.

The Dream Lion.

A Vienna professor is credited with saying that dreams are usually wish fulfillments. Maybe so. What about that childish dream in which the ferocious lion comes bounding along behind you, and you run as boy never ran before, and the lion closes the gap little by little, and then—all of a sudden—your legs grow limp and your muscles turn to water and your feet fray out, and the lion leaps—and you awake with a yell, if your voice isn't paralyzed, and everybody in the house wakes with you? — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Stingy King.

In the beginning of the eighteenth century the now so powerful German empire was nothing more than the little kingdom of Prussia, having just dropped its title of duchy of Brandenburg. The country was very poor and the military discipline very harsh. Frederick William I. was hard, cross and stingy and did not even know what it was to make a present. His reputation was so widely spread that it became a byword to say that a man had worked for the king of Prussia when he had done an unprofitable task.

CABARET MINSTRELS

Much interest is being manifested in the coming production of the Cabaret Minstrels by the Young Mens Club on Friday Jan. 30. Rehearsals are progressing very well and Mr Spaulding, the out of town director, says that he is very much pleased with the talent in Tecumseh and that it is a great deal above the average.

New songs are to be introduced; new jokes and original stunts are among the features of the show. The Cabaret idea is a new one in the minstrel field but it is startling and original and it is very entertaining. The first part opens with a regular Cabaret scene and the effects and action true to the original. Bonnie Brown opens the first part with a song in cabaret style.

The Olio will consist of entertainment in the style of vaudeville and every number is a winner. Dutch Heesen in a monologue; Cork Smith in an auto song that is a scream; Dode Tansley in a saxophone solo and Miss Edna Gaston in a charming solo and others. An orchestra of 15 pieces will play the accompaniments. Remember the date—Jan 30, Friday night. Prices 25, 35c and a few at 50c. Seat sale goes on at Hay's bakery Tuesday morning, Jan 27.

Illumination by Phosphorus.

Phosphorus is sometimes used for illuminating purposes, but the light is rather dim. The method is as follows, and it is serviceable when means of striking a light are not at hand: Take a long and narrow vial of the whitest and clearest glass, put in a piece of phosphorus about the size of a pea, upon which pour some olive oil heated to the boiling point; fill the vial about one-third full and then seal the vial hermetically. To use it remove the cork and allow the air to enter the vial, and then recork it. The empty space in the bottle will then become luminous, and the light obtained will be equal to that of a dull lamp. As soon as the light becomes weak its power can be increased by opening the vial and allowing a fresh supply of air to enter. In winter it is sometimes necessary to heat the vial between the hands to increase the fluidity of the oil. Thus prepared the vial may be used for six months.

Four Sons of Fame.

It is a rarity for more than one member of any family to become famous. Nature seems coy about centralizing in more than one scion of the same house enough of stamina, grit, genius and ability wherewith to cut a niche in the temple of fame. The exceptions to this rule are very few. The Pitts, the Adamses, the Van Burens and the Beechers have already been honored with this distinction, and to this roll of honor must be added the Fields. There is hardly a parallel case in history where four brothers attained such prominence as David Dudley Field, Henry M. Field, Cyrus W. Field and Stephen J. Field. These men were truly called four sons of fame, aye, and four brothers in fame.—Magazine of American History.

MRS JENNIE C. LAW HARDY

To the front with time and money for the Woman's Suffrage Cause in Michigan

Tecumseh certainly has an arden worker in the suffragist movement. One who does not confine herself to words alone, but by deeds that prove her earnest belief in the ultimate triumph of the cause, Mrs. Jennie C. Law Hardy at a late meeting held in Detroit offered to conduct and pay all the expenses of the next Woman's Campaign in Lenawee and Monroe Counties. She will engage the speakers, make the dates and work for the cause in every possible way for its final adoption. Mrs. Hardy is an eloquent talker, and with years of experience along this line of work, is very optimistic.

A number of women have given of their time and talent to the cause of the Women Suffrage movement in the state, but Mrs Hardy is the only one who has offered to stand the expenses of the Campaign. She is at present an officer of the Michigan Equal Suffrage Association where she is among busy workers always.

WHO WROTE THE BIBLE

SEVERAL years ago, when Vice President Marshall was plain Attorney Tom Marshall, of Indiana, a particularly seedy and down-at-the-heel individual eluded the office boy and the blonde stenographer and insinuated himself into the lawyer's back office.

"Mr. Marshall," he began glibly, in that bland professional manner that makes one long for the good old days of blood, "I've heard a great deal of you as a church-worker here, and I know you'll be interested in a new and absolutely up-to-date edition of the English Bible. Full morocco bound, hand-stitched, annotated," he hurried on, flipping the pages in his book, "and placed upon the market at a price which barely covers cost of publication, shipping, and—"

The attorney had been caught unawares at first, but now he found breath to inquire in his slow drawl, "Who wrote it?"

The other paused to study his victim condescendingly for a moment. "Why, I guess you didn't understand me, Mr Marshall," he explained pityingly. "This is a Bible."

"But I did understand," drawled the little man, his face calmly curious. "And I ask you, who wrote it?"

The agent shifted his feet uneasily, ran a suspicious eye over the man at the desk, felt of his collar, and cleared his throat in an annoyed way. "But, Mr. Marshall," he insisted patiently, "It's a Bible. Bible," he added hopefully. "Bible, you know."

"Who wrote it?" demanded the future Vice President, grave as a cast-iron monument of one of the early Christian martyrs.

The visitor's brow was moist now, and his eye searched the four corners of the room despairingly. With a last effort, he braced himself, looked at his man again, and, finding no encouragement there, retreated to the doorway. The knob under his fingers seemed to stir his faltering courage, for once more he threw back his shoulders and faced the man behind him.

"Why, you—fool," he shouted witheringly, "It's a Bible!"

The Chemical Detective.

Great is the chemist. A glue factory, which was proud of the sticking qualities of its glue, received many complaints that its glue was not sticking, and the manager believed it was not his product that was at fault, but glue made by some other concern and falsely represented to be his.

The chemist was asked to find a remedy. He made a slight change in the process of manufacture, so that when a certain chemical was applied to the glue any time after it had left the factory the glue would immediately change to a certain color. Salesmen were then given bottles of this chemical. Whenever they were told that their glue had failed they asked to see the faulty work and then dropped some of the chemical on the dry glue. If the proper color appeared it was their glue, otherwise it was a competitor's.

If the customer doubted the test the salesman could prove the fairness of it by trying it on any of his firm's glue. This stopped the complaints.—Saturday Evening Post.

Holding Thumbs For Nilsson.

My professional vocation has brought me up against almost every conceivable superstition, from Brignoli's stuffed deer's head to the more commonplace fetish against thirteen as a number. But I never saw any one more obsessed by an idea of this sort than Christine Nilsson. She actually would not sing unless some one "held her thumbs" first. "Holding thumbs" is quite an ancient way of inciting good luck. One promises to "hold one's thumbs" for a friend who is going through some ordeal, like a first night or an operation for appendicitis or a wedding or anything else desperate. Nilsson was the first person I ever knew who practiced the charm the other way about. Before she would even go on the stage somebody, if only the stage carpenter, had to take hold of her two thumbs and press them. She was convinced that the mystic rite brought her good fortune.—"Memoirs of an American Prima Donna," by Clara Louise Kellogg.

ESTIMATED FARM PRODUCTION OF 1913.

The following from the Agricultural Outlook contributed from the Bureau of Statistics Dec. 27, 1913, will be of much interest to our readers, and as 1914 opens up with so much promise we will hope that the report at the end of the year will not fall behind.

In monetary value of products the farms of the United States have broken the annual record, although the volume of production, as indicated in the secretary's report, was materially below the average. The total value for 1913 is $9,750,000,000, nearly one-half a billion dollars above the value for 1912; which was itself a record year.

This amount is composed of estimates for the items that make the census total of farm products. It is far from being equivalent to the total sales of farm products, but its items are the values of farm crops, of farm animals sold and slaughtered and of farmanimal products. A sum of such erements is to be accepted as an index number useful for comparison with numbers similarly made for other years. If the value of the products of the farm for the census year 1909 is regarded as represented by 100 the corresponding value for 1913 is represented by 115; or, if 100 represents the value of farm products for the census year 1899, the index number for 1913 is 207, indicating more than twice the value of the former year, 14 years earlier.

The crops of 1913 have been estimated value at the farm of $6,100,000,000, and this amount has never before been equaled. In 1909 the value of crops was about 5½ billions, and in 1899 it was 3 billions of dollars, or less than half of the crop value of 1913.

The estimated value of farm animals sold and slaughtered and of farm-animal products for 1913 is $3,650,000,000, or $100,000,000 above the amount of the record year 1910. It compares with 3 billions dollars for 1909 and with more than 1½ billions dollars in 1899. Within the last few years the value of farm animals sold and slaughtered and of farm-animal products for one year has tended to increase in a somewhat greater degree than that of farm crops.

Among the crops in order of estimated value we find that potatoes take 5th place in the United States.

The amount for 1913 was estimated at $228,000 on peing 13½ per cent above the average of the past five years.

From 3,669,000 acres the production was 332,000,000 bushels, only, on account of this low production, the price Dec. 1 was exceptionally high 68.7 cts the highest price for many years.

TRIALS OF AN EXPLORER.

Sickness and Agony That Livingstone Endured In Africa.

Writing on David Livingstone, missionary and African explorer, Sir Harry H. Johnston says in the British Geographical Journal: "During the winter or rainy season of 1868-9 Livingstone was very ill. He had been wet times without number and suffered from terrible pains in the chest and pneumonia. He was often semi-delirious and subject to delusions, such as that the bark of the trees was covered with figures and faces of men. He thought often of his children and friends, and his thoughts seemed almost to conjure them up before him. For the first time in his life he was being carried and could not raise himself to a sitting position. The Arabs were very kind to him in his extreme weakness, but the vertical sun, blistering any part of the skin exposed to it, tried him sorely in the day marches.

"In July, 1870, his feet were almost consumed with irritable, eating ulcers, pulsating with pain. * * * These sores were obviously communicated by mosquitoes from the blood of the wretched slaves who were tortured with them. Livingstone could fall asleep when he wished at the shortest notice. A mat and a shady tree under which to spread it would at any time afford him a refreshing sleep. But in his last years of travel sleep was often made sad by the realistic dreams of happy English life from which he wakened to find himself ill and consumed with anxiety that he might not live to complete his mission.

"After 1869 he suffered much from the results of the decay and loss of his molar teeth, so that imperfect mastication of rough African food induced severe dyspepsia, and his bodily strength weakened under a condition of permanent malnutrition. Stanley, by relieving him when he did, gave him at least two more years of life, a certain measure of happiness and the sweet consolation that he was not forgotten and that the magnitude of his discoveries was appreciated."

A Resident Known to all Our Readers Relates an Experience.

Readers of the Herald have been told again and again of the merits of that reliable, time-proved kidney remedy—Doan's Kidney Pills The experiences told are not those of unknown persons living far away The cases are Tecumseh cases, told by Tecumseh people.

J. R. Smith. E. Chicago St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I was caused a great deal of suffering by pains in the small of my back. When the attacks were present, it was all I could do to work When stooping. I became very dizzy and spots of fire seemed to flash before my eyes I rested poorly and in the morning when I got up, was unrefreshed. I doctored and used various remedies but got no benefit until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills They made me feel like a different person, ridding me of the trouble. I gladly confirm my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills."

"STARVING TO DEATH"

Was Mrs. Bell, of Florida, When She Began Taking Peruna.

"Yes, I was starving to death," said Mrs. Emma Bell, of Fort Pierce, Florida, Box 204, "when I began to take Peruna. I could not eat anything. If I swallowed anything it soured on my stomach. My stomach was very much swollen. My bowels acted as if I had acute dysentery. I was in great distress and pain. Three doctors had been employed, but gave me no relief. I was continually growing worse.

I Was In Despair.

"In my despair I caught at every straw. Picking up a newspaper I saw some account of Peruna. There was a testimonial from a woman who had been troubled much like myself. I concluded to try Peruna.

I Wrote to Dr. Hartman.

"At the same time I wrote to Dr. Hartman. He pronounced my case catarrh of the stomach and bowels. I soon began taking Peruna. At once I began to improve. After taking half a bottle my stomach was so improved that I could eat some."

I Began to Recover.

"Then this good housewife goes on to narrate in detail her rapid improvement and final recovery. She said, "After taking two bottles of Peruna I was strong enough to stand up to wash the dishes." When she began taking Peruna she weighed 102 pounds. After she had taken five bottles of Peruna she weighed 122 pounds. She concludes by saying that [illegible] well.

[illegible] Twelve Years Ago.

The letter from which the above quotations were made was received January 29, 1901. In a later letter, written September 11, 1904, she says, "I sing the praises of Peruna far and near [illegible] great deal in our vicinity [illegible] a bad place for catarrh. We have received letters from her since. The last time we heard from her, December 1912, she was still a friend of Peruna.

For other testimonials on catarrh of the stomach, see "Ills of Life," sent free. Address Peruna Co., Columbus, Ohio.

The stomach and bowels are lined with a mucous membrane. They are therefore subject to catarrh, the same as the nose and throat. Catarrh of the stomach and bowels will derange the functions of these organs. The stomach can no longer digest food. The food lying in the stomach, even for a short time, without digestion, immediately sours. The souring produces gas and irritation.

Food Sours In the Stomach

A portion of the undigested meal is absorbed into the system by the blood vessels of the stomach. This poisons the whole system, producing a condition now known as autointoxication; self poisoning. The fermenting, irritating mass, as it passes down into the bowels irritates the bowels, producing sometimes a chronic diarrhea, sometimes producing the very opposite, constipation.

The average dyspepsia medicine helps to artificially digest the food Even when such medicine does its work it is only temporary. A permanent relief can only be expected when the catarrh is overcome.

Symptoms of Catarrh of the Stomach

The symptoms of catarrh of the stomach are: First, heartburn. Second, food rises in throat after meals Third, sour stomach. Fourth, heavy feeling after eating. Fifth, stomach bloated, belching of gas. Sixth, palpitation of heart. Seventh, poor digestion, have dyspepsia. Eighth tongue coated light brown. Ninth, tenderness over pit of stomach. Tenth, cannot bear tight clothes around waist.

Many people suffer from weak hearts. They may experience shortness of breath on exertion, pain over the heart, or dizzy feelings, oppressed breathing after meals or their eyes become blurred, the heart is not sufficiently strong to pump blood to the extremities, and they have cold hands and feet, or poor appetite because of weakened blood supply to the stomach. me My sister brought them here in her carriage, and I dare say they're aboard and abed by this time. You didn't see them? But, of course, you wouldn't know my maids. How stupid of me! Don't be alarmed They have their instructions, Roxbury. Doesn't it sound odd to you?"

Brock was icy cold with apprehension as they walked down the line of wagons lit in the wake of the bag bearers. Mrs. Medcroft was as self possessed and as degagée as he was ill at ease and awkward. As they ascended the steps of the carriage she turned back to him and said with the most malicious twinkle in her eyes:

"I'm not a bit nervous."

"But you've been married so much longer than I have," he responded.

Then came the disposition of the bags and parcels. She calmly directed the porters to put the overflow into the upper berth. The garde came up to remonstrate in his most rapid French.

"But where is m'sieur to sleep if the bags go up there?" he argued.

Mrs. Medcroft dropped her toilet bag and turned to Brock with startled eyes, her lips parted. He was standing in the passage, his two bags at his feet, an aroused gleam in his eyes. A deep flush overspread his face. An expression of utter rout succeeded the buoyancy of the moment before.

"Really," she murmured and could go no further. The loveliest pucker came into her face. Brock waved the garde aside.

"It's all right," he explained. "I shan't occupy the—I mean, I'll take one of the other compartments." As the garde opened his lips to protest she drew Brock inside the compartment and closed the door. Mrs. Medcroft was agitated.

"Oh, what a wretched contretemps!" she cried in despair. "Roxy has made a frightful mess of it, after all. He has not taken a compartment for you. I'm—I'm afraid you'll have to take this one and—and let me go in with"—

"Nonsense!" he broke in. "Nothing of the sort! I'll find a bed, never fear. I daresay there's plenty of room on the train. You shan't sleep with the servants And don't lie awake blaming poor old Rox. He's lonesome and unhappy, and he"—

"But he has a place to sleep," she lamented. "I'm so sorry, Mr. Brock! It's perfectly horrid, and I'm—I'm dreadfully afraid you won't be able to get a berth. Roxbury tried yesterday for a lower for himself."

"And he—couldn't get one?"

"No, Mr. Brock. But I'll ask the maids to give up their"—

"Please, please don't worry, and please don't call me Mr. Brock. I hate the name. Good night! Now, don't think about me. I'll be all right. You'll find me as gay as a lark in the morning."

He did not give her a chance for further protest, but darted out of the compartment. As he closed the door he had the disquieting impression that she was sitting upon the edge of her berth, giggling hysterically.

CHAPTER III.

The Sister-in-law.

THE garde listened to his demand for a separate compartment with the dejection of a capable French attendant who is ever ready with joint commiseration and obduracy. No, he was compelled to inform monsieur the American (to the dismay of the pseudo Englishman) it would be impossible to arrange for another compartment. The train was crowded to its capacity. Many had been turned away. No, a louis would not be of avail. The deepest grief and anguish filled his soul to see the predicament of monsieur, but there was no relief

Brock's miserable affectation of the English drawl soon gave way to sharp, emphatic Americanisms. It was after 8 o'clock and the train was well under way. The street lamps were getting fewer and fewer, and the soft, fresh air of the suburbs was rushing through the window.

"But, hang it all, I can't sit up all night!" growled Brock in exasperated finality.

"M'sieur forgets that he has a berth. It is not the fault of the compagnie that he is without a bed. Did not m'sieur book the compartment himself? Tres bien!"

As the result of strong persuasion the garde consented to make "the grand tour" of the train de luxe in search of a berth. It goes without saying that he was intensely mystified by Brock's incautious remark that he would be satisfied with "an upper if he couldn't do any better." For the life of him monsieur the garde could not comprehend the situation. He went away, shaking his head and looking at the tickets, as much as to say that an American is never satisfied—not even with the best.

Brock lowered a window seat in the passage and sat down, staring blankly and blackly out into the whizzing night. The predicament had come upon him so suddenly that he had not until now found the opportunity to analyze it in its entirety. The worst that could come of it, of course, was the poor comfort of a night in a chair. He knew that it was a train of sleeping coaches. Ah! He suddenly remembered the luggage van! As a last resort he might find lodging among the trunks.

And then, too, there was something irritating in the suspicion that she had laughed as if it were a huge joke. Perhaps even now she was doubled up in her narrow couch stifling the giggle that would not be suppressed.

When the garde came back with the lugubrious information that nothing, positively nothing, was to be had it is painful to record that Brock swore in a manner which won the deepest respect of the trainman

"At 4 o'clock in the morning, m'sieur, an old gentleman and his wife will get out at Strassburg, their destination. They are in this carriage, and you may take their compartment if m'sieur will not object to sleeping in a room just vacated by two mourners who today buried a beloved son in Paris. They have kept all of the flowers in their"—

"Four o'clock! Good Lord, what am I to do till then?" groaned Brock, glaring with unmanly hatred at the door of the Medcroft compartment.

"Perhaps madame may be willing to take the upper"— ventured the guard timorously, but Brock checked him with a peremptory gesture. He proposed, instead, the luggage van, whereupon the garde burst into a psalm of utter dejection. It was against the rules, irrevocably.

"Then I guess I'll have to sit here all night," said Brock faintly. He was forgetting his English.

"If m'sieur will not occupy his own bed, yes," said the guard, shrugging his shoulders and washing his hands of the whole incomprehensible affair. "M'sieur will then be up to receive the customs officers at the frontier. Perhaps he will give me the keys to madame's trunks so that she may not be disturbed."

The hours crawled slowly by. He paced the length of the wriggling corridor a hundred times back and forth; he sat on every window seat in the carriage; he nodded and dozed and groaned and laughed at himself in the deepest derision all through the dismal night. Daylight came at 4. He saw the sun rise for the first time in his life. He neither enjoyed nor appreciated the novelty. Never had he witnessed anything so mournfully depressing as the first gray tints that crept up to mock him in his vigil. Never had he seen anything so ghastly as the soft red glow that suffused the morning sky.

"I'll sleep all day if I ever get into that d—d bed," he said to himself, bitterly wistful.

The customs officers had eyed him suspiciously at the border. They had evidently been told of his strange madness in refusing to occupy the berth he had paid for. Their examination of his effects was more thorough than usual. It may have entered their heads that he was standing guard over the repose of a fair accomplice. They asked so many embarrassing and disconcerting questions that he was devoutly relieved when they passed on, still suspicious.

The train was late, and at 5 o'clock he was desperately combating an impulse to leave it at Strassburg, find lodging in a hotel and then, refreshed, set out for London to have it out with the malevolent Medcroft. The disembarking of the venerable mourners, however, restored him to a degree of his peace of mind. After all, he reviewed, it would be cowardly and base to desert a trusting wife. He pictured her as asleep and securely confident in his stanchness. No, he would have it out with Medcroft at some later day.

He was congratulating himself on the acquisition of a bed—although it might possess the odor of a bed of tuberoses—when all of his pleasant calculations were upset by the appearance of a German burgher and his family. It was then that he learned that these people had booked le compartement from Strassburg to Munich.

Brock resumed his window seat and despondently awaited the call to breakfast. He fell sound asleep with his monocle in position, nor did it matter to him that his hat dropped through the window and went scuttling off across the green Rhenish fields. When next he looked at his watch it was 8 o'clock. A small boy was standing at the end of the passage staring wide eyed at him. Two little girls came piling, half dressed, from a compartment, evidently in response to the youngster's whispered command to hurry out and see the funny man. Brock scowled darkly, and the trio darted swiftly into the compartment.

He dragged his stiff legs into the dining car at Stuttgart and shoved them under a table. The car was quite empty. As he was staring blankly at the menu the conducteur from his car hurried in with the word that madam would not breakfast until 9. She was still very sleepy. Would M. Medcroft be good enough to order her coffee and rolls brought to her compartment at that hour? And would he mind seeing that the maid saw to it that Raggles surely had his biscuit and a walk at the next station?

"Raggles?" queried Brock, passing his hand over his brow. The other shrugged his shoulders and looked askance. "Oh, yes; I understand," murmured the puzzled one, recovering himself. For the next ten minutes he wondered who Raggles could be.

He had eaten his strawberries and was waiting for the eggs and coffee, resentfully eying the early risers who were now coming in for their coffee and rolls. They had slept. He could tell by the complacent manner in which their hair was combed and by the interest they found in the scenery which he had come, by tedious familiarity, to loathe and scorn.

The actions of two young women near the door attracted his attention. From their actions he suddenly gathered that they were discussing him—and in a more or less facetious fashion at that They whispered and looked shy and grinned in a most disconcerting manner. He turned red about the ears and began to wonder fiercely why his eggs and coffee were so slow in coming Then, to his consternation, the young women, plainly of the serving class, bore down upon him with abashed smiles. He noticed for the first time that one of them was carrying a very small child in her arms. As she came alongside, grinning sheepishly, she extended the small one toward the astounded Brock, and said in excellent old English:

She pushed the infant almost into Brock's face. He did not observe that it was a beautiful child and that it had a look of terror in its eyes. He only knew that he was glaring wildly at the fiendish nurse, the truth slowly

PACKERS FACING INDICTMENT

CHICAGO — The indictment of high officials of Swift & Co. and of the Ann Arbor railroad on charges of rebating was sought by the government before the federal grand jury. The evidence presented was such, it was intimated, that the grand jury might go so far as to indict individuals as well as the corporation. The alleged rebating, it is charged, occurred in connection with shipments of dressed beef and beef products by Swith & Co. to Owosso, Mich.

The practices charged were admitted by an official of Swift & Co., but he said that they resulted from an error that was corrected more than a year ago and restitution made.

Confessions obtained from certain men in the last year had enabled Mr. Marshall and his assistant to gain such headway in a criminal investigation. It is hinted that if one or two other men weaken and make confessions, indictments on several important men in the ring may come this week.

Watch Levee at Bakersfield.

With the Kern river out of its banks and rain still falling the situation at Bakersfield was regarded as critical early in the day. Closs watch is being kept on the levee there, which is in danger of breaking.

Sudden rise of the Kaweah river is threatening the inundation of 100,000 acres of grain near Hanford. The big Phillips ranch, near Hardwick, has been damaged by a levee break.

The backbone of the storm has been broken if the Tehachapi and the Sacramento and San Joaquin have cleared themselves of an overplus of water that for awhile caused fear for the safety of several towns.

At Sacramento the river climbed almost to twenty-eight feet, the highest since 1909. The lowlands of the Sacramento valley are covered with a veil of shallow water for miles.

GREAT CONFUSION IN U. S. TREASURY

WASHINGTON — That the accounts of the treasury department are so muddled and its bookkeeping so far behind that the government is in constant danger of serious monetary loss, even if such loss has not already occurred, has developed at the executive hearings of a subcommittee of the house appropriations committee in charge of the legislative appropriation bill.

Representative Good of Iowa said there were discrepancies of several millions in the ledger balances and accounts with national banks.

The office force of John Burke, the treasurer of the United States, is so overwhelmed by bookkeeping work that it is impossible to strike a treasury balance, and chaos exists.

WILSON AND SENATORS TALK

Impression Gains That President Will Land Troops in Mexico.

WASHINGTON—Following after a conference at the White House between the president and the members of the senate committe on foreign relations, there were strong intimations that this government is on the verge of making some new move in regard to the Mexican situation.

The members of the senate committee left the White House under pledge not to disclose what had passed at the conference, but the impression is that the president will be obliged soon to land troops in Mexico.

FRISCO DIRECTORS SUED FOR MILLIONS

Charged They Unlawfully Paid Out $14,000,000.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—Suit to recover more than $14,000,000 was filed in the United States district court here by the receivers against ten men who were directors of the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad in 1910. The men named in the suit are:

B. F. Yoakum, chairman of the Frisco directorate at the time of the receivership; James Campbell, president of the North American company, which brought the receivership suit: William K. Bixby, now a receiver of the Wabash; C. H. Hilliard, former vice president of the Frisco; B. L. Winchell, former president of the Frisco; E. V. R. Thayer, A. S. Grieg, Frank Trumbull, Thomas H. West, chairman of the board of directors of the St. Louis Union Trust company; Hans Winterfeldt.

The suit is based on the sale of the St. Louis, Brownsville and Mexico railroad to the Frisco. The petition charges that the men named as defendants unlawfully have caused the Frisco to pay out $14,408,921, without anything of value having been received in exchange; and that they carelessly and without lawful authority caused a large debt to be created against the Frisco company without the company having received adequate value in exchange.

GRAFT IS MILLIONS

O'Gorman Is Expected to Confirm Sulzer Story.

DEPOSED GOVERNOR STARTS IT

Contracts for Barge Canal, Catskill Aqueduct, and Highway Construction and Repairs Involved Expenditures of Nearly $375,000,000—Fraud and Thievery Written in Every Line.

NEW YORK—The present prospect that United States Senator James A. O'Gorman may confirm the sworn testimony of former Governor William Sulzer, with respect to the attempt to extort $150,000 from James C. Stewart is the most significant feature to date of the investigation of highway, barge canal and aqueduct contracts.

Swindle Involves Millions.

The greatness of the prize which the organizers of the machine held before those whose aid they sought is astounding. The decision of the people of the state to build the barge canal at a cost of $101,600,000, New York's necessity forcing her to the expenditure of $161,000,000 for the Catskill aqueduct, the authorization of a bond issue of $50,000,000 for the construction and repair of the highways—these were the circumstances that fired the ambitions of those whose eyes were peeled for public plunder. The gigantic swindle was already well advanced when another bond issue of $50,000,000 was put through to feed the eager grafters.

Contracts Held Up.

Almost at the start of the "John Doe" inquiry in this city the fact was brought out that the Democratic organization campaigned as earnestly for the passage of the second $50,000,000 referendum as it did for control of political offices One phase of the repair contracts for highways was the holding up of contractors already at work for alleged campaign contributions One contracter has admitted bribing an official in the department to get his final payment.

As for barge canal contracts, the testimony to date is of the same general character as that given with respect to the highways.

It was an attempt to sell a barge contract that brought Senator O'Gorman to the front of the investigation.

Sulzer Started It All.

In the aqueduct, the district attorney has given much attention, and startling information, much of it, involving the name of James E. Gaffney, has been brought out. With the inquiry at its present stage and with former Governor Sulzer in the limelight again at the district attorney's side, it is a fact of grim significance that he actually started the whole investigation. He turned to an investigation of the state highways when he saw that he must fight Charles F. Murphy and the Democratic organization. Now the inquiry is at the stage where some of the biggest men in the Democratic party realize the whole political-graft combine must go.

NEWS OF THE STATE

Bathless Husband Is Sued.

ANN ARBOR, MICH.—The fact that George Hurrell, her husband, with whom she became acquainted through an advertisement in an Indiana matrimonial paper, had not taken a bath for two years, and that the night of their wedding he insisted on sleeping in his trousers and shoes, was part of the testimony given by Bella Hurrell before Judge Kinne in her suit for divorce.

Mrs. Hurrell, who was the widow of Eugene Seaver of Chicago, formerly kept a boarding house in Chicago at 500 Spring street.

"Titled" Pair Must Leave.

DETROIT, MICH.—The local immigration officials have been notified by the department of labor at Washington to deport "Count" Stanislaus Sokolowski and "Baroness" Marie Stableski, now in jail in Detroit, the former charged with bringing the latter to this country for immoral purposes. They will be sent back to Russia on the steamer Pennsylvania. This vessel brought the couple to this country. It is the contention of the department of labor that the steamship company must take the couple back to Russia at its own expense.

Robber Gets Fifteen Years.

LAPEER, MICH.—Edward W. Curiston, a former convict, was sentenced to from seven to fifteen years at Jackson for beating and robbing George W. Bush, a Davidson farmer, several weeks ago. Curiston, who had invited Bush to spend the night with him, admitted that he lay awake planning how to get his guest's money and then when Bush became suspicious followed him to the street and beat him until he was apparently dead.

Spanks Pupil and Quits Job.

PLEASANT, MICH.—A school district in Fremont township is without a teacher, and the pupils are enjoying a vacation since Charles Banks, who was teacher, tiring of the paper throwing and door banging of one of his fifteen-year-old boys, gave Bernard Foster, a trouncing with a gad furnished by the school boars.

He was arrested by the elder Foster on a charge of cruelly punishing Bernard.

U. S. Court Disallows Claims.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—Two of the eleven claims filed against the bankrupt Standard Contract company were disallowed by United States Judge Sessions. VOMITING RESTORES MIND

Contractor, Thought Hopeless Idiot, Regains Reason After Year.

MORENCI, MICH.—This village has just learned of one of the most remarkable cases in the annals of the medical profession in this section of the state—a case of violent vomiting bringing back the memory of a man after it had been a total blank for a year and he was believed to be a hopeless idiot. Herbert Young, of this village, was a builder and contractor in Toledo, and a year ago while engaged in erecting a building in that city, was struck on the head with a brick. His mentality was injured and since that time he has behaved much like an idiot, sitting on the floor and playing like a child, and not being able to talk nor even recognize the members of his family.

Last week he was taken with a violent vomiting spell, which lasted until the next day, when he fell into a deep sleep, from which he could not be awakened. A day later he awakened and his mind was perfectly clear, but he was still unable to talk. He took paper and pencil, however, and communicated in that manner with his wife. He did not know he had been sick and did not remember a thing that transpired during the long period that his mind had been a blank. Gradually, however, recollections began to come back to him of his working in Toledo and meeting with an accident.

"Labby's" Prank at Eton.

Thorold, in his "Life of Labouchere," tells this story of young "Labby" while he was at Eton:

"While the old chapel was being restored a temporary chapel of wood and iron was run up. The corrugated iron roof made the heat intolerable during the summer months, so Labouchere hit upon a plan to put a stop to the nuisance of 'chapel in the shanty.' One boy was to pretend to faint and four others were to carry him out. A fifth was to follow bearing the hats of the performers.

"The plan worked admirably. The service was brought to a temporary stop, and the boys as soon as they were outside scampered merrily off and procured some agreeable refreshment. The repetition of this comedy, of course, aroused the suspicion of the masters, but, nevertheless, like many of Labouchere's intrigues in later life, it produced eventually the desired effect. There was no more chapel during the hot weather until the restoration of the old chapel was complete."

Scene from Rupert Hughes' big comedy "Excuse Me," which will be the attraction at the Bradley Opera House, Friday, February 6th.

DISEASED THOUGHT.

When You Realize That Is What Worry Is You Have It Mastered.

Concentrated thought is virtually irresistible. All the vast edifice of modern science and industry is obviously the product of thought, much of it of our own time and observation. The birth of an idea in the human mind is clearly the one and only dawn of empires and revolutions, of engines, philosophies, trade routes, civilization.

To class worry under the head of thinking, therefore, seems a glaring sacrilege. Yet worry is thought, for all that—diseased, impure, adulterated thought. It means an admixture of emotion, of the worst of all emotions—fear—into one's thinking. Instead of concentrated, clear, serene thinking on the problem in hand, worry is thinking muddled black with fear. It is about as helpful as clapping the brakes upon wheels toiling uphill.

Yet all the world is laboring under that Egyptian heaviness of the wheels, and almost every spirit is a spirit in the dark prison of fear. But once we grasp this truth clearly, once we convince ourselves that we can rid our thought of emotionalism, of fear, the day of our deliverance is at hand. And the substitution of encouraging, healthy thought, of new channels among the worn ruts, is a powerful aid.

There may be failures and backslidings, as is customary in all mortal effort and human endeavor. But fear is weakened like a choking thing, and more and more clear and unimpeded becomes our thinking, for we realize at last, once for all, that where thinking cannot help us fear certainly will not. And then we have worry by the throat.—Collier's Weekly.

All Alike.

Miss Agnes Repplier tells in the Atlantic a story about a New York social worker, a woman of earnest character and intelligent methods, who had worked hard to establish respectable dance halls for poor girls. The woman had delivered an address at a meeting. A young married woman of a wealthy and fashionable set inquired whether the girls for whose welfare the work was being conducted never stayed at home. "Never," replied the speaker, "and you will pardon me for saying it, neither do you."

Easy Bravery.

Jinks—From what you told me of your mother-in-law I should think you'd have heard enough from her in person, without having cared to induce her to talk into your phonograph. Filkins—Oh, you can't imagine the pleasure it gives me to start the machine going and then shut it off right in the midst of a sentence.—Puck.

A Human Habit.

"There is one paradoxical thing which we all do."

"What is that?"

"We long for things when we are short."—Baltimore American.

MOTORISTS TENDENCY TOWARD $1000 CARS.

Chicago Show Reveals Popularity of Inexpensive Cars.

"The Chicago Automobile show has been a great success from all angles" says President Fred W Haines of the Regal Motor Car Co. "It proved absolutely that the modern car of popular price with its power, conveniences and good looks is the car that will double its sales the coming season.

The owner driver now can secure in a medium priced car all that is essential to his requirements and comfort. I believe that the high powered and "big-as-a-house" machine has had its day.

It has taken the industry some years to accomplish the production of such a car value but the time has arrived when a man can buy a car that is capable of giving entire satisfaction at a reasonable cost.

The sale of popular priced automobiles will increase 100 per cent in the year 1914, I believe, and the car that has the biggest sale will sell around the $1000 mark."

Snowball Showers.

More than one explorer in cold climates has noted the curious phenomenon of a "snowball shower." The balls, it is true, are not very big, the average being about the size of a hen's egg, but they are true snowballs for all that—compressed globes of snow, not little lumps of ice or hail. A fall of the kind occurred in north London in March, 1859, and at the time it was observed that the balls seemed five times as dense and compressed as ordinary snow and in no way to be told from the usual handmade missles. They had fallen during the night and were strewn many layers thick over a very large area. No cause—except a doubtful electrical one—can be ascribed for the strange phenomenon, and mountaineers are apt to discredit the stories of snowball showers told them by the old guides till suddenly in the midst of an ordinary storm they find themselves assailed as though by myriads of mischievous schoolboys.—London Standard.

The Grave of Cecil Rhodes.

"The grave of Cecil Rhodes, I think, is the most remarkably silent place I have ever visited," says Mr. Ambrose Pratt in his book, "The Real South Africa." "It is a serious though inspiring, somber, forbidding and desolately grand place. While one stands gazing at the tomb scores of lizards, blue, green and gray, crawl from the crevices among the rocks and steal like brilliant phantom streaks across the tor. They are almost fearless of intruders, but they make no sound. Sometimes the distant shrilling of cicadae wounds the stillness with a faint yet piercing dagger thrust of song. But soon and always the eternal hush returns, and silence reigns supreme again. The world is full of great tombs, vast and awe inspiring, but there is neither pyramid nor tomb nor monument in all the world which can equal that of Rhodes' sleeping place in simplicity and majesty."

EXCUSE ME !

"EXCUSE ME," Rupert Hughes' comedy, which S. T. King presents here is a genuine farce with all the accessories this form of entertainment assumes.

The play derives its title from the apologetic frame of mind in which the passengers of the Overland Limited find themselves through the restriction of space and other impediments to perfect comfort. The story is interesting, the incidents and accidents of the journey are most amusing, and the humor is derived largely from the types presented, characters familiar to all.

The American palace coach, with its magnificent appointments, uniformed staff and usually aristocratic company, affords amusing material of which Robert Hughes, the author, has availed himself. There is much to satarize in pullman car experiences on an American railroad, not merely such caricatures as are derived from the porter, conductor and brakeman, but far more carled sarcasms as are evolved from the behavior of the passengers, men and women of many minds.

There are three acts, all the incidents taking place on a train speeding from Chicago to Reno. The passengers are seen as they board the car, find their places and get settled for a three days trip. In a performance such as this play demands, much depends upon the artists enacting the different roles. S T King has exercised great care in the selection of the cast and has secured a particularly clever aggregation of entertainers.

The stage settings of "EXCUSE ME" are something new for Tecumseh theatre goers. Instead of the regular class of settings each act is the interior of different cars on the Overland Limited and the stage settings represent the interior of these cars.

"EXCUSE ME" will be at the Bradley Opera House, next week Friday, February 6.

HISTORIC NOTRE DAME.

Checkered Career of the Wonderful Parisian Cathedral.

Some account of the history and vicissitudes of Notre Dame appears in the London Strand Magazine. The first cathedral was erected in the year 528 by Childebert and afterward demolished, the same site being used for the present building, which was begun in 1163 and finished in 1351.

Alexander III. laid the foundation stone, the first mass being celebrated by the patriarch Heraclius. The grand old building has been sorely beset by many dangers and has witnessed many strange and stirring scenes.

The reign of terror in 1793 led to such disgraceful orgies within the precincts of the cathedral that it was closed to the public as a place of divine worship in 1794, but was reopened in 1802 by Napoleon. The interior has suffered severely at times at the hands of the mob and individuals. The worst offender was perhaps Louis XIV., who, carrying out his father's vow, caused the destruction of the fourteenth century stalls, the high altar embellished with gold and silver statuettes, the cloisters, tombs and unique stained glasswork. In 1845 restoration was necessary in many parts of the building, the work being successfully undertaken by Lassus, Viollet le Duc and Boeswillwald.

In 1871, also during the commune, Notre Dame was menaced with grave dangers owing to the fury of the communists, who, having effected an entrance, collected all the available chairs and other combustible material and, piling them in a bonfire, drenched with oil in the center of the choir, attempted to destroy the cathedral by fire. The evil designs of the incendiaries were, however, happily frustrated by the arrival of the national guard.

35 YEARS AGO

Spragues Georgia Minstrels had a crowded house last night. This troupe does not indulge in the vulgarity that makes many minstrel shows, the entire programe is perfectly chaste, but running over with fun and nonsence. If a man has a bit of the blues the best medicine he can take is to go and hear one of these concerts. Come again gentleman whenever your route falls in this latitude.

Evening News—Is Lenawee County to again become a howling wilderness? a few weeks ago a deer was chased through the corporation limits of Clinton, then a fox invested Hudsons a wolf was shot at Fairfield, Owls hoot at Tecumseh, and not long ago a black bear was driven out of Adrian.

The Whist Club of Tecumseh is in a prosperous condition.

The Mystic Jewel has arrived at last whereat many Odd Fellows in these parts will rejoice. Not sold this time.

D. A. Dodge wife and daughter of Waterloo Iowa have been spending several days with Philo C Mills Esq They expect to return next week.

Deacon Adams in his late will made a bequest of $1,000 to the Baptist Church of Tecumseh. He has been a zealous and active worker of this Church for many years.

A tea party was given by Miss Lula Lilley at her fathers residence last Thursday evening. A good company assembled and all present passed a pleasant evening.

H. Brewer and Co shipped off just 60 tile machines during the year 1878, They are now getting out their annual edition of postal cards and pamphlets for circulation. 1879 bids fair to eclipse any previous year in this branch of their business.

L. F. Wheeler has nearly completed the Scenery at the Opera House. Several new scenes will be used in "Ambrose Gwinett" next Tuesday evening. Amprose Gewinett and the Magic Horn will be a good show as sure as your born.

AN INCESSANT COUGH.

A severe cough is always a grave symptom. It may not indicate organic disease of the lungs. Even though the cough is a functional disturbance it is of sufficient gravity to demand prompt attention.

The dropping of mucus from the back part of the nose into the throat indicates nasal catarrh. Sometimes this goes on a long time before the patient pays any attention to it. It is stated on good authority that mucus dropping into the throat in this way is apt to excite catarrh of the stomach. At any rate, the condition ought to be corrected as soon as possible.

Mrs. Bourland, of Frankston, Texas, found after using Peruna that not only did the incessant cough disappear, but the dropping of mucus into the throat had also ceased. Read what she says:

"For twenty-three years I was a constant sufferer from chronic catarrh. I had a severe misery and burning in the top of my head. There was almost a continual dropping of mucus into my throat, which caused frequent expectoration. My entire system gradually became involved, and my condition grew worse. I had an incessant cough and frequent attacks of bilious colic, from which it seemed I could not recover. My bowels also became affected, causing alarming attacks of hemorrhages.

"I tried many remedies, which gave only temporary relief, or no relief at all. I at last tried Peruna, and in three days I was relieved of the bowel derangement. After using five bottles I was entirely cured.

"I most cheerfully recommend the use of Peruna to any one similarly afflicted."

People who object to liquid medicines can now obtain Peruna tablets.

TOLD IN TECUMSEH.

A Resident Known to all Our Readers Relates an Experience.

Readers of the Herald have been told again and again of the merits of that reliable, time-proved kidney remedy—Doan's Kidney Pills. The experiences told are not those of unknown persons living far away. The cases are Tecumseh cases, told by Tecumseh people.

J. B. Smith, E. Chicago St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I was caused a great deal of suffering by pains in the small of my back. When the attacks were present, it was all I could do to work. When stooping I became very dizzy and spots of fire seemed to flash before my eyes. I rested poorly and in the morning when I got up, was unrefreshed. I doctored and used various remedies but got no benefit until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. They made me feel like a different person, ridding me of the trouble. I gladly confirm my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Smith had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

ANOTHER CUTS IN ON FORD PROFIT MONEY

Court Orders Employe to Increase Wife's Payments.

DETROIT, MICH.—"Any man that is now working for Henry Ford can afford to pay his wife $12 a week alimony," Judge Lacy of the domestic relations court said. "I believe the Ford employes should show the same generosity towards those depending on them that Mr. Ford shows to his employes."

Enus Sullivan had been ordered to do a little profit sharing himself by increasing the amount of alimony he was paying his wife from $4 to $12 a week, the reason being that the court took judicial notice of the fact that he was an employe of the Ford Auto company factories and gets a minimum wage of $5 a day.

"But the new rate of wages for my client has not started yet," Sullivan's attorney said. "Yes, it has started," Judge Lacy said. "The amount is growing in the books of the Ford factory even if Sullivan has not received the cash. He will get the money, all right. Henry Ford says so."

WRECK ON MICHIGAN CENTRAL KILLS FOUR

Score More Are Injured Near Jackson, Mich.

JACKSON, MICH.—Four persons are dead and a score injured as the result of a head-on collision between a passenger train and a freight train on the Saginaw division of the Michigan Central railroad three miles north of here. A misunderstanding of train orders is believed to have been responsible for the accident.

The dead are: Cal Johnson, Jackson, engineer on passenger train, and the following passengers: S. W. Cochran, Lansing, Mich., Theodore Scroogie, Owosso, Mich., and J. B. Beck of this city.

Although a relief train was rushed from this city, it was three hours and fifty minutes after the crash when the first victim was removed from the wreckage. So great was the force of the collision that the smoking car was telescoped over the baggage car, one car completely enveloping the other.

The cries of the mangled and helpless victims within the car were plainly heard by the rescuers long before the relief corps was able to penetrate the twisted and jammed wreckage.

FREEZE COSTS $25,000 LOSS

Pipes Clogged With Ice and Fire Rages at Trout Creek.

MARQUETTE, MICH.—Six or seven buildings at Trout Creek, west of here were destroyed by fire of an undetermined origin. The loss is estimated at $25,000. The fire started in a general store, spreading to a grocery store, a hotel, a poolroom, and an unoccupied building and the opera house.

The town was without fire protection, the pumps of the waterworks freezing up the night before.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—Whole congregation of the Lyon Street Church of Christ was awe-stricken when Rev. William Verner Nelson picked up a small Bible and tore it into bits, scattering them on the heads of the parishioners.

beating its way into his be-addled brain. For a full minute he stared as if petrified. Then, administering a sickly grin, he sought to bring his wits up to the requirements of the extraordinary situation. He lifted his hand and mumbled: "Come, Raggles! I haven't a biscuit, but here, have a roll, do. Give me a—a kiss!" He added the last in most heroic surrender.

The nurse and the maid stared hard at him. The baby turned in affright to cling closely to the neck of the former.

"Good Lord, sir," whispered the nurse, with a nervous glance about her, "this ain't Raggles, sir. This is a baby."

"Do you think I'm blind, madam?" whispered he savagely. "I can see it's a baby, but I didn't know there was to be one. Its father didn't mention it to me."

"It's a wise father that knows his own child," said the nurse, with prompt sarcasm.

"I think they should have prepared me for this," growled he. "Is it supposed to be mine? Does—does Mrs. Medcroft know about it?"

"You mean about the baby, sir? Of course she does. It's hers. Please don't look so odd, sir. My word, sir, I didn't know you didn't know it, sir! I wasn't told, was I, O'Brien? There, sir, you see! Mrs. Medcroft said I was to bring Tootles in to you, sir. She said"—

"Tootles?" murmured Brock. "Tootles and Raggles. I dare say there's a distinction without much of a difference. Are you Burton?"

"Yes, Mr. Medcroft. The nurse. Won't you take baby for a minute, sir? Just to get acquainted and for appearance's sake." She whispered the well meant entreaty. Brock, now well into the spirit of the situation, obligingly extended his arms. The baby set up a lusty howl of aversion.

"For God's sake, take him back to his mother!" groaned Brock hastily. "He doesn't like strangers! Take him away!"

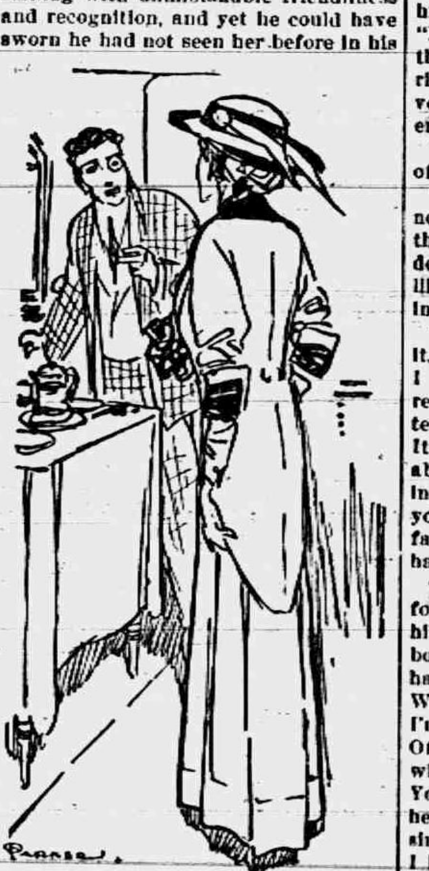
"It isn't a he, sir," whispered the maid as the nurse prepared to beat a hasty retreat with the Medcroft offspring. "It's a her, sir."

Brock's face was a study in perplexity as they hurried from the car.

"By George!" he muttered. "What next?"

That which did come next was even more amazing than the unexpected advent of Tootles. He barely had recovered his equanimity—with his coffee—when a young lady entered the car. That of itself was not much to speak of, but what followed was something that not even he could have dreamed of if he had been given the chance. He afterward recalled in some distress of mind that his second quick glance at the newcomer developed into little less than a rude stare of admiration. Small wonder, let it be advanced in his defense.

She was astoundingly fair to look upon—dazzlingly, it might be said, with some support to the adjective. Moreover, she was looking directly into his eyes from her unstable position near the door. What was more, a shy, even mischievous, smile crept into her face as her glance caught his. Never had he seen a more exquisite face than hers. Never had he looked upon a more perfect picture of grace and loveliness and—aye—smartness. She was smiling with unmistakable friendliness and recognition, and yet he could have sworn he had not seen her before in his life. As if he could have forgotten such a face! A sudden sense of enchantment swept over him, indescribable yet delicious.



"Good morning, Roxbury," she said.

She was coming toward him, still smiling shyly, her lips parted, as if she were breathing quickly from fear or another emotion. He set down his coffee cup without regard to taste or direction, his gaze fixed upon the trim, slender figure in blue. He now saw that her dark eyes were filled with a soft seriousness that belied her brave smile. A delicate pink had come into her clear, high bred face. The hesitancy of the gentlewoman enveloped her with a mantle that shielded her from any suspicion of boldness. Brock struggled to his feet, amazement written in his face.

"Good morning, Roxbury," she said in the most impersonal of greetings. Her smile deepened as the blankness increased in his face. In the most casual, matter of fact manner she appropriated the chair across the table from his. "Please sit down, Roxy."

He sat down abruptly. For a single tense, abashed moment they looked searchingly into each other's eyes.

"Are you Raggles?" he asked politely.

"You poor man!" she cried, aghast. "Raggles is Edith's French poodle. Has no one told you of the poodle?"

She half whispered this. He began to adore her at that very moment, a circumstance well worth remembering.

"No one has told me of you, for that matter," he apologized, thrilling with a delight such as he had never known before. "Would you mind whispering to me just who you are? Am I supposed to be your father—or what?"

"It is all so delightfully casual, isn't it?" she said. "I daresay they forgot to tell you that you are a man of family. Didn't they mention me in any way at all?" She pouted very prettily.

"No, they ignored you and Raggles and Tootles. Are there any more in my family that I haven't met?"

"You see, we got to the station quite a bit ahead of Edith. That's how you happened to miss meeting us. We saw you there, however. I recognized you by your clothes. You seemed very unhappy. Oh, I forgot! You wanted to know who I am. Well, I am your sister-in-law."

CHAPTER IV.

"I am Constance."

SHE ordered coffee and toast while he sat there figuring it out. When the waiter departed he leaned forward and said quite frankly:

"You'll pardon me, I'm sure, but I can't understand how I was so shortsighted as to marry your sister."

"Well, you see, you didn't catch a glimpse of me until after you were married," she railed. "I was in the Sacred Heart convent, you remember."

"Ah, that explains the oversight. I am considered an unusually discriminating person. Let me see: I married a Miss Fowler, didn't I?"

"Yes, Roxbury—four years ago in London, at St. George's, in Hanover square, at 4 o'clock on a Saturday. Didn't they tell you all that?"

"I don't think they said anything about it being 4 o'clock. I'm glad to know the awful details, believe me. Thanks! Do you know I decided you were an American the instant I saw you in the door," he went on, quite irrelevantly.

"How clever of you, Roxbury!"

"Oh, I say, Miss Fowler, I'm not such an ass as I look—really I'm not. I'm trying to look like"—

"'Sh! If you want me to believe you are not the ass you think you look be careful what you say. Remember I am not Miss Fowler to you. I am Constance—sometimes Connie. Can you remember that, Roxbury?"

He drew a long breath. "Oh, I say, Connie, I'd much rather be plain Brock to you."

"Please don't forget that I am doing this for my sister, not for myself by any manner of means," she said stiffly. He flushed painfully, conscious of the rebuke.

"Please overlook my faults for the time being," he said. "I'll do better. You see, I've been rather overcome by the sense of my own importance. I'm not used to being the head of an establishment. It has dazed me. A great many things have happened to me since I left the Gare de l'Est last night." He was considerate in not referring to his unhappy mode of traveling. "For instance, I've completely lost my head." He might have said that, but that would have sounded commonplace and earthy.

"One does, you know, when he loses his identity," she said sympathetically. "Edith says you are ripping and all that sort of thing," she went on hurriedly, in perfect mimicry. "You come very highly recommended as a brother-in-law."

"Are you to be with us until the end of the play?"

"Yes. The Rodneys are my friends, not Edith's. Katherine Rodney was in the convent with me. We see a great deal of each other. I'm sure you will like her. Everybody falls dreadfully in love with her."

"How very amiable of you to permit it," he protested gallantly. "I'm sure I shall enjoy falling in love. Which reminds me that I've never had a sister-in-law. They're very nice, I'm told. It's odd that Medcroft didn't tell me about you. Would you mind advancing a bit of general information about yourself—and, may I say, about my family in general? It may come handy."

"I feel as though I had known you for years," she said, frankly returning his gaze. She leaned forward, her elbows on the table, her chin in her hands. "I'm merely Edith's sister. We live in Paris—that is, father and I. I'm three years younger than Edith. Of course you know how old your wife is, so we won't dwell upon that. You don't? Then I'd demand it of her. I haven't been in Philadelphia since I was seven, and that's ages ago. I have no mother, and father is off in South America on business. So you see little sister has to tag after big sister. Oh!" She interrupted the recital with an abrupt change of manner. "I'm so sorry you've finished your coffee. Now you'll have to go. Roxbury always does."

"But I haven't finished," he exclaimed eagerly. "I'm going to have three or four more pots. You have no idea how"—

"It's all right, then," she said, with her rarest and most confident smile. "Well, Edith asked me to come to London for the season. The Rodneys were in Paris at the time, however, and they asked me to join them for a fortnight in the Tyrol. When I said that I was off for a visit with, the—with you, I mean—they insisted that you all should come too. They are connections in a way, don't you see? So we accepted. And here we are."

"You don't, by any chance, happen to be engaged to be married, or anything of that sort?" he ventured. "Don't crush me! It's only as a safeguard, you know. People may ask questions."

"You are not obliged to answer them, Roxbury," she said. The flush had deepened in her cheek. It convinced him that she was in love—and engaged. He experienced a queer sinking of the heart. "You can say that you

SENATOR CULLOM IS LAID TO REST

Most Distinguished Gathering Since Funeral of Lincoln.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 2.—The funeral of the late Senator S. M. Cullom was held here. The services were held in representative hall at the state house. The building was crowded, an immense gathering of out-of-town people attending.

All of the living governors of Illinois were present. Governor Dunne sat on the rostrum with United States Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman. They delivered eulogies of the deceased, as did the Rev. Donald C. McLeod, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, who conducted the services. Dr. McLeod was pastor of the Presbyterian church which Senator Cullom attended in Washington. To the right of the rostrum sat former United States Senator A. J. Hopkins, with former Governors Joseph Fifer, Charles S. Deneen and Richard Yates. It was said by many present that it was the most distinguished gathering of statesmen in Illinois since the funeral of Lincoln.

Among the floral tributes, varied and rich, were pieces from the White House, the United States senate and house and from many citizens in private and public life. The White House wreath, expressing the sympathy of President Wilson and family, was of violets and myrtle.

Discoverer of Iodine.

To very few people does the name of Bernard Courtois signify anything, yet it is to Bernard Courtois that the world owes the discovery of iodine. A chemist of Dijon, he presented 100 years ago the notice of his discovery to the academy.—London Telegraph.

The world generally gives its admiration not to the man who does what nobody else ever attempts to do, but to the man who does best what multitudes do well.—Macaulay.

Dolly—Mean thing! You said you wouldn't give away that secret I told you. Daisy—I didn't. I swapped it for another secret and ice cream soda.—Chicago News.

TWO BLACK HANDERS

Youths Whose Confessions of Crimes Have Stirred Nation.

Photos by American Press Association.

New York, Feb. 2.—Anthony Sudnblyk (top), a good looking, intelligent Polish boy of nineteen, in the court of general sessions, New York city, at the trial of Angelo Sylvestro, on trial on the charge of having been one of a gang of Black Handers who set a bomb, told on the witness stand a story which rivaled the remarkable testimony given by Alfred Lehman, alias "Schmitty," another member of the gang of young criminals to whom murder, bomb planting, arson, abduction, burglary and horse stealing had been mere incidents in a day's work. Rocco Pucciarello, another confessed bomb thrower (below), also testified.

DR. SHAW'S TAX TAKES BIG JUMP

Suffragette Penalized for Failure to Make Return.

ASSESSED NEARLY FOURFOLD

Personal Property Valuation Increased from $8,000 to $30,000—She Advised Her Co-Workers in Suffrage to Follow Her Example—Secretary Now Attending to It.

Philadelphia, Feb. 2.—Assessment of Dr. Anna Howard Shaw's personal property at $30,000 by the Delaware county commissioners called forth an extended protest from the famous suffragettes secretary Miss Lucy B. Anthony.

"How can Dr. Shaw make out a statement of her personal property on a blank that reads 'him or it?'" said Miss Anthony. "A woman like Dr. Shaw objects to being called 'him or it' on a government blank."

When Dr. Shaw arrived at her home in Moylan, Dec. 31, after attending the convention of the National Suffrage association of which she is president, she found blanks waiting to be filled out. Hugh B. Brannon, tax assessor of Upper Providence township, had been instructed by the county commissioners to get personal property returns from every taxable person in his district.

Dr. Shaw Penalized.

Dr. Shaw refused to fill out the blanks at the same time calling on all other women who believe in suffrage to follow her example.

"I'm fearful to think what my taxes will be now," said Dr. Shaw that day. "The law says that where a taxable person shall fail to make returns the assessor shall get a valuation of his own and add 50 per cent as a penalty. 'Taxation without representation' is tyranny and I will furnish no statement of my personal property."

Dr. Shaw claims that she has less than $8,000 taxable interests.

When the county commissioners sat at Media last Thursday to hear protests, Miss Shaw's secretary, Miss Anthony, appeared at the board meeting and filed it. She was told her only alternative was to fill out the blanks furnished in December, if she did not want to pay taxes on $30,000. Miss Anthony is a niece of Susan B. Anthony and a hearty co-worker with Dr. Shaw in the cause of suffrage. She said:

"I will try to settle this affair by myself without annoying Dr. Shaw. When they told me I must either fill out the blanks or pay tax on $30,000 personal property, I said I would see what I would do; that I had power of attorney to act for Dr. Shaw. I don't know my course yet."

PLAN CAPITAL "DRY" FIGHT

Leaders of Anti-Saloon Movement In Sangamon County Meet.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 2.—Plans for the "dry" campaign to be conducted in this city this spring were discussed at a meeting of leaders of the anti-saloon movement in Sangamon county. F. Scott McBride, state superintendent, of Chicago, and James H. Danskin, superintendent of the Springfield district, were present and took part in the conference.

Sunday the broadside of the campaign was fixed by the "drys." John G. Wooley, former prohibition candidate for president; Howard K. Russell, Westerville, Ohio, founder of the Anti-Saloon league, and Mayor W. E. Bennett of Rockford will be the speakers. General rallies for the success of the campaign will be held in many of the Protestant churches.

KING HOLDS UP HIS MESSAGE TO WIDOW

British Ruler Recalls Congratulations to Centennarian.

London, Feb. 2.—Two weeks ago a newly appointed rector in a church in a remote part of Wiltshire found among his parishioners a woman 104 years old. She is the widow of a former inn keeper. The rector wrote the facts to King George.

The king instructed Lord Stamfordham, one of his secretaries, to send a telegram bearing the usual royal congratulations. A few moments after the message was sent a telegram arrived from the rector, saying that he had learned the woman had not borne a spotless reputation; that she had four husbands, and there was doubt as to the legality of the divorces.

The king's message had been sent and his secretary was barely able to keep it from being delivered.

AKED ACCEPTS ELIOT'S BELIEF

Former Rockefeller Pastor Skeptic on Divinity of Christ.

SAYS IT IS MAN MADE CREED

No New Testament Writer, He Declares, Said That Christ Was God—Statement Creates Sensation in San Francisco Church Where Made—Christ Was Miracle Worker.

San Francisco, Feb. 2.—The Rev. Dr. Charles F. Aked, formerly of the First Baptist church of New York, of which John D. Rockefeller is a member, astonished his hearers in the First Congregational church when he announced that he agreed with the recent statement by former Prsident of Harvard Eliot, denying the divinity of Christ. The gist of his sermon was thus:

"It has been said that Jesus Christ was God but no New Testament writer has said so. You get that idea from the creeds made by man. Nor is there any reference to the trinity in the New Testament. Mark, John, Luke and Paul say nothing about Jesus having come into the world in a miraculous way. I prefer to stand with them. What do we mean, then, by saying that Jesus was divine? It is a question of quantity and not of quality.

Had More Divinity Than Us.

"There is divinity in us, but so much more in Him that I prefer to call Him divine. Perhaps it would be better to speak of the divineness of man and the divinity of Christ. In what sense is he our saviour? In His reconciliation of man with God. He was a miracle worker though I do not profess to believe in all of the New Testament miracles."

PREPARING FOR EXPOSITION

Illinois Members of Panama-Pacific Commission Meet.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Eighteen of the twenty members of the Illinois Panama-Pacific exposition commission attended the first meeting of the body in the Hotel LaSalle and were addressed by Governor Edward F. Dunne. A permanent organization was formed as follows: Chairman, Adolph Karpen, Chicago; secretary, John G. Oglesby, Elkhart; treasury, Samuel Woolner, Peoria; executive committee, the three officers and the governor.

Three matters of business were transacted during the session, which adjourned early in the afternoon. The more important committees were appointed, an appeal was made to the people of the state to contribute toward the support of the exhibit, and the state architect was ordered to draw three separate plans for a proposed building.

MARINES CHECK REVOLUTION

Their Presence in Nicaragua Keeps Peace Says Countryman.

Mobile, Ala., Feb. 2.—There will be no revolution in Nicaragua as long as the American marines are stationed at Managua, the capital, and if they are withdrawn and uprisings follow the people of Nicaragua will support President Adolfo Diaz, according to Colonel Vargas of the Nicaraguan army, who is in Mobile, enroute to New York.

"Their arrival in Nicaragua saved the day for the conservatives and the action of the American government in maintaining a small garrison at the capital has prevented a renewal of the revolution," said Colonel Vargas.

FEDERALS RUSH AID TO TORREON

Suburban Towns of Threatened City Being Fortified.

12,000 TROOPS GATHERING

General Villa Remains at Juarez In No Hurry to Begin Attack—Active In Preparation—Federals Want Salazar Released from U. S. Jail—Cash Bail Demanded.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 2.—Federals at Torreon are taking advantage of the rebel delay and sending strong detachments of troops to the outskirts of the threatened city to fortify suburban towns, according to advices received at the Mexican consulate here. Four thousand federal troops under General Garcia Hidalgo, recently appointed by the Huerta government as commander of the northern military zone, are en route from Saltillo to Torreon to reinforce the garrison. The federals here claim that General Velasco's force in Torreon will number 12,000 when the Saltillo troops reach there. Dispatches from the south say that the federal outposts in Vermilillo and Mamapini have been strengthened. General Villa the rebel chief remains in Juarez and appears in no hurry to begin the Torreon attack. Apparently he is making preparations for the battle. Twenty-five thousand dollars worth of food for the rebel army are being sent south by Villa. The supplies were bought in El Paso by Villa's order.

Federals Want Salazar Released.

To secure the release from an American jail of General Ynez Salazar, one of the federal commanders at Ojinaga, the Mexican federal government has notified the United States district court that the $5,000 bond required will be deposited. Salazar is held at the Marfa, Tex., jail on a charge of conspiracy to smuggle ammunition, and the Mexican government fears he may fall into the hands of Pancho Villa who already has twice requested of Governor Colquitt of Texas that the federal commander be turned over to the Chihuahua rebel government to answer to the charge of killing Tom Fountain, an American, at Farrall, Mex. No action has been taken on this request by Governor Colquitt.

It is said a cash bond will be required of General Salazar.

WRECK OF MONROE LOCATED BY MAST

Position Indicates at Least One Complete Circle After Blow.

Norfolk, Feb. 2.—The wreck of the steamer Monroe was discovered by searchers aboard the wrecking tug I. J. Merritt, just after sunrise. The buff colored foremast of the liner with its wireless antennae still intact was seen above the waves at a point twenty-five marine miles exactly southwest of Winter Quarter lightship and about equally distant from Cape Charles lightship off the Virginia coast. The vessel had righted herself after careening as she sank and twelve or fourteen feet of the mast shows above the sea.

The position of the wreck is directly in the course followed by the north bound ships of the Old Dominion company. The Monroe lies with her bow pointing in the direction of Winter Quarter light for which she was steering at the time of the collision. This is taken to indicate that the ship must have made at least one complete circle after receiving her death wound for after the first impact of the collision, she swung around and struck a broadside blow against the port side of the Nantucket. Marks of this impact on the hull of the Nantucket and a smashed port quarter boat aboard the vessel show this to have been the case.

No bodies have yet come to the surface.

Illinois Shooter High.

Houston, Tex., Feb. 2.—Mark Arie, Thomasboro, Ill., shooting at twenty-two yards, won the sweepstakes of the Sunny South handicap shoot here, breaking 94 of a possible 100 targets. Arie was high over all for five days' shooting, with 947 breaks of a possible 1,005.

DE PAUW IS WILLED $45,000

Widow of Murdered Physician Leaves Property to Methodist School.

Terre Haute, Feb. 2.—Through the provisions of the will of the late Elizabeth Mattox, which was filed for probate with Judge H. Swango, DePauw university was made the beneficiary of a legacy amounting to more than $45,000. The Union Hospital of Terre Haute is bequeathed $5,000 and a fund of $5,000 is to be held in trust for Anna Hayward, the only surviving relative.

Mrs. Mattox was the widow of Dr. James Mattox, who was murdered on the streets of Terre Haute about forty years ago. The Mattox tragedy never was cleared, although it was believed the doctor was murdered by robbers. Since his death Mrs. Mattox withdrew from society. She died last week, after a short illness.

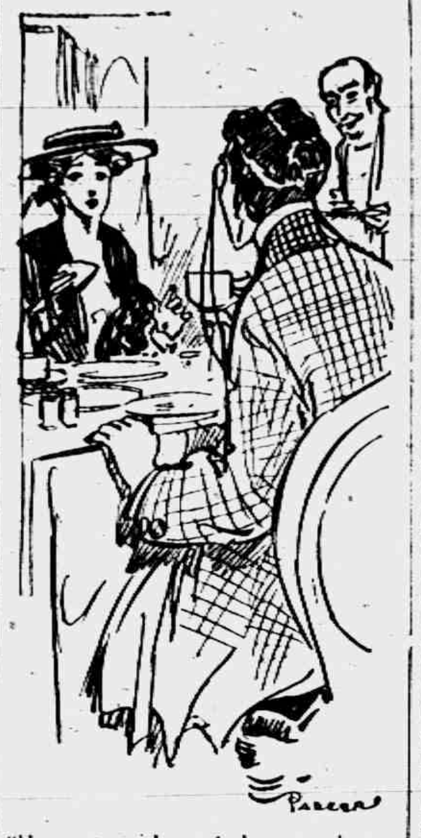
THE HUSBANDS OF EDITH

By

GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON

Copyright by Dodd, Mead & Co.

don't know, if any one should be so rude as to ask." Suddenly she caught her breath and stared at him in a sort of panic. "Heavens!" she whispered,



"Heavens, you're not, by any chance, engaged, are you?"

the toast poised half way to her lips, "you're not, by any chance, engaged, are you? Appalling thought!"

He laughed delightedly. "People won't ask about me, my dear Constance. I'm already married, you know. But if any one should ask you're not obliged to answer."

She looked troubled and uncertain. "You may be really married, after all," she speculated. "Who knows? Poor old Roxbury wouldn't have had the tact to inquire."

"I'm a henpecked bachelor, believe me."

For the next quarter of an hour they chatted in the liveliest, most inconsequential fashion, getting on excellent terms with each other and arriving at a fair sense of appreciation of what lay ahead of them in the shape of peril and adventure.

She was the most delightful person he had ever met as well as being the most beautiful. There was a sprightly, ever growing air of self reliance about her that charmed and reassured him. She possessed the capacity for divining the sane and the ridiculous with splendid discrimination. Moreover, she could jest and be serious with an impartial intelligence that gratified his vanity without in the least inspiring the suspicion that she was merely clever. He became blissfully imbued with the idea that she had surprised herself by the discovery that he was really quite attractive. In fact, he was quite sincerely pleased with himself—for which he may be pardoned if one stops to think how resourceful a woman of tact may be if she is very, very pretty.

And, by way of further analogy, Brock was a thoroughly likable chap, besides being handsome and a thoroughbred to the core. It's not betraying a secret to affirm, coldbloodedly, that Miss Fowler had not allied herself with the enterprise until after she had pinned Roxbury down to facts concerning Brock's antecedents. She was properly relieved to find that he came of a fine old family and that he had led more than one cotillion in New York.

He experienced a remarkable change of front in respect to Roxbury Medcroft before the breakfast was over. It may have been due to the spell of her eyes or to the call of her voice, but it remains an unchallenged fact that he no longer thought of Medcroft as a stupid bungler. Instead he had come to regard him as a good and irreproachable Samaritan. All of which goes to prove that a divinity shapes our ends, rough hew them how we may.

"I'm sure we shall get on famously," he said, as she signified her desire to return to the compartment. "I've always longed for a nice, agreeable sister-in-law."

"Her mission in life, up to a certain stage, is to make the man appreciate the fact that he has, after all, been snapped up by a small but deserving family," she said blithely. "It is also her duty to pour oil on troubled waters and strew flowers along the connubial highway, so long as her kind offices are not resented. By the way, Roxbury, I am now about to preserve you from bitter reproaches. You have forgotten to order coffee and rolls for your wife."

"Great Scott! So I have! It's 9 o'clock." He ordered the coffee and rolls to be sent in at once. "I hope she hasn't starved to death."

"My dear Roxbury," she said sternly, "I must take you under my wing. You have much to accomplish in the next twenty-four hours, not the least of your duties being the subjugation of Tootles and Raggles. Tootles is fifteen months old. It may interest you to know. We can't afford to have Tootles scream with terror every time she sees you, and it would be most unfortunate if Raggles should growl and snap at you as he does at all suspicious strangers. Once in awhile he bites, too. Do you like babies?"

"Yes. I—I think I do," he said doubtingly. "I daresay I could cultivate a taste for 'em, but, I say," with eager enthusiasm, "I love dogs!"

"It may be distinctly in your favor that Raggles loathes the real Roxbury. He growls every time that Roxy kisses Edith."

"Has he ever bitten Roxy for it?"

"No," dubiously, "but Roxy has had to kick him on several occasions."

"How very tiresome—to kick and kiss at the same time!"

"Raggles is very jealous, you understand."

"That's more than I can say for dear old Roxy. But I'll try to anticipate Raggles by compelling Edith to keep her distance," he said, scowling darkly. "Has it not occurred to you that Tootles will be pretty—er—much of a nuisance when it comes to mountain climbing?" He felt his way carefully in saying this.

"Oh dear me, Roxbury! Would you have left the poor little darling at home—in all that dreadful heat?"

"I'm sure I couldn't have been blamed for leaving her at home," he protested. "She didn't exist until half an hour ago. Heavens, how they do spring up!"

The remainder of Brock's day was spent in getting acquainted with his family, or, rather, his menage. There were habits and foibles, demands and restrictions that he had to adapt himself to with unvarying benignity. He made a friend of Raggles without half trying. Dogs always took to him, he admitted modestly. Tootles was less vulnerable. She howled consistently at each of his first half dozen advances. His courage began to wane with shocking rapidity. His next half hearted advances were in reality inglorious retreats. Spurred on by the sustaining Constance, he stood by his guns and at last was gratified to see faint signs of surrender. By midday he had conquered. Tootles permitted him to carry her up and down the station platform (she was too young to realize the risk she ran). Edith and Constance, with the beaming nurse and O'Brien, applauded warmly when he returned from his first promenade, bearing Tootles and proudly heeled by Raggles. Fond mothers in the crowd of hurrying travelers found time to look upon him and smile, as if to say, "What a nice man!" He could almost hear them saying it, which no doubt accounted for the intense ruddiness of his cheeks.

"Do you ever spank her?" he demanded once of Mrs. Medcroft after Tootles had brought tears to his eyes with a potent attack upon his nose. She caught the light of danger in his gray eyes and hastily snatched the offending Tootles from his arms.

Miss Fowler kept him constantly at work with his eyeglass and his English, neither of which he was managing well enough to please her critical estimate. In fact, he labored all day with the persistence, if not the sullenness, of a hard driven slave. He did not have time to become tired. There was always something new to be done or learned or unlearned; his day was full to overflowing. He was a man of family.

The wife of his bosom was tranquillity itself. She was enjoying herself. When not amusing herself by watching Brock's misfortunes she was napping or reading or sending out for cool drinks. With all the selfishness of a dutiful wife she was content to shift responsibilities upon that ever convenient and useful creature—a detached sister.

Brock sent telegrams for her from cities along the way—Ulm, Munich, Salzburg and others—all meant for the real Roxbury in London, but sent to a fictitious being in Great Russell street, the same having been agreed upon by at least two of the conspirators. It mattered little that she repeated herself monotonously in regard to the state of health of herself and Tootles. Roxbury would doubtless enjoy the protracted happiness brought on by these dispatches, even though they got him out of bed or missed him altogether until they reached him in a bunch the next day. He may also have been gratified to hear from Munich that Roxbury was perfectly lovely. She said in the course of her longest dispatch that she was so glad that the baby was getting to like her father more and more as the day wore on.

At one station Brock narrowly escaped missing the train. He swung himself aboard as the cars were rolling out of the sheds. As he sank, hot and exhausted, into the seat opposite his wife and her sister the former looked up from her book, yawning ever so faintly, and asked:

"Are you enjoying your honeymoon, Roxbury?"

"Immensely!" he exclaimed, but not until he had searched for and caught Connie's truant gaze. "Aren't we?" he asked of Miss Fowler, his eyes dancing. She smiled encouragingly.

"I think you are such a nice man to have about," commented Mrs. Medcroft, this time yawning freely and stretching her fine young arms in the luxury of home contentment.

Brock went to bed early in Vienna that night, tired but happy, caring not what the morrow brought forth so long as it continued to provide him with a sister-in-law and a wife who was devoted—to another man.

CHAPTER V.

The Distant Cousins.

THE end of the week found Brock quite thoroughly domesticated—to use an expression supplied by his new sister-in-law. True, he had gone through some trying ordeals and had lost not a little of his sense of locality, but he was rapidly recovering it as the pathway became easier and less obscure. At first he was irritatingly remiss in answering to the name of Medcroft; but, to justify the stupidity, it is only necessary to say that he had fallen into a condition which scarcely permitted him to know his own name, much less that of another. He was under the spell. Wherefore it did not matter at all what name he went by. He would have answered as readily to one as the other.

He blandly ignored telegrams and letters addressed to Roxbury Medcroft, and once he sat like a lump, with every one staring at him, when the chate-

GUNS IN A CRATER

Diamond Head, Uncle Sam's Lava Fortress In Hawaii.

GIBRALTAR OF THE PACIFIC.

The Mighty Defenses of Oahu Make That Lovely Island a Veritable Fire Lined Wall of Steel, Behind Which Crouches "the Lion of Hawaii."

Diamond Head, that monumental elevation of lava which stands out so prominently on the Honolulu side of the lovely island of Oahu, Hawaii, is the one and only original crater in the world which is being devoted to the use of the army of a great power.

The island of Oahu is the key to the Pacific, and Uncle Sam carries that key on a chain in his capacious pocket. At any time war breaks out Uncle Sam's hand, which has not lost its cunning, will go to that pocket with the swiftness of a western sheriff, and the result will be a roar of guns which will be heard around the world. The roar will be contributed to by the guns of Fort Ruger, which are at the base of Diamond Head on the landward side.

From Diamond Head, called by poets "the Lion of Hawaii," to Pearl Harbor, named by newspaper writes "the Gibraltar of the Pacific," there is a chain of forts which makes Oahu one of the greatest fortresses in the world. When in Honolulu the writer had the pleasure of working with Albert Pierce Taylor, who has been spoken of as "the recognized literary authority on things pertaining to Pearl Harbor and the defenses of Hawaii." He said on one occasion:

"Uncle Sam has declared to the world that he is on guard in the Pacific. At Pearl Harbor is Fort Kamehameha, with its battery of twelve inch guns; at the mouth of Honolulu harbor will be a battery of small guns; at Fort De Russy, Waikiki, a battery of fourteen inch guns, while at Diamond Head a battery of eight mortars has been manned for some few years. Within the extinct crater of Diamond Head Gibraltar-like galleries have been constructed, and in one of them an observatory has been established. The fire control for all the Oahu coast batteries has been located in this gallery. From this station the fire of the guns of all the forts can be directed by the electric telegraph. The guns of Pearl Harbor cross those of Diamond Head and with the batteries between make a veritable wall of steel."

After inspecting the guns at Fort Ruger two of us, with a soldier guide, walked to the entrance of the gallery which has been bored through the lava and sandstone which compose the steep sides of the crater of Diamond Head. A sentry barred the way. The permit was produced and proved the open sesame.

The heavy iron door at the entrance to the volcanic passage was swung back, and, with a soldier in front and another in the rear, the visitors started down the gallery. A single narrow gauge track ran the entire length of the passage. On this steel small trucks had been pushed by the soldiers, who loaded and unloaded the debris which army comrades had dug from the walls of the crater. The ties were broken in places, and the guide issued a warning to step carefully.

On first stepping into the gallery the darkness, after the tropical sunlight, was of the kind that Milton described as visible. Only a few steps had been taken before the light at the far end of the gallery was easily seen.

Instead of the barren lava bowl, "hard as flint and as smooth as glass," as the picture man so picturesquely puts it, the inside of the crater was found to be grass covered, with trees and bushes standing here and there, which drew their moisture from the "liquid sunshine," as the Honolulu people charmingly describe the rain.

The guide pointed out the observatory high up on the Ewa side of the crater from which officers direct the shooting by the men who man the big guns at the fort outside the crater. Those men never see the target at which they aim far out at sea. The projectiles from the high powered guns pass over the crater, and by telephone from the observatory the men learn whether they have made a hit or miss. They generally score a hit.

In the event of a war involving the United States on the Pacific the crater of Diamond Head may indeed prove "the Lion of Hawaii," as Frances Bent Dillingham, a Honolulu poet, has described it, and "if once stirred his paw could sweep a navy to its death. If once aroused his roar would soon be heard across the sea and echoed from the sky."—Harold Sands in Los Angeles Times.

Hospitable Anyway.

When Jones called on the Browns with an important message last night he had no umbrella. It was raining pitchforks, and he was soaked to the skin. Mrs. Brown was sympathetic and hospitable.

"I couldn't dream of letting you go away like that!" she cried. "You must come in and get dry and have some supper."

"Never!" demurred Jones. "I am soaked through and couldn't get dry. And I couldn't sit down at your table in these clothes."

"But Mr. Brown will lend you a suit."

"Wouldn't do. I'm twice as big as Brown."

"Well, he'll lend you two suits. He has a-plenty—come in!"—New York Globe.

Bluntly Told.

A good story is told of the childhood of a noted singer. As a little girl she went to stay with a lady who gave her the family portrait album to look at. She turned the leaves quickly and in a few minutes closed the book.

"Don't you like it, my dear?" the lady asked.

"Yes, very much," said the little girl politely, adding, "We've got one at home, only the pictures are prettier."—Exchange.

The merry crowd could'nt to return until morning. The time was spent by playing all kinds of games and with the serving of refreshments. All reported the very best of times.

May Weddings.

In ancient Rome there was held in May a festival called the Lemuria, or feast of the Lemures, which was a ceremony in honor of the spirits or departed souls. It became with the Romans what we should call "bad form" to have matrimonial feasts at the season of a solemn ritual, being no doubt thought to be an insult to the dead to marry at such a time. From this a number of stories grew of the revenge made by the outraged ghosts upon those who dared to disregard them, and if anything unfortunate happened to a couple who had been married in May it would, of course, have been put down to retribution. So the repugnance to May weddings arose, and its influence has lasted ever since, even to our time.—Exchange.

The Unattainable.

Old Mr. Dinsmore had a great habit of lecturing to young men of his acquaintance. One evening Wilbur Moore, a young man from the city, was calling at the Dinsmore home.

"Have an ideal, young man," said the old gentleman enthusiastically. "Always have an ideal, I say, and hug it to your bosom at all times and places."

"I believe that, too, sir," agreed the young man, "but she won't let me."—New York Times.

Hard to Say.

"Mother," said a young lady in one of our cities the other day, "I wish you would not hang the parrot cage in the parlor." "Why not, dear?" "Because every two or three minutes when George and I are in the parlor he shouts out, 'Sit closer, please.'" The local journals suggest that the parrot had gained his experience as a street railway conductor.

Only 27 per cent of tillable land under Cultivation.

Department of Agriculture estimates 829,000,000 acres are not in use—only 21 per cent of the land is not available for any form of agriculture.

Only 27 per cent of the tillable land of the United States under cultivation, according to estimates of the Department of Agriculture, based upon reports of 35,000 correspondents. These reports were obtained in order to gain information as to the tillable area of the United States, the amount of land that cannot be used for crops that have to be plowed but available for pasture or fruits, and the total number of acres that never can be used for agricultural purposes. From the results, which were generally very consistent, preliminary estimates have been made for each State and United States. Futher investigation in the Far Western States may modify somewhat the present estimate for those States.

The entire United States, excluding foreign possessions, contains about 19,000,000,000 acres. Of this area about 60 percent, or 1,140,000,000 acres is estimated to be tillable; that is, capable of being brought under cultivation by means of the plow. This includes land already under such cultivation and that which in the future may be brought under cultivation by clearing, drainage, irrigation, etc

Three hundred and sixty one million acres, or 19 percent, are estimated to be nontillable but valuable for pastures or fruits. Only 21 per cent, or 329,000,000 acres was estimated to be of no use for agriculture, present or future.

According to the census of 1909, the land area in crops where acreage was given was 311,000,000 acres. This is about 16 per cent of the total land area, or about 27 per cent of the estimated potential tillable area, of the United States, excluding foreign possessions.

In other words, for every 100 acres that are now tilled, about 375 acres may be tilled when the country is fully developed. In the development of the agriculture of the country the land which was most easily brought into a state of cultivation, as the great Mississippi Valley, was the first to be brought into such use. Extension of tilled area will be at greater expense for clearing, drainage, irrigation, etc. The increased production of the future will be the result of increased yields per acre as well as extension of area

WHAT DETROIT SAYS ABOUT

EXCUSE ME!

SOME KISS!

Piquant kisses, lingering kisses, soul kisses and just plain smackety osculations have been shown on stages since the days of the Greek Aristophanes, and even before him, but for an honest-to-goodness-I-mean-it-all over kiss the one staged at the Lyceum yesterday had them all looking like pouts of aversion.

And the audience roared sympathetic laughter. In fact, they were laughing during the three hurry-up acts of "EXCUSE ME," the play the Lyceum presents this week. They laughed at 57 different varieties of but it was plain to be seen that the audience was more in favor of KISSING than anything else

It wasn't just a plain case of soul and heart leaping to lips and meeting. Harry Mallery and Marjorie Newton elopers, clung together and swayed backward and forward as if their lips were opposite poles poles of a magnet would turn the current off. When called again to make their bows to the applause of the house at the conclusion of each act they were still breathless from the earnestness of their KISSING.

All the action of the play is on a limited train to Reno Husbands and wives fleeing to the judicial blacksmith who would smite asunder the chains of matrimony get into all kinds of mix-ups. It's all humor except for a touch of near-melodrama at the close when the train is held up and the train is held up and the hero, Harry Mallery, effects a capture of the two robber.

Last but not least, is Snoozlums, a little yapping dog that everybody hates except the heroine.

"EXCUSE ME" will be the attraction at the Bradley Opera House, next Friday, February 6. The company comes here from Kalamazoo, travelling in two special cars, carrying a complete car load of special and a car for their people.

According to the transfer contract "EXCUSE ME' will be the largest scenic production playing here this season, their contract calling for five loads of scenery.

All of the stage settings will be somewhat of a novelty to Tecumseh theatre goers, as the entire action of the play is supposed to take place on an Overland Limited each act is staged in the interior of different cars on cars on this train. The settings are very elaborata, representing the interiors of the handsome Pullman cars. The company is a large one, numbering over 25 people. The same company plays the Valentine theatre at Toledo, next week.

CABARET MINSTRELS.

The Cabaret Minstrels produced at Bradley Opera House Friday evening by local talent under the direction of Harry Spaulding was enjoyed by a large and enthusiatic audience. The Young Men's Club was behind it, why shouldn't it have been a success?

The entertainment was brim full of fun and good music. The curtain rose showing an up-to-date restaurant with many tables scattered about at which sat the members of the chorus the cork faced artists acting as waiters and the interlocutor as cashier.

Special care in the assignment of parts made the work of the soloists a success, every number being well rendered.

In the Ollo, special features were worked out. Miss Edna Gaston sang in a most pleasing manner, "Dutch" Heesen in his songs and jokes, chorus singing, saxophone solo and finally the auto song by "Cork" Smith

The orchestra added much to the enjoyment of the evening, a number of selections being rendered. The music was in charge of Harry Spaulding

The success of the entertainment is due to the capable management of Mr, Spaulding and the hard work of those who took part. The decorations were beautifully worked out by Lester Heesen and the electrical effects were nicely worked out

Character in the Face.

A g[illegible] of a woman's character is [illegible] in her face. Those who have studied ph[illegible] can tell almost at a glance a woman's disposition, her tastes and occupation. Eyes that are not afraid to meet yours speak for the honesty of their owner. A strong mouth shows a firm character. Expression tells its own tale in regard to the thoughts which are passing through the mind. It is true the expressions are deceitful sometimes, but sooner or later habits and temperament are bound to leave their mark upon the face.

If You are Subject to Colds
This Editorial will Interest You.

A Great Majority of People Get One or More Colds Every Season and It is of Vital Interest to All to Learn How to Avoid and Relieve Colds Quickly, Since Colds are Said to be Contagious.

Some people think colds are only caught through exposure. This in return is contradicted by the fact that Arctic explorers are peculiarly free from colds. It is more generally accepted that colds are the result of civilized life, due to super-heated rooms and a very rapid change in temperature which causes the nerve centers to be depressed, and still more largely due to contagion—one member of a family imparting a cold to another by sneezing or coughing.

A cold means nothing if relieved quickly. That such a purpose may be accomplished, a quick aid to a cold is an essential. A remedy especially devised to relieve colds quickly is PERUNA.

PERUNA contains such ingredients that have an especially beneficial influence upon the inflamed mucous membranes and the quicker these mucous membranes are given the benefit of a remedy like PERUNA, the quicker the relief and the less contagion.

A neglected cold may become a serious menace to one's own life, and far worse, may endanger one's family.

We insure our homes against fire, our lives against death. Why should we not insure ourselves against colds if possible by having a medicine in the family chest that can be used at once?

PERUNA is a reliable household remedy for colds and should be in every home, for there should be a desire to combat a cold as quickly as possible. This is enlightened hygiene.

People who are feeble and run down are more subject to colds than persons in normal health. Such persons need outdoor life and PERUNA to help build up a strong constitution. If you have a poor appetite that is often a warning that you probably need a tonic like Peruna for Peruna aids the digestive organs. When your appetite is fair and work and exercise do not quickly tire you, your susceptibility to colds diminishes very much.

Persons who object to liquid medicines can now obtain PERUNA TABLETS.

By order of Supreme Court Justice Walter H. Jaycox, he was ordered in custody until the jury returns a verdict in their cases, which means a jail cell every night. SHOOT EACH OTHER LIKE PIGS

Two Riddled by Bullets in Hammond Italian Feud.

Hammond, Ind., Feb. 2.—Another was added to the list of shooting outrages among Italians here, when two men penetrated to the sleeping room of four Italians in one of the houses of the Standard Steel Car works and riddled two men with bullets and also wounded a third. A fourth man escaped by hiding under a bed.

The names of the assailants are not known, but the police declare that a feud and not robbery was the motive, as no attempt was made to take anything. Jim Palozzolo and Faro Evolo were wounded half a dozen times each when the masked men opened fire. They are expected to die. Evolo's son Roforo, eighteen years old, was shot through the arm.

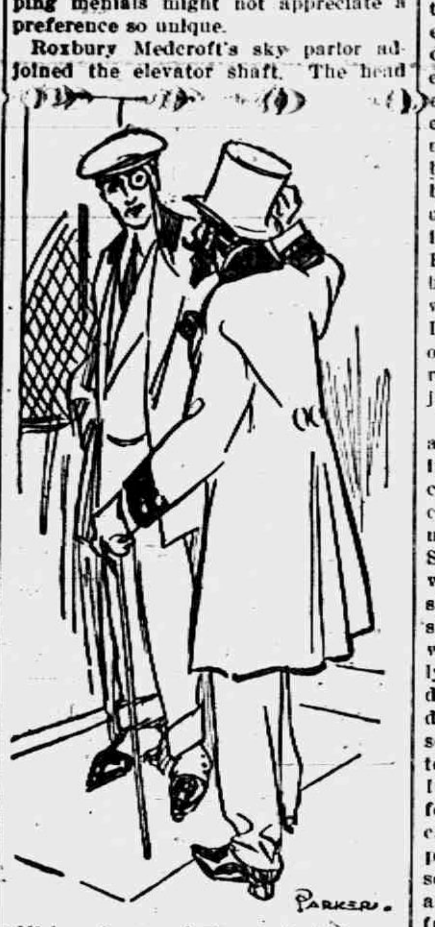
man of the architects' convention asked if Mr. Medcroft had anything to say on the subject under discussion. He was forced, in some confusion, to attribute his heedlessness to a lifelong defect in hearing. Thereafter it was his punishment to have his name and fragments of conversation hurled about in tones so stentorian that he blushed for very shame. In the Bristol, in the Karntner Ring, in the Lichtenstein gallery, in the gardens—no matter where he went—if he were to be accosted by any of the genial architects it was always in a voice that attracted attention. He would have heard them if they had been a block away. It became a habit with him to instinctively lift his hand to his ear when one of them hove in sight, having seen him first.

"That's what I get for being a liar," he lamented dolefully. Constance had just whispered her condolences. "Do you think they'll consider it odd that you don't shout at me too?"

"You might explain that you can tell what I am saying by looking at my lips," she said. He was immensely relieved.

Considerable difficulty had to be overcome at the Bristol in the matter of rooms. Without going into details Brock resignedly took the only room left in the crowded hotel, a tiny, 10 cubby hole on the top floor overlooking the airshaft. He had to go down one flight for his morning tub, and he never got it because he refused to stand in line and await his turn. Mrs. Medcroft had the choicest room in the hotel, looking down upon the beautiful Karntner-Ring. Constance proposed, in the goodness of her heart, to give up to Brock her own room, adjoining that of her sister, provided Edith would take her in to sleep with her. Edith was perfectly willing, but interposed the sage conclusion that gossiping menials might not appreciate a preference so unique.

Roxbury Medcroft's sky parlor adjoined the elevator shaft. The head of his bed was in close proximity to the upper mechanism of the lift, a thin wall intervening. A French architect, who had a room hard by, met Brock in the hall, hollow eyed and haggard, on the morning after their first night. He shouted lugubrious congratulations in Brock's ear, just as if Brock's ear had not been harassed a whole night long by shrieking wheels and rasping cables.



"M'sieur is very fortunate in being so afflicted."

"M'sieur is very fortunate in being so afflicted," he boomed. "A thousand times in the night have I wished that I might be deaf also. Ah! Even an affliction such as yours, m'sieur, has its benedictions."
